The piles of stones were arranged around the grape vines in order to preserve the water in the soil and protect the vines from being uprooted by the strong winds which blew across the desert.

The story of the former desert city of Kurnub is similar to that of Subeita. Kurnub existed from 200 B.C. until the eighth century A.D. and was important because of its position overlooking one of the main caravan routes. Caravans had to pay toll to pass the city. Kurnub also provided a place of lodging for travellers passing through the desert.

Many beautiful stone carvings may be seen among the ruins.

Travellers Protected

During the period of the British mandate in Palestine, the British had an important police station at Kurnub where travellers sought protection from the Bedouins who robbed voyagers travelling from Beersheba to the Red Sea port of Elath.

As in all desert regions, water was one of the chief problems of Kurnub. A valley called "Wadi Zold" passes near the spot where the old city stood, and the men of Kurnub built a dam in the Negev during the winter season This Byzantine dam still stands. The British mandatory government built an additional dam to provide water for the Bedouin tribes that settled around Kurnub during the mandatory period.

Little rain fell in the Negev this year and the Bedouins around Kurnub are faced with a serious shortage of water. When I visited "Wadi Zold" I was surprised to see Bedouin women digging holes in the ground.

Upon closer examination I found that water soon filled these holes and it was used to provide drink for the herds of sheep and goats that the Bedouins own. These herds may be seen pasturing on the hills around Kurnub. The spectacle of the women digging water holes and later carrying the water in jugs upon their heads shows us that the habits of the Bedouins have not changed much since Byzantine times.

If such cities as Subeita and Kurnub could have been built by such primitive means, surely we, with the equipment and technical knowledge at our disposal today, can restore large cities and cause them to once again rise in the desert.

Woman Dentist From Europe Treats Indians

Peterborough, Ont., Feb. 16.—(CP)—A Lithuanian woman dentist who came to Canada a year ago, is one of the first persons to give dental treatment to Canada's Indians under terms of the Indian Act instituted last year.

She is Dr. Amanda Gerulaitis now working at nearby Curve Lake Indian Reservation. To date she has done 266 fillings and 67 extractions at the centre. She has still more work before travelling to another reservation.

This is the first time Indians have been given free dental treatment. Until last year's change in the act they were entitled only to free extractions. Other work they paid for themselves

In front of Dr. Gerulaitis' office-door, small dark-skinned patients wait to take their places in the dental chair. Their school companions grab them when they are finished, opening mouths forcibly to see what the woman dentist has done.

No one could have told Dr. Gerulaitis when she read about Indians in her high school days in the Lithuanian capital of Kaunas, that one day she would actually be looking after their dental welfare.

She said in an interview that "90 per cent" of the dentists in her country are women.

While she is an able linguist in five languages, Dr. Gerulaitis doesn't know whether she will be able to master all the Indian dialects.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE E. POWELL

Bringing In The Sheaves

Sowing in the morning, sowing seeds of kindness,
Sowing in the noontide and the dewy eve;
Waiting for the harvest, and the time of reaping,
We shall come rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves.

Sowing in the sunshine, sowing in the shadows,
Fearing neither clouds nor winter's chilling breeze;
By and by the harvest, and the labor ended,
We shall come, rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves.

Going forth with weeping, sowing for the Master,
Tho' the loss sustain'd our spirit often grieves;
When our weeping's over, He will bid us welcome,
We shall come, rejoicing, bringing in the sheaves.

Chorus: Bringing in the sheaves,
Bringing in the sheaves,
We shall come, rejoicing,
Bringing in the sheaves,
Bringing in the sheaves,
Bringing in the sheaves,
We shall come, rejoicing,
Bringing in the sheaves.

Hymns born of Bible verses are bright jewels in every collection of religious songs. Some of the best of these Bible-inspired gems have come from the Psalms.

"Bringing in the Sheaves," written by Knowles Shaw, is based on Psalm 126, in which the psalmist sang:

> "They that sow in tears shall reap in joy. He that goeth forth and weapeth, bearing precious seed, shall doubtless come again with rejoicing, bringing his sheaves with him."

It takes a good bit of searching today to find a hymnal old enough to list this once-popular hymn. Forty or fifty years ago it was almost impossible to find a song book without it. In the revivals that flourished in the closing years of the nineteenth century and in the first part of the twentieth, it was a favorite soul-winning hymn.

Its rousing chorus enlivened many a camp meeting and prayer service and there are plenty of oldsters in today's churches who will remember singing the hymn atop an old-fashioned hay rack while bouncing along a country road to a quilting party or a Sunday School picnic.

MORE DISPLACED PERSON TROUBLE

Provincial police were summoned, last Saturday, to restore order at Ajax, twenty miles east of Toronto, following what was described as "a near riot" staged by some of the 950 displaced persons which the federal government's immigration department maintains at its housing centre there.

Just how serious the disorders were has not been disclosed and probably will never be disclosed, but apparently some blows were struck and probably some damage was done. The displaced persons were said to have been irked by the failure of the government to bring their wives to this country speedily enough to suit them.

This Ajax affair was not the first, nor the second, demonstration of the same kind that has been staged by these displaced persons. Within recent weeks, two similar demonstrations have been reported from another displaced person hostel at a place called St. Paul l'Ermite in Quebec.

The immigration department deserves to be commended in its foresight and caution in keeping these displaced persons in hostels until they are sufficiently tamed so that they can be released safely. It may be that they will all make splendid citizens eventually, but there is an accumulating body of evidence which suggests otherwise.

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN THERE

Down in Windsor, a car was stolen last week. The owner reported its disappearance to the Windsor police and to the Ontario provincial police. Perhaps because he had little faith in the ability of the police, he circulated a description of the machine among his friends and asked them to be on the lookout for it.

After the car had been missing for two days and two nights, one of the owner's friends did locate it, parked on a street, where the thieves had apparently abandoned it.

On the car's windshield was a sticker informing the owner that he had better appear in court to answer a charge of parking for more than six hours. Later, the car owner received a summons to appear in court for overlong parking.

From this little story it can be seen that Windsor's policemen are not as incompetent as has sometimes been said. They may fail to recover the odd stolen car, but they are right on the job when it comes to overlong parking.

A RISKY OCCUPATION

A short time ago, Charles Gross, 56, an organizer for the Republican party in one of the wards into which the city of Chicago is divided, was kidnapped by three hoodlums. The three hoodlums held Mr. Gross for five hours, during which they tried to make him understand that it would be better for his health if he were to cease and desist from his activities as a Republican organizer.

Mr. Gross disregarded this advice. Last Thursday night, he was again waylaid, but not kidnapped. He was shot seven times with a twelve-gauge shotgun. His wounds were fatal.

Acting as an organizer for the Republicans in Chicago, it would seem, is an extremely hazardous occupation.

A DIFFERENCE OF OPINION

During a debate which was staged by the students at Bishop's College, Lennoxville, Quebec, one of the speakers, a youth named Anthony Abbott, denounced the taxation policies of the federal government. Among his other remarks, young Mr. Abbott stated: "A corporation tax of fifty per cent and high income taxes are poor things in a country professing democratic freedoms."

Anthony Abbott is a son of Hon. Douglas Abbott, the federal government's minister of finance.

WARNING FROM THE PAST

One hundred and fifty years ago, Thomas Jefferson, then president of the United States, wrote these words: "If we can prevent the government from wasting the labors of the people under the pretence of caring for them, they will be happy. The same prudence which in private life would forbid our paying money for unexplained projects forbids it in the disposition of public money. We are endeavoring to reduce the government to the practice of rigid economy to avoid burdening the people and arming the magistrate with a patronage of money which might be used to corrupt the principles of our government." Maybe these words are still worth a thought.

TREATY AS SAFEGUARD

When the statements of Mr. Churchill and Mr. Eden are put side by side it becomes clear that they are thinking of the North Atlantic Treaty as much more than a safeguard against war. They see in the treaty an opportunity for economic and policical co-operation that may make the second half of this "terrible twentieth century" more tranquil and less unjust than the recent past. —(Winnipeg Free Press.)

How did the impudent rascal learn

Would he drop the comic "hello to say?

Not he! Entranced by some Cowboy Jack,

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In Scotland last autumn, I saw thousands of Canadian trees, Douglas fir and Sitka spruce, hard at the job of re-clothing the Highland hills that had been stripped of their native Scots pine during the war by our Canadian forestry battalions. Britain is extremely busy planting herself from the New Forest clear up to the top of Scotland, with Canadian trees: and we are busy, in thousands of private plantations, growing the Scots pine for the Christmas tree trade.

This exchange of trees is an old story with Britain. Many trees that are supposed to be native to the British Isles were introduced centuries ago. The Romans brought the walnut and the sweet or Spanish chestnut to Britain two thousand years ago, when it was a Roman colony. The sycamore is referred to by Chaucer, and may have been brought from Asia by the Romans, or possibly by the Crusaders.

The horse chestnut, which we imported to Canada in large quantities 75 years ago is not English, but came to England in 1550, from the Balkans. That was a great era in British tree planting, every ship that came home bringing seeds or seedlings of anything interesting in the way of foreign trees. Our white cedar was brought from America around 1600, and the Norway spruce, which our Canadian farmers imported in such numbers from Britain around 1860 with which to make those characteristic avenues of spruce up the farm lanes, was also introduced to Britain around 1550, from Scandinavia.

Such trees as the famous London plane tree, Lombardy poplar and the weeping willow that graces many an ancestral acre, are fairly recent additions to the British scene. The plane tree came from Asia as recently as 1724, the Lombardy poplar from Italy in 1758, and the weeping willow from Japan somewhere about that same period.

Britain's most characteristic native trees are the oak, beech, elm, poplar, ash, willow, white birch, lime and a great variety of smallish trees such as the maple, holly, hazel and sallow. The British have always loved wood.

FOUR HOMELESS

Burketon, Ont., Feb. 16—(CP)—Mrs. Doris Toutant, a widow, and her three young children are homeles today following a fire which gutted their two-storey frame home in this Durham county village yesterday. Most of the family's possessions were destroyed.

Burketon is 15 miles north of Oshawa.

LEFT BOUND

Toronto, Feb. 16 — (CP)—Julius Bloome, 72-year-old watchman last night was robbed of three bags of money, each containing approximately $500, by two men who accosted him in the west-end plant of Barker's biscuits and left him bound hand and foot. A fourth bag of money fell to the floor and was missed by the robbers.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

GREAT DAY

In this time just before the kiss of Spring (and, again, in the dying Indian Summer) there's a special kind of day that I think the most exciting of all the infinite combinations in meteorology.

There's a clean, wind-blown atmosphere. The sky seems bluer and loftier than it ought to be. Clouds, so white and puffy that you feel you might grasp them in your fingers, run lightly across the indigo dome, shredding fibrously as they go.

Everything in your vision—the trees, the houses, with pale smoke whipping from their chimneys, the ragged crest of the hill — seems back-lit and edged by a cold golden glow. A creek will come to life with sparkles and glints. There is nothing of ugliness anywhere.

Always on such rare days someone will say, "It's great to be alive" and so it is, so it is.

* * *

I've ben thumbing through a copy of the English magazine Country Life, and wondering at the amount of heartbreak behind these pages and pages of advertizements of estates for sale.

It is all very well to say that these magnificent and ancient homes have outlived their usefulness—or, indeed, to reflect that they illustrate the inequality between rich and poor which brought England to socialism—but it is impossible to avoid a feeling of melancholy that their serene and gracious way of life has gone.

Many of them are immense, several with five-car garages, all of them of great age.

The art of the realtor on this continent is to disguise the vintage of his offering. In Britain it's a selling point to note that a mansion, as one advertisement puts it, "has been in the possession of one family for the past 200 years."

"Dignified" and "Charming" are the words most often used. It's a rare item that can make the more telling claim of central heating.

It would be interesting to know if any of them sell. The upkeep of even the smallest of these old places must be enormous, beyond the tax-ridden income of even the well-to-do. Some suggest wistfully that they are suitable as a country seat or as a school, country club or nursing home. That, I suppose, is the fate of most.

In any event its curiously saddening to see these proud, stately, ivy-covered relics on the auction block, the aristocracy on its knees.

Know All

I was exposed this week to one of those brash, vital young men who spoke on a great number of subjects with incredible aplomb, confidence and ignorance.

It seemed to me that his ready opinion on everything — or announcements, rather— made all his opinion highly suspect and finally he destroyed conversation entirely by his attitude.

I had the same uncomfortable feeling I've had in talking to Lister Sinclair, a forlorn realization that anything I might say would be like shooting a bull moose with a bee-bee gun. The difference was that Sinclair probably does know everything, apart from merely sounding that way, while this younger man clearly didn't know, or want to know, anything.

It reminded me of some words written by Somerset Maugham and when I got home I looked them up. If the young man recognizes himself—and he won't, of course— I offer him these borrowed lines:

"When I was young I pretended to know everything. It often got me into trouble and made me look like a fool. I think one of the most useful discoveries I ever made was how easy it is to say: "I don't know". I never noticed that it made anyone think the worse of me. The only inconvenience is that there are people who have nothing better to do than to tell you at tedious length all about something of which you have confessed your ignorance. But there are quite a number of things that I don't want to know about."

* * *

Wise Man

The venerable Mr. Maugham has said quite a number of things that strike me as wisdom of a high order. Here are three excerpts from his stories that I've enjoyed, perhaps simply because I've agreed with him.

"Considering how foolishly people act and how pleasantly they prattle, perhaps it would be better for the world if they talked more and did less."

"Readers do not know that the passage which they read in half an hour in five minutes, has been evolved out of the heart's blood of the author. The emotion which strikes them as 'so true' he has lived through with nights of bitter tears."

"People continually ruin their lives by persisting in actions against which their sensations rebel,"

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE SPIRIT COMES FIRST

At a banquet given to honor a great actor, the suggestion was made that the actor recite for the guests. He indicated that he would recite the Twenty-third Psalm, provided that an aged minister present would recite it after him. At the close of the actor's recital, there was a tremendous round of applause. But when the minister had finished the recitation there was reverent silence, and many eyes were wet with tears. Said the actor, "I know the Twenty-third Psalm; this man knows the Shepherd."

We get the impression very often, do we not, that some people have the facts of religion and other people actually have religion itself. There are some people who know the Bible from cover to cover, yet often they cast a pall of sadness and dissatisfaction on those round about them. Others appear not to be learned at all in religious matters, yet they have a glad and contagious spirit.

The ideal, of course, is to be found in the person who both understands the facts of religion and has the spirit with which religion infuses the hearts of believers. There are historical facts in religion. The creeds play an important part in religious life if we allow them to do so But far above the facts of religion and the spiritual ministry of creeds, towers the spirit of true kindliness which sincere religious faith calls into being.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ON DOING WITHOUT

I once read of a very happy family in which each one had a pet thing which he or she wanted —but couldn't afford—so they just joked among themselves and talked about each object as though they had it! They had learned in that family the great art of doing without.

Most of us have had the same experience, wanting something we could just as well live without, but with the dream ever present. And then how often it has turned out that the dream came true, but largely because we planned it that way!

Our wants keep changing. How many things we finally gain only to realize that the appetite for them has passed away. In my youth I wanted endless things. Now, each year I want less and less. Values change and are appraised anew as we live and experience the dying out of many of our wants.

I believe it was Stevenson who wrote in one of his charming essays about traveling through life "hopefully." There is sense in that attitude. If we grow too disappointed at not having many of the things we want, we are liable to grow sullen and uninspiring both to ourselves and to others. The world applauds a cheerful front.

Nature sourrounds us with wealth. We partake of its beauty and wonder at will. No fee asked. The oil from its depths made a Rockefeller, and the coal and metals buried beneath its surface have brought wealth to thousands who had a dream—and then dug for it!

In emergencies, or when disaster comes to us, we learn we can very well do without many things—in fact, just such times have been the salvation of many a one, for they have enriched character and given a new meaning to happiness.

By doing without gracefully, we set an example of courage before others, gaining substantial friends we otherwise might never have known. Every loss has its own compensation!

QUEER NOTIONS

You know, knuckleheads, I just can't decide which of us is crazy. On good days when I am bowling a creditable game even against such opponents as Beasely the banker and Ehrlich the chemist I have no doubts about it: you are all more or less irrational. But I have many bad days, regardless of the phases of the moon, when I can't bowl for sour apples, and the depressing thought keeps recurring, that maybe I am off my rocker and hence I do not realize what is obvious to everybody else. I'm serious about this, although I speak of sanity and insanity in the medical, not the legal sense.

It is axiomatic that one who is "going insane" or fears he has lost his sanity is seldom or never actually deranged; whereas the individual who is unquestionably insane is the last to recognize the fact.

On these bad days—worse still, bad nights—sometimes along towards 3 a. m. it takes a strong effort to snap out of it and begin writing tomorrow's column — I feel a compulsion to go over the ever growing list of queer notions—that's what medical colleagues call 'em—that I try so hard to force down the throats of our readers. As I check them off, one by one, the world seems to grow gloomier and gloomier—until I hit upon a point pertaining to one or another of the queer notions which I have perhaps not sufficiently elucidated. That, plus a few somersaults and my daily vitamin and iodin rations, brings me around all right.

The scare headlines in the paper not long ago—seems as though some scare must be conjured up every day—were a warning by a "biological expert" that "our cities could be attacked by giant aerosol bombs capable of spraying a smog-like cloud of infectious disease germs over a wide area." Toward the end of the piece, in ordinary news type, the "expert" said there is no need for public panic over germ warfare—in other words it is just the daily scare, gets the headlines the "biological expert" craves, and keeps people properly worried.

The story reminds me of one distributed several years ago—telling of the discovery by a "scientific expert" who conducted a laboratory test of dollar bills which were not more soiled than ordinary circulating paper money and found thereon, believe it or not, germs of many communicable diseases, including smallpox germs, which have not been discovered.

No matter what disease germs might be sprayed in "smog-like cloud over a wide area" it is not at all likely that animals or people in the area would suffer any serious effects. No experiment has been tried to determine whether disease germs so sprayed into the atmosphere would survive long enough to reach the ground and produce disease in the animal or person who might in any way inhale or ingest or be contaminated by them. We may thank our lucky stars that disease germs are quickly destroyed by sunshine and oxygen in the air. If they were not, few of us could long remain alive and well.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Mother's Leg Cramps Relieved

About a year ago I received your pamphlet on leg cramps at night. My mother, 88, suffered with them for 10 years. Soon after she began taking calcium and D as you suggest in the pamphlet the cramps ceased and she has not had any trouble since. (Mrs. S. E.)

Answer—Thank you. Nocturnal leg (and sometimes arm) cramps, with which many elderly persons suffer, are usually a manifestation of tetany. For the pamphlet Adult Tetany and Growing Pains send stamped, self-addressed envelope. Do not use a clipping please.

PEACETIME

Mr. Abbott has said he plans to incorporate into the regular tax structure the 20-per-cent defence surcharge placed on personal income taxes and corporation profits in the last budget. In doing that, he may effect some reduction in the general taxes on corporations and personal incomes.

Two per cent of the yield from personal income taxes, from corporation taxes and from the 10-per-cent sales tax will be earmarked to pay the cost of $40-a-month pensions to all 70 and over, regardless of means.

The healthy surplus compiled during the current year gives Mr. Abbott a fair amount of leeway for making tax adjustments. He also has forecasts from experts that the outlook for 1952 is good. The value of Canada's gross national production in 1952 is expected to be $22.500.000.000, an increase of $1,300,000,000 over 1951.

Last spring, Mr. Abbott estimated his revenues for 1951-52 would amount to $3.730.000.000 and expenditures to $3,700,000,000, leaving a surplus of $30,000.000. Last fall, he revised his estimates and indicated he expected to end the fiscal year March 31 with a surplus of between $200,000,000 and $300.000,000.

His second estimate appeared conservative as the year neared an end. Figures for the first nine months of the fiscal year showed that the surplus had reached a total of $721,000,000. It was expected the surplus would be slimmed down in the final months of the year, but there were some guesses it would total at least $500,000.000.

Parliament voted $1,700,000,000 for defence expenditures in 1951-52 and later it was estimated that not more than $1,400,000.000 would be spent before the end of the year. The amount not spent was reflected in the surplus.

Defends Policy

Mr. Abbott has frequently defended his policy of high taxation in periods of prosperity. He has said that to carry on deficit financing in times such as these would be a "fraud on the public." The surplus is used to reduce the country's debt.

The surplus will be his sixth in a row since the end of the Second World War. He had surpluses of $373,648,901 in 1947; $676.119,656 in 1948; $595,502,741 in 1949; $131,524,953 in 1950 and $203,456.000 in1951. The 1947 surplus broke a string of 17 consecutive deficits compiled during the years of the depression and of the Second World War.

Canada's net debt, amounting to a mere $268,480,004 at the turn of the century climbed to $335,996,850 by 1914—the year of the outbreak of the First World War. By 1918, the debt had reached $1.191,884.063.

In 1939—the first years of the Second World War—the debt totalled $3.152,559.314. It climbed to a peak of $13.521,405,449 in 1946. The surpluses in the last five years have reduced it to $11,441,100,000.

The trend of the debt reflected the movement of federal government expenditures. In 1901 expenditures totalled $46,866,368—an amount that now barely covers the expenditures of one department of government.

By 1914, the government was spending $127,384,473 and by 1918 the amount had grown to $178,234,313. At the outbreak of the Second World War in 1939 expenditures were $553 063,097. They sky-rocketed to a peak of $5,332,253,505 in 1944.

They tapered off from 1944 until the war broke out in Korea. Since then they have again swung upward.

FORMER 'HELLO

The young couple plan to live in Toronto and raise "a medium-sized family." Johnny, who receives the $150,000-a-year interest on his fortune when he is 21 and gets half the principal at 25, does not plan to loaf. He says he has been looking for a job in a construction company with an idea of becoming a partner in some firm.

Wants Few Luxuries

Only daughter of Mrs. Connell Steers, the bride until recently worked for the Bell Telephone Company. The groom's mother is Mrs. W. E. Bahen of Hamilton. His father died in a boat explosion at Muskoka when he was a baby.

While young Smallman plans to settle down and get a job, he also wants a few luxuries. He owns an expensive convertible but said recently that he also wants an English sports car that can speed at more than 100 miles an hour. He thinks he would like a yacht. He certainly wants a snooker table.

The bride dresses quietly but Johnny favors smart sports jackets, brightly colored shirts and slacks tailored to a cuff too tight to pull over his heavy sports shoes.

The couple have known each other nearly all their lives. She attended his seventh birthday party.

Johnny and a tutor toured Europe and the Middle East after he left St. Catharines' Ridley College — where his allowance was 35 cents a week — and Mary met his ship on his return.

That, they say, was when they began to get serious about each other.

Negotiators Meet Again in Effort To Settle Issue

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 16 (CP)—It's back to the conference room again today for negotiators trying to settle the Ford wage dispute before Sunday's strike deadline.

Delegates from the Ford Motor Company of Canada and from the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) appeared tired but happy when discussions were adjourned overnight.

Their expressions lent credence to a report current yesterday that the seniority question had been settled. There was no confirmation — both sides have pledged themselves to secrecy pending the outcome of the latest series of talks—but observers expressed belief that, if the report were true, settlement of the dispute that started 11 months ago might be close at hand.

The talks here started Wednesday after Labor Minister Daley of Ontario came here to get the disputants together again. They had broken off talks in Toronto Monday over the seniority issue.

Mr. Daley said last night that progress was made yesterday.

The negotiators were scheduled to reassemble today at 10 a.m., earlier than on the first two days. Over their conference table hung the heavy shadow of the strike the union called for 10 p.m. Sunday.

It was generally believed that, if necessary, the talks would go on until the moment set for the start of the tieup.

A strike would affect the same 12,000 workers made idle for 12 days by an unauthorized walkout at the Ford plant last December.

The talks here, as in Toronto, concern the proposed 85-clause contract. The matter of wages has been agreed upon in principle—a 15-cent-an-hour increase part of it retroactive to June, 1951, when the previous contract ran out.

High School Tax Rate Up 7 Mills From Last Year

Bancroft—In 1952 the high school tax rate for the area served by North Hastings High School will be 27 mills, a raise of approximately 7 mills from the rate of 1950 and 1951. This was determined when the board struck its rate at the February meeting.

After examining the December hydro bill for the school the board decided to meet the local hydro-electric power commission to seek a lower rate. The monthly statement showed that they had been charged 5c per kwh for 3480 hours and the lower rate of 2 cents per hour applied only to 210 kwh. Including service charge this accounted for a gross charge of $195.60 and a net of $176.04.

Two representatives of the students' council, Beth Brown and Joe Vance interviewed the board on behalf of their organization. Their offer to provide a flag pole for the school was accepted. Although completed in 1948 North Hastings High School has not the facilities to fly a flag.

The second matter introduced by the representatives of the student body was a hardy annual that has been the subject of discussions, accident insurance for school pupils. Informing the board that the majority of the high schools in eastern Ontario covered the pupils with policies of this type the two young ambassadors announced that the students were willing to assume part of the cost if ways and means could not be found to finance this service.

Chairman Guy Bentley thanked the two-man delegation for their active interest in the bett ment of the school and prom that the insurance question wo be discussed carefully at an mediate meeting.

New Products Guaranteed To Help Busy Housewife In Her Battle With Grime

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Spring is barely a month around the corner and the first bright day is due any time.

Pure sunshine will come pouring through the windows, showing up panes fogged with grime, horrifying the tidy homemaker.

At sight of grey yellow grease atop the curtains and dust in the corners, she will seize a bucket and broom. House-cleaning time again.

New products guaranteed to help keep the house clean are constantly coming on the market, one of the latest is a rug-cleaner, a compound with a cellulose fibre base and resembling peanut-butter.

Salesmen will demonstrate this new cleaner by first—perish the thought—smearing a rich carpet with black shoe polish or crayon. The cleaner is immediately sprinkled over the spot which then is given a stiff brushing. Presto—no spot.

Remove Anything

The manufacturers claim this new cleaner also will remove lipstick, gum, tar, grease, food and drink spills from rugs—and without leaving a tell-tale ring.

White window-blinds can be cleaned with magnesia. Spread a sheet on the floor, unroll the shade and with a soft cloth scrub the shade with magnesia and water. After treating one side turn the blind over and do the other side.

To remove a grease mark from wall paper: mix, French chalk with enough dry-cleaning fluid to make a stiff paste. Apply paste to the spot and allow to remain over night. In the morning brush off very carefully and lightly.

If any grease remains, repeat the process.

House-cleaning doesn't give the homemaker much time to prepare meals. Here is a supper quickie which is inexpensive, easy to make, and nourishing.

Salmon Souffle

Ingredients: 1 1-2 pound canned salmon; three tablespoons margarine; four tablespoons flour; one-half teaspoon salt; one-half teaspoon celery salt; one-half teaspoon paprika; one cup milk; one tablespoon fine grated onion; one tablespoon lemon juice; four eggs (separated); one-quarter teaspoon cream of tartar.

Drain and flake salmon to measure one cup. Melt fat and stir in flour, salt, celery salt and paprika. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture is medium thick. Remove from heat and add onion and lemon juice. Beat egg yolks and add to mixture. Fold in salmon. Beat egg whites, add cream of tartar and continue beating until stiff but not dry. Fold into salmon mixture.

Pour into 1 1-2-quart casserole and place in pan of Hot water. Bake at 350 degrees Fahrenheit from 50 to 55 minutes. Serve immediately. Serves four.

League Members Active In Work of Organization

The regular monthly meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held in St. Michael's High School on Monday last with a fine attendance. Mrs. J. E. Boyd presided. The 1st vice reported membership is now 495. The 2nd vice reported that St. Michael's high school P.T.A., would like to see all league executive who are the charter members of P.T.A. at the meetings held every third Monday of the month. The 3rd vice speaking on the work of Benevolent Society said milk was provided to the school children and for those taking their lunch to school, $169 being spent in January on milk. It is also provided to three families throughout the whole year.

At Christmas 28 hampers and three baskets were packed by the members and delivered to homes in the parish. A basket of oranges and treats was sent to County Home and Cain Nursing Home and a Christmas gift for each Catholic inmate. In January $22 was spent on small comforts for transients. Benevolent Society would be grateful for gifts of warm clean bedding for a needy family with ten children; quilts and blankets are urgently needed.

The treasurer's report was most satisfactory. The corresponding secretary had sent 12 letters and read the several acknowledgments. Hospital visitor had made 77 calls on Catholic patients in January. Mrs. L. Callaghan and Mrs. V. McIntyre will be visitors for February. Immigration committee has called on several foreign families and suggest holding a party for the new citizens in the near future.

Making Arrangements

Mrs. Deacon and Mrs. Lally are making arrangements for this event. Mrs. Cecil Young will be hosters at next monthly meeting. Thanks to Mrs. Ambrose Whalen and her committee for a delightful lunch this meeting. League members are asked to try and attend Mass one day a week during Lent for the intention of the League. Mrs. F. Cunningham, citizenship convener, said "To-day the body of the late King George VI was borne to Westminster Hall in London, there to lie in state until the funeral on Friday. Amid the cares and toils every home in all the realms joined together under the Crown, may draw comfort and strength for the future from his undaunted and cheerful spirit. As a last tribute to our King all were urged to attend the "Libera" which will be sung on Friday afternoon at the Church of St. Michael the Archangel. A minute's silence was observed at this meeting.

Belleville sub-division of the Catholic Women's League of Canada pledged their unswerving loyalty and devotion to their new Queen, Her Majesty, Elizabeth II.

General Tea Planned

Mrs. George O'Brien reporting in regard to the hot supper, said it was not feasible to hold it at this time and that a general tea was being planned to be held at the home of Mrs. F. R. Ross. The committee formed for the supper with Mrs. O'Brien as convener, will proceed with tea arrangements. Through the generosity of Mr. Paul Mercier, a handsome chest of silver flatware will be a feature of the tea, and Mrs. Burley is in charge of the sale of tickets on this. All members are kindly asked to send their donations to "homecooking" in early and are all cordially invited with their friends to attend.

It was the wish of the meeting that all our obligations be met at this time, such as per capita fees, donations to the various agencies, etc., and the balance of all monies and bonds be donated to the building fund of the parish of St. Michael the Archangel. This amount was upwards of $3,000.

The director, Very Rev. Dean L. B. Garvin, in accepting the donation, paid tribute to the sub-division of the league for their generosity.

Rev. J. J. V. Buckley, guest speaker was introduced by Mrs. J. E. Boyd and thanked by Mrs B. E. Burley. His talk was most interesting. Following the business meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. A. Whalen and her committee.

SUSPECTS CAPTURED

Toronto, Feb. 16 (CP)—Constable Charles Moore, a rookie who hasn't yet received his uniform, fired a shot that wounded Ronald Perry, 18, during a chase early yesterday. Police said Perry and another youth were seen climbing from a stolen car. He is in hospital charged with car theft. A second suspect was also captured.

North American Life Amazes Siamese Girl

Toronto (CP)— Salika Supol, 16-year-old Siamese girl from Bangkok, doesn't understand the "rush, rush" of North American life.

She thinks Canadian girls wear too much lipstick. She is surprised that they go on dates without chaperones.

But she's enthusiastic about all the gadets she has discovered in Canadian homes—and television.

"I can't go to sleep without watching that screen," said Salika, one of 21-teen-agers from the Far East now spending three days in Toronto on a good-will tour. She and her companions have been in the U.S., since December as part of a youth forum project.

Salika said she has found Canadian homes "remarkable."

"We have four servants at home which is average," she said. "Housewives in Toronto have so many gadgets they don't need any servants."

"The way boys and girls go out together in North America—makes my head spin," she said. "In Thailand we don't see boys without chaperones until we're 20. We marry later, too—it takes five or six years to learn if a fellow is serious."

Thailand, she described as a trouble-free democracy. "We have no trouble with communists and we have no wars despite the fact there is fighting on all sides," she said.

Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary Sponsors Valentine Tea, Bridge

The door prize was won by Mrs. Charles Hyde. The prize winners for bridge were Mrs. C. Ryan, Mrs. E. M. Macdonald, and Mrs. E. Follwell.

The arrangements for tea were in the capable hands of Mrs. R. Widdifield and Mrs. W. Slade. Assisting with the serving were: Mrs. T. Franklin, Mrs. J. Kuntze, Mrs. W. Jones, Mrs. H. C. Argue, Mrs. H. Bateman, Mrs. W. Cooley, Mrs J. Wood, Mrs. W. Bateman, and Mrs. G. McIntosh.

Mrs. D.B. MacKinnon Talks on 'Food Facts'

The Parish Guild of Christ Church held their regular monthly meeting in the parish hall, on Tuesday evening, with a splendid attendance of members, and friends Mrs. E. Hickey presided and opened the meeting with two minutes of silence in memory of the late King George VI.

Following a brief business session, Mrs. Hickey introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. Dorothy Batchelor MacKinnon, B.HSc. who gave a most interesting talk on "Food Facts", which included tips on purchasing of canned goods, and other items of household interest.

Mrs. Cleo Colling tendered a vote of appreciative thanks to Mrs. MacKinnon for her fine address.

Tea and refreshments were served by the lunch committee, following the close of the meeting.

THE WHITE OAK

This is a valuable tree for landscape planting, although it grows slowly and is rather difficult to transplant successfully. It does best in rather dry sandy soils. It is most beautiful when growing in the open. Autumn changes the foliage to a rich red color. There are many other types of oaks all of which require space to develop.

Fashionable British Women To Wear Subdued Colors During Spring, Summer

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London. (CP)—With a period of court mourning following the death of the King fashionable British women will wear subdued colors next spring and summer.

Within hours of the death announcement, in deference to the young Queen Elizabeth, department stores throughout London's west end stripped their windows of brighter colors and displayed only black sombre grey, purple and white.

Store managers said that by the afternoon of the King's death, well-dressed women were buying all-black outfits. Enterprising buyers phoned immediately for increased stocks in the four shades suitable for court mourning.

Long before the young Queen returned to Britain from Kenya, stores from Piccadilly to the Marble Arch showed suits, coats, dresses and party wear in black, relieved only by touches of shadowy grey and white.

In hat shops clever fingers replaced colored trimmings on black models with touches of black velvet or white. White hats were made sombre with black. Shops say that women who have no need of court mourning are buying black hats, gloves, bag and shoes to give patriotic expression to the sadness felt throughout Britain.

In this way, even in mourning for the father she loved, the new Queen is still a fashion setter. Since her wedding, the increased elegance and sophistication of Elizabeth's styles have drawn fashion comment throughout the world.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

BULETINS FROM Birdland —b WORTH THEIR WEIGHT

Truly the balance of nature has been greatly upset by the advent of man. Fortunately, back in 1916, Canada and the United States signed an agreement prohibiting the destruction of migratory birds. Otherwise many of our lovely song birds and shore birds would before this have vanished like the great auk and the passenger pigeon — to be numbered with extinct species. Game birds are protected also, as they may be shot only at certain seasons. Canadians should be proud to live in a country where there are conservation laws.

Both government and private enterprise have done much to preserve bird life by providing sanctuaries, which are dotted all across Canada. Thus seabirds and coastal waterfowl are protected in some places, inland waterfowl in others. Golf courses are most satisfactory as bird havens.

Despite shooting restrictions, our manner of living is a great drawback to birds. When areas are drained we lose rails, ducks, herons and shore birds; when timber is cut down chicadees, Canada jays, nuthatches and most woodpeckers leave. Tall buildings, lighthouses, and even highways with their rapid traffic are death traps. Water birds are captured by floating oil. The new insecticides kill the insects upon which nearly all young birds and the adults of a great many species feed — thus causing death to the feathered population. Wanton shooting takes the lives of far too many birds.

Enough cannot be said in favor of our weed and insect eaters. If that control should be lifted, the plight of our farmers would indeed be tragic. Redpolls, snow buntings, goldfinches, juncos, tree, white-crowned, song, white-throated, and vesper sparrows are just some of the many birds that feed mainly on weed seeds. Chipping sparrows, cardinals, rose-breasted grosbeaks, indigo buntings, scarlet tanagers, orioles, our many little warblers, wrens, vireos, kinglets, creepers, woodpeckers are continually working to keep down insect pests.

Some birds of prey are not protected, and being for the most part fairly large they make good targets, so the many valuable members suffer for the few that have bad records. Owls by night and hawks by day render us unbelieveable service. People complaining of rodents should remember that these predatory birds are nearly all the best possible mouse traps.

Each species has its special part to play in nature's scheme, and, quite apart from their beauty and music, birds require protection, for each is worth its weight in gold.

Why is it there is always somebody wanting to push people into taking part in off-duty sports with the idea of keeping them physically fit? Just among our own acquaintances, three individuals have suffered badly as the result of being pressed into sports - - - One girl tripped on a ski fracturing her ankle bone. Making his first try at curling, a chap slipped in such a way as to crash his shoulder against the handle of a curling stone breaking his collar bone - - - Another fellow set out to play volley ball. One of the players knocked his glasses off so that the beginner can't see to read until his new lenses are ready.

When all this happens in one week in a small group of people, it makes you wonder if all this procedure to keep fit through sport is actually achieving anything. These accident victims are certainly far from fit right now.

If more people would stick to the old fashioned physical exercise of walking in the fresh air at least part of the way to and from work and getting out into the fresh air for some of their lunch hour, they would not only feel better, but be less likely to get cracked up.

Alex. is Canadian!

That Viscount Alexander was actually the first Canadian Governor-General and not Mr. Massey, is pointed out by William Arthur Deacon in his literary column of the Globe and Mail. Mr. Deacon explains that under the Canadian Citizenship Act, all British subjects in Canada on January 1, 1947, automatically became Canadian citizens.

Mr. Deacon says this new status did not deprive any of us British subjects of our rights and privileges as such. If Viscount Alexander was on Canadian soil on this date, he became a Canadian.

All of which means that Mr. Massey is the second Canadian to hold the office, though he is the first native-born Canadian to hold it.

Permits Past Due

Evidently we've been driving the old bus illegally since December 31 when drivers' permits must be renewed. The Ontario government always gives a few weeks lee-way for car owners to buy their plates. We thought this lee-way applied to the permits too. Checking with the Dept. of Highways, that just isn't so.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Haunted by her husband's past

A switch from the familiar story of the wife who finds her husband returning again and again to a romance that flourished before their marriage, is the tale told by a young woman of 23 who has been married for two years.

In this case, instead of the husband wishing to resume a premarital relationship, and pursuing the object of it, it is the girl friend who is chasing him. Not directly, moreover, but through the wife of her erstwhile sweetheart.

The story, as told by the wife, goes this way:

"When I first met my husband, he was going with another girl, but gave her up when he started courting me. During our entire courtship, this girl was constantly calling me on the telephone and writing me letters telling me to let him alone.

"I told the man who became my husband about her telephone calls and letters, and he confessed that he had had an affair with her but that, actually, she didn't mean anything to him. We went together for a year before our marriage, and during this entire period the girl continued to plague me, despite the fact that he only ran into her a few times off and on.

"When he told me about the affair he had had with the girl, I forgave him of course, and our marriage has always been very happy, for I know he has always been faithful to me. However, through the entire two years of our marriage this same girl has still been calling me on the telephone and writing me letters in an attempt to make me give up my husband, whom she is positive would return to her if I would only let him.

Annoyance Calls

"I have long-since stopped telling my husband when she calls or writes because he doesn't even want to hear her name mentioned, but I don't know what to do. I am afraid to have any arguments with her or make her angry, lest the past might all be brought to the surface again, with my husband involved, which I would do anything to avoid."

Since this harried young wife give no details of the conversations that go on between herself and her husband's former girl friend, I cannot, of course, be entirely sure of my ground. But I strongly suspect that in her eagerness to keep this past romance from exploding into the open, and perhaps bringing distress and humiliation to both herself and her husband, she is being too conciliatory toward this blackmailer on the telephone wires. Maybe all that is needed is the courage to get a bit tough with her annoyer.

Has she tried hanging up on her? Not once, or twice, but steadily, every time she calls? Has she threatened to put the police on her trail?—a threat on which I doubt she would ever have to make good, since it's extremely unlikely that the girl would care to have the police informed of this long-time activity of hers.

Finally, if neither cutting short the caller nor threatening her with police action brings any results, then the wife should insist that her husband take over.

Perhaps changing their telephone number to an unlisted one might be the answer, and she might suggest this to him, since she could hardly go ahead and do it herself without notice to him.

But after all, whether he likes it or not, it is his problem, brought upon himself by his own folly. If he is manly, he can hardly stand aside and leave his wife to cope singlehanded with its results.

Food for Thought

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION:

I read your column every night—tried some of your cookie recipes at Christmas. Since being a very poor cook of any kind was surprised to have them turn out so nice. So now I'm beginning to find more interest in what goes into making food taste so good.

I do have a problem and am hoping you can help me. I want to give a shower for my cousin sometime during March. . . .there will be around 20 to 25 young girls. I've only gone to about half dozen bridal showers myself. Each was nice but they all were the same. I was hoping you could give me something different to serve in the way of food. How would it be best to serve? She will be opening the gifts in the dining-room with everyone sitting round. Now how to set the table, as everyone will be standing around looking at the gifts. Or do you think it would be better to have her open them in the living-room? I would like to set a pretty table.

. . . for food if possible something that can be made the night before with finishing touches the night of the shower. . . I work till five so won't have much time . . . and Mary any ideas on something to drink during the evening besides cokes and ginger ale? I know I'm asking a lot but I do need help. This is my first shower and first time to have the wonderful thrill of being maid-of-honor! If you have any suggestions for games to be played during evening (besides bingo) I could use them too.—E .S.

ANSWER:

I loved your letter and am thrilled too that you are going to be a maid of honor. I am so glad you want to do something different and am glad to be in on it.

Sequence of Events for a Bridal Shower

Play the type of charades which I think is a howling success: Divide your guests into two equal groups. One group leaves the room and both make plans which are unknown to the other. Each group chooses separate things that the folks in the other group must identify by making motions but not one sound. For instance the group I belonged to decided my sister Doris (in the other group) must represent or act out "King Tut". Doris stretched out on the floor, made a motion as if she had a long beard, then folded her hands on her chest and closed her eyes. Someone on her side asked "Are you dead?" She nodded. "Are you a dead Canadian?" Shake of head. "Are you fictitional?"—and so on until they guessed it—but all this within the 2-minute time limit. If you run over your time this is counted up in seconds and charged against your side. The side doing the guessing is the side which has the actor doing the motions. All players on one side act out their assignment (written on a small piece of folded paper) before the other side has its turn.

Suggested Things to Identify in Charades

(1) "South of the Border" (song title); (2) Chairman Hugh Brown at a Board of Directors' meeting; (3) Rio de Janeiro (this is very hard); (4) an icicle; (5) King of Siam; (6) Cor. 42nd St. and 5th Ave.; (7) Milton Berle on television; (8) Pogo or Churchy la Femme; (9) Christmas dinner; (10) a wedding.

Serve Punch during the evening. Arrange large pitcher with glasses on your finest trays.

FRUIT PUNCH FOR 25 OR 30

Grate rind of 5 lemons and add it to 1 cup water and 2 1-2 cups sugar and simmer covered for 10 minutes. Chill. Add juice of 5 lemons and 3 oranges, 2 cups strong hot fresh tea, 1-4 cup sliced maraschino cherries. Chill overnight if necessary. At time of serving add 1 quart of ginger ale and 1 tray of ice cubes. Let ice melt a little before serving.

Have the games and opening of gifts in the living-room by all means. At a lingerie shower one hostess hung an umbrella from the centre of the ceiling covered with pretty pink and white crepe paper, and put the lingerie gifts in it. Hanging over the side on ribbons were cards with names of donors attached to the gift in the umbrella. It was pretty good fun but gifts must be light in weight. The good old clothes basket (which is given as a gift too) covered with very pretty paper is always dependable and durable and will hold all weights and sizes of gifts.

MENU

Hors-d'oeuvres tray; (1) halves pitted Malaga grapes stuffed with cream cheese, on tooth pick; (all five of these things are on tooth picks—colored ones bought for this purpose—and all stuck in huge red apple or large grapefruit) (2) Hot cocktail sausages; (3) Hot ripe olives (buy stoned ones if possible); (4) small whole pickled onions; (5) squares of fancy cheese.

Pass hot toasted cheese fingers and potato chips. Use the bright orange sharp cream cheese which comes in cardboard cylinder pound boxes, softened slightly with mayonnaise and cream to spread between slices white bread and cut into 1-inch long sandwiches and delicately toast them.

Rainbow Cake (see below) and Tea or Coffee.

RAINBOW CAKE

Cut a large angel food or sunshine or sponge cake baked in tube pan into 4 equal slices.

Spread bottom slice with mashed apricot or apricot puree (canned apricots put through sieve); put second slice on this and spread it with 1 cup well-drained crushed pineapple tinted green with liquid vegetable coloring; put third slice on that and spread it with 1 cup thick raspberry jam. Put on top slice. Cover outside of cake with sweetened whipped cream and sprinkle with chopped pistachio nuts or toasted almonds.

Or, if desired, for fussier dessert for each one of the 3 fillings, soften 2 teaspoons gelatin in 1 tablespoon fruit juice (leftover pineapple or apricot) and stir to dissolve over hot water. Stir into fruit filling. Chill. When partially set fold into it 1 cup of sweet whipped cream (that is 1 cup whipped cream for each fruit filling). This latter is beautiful. Cake should stand at least 3 hours before serving. If covered carefully without cover touching it could stand and be improved by it—overnight.

Use your dining-room table for buffet service. This food will look beautiful on it. Pass tea or coffee then keep going round with the tray of hors d'oeuvres and toast fingers and potato chips. Pass the slice of rainbow cake on bread-and-butter or tea plates with forks. Girls should have some place to stand their cups. You may buy very pretty little shower serviettes.

I hope readers who are thinking of giving showers will clip this—for it is long-winded and has taken up a lot of valuable newspaper space. Good luck, E. S.—if you do not understand some of this you still have time to write again.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Today's courtesy tip

Do not stop to greet and talk with friends in the centre of the sidewalk. If you want to do a bit-of-chatting, withdraw to one side. . . where you will not obstruct the progress of those-in-a-hurry.

The fiance's family made a big mistake to wait!

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Recently my nephew gave his fiancee a diamond engagement ring. His family were told all about it, but even now, after several months have passed, we find that no effort has been made on the part of the girl's family to arrange to meet us. Even though it seems that there is not to be an engagement party, we wonder if it is proper to send the girl an engagement gift. This nephew is the son of my husband's sister, and we all want to do the right thing in this situation. Please advise us.—N. D.

The "right thing in this situation" is (and was) for the engaged man's parents to make the first social move! That is, it is the man's family, not the girl's family, who are expected to take the important steps to establish the relationship between the two families. Perhaps the girl's family are waiting for your husband's sister and her husband to bring about this meeting. . . and this they should do as soon as they possibly can. They (or at least the young man's mother) go to see their son's fiancee and her mother (wisely telephoning first to arrange the time), to welcome the girl into their family, to tell her of their happiness in the engagement, and perhaps to chat about the wedding plans. After this so-important and so-significant welcoming-into-the-family call has been made, either family may invite the other to some special occasion, tea or Sunday luncheon, or dinner, or whatever is convenient in their hospitality plans.

About the engagement present: after this meeting, any member of the young man's family may correctly give the girl an engagement present, something personal for her or for her trousseau.

Letters to grandmother, aunt

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My grandmother and my unmarried aunt live together. How should I address letters and gifts to them, when I wish to include both of their names on the same letter or package?—H. L.

Write each name on a separate line, your grandmother's name on the first line. Like this:

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Putting the fingernails in form.

How about those little nails at your fingertips? Do you keep them shining bright, do you give them any attention other than that of laying on the polish? We sometimes suspect that hurried Young Things pay more attention to the lovely glow than to real care—keeping the cuticle free of the nail base, lubricating to keep the nails smooth and healthy. That rosy coloring may cover a multitude of beauty sins.

The home manicurist, treating her own nails instead of making a weekly pilgrimage to the beautery, should have the proper equipment. This consists of a flexible file of high grade steel that cuts quickly, emery boards, orangewood sticks, cuticle cream, curved scissors—only the best are worth buying—nail white pencil, polish and polish remover.

The first step is to remove the veneer. An experienced manicurist will file the nails to the desired shape and length before giving the hands a soapy bath preliminary to removing all extraneous matter. The bath softens the nails and prevents successful filing. Keep that in mind. The impulse is to wash the hands first.

It is the yen of some young women to have nails like claws. That is their privilege, but many men hate them. If the nails are short and wide, the eaves can be fairly long; if the nails are oval they should extend only a short distance beyond the fingertips.

File from sides to centre, then round the centre. Be careful not to saw down into the flesh at the sides. If you do that, nature will thicken the flesh and harden it. Now for the hand scrubbing with a nail brush to soften the cuticle. While your hands are in the water, pass the white pencil under the eaves. Dry your hands thoroughly. Use the emery board to flick away any little bits the metal file has not cut loose.

Then on with cuticle cream, a little dab on each nail. With the orangewood stick lift the flesh gently. Do not press down at the nail base; there is danger of injuring the matrix, causing a deformed nail to develop.

If you have flushed up any hangnails, use the scissors, points downward. At this point you must be extremely careful. The slightest wound many become infected; the areas around the nails are especially susceptible to bacteria.

Another washing to remove the cream. Dry thoroughly. On with the polish. Two light applications. The first one should be allowed to dry before you put on the second one.

SCOHARIE

Scoharie—Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Foster and Darlene were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William McWilliam on Sunday when a turkey dinner was served and Mrs. Foster's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. H. McWilliam and Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Wannamaker were also guests.

The Live Women's Circle held a successful pot luck supper at Orser Church on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore, Miss Moore and friend of Whitby were Sunday afternoon visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Leavitt and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Way have been attending some of the Friday night dances at Greenbush.

Mrs. Harry Foster, Keith and Ross Foster attended funeral services for the late Mrs. Raymond Calnan on Thursday afternoon at Picton.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

PLAYOFFS AHOY!

Four Belleville hockey teams go to the payoff barrier next week with the junior Hawks opening their best-of-three semi-finals with the Peterborough Triple-Links here Monday night. The teams go back at it again on Wednesday night in Memorial Arena and then return to Peterborough for the third tilt Friday night. The fourth game if necessary will be played in Peterborough the following Monday and the fifth back here.

The minor-division teams bantam, midget and juvenile swing into their home and home OMHA playdowns with Kingston teams next week with a triple-header scheduled for the Kingston Community Centre on Wednesday night and the return triple bill scheduled for Memorial Arena on Thursday. The youngsters are "rarin' " to go and have high hopes of taking the first round in their stride. The series are goals-to-count affairs. The first game gets under way at seven o'clock in each series.

Meanwhile the senior Hawks with some of their sick and injured back in the lineup trek to Kingston tonight where they take on the up-and-coming Sacs in the senior tilt laid over from last night. Petes and Eagles were scheduled to play last night but the game was cancelled as was the Hawks-Sacs game because of the funeral of His Majesty King George VI. The Peterborough squads will likely settle the issue tonight.

Gerry Desjardins, out for eight weeks with a fractured leg will return to the line-up tonight. Desjardins has been practising with the junior and senior teams and feels the injured member is ready for action again. Trumble has been out to practice as has Tommy Schreider but neither of the pair will see action for some time. The Hawks have to win this one as they are now down in third place. They play the Petes twice next week, in Peterborough Wednesday night and back here Friday. They wind up the schedule against Kingston here on Feb. 29th. And then for the jolly old playoffs.

POT'S-A-BOILING!

Going out of season for the nonce, it seems all is not serene up in western Ontario regarding baseball prospects. The Oshawa Merchants applied for entry in the powerful Intercounty League but the big boys not only rejected their application but also those of Niagara Falls, Port Huron and Windsor besides. The strong Brantford Redmen are in no wise satisfied with the set-up and according to reports, are threatening to withdraw from the league. It looks from here as though the Ontario Baseball Association has a tough task in setting its house in order. Up in Niagara Falls the Baseball Association of that district is holding a special session tomorrow at which out-of-district teams representatives will attend to discuss the possibility of forming and operating a senior loop apart from the Intercounty.

"Chef" George Campbell, Oshawa scribe quotes thusly on the matter:—

"The decision of the Intercounty League to refuse the entries applied for by Oshawa Merchants, Niagara Falls, Port Huron and Windsor (it was the London solo vote that kept Oshawa and the Falls out) appeared to be a disastrous blow to baseball in general but the OBA is doing something about it. President Fred Young of the Ontario Baseball Association is trying to correlate the interests who may still be concerned with operating a baseball team at a senior level and the first step has been taken. Niagara Falls, Welland, St. Catharines, West Toronto, Toronto Viaduct and Oshawa are going to have the opportunity of forming an Inter-City League, with two teams allowed from each of the Toronto leagues — if they are interested. Incidentally, the Brantford Club has signified they are about fed up with the high-handed rulings of their I-C mates and the powerful Brantford team might be interested in hooking up with the new league also. Could be the boys have got something there too. Certainly, a senior circuit of this nature would be okay with local fans and the two-lane highway embracing all entries, would mean that the travelling problem is not too serious, from the standpoint of time and comfort, at any rate."

And this from Niagara Falls:—"As a more than interested onlooker, OBA President Fred Young had plans for some outside delegates to attend the coming Sunday session of the NDBL to talk over a possible senior diamond group. Among those mentioned were Tracy Shaw of the Toronto Viaduct League, Carmen Bush of the OBA and Jim Currie of the West Toronto league. Due to the possibility that a new slate of loop officers might be required, it is likely that such plans will be shelved until the incoming executive are able to formulate plans . . . All is far from serene up in the Intercounty and it may be that Fords had a narrow escape."

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Feb. 16—(AP) — They might not be right but this is what they said:

Jack Murphy, San Diego Union—at a time when the Coast League is attempting to establish itself in the public mind as an independent, self-sufficient minor, along comes Branch Rickey — with the not inconsiderable help of Hollywood stars—to land a sneak punch that shakes the entire structure.

The Pittsburgh Mahatma, in buying into the Hollywood Club—a reported 16 per cent of the stock at $75,000—has shattered the illusion that the coast is ready to rear up on its haunches and operate without interference—or support—from the majors.

Time of the announcement could scarcely have been more illconceived. For months the coast has carefully been nuturing the impression that its new open classification is a long and positive step toward major league status.

Now, thanks to Rickey and Hollywood, the entire plan is suspect.

Gordon Cobbledick, Cleveland plain dealer in a piece in one of the national magazines last week asked one of those silly baseball questions: Will Roger Hornsby revive the St. Louis Browns?

I've got news for 'em. The answer is "no".

The Browns may desert their familiar cellar berth but it won't be because Hornsby's their manager. They may land in the first division but it won't be Hornsby who lifted them there. They may win the pennant and draw 2,000,000 customers but it won't be through any genius of Hornsby's. Managers just aren't that important.

If the Browns prove to be as sharply improved over the Browns of 1951 as their more sanguine followers believe, it will be because the energetic Willie Veeck has rounded up a superior bunch of ball players since the close of last season, not because he saw fit to fire Zack Taylor and hire Hornsby.

Art Daley, New York Times—the Hall of Fame looks a heap sight neater since those two vacant niches have been filled by Harry Heilmann and Paul Waner. But the baseball writers still have an important task confronting them before the pantheon of diamond gods takes on a completely orderly appearance.

It is imperative that three men standing on the threshold be admitted. This bystander won't rest content until room is found for Bill Terry Al Simmons and Bill Dickey.

It is comforting to know that the baseball writers are beginning to disregard the unpopularity of Terry and are starting to recognize him on merit. He only missed election by a dozen votes and they should be forthcoming in the next balloting

Stein Eriksen, Norwegian, Wins Men's Giant Slalom At Winter Olympic Games

Norefjell, Norway, Feb. 16 — (CP) — The host country won its first gold medal of the Winter Olympic Games Friday when Stein Eriksen, a handsome, blonde 24-year-old Norwegian, streaked down the winding, 2,300-metre course — about a mile-and-a-half — to win the men's giant slalom ski race in two minutes, 25 seconds.

Christian Pravda of Austria, officially timed in 2:26.9, was second.

Austria also took third place, in the field of 85 starters from 29 countries, on the performance of Tony Spiess, pre-race favorite, in 2:28.8.

Egon Schopf of Austria and Zeno Colo of Italy, 1950 world giant slalom and downhill champion and first man down the course today, were both tied for next placing but Schopf was disqualified later for failing to pass properly through one of the 66 control gates.

They were timed in 2:29.1.

Four Canadians placed far down the list. Bob Richardson, whose home is in Magog, Que., and who works in Montreal, made the best showing — 35th, timed in 2:48.2.

Andre Bertrand, 20 - year - old Laval University student from Quebec, was 37th in 3:49.3, and Jack Griffin, McGill graduate who lives in Vancouver, was 39th in 2:49.9.

Gordie Morrison of Banff, Alberta, was timed in 2:52.2 his placing to be determined.

Disqualification of Schopf by the race jury was still technically subject to a rehearing should the Austrian protest the decision. A reversal is unlikely.

In the disqualification sticks, Brooks Dodge of Gorham, N. H., first American to place, would move into a tie for sixth place with Stig Sollander of Sweden. This would give the United States a half-point in the unofficial point standings of countries competing at the Olympics.

Eriksen was the 10th skier down the hazardous Norefjell hillside course which drops 525 metres. When he finished, his American girl friend, Katy Rodolph, who finished fifth in the women's giant slalom yesterday, gave him a big hug.

Eriksen modestly told reporters: "I had an advantage over most of the others because I know this course by heart."

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Plans for a new 1,200-seat grandstand with dressing room at Victoria Park baseball field in Kitchener were approved last night by the Kitchener Parks Board. The board will send a recommendation to city council that work be started at once on the wooden structure.

The stand, which will not be roofed for the present, will cost in the neighborhood of $30,000. It is expected that the structure will be completed in time for the opening of the Intercounty Senior Baseball League season in mid-May.

The stand, to be built in three sections, will be portable. New bleachers to be built in right field will increase the park's seating capacity to well above 5,000.

McMaster University Marauders last night defeated Rochester Institute of Technology 75-63 in an exhibition basketball game in Hamilton. Max Wooley of St. Catharines led the scoring for McMaster with 15 points and the long distance shooting of Wes Westphalen of Rochester brought in 11 points.

As long as the athletes are around to provide an interesting element of uncertainty, there can't be a completely mechanized track meet. But they'll come as close as possible tonight at the 64th National A.A.U. indoor championships at Madison Square Garden in New York.

Along with such devices as the photo timer and the electric "elevator," to replace the pole vault cross bar, the controversial Ogden starting gate will be used for the sprint and hurdle races.

Gene Bearden lost no time signing a contract with the St. Louis Browns following his trade to them by the Detroit Tigers. The left-handed tosser, who was the rookie of the year with the 1948 world champion Cleveland Indians, visited the Brownie office in St. Louis Thursday.

Larry MacPhail, an old hand at whipping up a storm started another big blow yesterday in Baltimore by proposing the merger of Bowie and Pimlico race tracks. As a prospective buyer of Bowie he told newspaper men that "racing in Maryland has been deteriorating under the strain of competition."

Frank Sedgman of Australia and Tony Mottram of England yesterday gained the finals of the Asian tennis championships in Colombo, Ceylon. Sedgman easily defeated Poland's Wladislaw Skonecki, 6-2; 6-0, 6-3; Mottram elminated Fumiteru Nakano of Japan in the semifinals 6-2, 6-3, 6-4.

Bob Lemon came to contract terms yesterday with Cleveland Indians in a telephone call from Long Beach, Calif. He agreed to a "slight" salary cut. The Indians, announcing the deal, said they believed he still was the second highest paid pitcher in baseball, topped only by his teammate, Bob Feller. There were guesses he made $50,000 last season, when he won 17 and lost 14.

Marc Hodler, Swiss president of the International Ski Federation, said yesterday in Norefjell that the combined Alpine event was dropped from the Olympic ski program to provide a fairer test to skiers of all countries. In previous Olympics the combined championship was awarded to the skier with the best combined showing in two races—the downhill and the slalom.

Hodler said: "We decided to make three independent races — slalom, giant slalom and downhill —so each racer could choose the event for which he was best prepared."

Chicago Hawks Bring Up Galt Players

Chicago, Feb. 16 (AP) —Three rookies from Canada will be playing for Chicago Black Hawks against Boston Bruins in a National Hockey League matinee Sunday.

Hawk president Bill Tobin, who has been scouting talent in Canada has informed his Chicago office that he will bring home defencemen Jack Price and Mike Buchanan and forward Tony Poeta.

All three are members of the Galt, Ont., club in a Ontario Hockey Association Junior A league.

Meanwhile, the Hawks have lost the services of Pete Babando. X-rays have disclosed a fractured right hand. He was injured in the Detroit-Hawks game Thursday.

Chinese Team For Olympics

Moscow, Feb. 16 (AP) —Pravda reported today from Peking that a Chinese team will be sent to the summer Olympics games at Helsinki this year.

The Soviet paper reported that the Chinese Olympic group simultaneously told the International Olympic Committee that no other organization represents China and no other should be accepted at the Olympics or at any meetings regarding the summer games.

Pravda's report seems to foreshadow a battle within the International Olympic Committee over who will represent China.

Yesterday, in Oslo, Avery Brundage, international vice-president of the Olympic committee revealed that red China had applied for recognition, but said that no action was taken on the application.

Canadiens, Rangers Twin Bill Most Important Weekend Duel

By CRAIG SWAYZE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer))

Detroit Red Wings, seven full games in front in the National Hockey League race will be the only team not seeing action this weekend.

Holding a 14-point advantage on the runner-up Toronto Maple Leafs, Detroit will enjoy their first rest over a Saturday and Sunday since the start of the season.

Toronto, at home tonight against the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks, is not scheduled to appear tomorrow. However, the Hawks scoot back to Chicago for a Sunday-afternoon tussle with the fourth-place Boston Bruins.

Montreal Canadiens and New York Rangers are engaged in a weekend doubleheader. The games mean much to both teams.

The third-place Habitants are at home against the Blueshirts tonight, moving into New York for a return engagement with the Rangers Sunday night.

Win Means Berth

Deadlocked with Boston for the fourth and last playoff spot in the circuit, Rangers count the series as one of the most important of the season. A single victory could mean a playoff berth.

Canadiens trail second-place Toronto by a single point. With the Leafs facing only one clash on the weekend, the ambitious Montrealers could put four points to good use in pulling into the runner-up position.

The Bruins at Chicago Sunday afternoon are well aware that a loss could drop them from their fourth-place deadlock with the Rangers. The Black Hawks have shown amazing tenacity in their afternoon games.

Rangers head into their two-game series with Montreal at full strength for the first time in 3½ months. Gaye Stewart will be back at left wing on Don Raleigh's line with Ed Slowinski on the starboard berth. Defenceman Jack Evans and forward Jack Stoddard will be left at home.

Coach Dick Irvin is worried over Floyd Curry's chances of appearing in weekend play, the big right winger suffered a leg injury in Thursday's clash with Toronto. If he is unable to go, Bob Fryday of the Quebec Senior Hockey League Montreal Royals will fill in.

Toronto is the only other club reporting injuries. The Leafs have four players on the ailing list.

Club captain Ted Kennedy has a trick nerve in his shoulder. Winger Harry Watson is suffering a charley horse, forward Joe Klukay's knee is still locking on him and defenceman Fern Flaman is suffering from a bruised foot.

Despite the Friday moans, Coach Joe Primeau said both Flaman and Kennedy are expected to dress for tonight's clash with Chicago.

Canada Routs German Puckists 15-1; In Opening Olympic Hockey Game

By JACK SULLIAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Oslo, Feb. 16 (CP)—Two more championships were dangled before the world's best athletes today as the winter Olympic games swung into the third day of the cold-weather carnival.

The men skiers, who scrambled for the giant slalom title yesterday and saw it go to Stein Eriksen of Norway, went back to work again at Norefjell to settle the downhill championship.

The speed skaters appeared for the first time on the program, with the 500-metre race at stake.

The women figure skaters also made their bow in the 1952 games, starting the routine of compulsory—or school-figures as the first phase leading to the singles figureskating title.

The final touch for this sports-dizzy city was the hockey merry-go-round, which spins merrily on its way with another quartet of games.

Two championships were decided yesterday — the Norefjell mountainside dash gathered in by Eriksen and the two-man bobsled event, won by Andreas Ostler, a rollicking German innkeeper, and his mate, Lorenz Niberl.

Turns Into Rout

The long-awaited appearance of Canada's hockey team in the round-robin series came about last night. The victory of Edmonton Mercurys over Germany's team was more or less taken for granted, but it turned into a rout.

A few weeks ago the Canadian boys finished an 18-hour bus ride while playing exhibition games throughout Europe, dragged themselves on the ice and lost 4-1 to the Germans.

It was a different story last night. The Germans absorbed a 15-1 beating.

The crowd was kept busy cheering for the Mercurys as they rolled up goal after goal, and for Heinz Wackers, the German netminder, for his acrobatic saves on many more shots that didn't get past him.

Engelbert Miller, Edmonton's leftwinger whose eligibility status created some fuss before it was approved, ran wild with five goals. Centre Billy Gibson banged in four. The rest of the Edmonton scorers shared the other six goals—Jack Davies, Gordie Robertson, Bob Watt, Allan Purvis, Don Gauf and playing manager Frank Sullivan.

Walter Kremershof's first-period goal for the Germans was about the only thing the German adherents could cheer about. After that the willing but weak German team floundered about, mostly behind their blue line, the Mercury's became apathetic over so much shooting practice and Herr Wackers was glad when it was all over.

Close For U.S.A.

The expected swift march of the United States team through the opening round came as close to running into a detour as the Americans want to see.

Norway's puckmen showed unexpected strength and had a tie within reach until Arnold Oss, the Americans' star from Minneapolis, ran in his second goal of the game with three minutes to go and the U.S. squeezed through to a 3-2 victory.

Two European teams, now rated to give the Canadians a tough battle, came through with easy first - round victories Czechoslovakia defeated Poland 8-2 and Sweden took Finland 9-2.

Other Canadian athletes in action yesterday weren't so fortunate as the Edmonton boys. Their best showing in the men's giant slalom was 34th place, by Bob Richardson of Montreal.

Eriksen's winning time over the 2,300-metre Norefjell course —about 1½ miles—was two minutes, 25 seconds. Richardson's time was 2:48.2.

Christian Pravda of Austria was second behind Eriksen in 2:26.9, and another Austrian ace, Tony Spiess, third in 2:28.8.

After Richardson, in the Canadian placings, came Andre Bertrand of Quebec, 36th; Jack Griffin, Vancouver, 38th, and Gordie Morrison, Banff, Alta., 46th.

Open Amateur, Pro Competition Frowned On By Olympic Officials

By EDWIN C. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Feb. 15—(CP)—Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery started something when he temporarily foresook his military role to advocate open competition between amateurs and professionals at future Olympic games.

With Russia and her state-supported athletes once again to Olympic competition, the sports-loving soldier suggested it might be a good idea to stage the games henceforth with all barriers down. Open competition, he said, might offer a solution to the problem of so-called "shamateurism."

The immediate reaction was prompt and definite.

Thumbs Down

"Nothing doing," said Lord Burghley, president of the International Athletic Federation and executive member of the International Olympic committee.

He saw no objection to amateurs and professionals competing together, provided it was recognized that the latter got their livelihood out of the sport, while for the amateur it was strictly a recreation from his normal job. The Olympic games had been built to their present position on that understanding and it was well to leave things that way.

When the Russians had affiliated with the I. A. A. F., Lord Burghley said they had agreed to abide by the federation's rules banning award of money prizes to amateurs. He had no reason to suspect that they were not honoring that pledge.

"To say that because a handful cheat under the rules it is, therefore, necessary to alter them is surely like saying that because there are burglars, stealing should be made legal," Lord Burghley said.

But Sir Adolphe Abrahams, medical officer to British Olympic teams since 1912, thought the powers that be hadn't gone far enough in their definition of an amateur.

Interpretations contributing to current differences of opinion, he suggested, were based partly on tradition, prejudice and on refusal to accept changes that have occurred in the attitude of society towards sport. It was not enough, he submitted, to say that an amateur must participate solely for pleasure and without material gain of any kind, direct or indirect

Amateur Definition

"This sort of elementary differentiation may have been all very well in the days when the amateur really indulged in sport for its purely recreational advantages and when the difference between amateur and professional was well defined by quality of performance," Sir Adolphe said. "But the elements of achievement have completely eliminated this differentiation and it seems foolish and hypocritical to endeavor to retain the original interpretation when the spirit has so largely disappeared."

Nowadays, an amateur aspiring to supreme athletic distinction was compelled to display as much application as any professional.

What, he asked, was to be said of a young man's status who as a would-be Olympic champion was able to subordinate all else to physical fitness, and employed the services of professional coaches and trainers? Nobody would criticize his subscription to the Olympic oath.

And what about the tennis player whose well-heeled parents expended thousands of dollars developing their offspring into a Wimbledon title-holder. The party concerned would retain amateur standing although within 24 hours of winning the championship he might join the professional ranks and richly capitalize his prowes.

Sir Adolphe said the argument that infringement of rules and regulations applied only to a small minority, was not to the point.

"It is precisely with this small minority that the essential principle is concerned", he added.

Oslo, Feb. 16 — (AP)—Of all the winter Olympic events only figure skating seems to lead to fortune and fame in other fields.

Sonja Henie, winner in 1928, 1932 and 1936, capitalized on her victories in the movie field. Barbara Ann Scott won 1948 and now is on her way to cashing in financially in the entertainment field.

Unquestionably Dick Button, defending champion in the men's competition, could get himself a lucrative snow contract if he so desired. Olympic pairs winners have had no trouble landing engagements as professionals.

It costs plenty of money, however, to develop a top-flight figure skater. One parent of an Olympic competitor put the bill as high as $40,000. Button, a Harvard senior, even has his own private coach here.

Judging of a figure-skating contest is strictly a matter of personal opinion and sometimes it takes hours before the officials come up with the final figures.

It takes a junior Einstein to figure out who won, so intricate is the scoring system. The contestants in the Olympics are requested to execute five compulsory figures, which count 60 per cent Each entry must have at least 10 minutes for each figure.

The free skating, in which a competitor is permitted to select a routine, completes the contest.

Twenty-five women skaters took the ice in Jordal Stadium today for the first of the two-day competition in the compulsory figures with Jeanette Altwegg, England's European champion, the favorite to succeed Miss Scott.

Visiting Rinks Sweep Bonspiel

Kingston, Feb. 16 (CP) —Visiting rinks made a clean sweep of all trophy events at yesterday's seventh annual Kingston Curling Club ladies' bonspiel.

The Ethel McCullagh Memorial Trophy, top prize at the bonspiel, was won by Mrs. Bert Shannette's Brockville rink. They defeated Mrs. J. Rutherford of Kingston 11-10.

Mrs. Rutherford's quartet led 10-7 going into the last end and appeared to have the game well away. But Mrs. Shannette's Brockville ladies came through with a four end to win the championship.

Mrs. H. Grant's Toronto Royal Canadians took the Bigwood Trophy with a 13-3 final over Mrs. A. Putnam of Prescott.

The George Hanson Trophy went to Morrisburg when Mrs. C. Crober's rink downed Mrs. L. Langdon of Kingston 9-5 in the final round.

Peewee Hockey League Scores

Rangers, Black Hawks and Red Wings picked up wins in the PeeWee section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association in games played at the Memorial Arena on Saturday morning. Bruins, Maple Leafs and Canadiens were the victims.

Frank Howard scored a pair of goals for Rangers as they scored a 4-1 win over Bruins in the first encounter. Eric Dies and Bob Follwell completed the scoring with Jack Caddick counting for the losers.

Three goals by Bob Garrison were enough for the Black Hawks to sink the Maple Leafs by a 3-1 score. Laurie Davis notched the only other goal.

Red Wings eked out a narrow win over Canadiens, 3-2, on goals by Richard Young, Jerry Doyle and Mike Colligan with Ron Kellar and Bob Raymond scoring for Canadiens.

Officiating was handled by Harry Rollins and Wally Bent.

More About Poison Sprays

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

Last year, at their summer session in Michigan, the Outdoor Writers' Association of America took official notice of the serious problem concerning herbicides, fungicides, insecticides and rodenticides. These poisons, as you no doubt know, are being used more and more indiscriminately each year.

Recently one of our members, while attending a trade show sponsored by the garden tool and appliance manufacturers, picked up a trade journal of the industry. In a supplement to this journal, which is called the Green Book, are listed all the poison sprays and powders and the firms which manufacture them.

Believe it or not, there is now a grand total of 2,201 of these poisons now on the market and they are manufactured by 233 firms.

Sale Restricted

As explained in an earlier news story on this subject, some of the manufacturers restrict the sale of such poisons to agencies whose employees are trained in their use, thereby minimizing the hazard. For the most part, however, the sale is unrestricted and the products are blatantly advertised.

Since the Outdoor Writers' Association has instituted its all-out campaign against the indiscriminate use of poison sprays, not a few alarming reports have come in. From the Dept. of Conservation of the State of California comes the news that widespread havic is being caused by a spray containing rotenone.

This spray is used on cattle as a protection against the ox warble fly. Our informant reports "serious losses" among the salmon and steelhead of the west coast streams. He goes on to say that rotenone is "under sucpicion" of being the mysterious poison which has caused "uncountable" fish deaths throughout the state.

Marin County, California, has suffered greatly from the poisoning of its streams. Thousands of fish have been found drifting, belly up. An alert warden finally located the cause of the trouble — rotenone. One farmer was arrested.

This started systematic investigations throughout the state. Sure enough, wholesale fish deaths occurred concurrently with seasonal cattle sprayings.

Rotenone, a derivative of derris root, is an active fish poison. When the California Division of Fish and Game wishes to remove undesirable fish from lakes and reservoirs which are being rehabilitated for later stockings of game fish, rotenone is used to do the job.

Potent Materials

To give you an idea of its effectiveness, the state employees use the stuff in an approximate concentrate of one part rotenone to two million parts water. A little of it evidently goes a long way.

It is easy to understand how a strong concentration, such as is used by dairy farmers in spraying cattle, easily can find its way into nearby streams, thereby resulting in, as the state puts it, "tremendous loss of fish life."

It has become the more or less common practice of power companies and highway departments to use herbicides to check weed growth instead of having the job done manually, as it was before we knew of these poison sprays. With wages at the level that they are today, naturally the men who head up these outfits are looking for shortcuts to cut down the payroll.

Have you ever seen a highway where poison spray has been used to check weed growth along its right of way? It isn't pretty. Everything that normally is green turns brown, shrivels up and dies. One of our correspondents labels the process "roadside uglification."

Wisdom Doubtful

It seems to me that such measures are rather unwise when you take the long view of the matter. It must be remembered that power lines pay no attention to contours. They stretch in straight lines across hill and dale always along the shortest distance between two points. Roadside rights of way almost invariably are sloped where the sprays are used.

All right — the spraying crew goes to work and kills off the encroaching weed growth. In due course the roots disintegrate from rot. Then these areas are wide open for soil erosion. It does not take much of that to do damage which will cost more to repair than has been saved on the original spraying operations.

There is a gentleman who is associated with The American Museum of Natural History, Dr. Frank Egler, who is working on a series of experiments which probably will be the eventual answer to powerline and roadside problems.

Not only will his plan make utility rights-of-way natural wildlife sanctuaries, but also it will eliminate the hazard of soil erosion, all through the wise use of herbicides. In addition, the scheme will render long-term maintenance costs lower than any other method.

Studies Vegetation

Dr. Egler's technique is to study the natural vegetation of each area; then the field crews are instructed to spray and eliminate only the species which potentially can grow large enough to be troublesome. The result of such selective treatment is to establish mass growth of native species which not only constitute no eventual threat to the efficiency of the area itself but also is dominant enough to resist any but a very slow invasion of larger woody plants which, of course, are undesirable.

The present method of clearing out all growth serves both as an aid to erosion and paves the way for a rapid reinvasion of the fast-growing undesirable woody species.

As a by-product, the spraying crews are trained men. It does not take much additional instruction for them to be taught to handle their jobs so that they reduce the destruction of wildlife to the absolute minimum.

While it is sometimes difficult to do so, I try to keep an open mind in the matter of poison sprays. Wisely used, they can do and have done much good. Talk to the professionals, who know how to use such poisons properly, and you soon learn that there is a middle course, where the benefit more than outweighs possible damage.

I do feel, however, that both the sale and use of such sprays should be subjected to rigid rules, supported by sound legislation and enforced by governmental agencies.

Of course, politicians being what they are and both state and federal legislatures being what they are, it will take some time for such a system of regulation to be worked out. It is to be sincerely hoped that too much damage will not be done before this comes into being.

Weston's Bread Tops Owl League

Westons Bread finished on top of the Owl League standing by virtue of their 6-3 victory over Boyces in Memorial Arena Thursday night. Westons won seven, lost two with Trudeaus following with five victories, two losses and two ties. Boyces wound up in third place with three wins, five defeats and one tie with Bonn's Garage in fourth place with one win, seven setbacks and one tie.

The top five scorers of the league are Bill Jackson, 30 goals; B. Cannon 21; K. Duesbury 20; Fitzgibbon, 14 and Cook, 11.

The teams go into the playoffs next week with Trudeaus meeting Bonns and Westons clashing with Boyces in a two-game goals-to-count series. The first game will be played Tuesday night and the second on Thursday.

Trophies will be awarded to the winning team, leading goal scorers; the outstanding goalie and the most valuable player.

In Thursday night's game Bill Jackson fired home three Weston goals with Leeming getting a pair, and Fitzgibbon one. Hutchins, Cannon and Lucas scored for the losers.

BUILDING POWERFUL STATION

Washington, Feb. 16 (AP) —The United States Navy says it is building the most powerful radio station in the world to enable the high command to keep in touch with the fleet anywhere around the globe. The 1,000,000-watt station is being erected near Snohomish, Wash. It includes three 200 foot towers built on hilltops flanking a canyon. Antenae are 7,200 feet long.

PLEDGES BLOOD

Austin, Tex., Feb. 16 (AP) —The mother of a pilot killed in Korea has pledged a pint of her blood every eight weeks until she contributes as much as her son gave at his death. Mrs. Daniel Smith gave the first pint of blood to the Red Cross this week. The average amount of blood in the human body is between six and seven quarts. Thus it would take at least 12 donations by Mrs. Daniel to fulfill her pledge or approximately 88 weeks, ending in October, 1953.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday come and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Sunday, February 17

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Most encouraging if you are in right frame of mind and accept your responsibilites as part of civilized life. We have much for which to thank God daily. Pray, work to keep our way.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Look up and ahead for blessings that will continue if we strive and deserve them. Attend religious services and, if you must work, do so cheerfully.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Faith, hope, charity are especially needed in these days of anxiety, and each one of us should practise them all. Each must bear his or her share in any worthy all-out effort.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Today's influences encourage determined efforts for all righteous causes, to thwart the enemies of God and protect our right to serve Him. Home and family interests, urgent work favored.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Pleasant indications. Carry out duties promptly. In free time take part in charitable as well as useful social and family affairs. Pray for those actively fighting for our freedom.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Sort of day you can enjoy fully. Religious services, wholesome entertainment, care of the ill and lonely among top favored. Don't undertake unessential work but do the urgent well.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Read notations to the Zodiacal signs generally now. We can be hopeful of generous benefits this year and in future if we work, pray and do right things as God intended. Keep your sense of humor.

October 24 to November 22—Scorpio—Join your keen mental powers with practical common sense and some imagination for whatever schedule you have this interesting, benefic Sunday. Church first, then other matters in order.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Friendly rays predominate. The tempo you use and the tasks you handle are greatly up to your good sense and the needs of day. Remember your soul's care and family interests.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn) — Same holds for you as for most of us this generally kindly day. The better our thoughts and deeds, the more contentment and achievement we enjoy. Be your co-operative, genial self.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— Some definite requisites for truer peace and real accomplishment. Among them are prayer, dutiful attention to urgent matters and faith in right. Make time for some relaxation, rest.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)— Some excitement and much good evident. Take everything in stride, work and pray for the goals you seek. Being Sunday, attend your church, enjoy recreation and rebuild energy.

YOU BORN TODAY: Friendly, forceful, but can be stubborn. Important you curb restlessness and cultivate steadying consistency of effort for surer achievement. Confidence also a requisite for you folks. Remember those at home before giving outsiders assistance. Your sometimes Bohemian friendliness could result in you being imposed upon by wrong associates. Be scrupulous selecting friends associates. Pray daily for God's guidance. Keep studying, improving, you have fine talents, general capability.

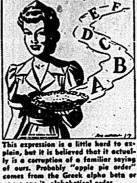
Why We Say--

APPLE PIE ORDER



This expression is a little hard to explain, but it is believed that it actually is a corruption of a familiar saying of ours. Probably "apple pie order" comes from the Greek alpha beta or as we say it, alphabetical order.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was reeding her mail at breakfist, saying, Oh, no thank you.

I beg your pardon? pop said, and ma said, I was mentally refusing an invitation. Have you ever heard me mention Marie Bellflower? she said.

I beleeve not, pop said, and ma said, I'm not serprized, because I hardly knew her myself. I meen we just barely had a nodding acquaintance, and even then we only exchanged very cool nods. And yet here she is calmly inviting us both to her silver anniversary reception, ma said.

It's just a dodge to get you to send her some kind of a silver gift, pop said, and ma said, Of course, but the werst of it is, I'm superstitious about wedding anniversaries, and I feel it would pray on my mind if I didn't send her something. But silver, really, I meen really, she said.

I know a way out, pop said. Write and tell her you're sorry you missed hearing from her on her other anniversaries, so you're starting to catch up by sending her a little bowl of wooden bobby pins for her wooden anniversary, he said, and ma said, No, she expects silver, so it has to be silver. Oh dear, I'll simply have to ignore her invitation and just hope it doesn't pray on my mind, she said.

I have another suggestion, pop said. You know how happy it makes people feel when they find money? Well, write and politely decline her invitation, and slip a silver dime in the letter. Marie Bellflower will think the dime accidently werked its way into the envelope while the letter was coming through the postoffice, and you'll be giving her the rare gift of making her think she found it. Does that silver plate your difficulty? he said, and ma said, William, I'll do it.

By gollies I beleeve you're serious, pop said.

Which she probably is.

Kenora Ready To Celebrate 60th Birthday

Kenora, Ont., (CP)—This year is the 60th anniversary of a legal argument over the Ontario-Manitoba provincial boundary and Kenora, centre of the old dispute, plans a double birthday to celebrate the event.

Formerly known as Rat Portage, the town was incorporated as a Manitoba town in 1882. Ontario disputed the claim and in 1892 the judicial committee of the privy council ruled that the town rightfully came under Ontario jurisdiction.

Thus this northwestern Ontario town marks its 60th anniversary as Rat Portage, Man., and Kenora, Ont. There is plenty of ammunition for a colorful celebration.

At one period in its tangled ancestry, the town had two police forces—one from each province. In 1883, Manitoba sent a small "army" to keep order during the elections.

The town originally got the name of Rat Portage from the muskrat. In 1905 the town's name was changed to Kenora which the residents thought more dignified, using the first two letters of the names Keewatin, Norman and Rat Portage.

BANCROFT

R. C. M. P. Entertain North Hastings Pupils Show Sound Films

Bancroft.—The Royal Canadian Mounted Police were hosts to the students of North Hastings high school and the senior pupils of Bancroft and L'Amable public schools when they showed them moving pictures illustrating the work of the force, in Bancroft Theatre on Tuesday afternoon.

Sgt. W. Gabeau of R.C.M.P. headquarters, Ottawa, and Corporal H. Hancock, of the Belleville detachment, were in charge of the program for the afternoon. Before the pictures, Sgt. Gabeau told briefly the history of the Mounties from their establishment in 1873 until the present day. In his remarks he stressed the fact that the force was one of the agencies that co-operated with the home, school, church and municipal authorities in promoting good citizenship among the young people of Canada.

Sound Films

The sound film aptly illustrated some important events in the story of the R.C.M.P. Starting with the first post at Fort Walsh in southwestern Saskatchewan, in the period just after the first Riel Rebellion, the girls and boys saw how the small body that policed the former Hudson's Bay territories grew into the present efficient organization that operates on land, sea and air from Esquimalt and Lunenburg to Aklavik and King William's Land.

Also included were scenes from the R.C.M.P. training colleges at Regina and Rockcliffe, showing a number of courses that are covered by the new recruits, and stressing the comprehensive training program that includes such varied subjects as equitation, counterfeiting, swimming and cattle brands.

Arrangements for the afternoon were made by Corporal A. F. Grayling of Bancroft detachment O.P.P., and Alexander W. Smith, inspector of public schools, North Hastings inspectorate. Bancroft theatre was donated by manager Gordon Broughton

Dr. Logan's Wife

By Diana Gaines

The gavel finally silenced the unison of shocked protest.

After a reprimand to both men, the chairman recognized Dr. Pelletier.

"I admit," Dr. Pelletier said, having recovered enough calm to lace his tone with venom, "that it is not customary for the committee to pass on the people I choose to employ. Normally, I'd take on Dr. Surinov without consulting anyone—except perhaps the superintendent himself. Unfortunately, Mr. Cota's judgment no longer seems valid to me. His personal animosities go beyond logic, beyond reason, beyond the interests of the hospital and the wider interests of science and humanity."

"You're the one that's biased!" Cota interrupted. "You're the commie-lover. . ."

The gavel chopped through the babel of angry voices.

"Please remember," the chairman admonished, "that while this isn't a court of law, neither is it a back fence." There is nothing that offends medical men more than a breach of public dignity. This was perhaps the reminder that the chairman meant to convey when he added in phrasing somewhat confused by indignation "at least we expect doctors to be gentlemen."

Cota, the only lay person in the room, turned a shade darker. The wall was up again. Not one of the boys. The outsider of whom gentlemanliness was not expected.

He spoke to himself out of a great inward quiet. "Nothing is expected of me. Nobody cares what I do. I don't have to do anything." He realized he was still on his feet. He sat down.

". . . Dr. Surinov's loyalty is now beyond question," the chairman was saying. "But the reason for his dismissal from Angels was his defacement of the oath. Can you assure us, Dr. Pelletier, that Dr. Surinov is prepared to sign an unequivocal oath at this time?"

"I can assure the committee of that," Dr. Pelletier replied. "Although he has scruples against test oaths, he is willing to do anything that will restore him to his work. I have his word that he'll sign."

The chairman shrugged. "Then I see no need for further argument. The government wants to give Angels a large grant of money for a research project which may make our hospital famous—to say nothing of benefiting humanity. Dr. Surinov seems to be the man needed for the job not only because he's trained and available but because it's his idea. Let's not carry the matter of personalities too far."

"Mr. Chairman," Maxwell Cota said, getting to his feet slowly. He squared his shoulders, adding what he could to the stature that had been his first defeat. The black birdlike eyes darted around the table of men among whom he had no vote and among whom now he felt he had no face. Blinkingly, because the unrelenting light could publish his tears, he said, "it is obvious to me that I have lost the confidence of this committee. If the vote on this matter overrules my conscientious judgment which for 10 years has served this hospital in good stead, I shall feel to tender my resignation."

obliged to tender my resignation."

cape the wooden arm of his chair, Maxwell Cota turned and walked the length of the back of the men, his own back stiff as if there were a horse between his high, digging heels.

Peter reached for the phone. Jennet turned on her side, ran her fingers down his pajammed back.

"Oh, hi Walter," Peter said. "How are you?"

Her fingers ceased their idle provocation, stiffened at the heraldic note in Peter's voice. "Cleared? No! They did? Tonight? No kidding? . . Unanimous vote—oh, Walter. . .What about Cota? . . Resigned? Oh, wonderful, in fact, hooray! Walter, I can't believe it. . .I can start tomorrow, yesterday. . .Oh sure, I know they'll release me—I took the job with that understanding . . .No, nonsense, who wants to sleep? Come on by, we'll have a drink. Celebrate. I want to hear the details, every word, and I want to see that blessed letter. . .Swell! We'll expect you in 15 minutes."

Jennet grabbed the receiver sang into it. "Walter, you angel! We'll never be able to thank you. Hurry over!"

Her bones cracked in Peter's embrace.

"I'm so glad, my darling, so glad," she murmured over and over.

When he could release her, he flung himself back across the bed, his hands under his head, his eyes roaming the ceiling as triumphantly as if it were sky. Jennet sat with her feet tucked under the small of his back, hugging her knees.

They spoke in ellipsis, reiterpreting the future, salting the relief by reminding each other of the pain savoring the joy of their wellwishers—Peter's parents, Fred, Stella.

They fell silent, their thoughts turned loose to pasture.

Jennet's eyes after a long stare into space, came back to Peter, and it was a shock to her to find his face set in grim lines, his eyes gone hard.

"Penny!" she demanded.

He looked up at her, and his smile was cold as rime.

"I was just thinking," he said "all this rejoicing over exoneration from a crime I didn't commit and wasn't even accused of. It gives a guy pause."

PICTON

Chief B. Biddle Tendered Surprise On 74th Birthday

Picton—County and police officials and friends of Chief of Police Bert Biddle tendered him a surprise on the occasion of his 74th birthday, Tuesday afternoon. After the popular chief had directed traffic while school children crossed the street, he was whisked away to the county buildings where county officials, members of the police force, and members of the legal profession were waiting.

F. L. Ward, K.C., asking the chief to stand before him, read the "charge", a celebration of a 74th birthday. Crown Attorney G. T. Walmsley then expressed the good wishes of those assembled. He recalled six such occasions, when the chief's birthday had been similarly marked. He admonished the chief not to work too hard, and remarked that he did not think there is any community in which the chief of police is held in such high regard as in Picton.

His Honor Judge W. S. Lane had some interesting reminiscences concerning Chief Biddle. He referred to the contribution made to the life of the town by Mr. Biddle, and especially to the chief's guidance of school children across the street in the morning, at noon and late afternoon. His honor made the presentation of a handsome silver tray as a memento of good wishes. The chief, almost overcome by this evidence of friendship, and surprise, was able to voice his appreciation in a few words.

On Job Daily

Chief Biddle is on the job daily. He has been on the force since July 1918 and it has been 34 years of law and order. He does not recall any outstanding personal incident of those years but important cases are still fresh in his mind and he has an interesting collection of mementos. Making no outward show of authority, he finds persuasion more effective than coercion. Everyone holds him in the greatest respect.

When Chief Biddle was appointed, his salary was $800 per year, and the notice of the meeting added: "Mr. Biddle to collect the taxes, without extra emolument."

Born in Kingston, Chief Biddle was left motherless at the age of ten. He came to Picton to make his home with his step-grandfather, Dr. Henry Evans. Some of his early life was spent on the farm before he joined Hog and Lytle Ltd. mill. He was employed there when, in 1918, the late James J. Shepard resigned as night policeman and sanitary inspector. Bert Biddle applied for the job and was accepted as chief of the two-man force—a day man and a night man.

Known as Friend

Hundreds of children know him as a friend of mellow kindliness. The aged know him as a sympathetic friend who is always willing to listen to their troubles and help when needed. It is he who usually takes charge when there is a funeral to be arranged and there are no dependents, or when special need arises. He is a regular visitor to the County Home for the Aged and to the homes of elderly people. He has always shown a special interest in war veterans, and when the small park at the war memorial presented a poor appearance, he took charge, without remuneration. It is he who lowers or raises the flag there when occasion necessitates. Recognizing his great interest, Branch 78 of the Canadian Legion made him an Honorary Member. "He goes about doing good," one merchant commented.

Chief Biddle is still in good health and has no thought of retiring. When such an occasion does arise, it will mean the severing of a link which has been an important one.

HAD WARM TIME

Toronto, Feb. 16 (CP)—Seven-year-old George Baker ran down the main street of suburban Willowdale Thursday, near hysteria from fright because a jammed zipper prevented him from removing a burning windbreaker from his back. The boy was saved from serious injury by Capt. Charles Dawson, a passing fireman who pulled the smoking jacket from the boy's back. The boy said he put the jacket on the stove when he went home for lunch. He was unaware when he put it back on that the quilting in it had begun to smoulder.

GUARD HEADQUARTERS

Bonn, Germany, Feb. 16 (Reuters) — A detachment of United States Marines yesterday took over guard duties at the headquarters of John J. McCloy, American high commissioner for Germany, at nearby Mehlem. The change from army guards was a move toward the embassy status the commission will assume when a peace treaty with Germany ends the Allied occupation. Marines guard all U.S. diplomatic missions abroad.

L.O. Breithaupt Sworn In As Lieut.-Governor

Relatives, Guests, Cabinet Ministers View Ceremony

LORD ALEXANDER

Governor-General of Canada for the past six years bids fond farewell as he returns to Britain to become defence minister in the Churchill cabinet.

Toronto, Feb. 18—(CP)—Louis O. Breithaupt 61-year-old Kitchener manufacturer, was sworn in today as Lieutenant-governor of Ontario. He succeeds Hon. Ray Lawson.

The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice R. S. Robertson in the cabinet chamber, in the presence of relatives, guests and cabinet members.

The new lieutenant-governor was escorted from his suite in the parliament buildings to the cabinet chamber by the clerk of the cabinet. Mr. Breithaupt presented his royal commission of appointment and then took the oath.

The lieutenant-governor then was handed the great seal of the province. He examined the seal and returned it to the provincial secretary, Arthur Welsh, for safe keeping.

In an additional ceremony, Chief Justice Robertson and Reform Institutions Minister Foote took the oath of allegiance to the new Queen.

Mr. Briethoupt will open the first session of Ontario's 24th legislature Thursday and read the Speech from the Throne.

He was formerly Liberal member of parliament for Waterloo North. His first political office was a Kitchener alderman in 1919. At the age of 32 he became the youngest mayor in Kitchener's history.

THIRTY PIGS BURNED

Oshawa, Feb. 18 (CP)—Thirty pigs, a tractor, tons of hay and a calf were lost in a fire that destroyed a barn on the farm of Dean Pickel, four miles west of here. Farmers and Bowmanville firemen fought the weekend blaze in vain.

Queen Wants All Functions To Take Place Despite Period Of Mourning for King George

London, Feb. 18—(AP)— The Queen wants public functions connected with Britain's government, trade, charity or arts to take place as scheduled despite mourning for her father, King George VI.

The announcement of this by the Lord Chamberlain's office said, however, that "Holding of other functions must be left to the discretion of the organizers who may wish to allow a week or two to elapse before recommending arrangements."

A statement issued by Queen Mother Elizabeth yesterday expressed thanks for the "Wonderful tributes" to her husband and asked "Loyalty and devotion" for their daughter the Queen.

"In the great and lonely station to which she has been called, she will need your protection and your love," the statement, issued from Buckingham Palace, said.

"Throughout our married life we have tried, the King and I, to fulfill with all our hearts and all our strength the great task of service that was laid upon us. My only wish now is that I may be allowed to continue the work we sought to do together," the elder Elizabeth said.

With the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh, the Queen Mother and Princess Margaret spent the weekend at Windsor Castle, where King George was buried Friday. Yesterday they attended a memorial service for him in the private chapel adjoining the Royal Lodge.

As the Royal Family prayed, memorial services were held in great cathedrals and tiny village churches throughout Britain.

A line of mourners filed past St. George's Chapel, where the King was buried Friday, to pay homage in the drizzling rain.

Queen Mary, whose 84 years kept her from joining in the funeral cortege, remained at Marlborough House in London.

Windsor Castle officials yesterday opened the grounds to the people after dark so that they might see the multi-colored flowers and wreaths on the ground outside the chapel by floodlight. The grounds will remain open to the public today. The pilgrimage is expected to last several days.

It was estimated that nearly 150,000 persons saw the floral tributes Saturday. Nearly 10,000 were turned away at dusk.

Britain to Test New Atomic Weapon, More Efficient Than Any Made in U.S.

London, Feb. 18—(CP)—Britain announced today she will detonate an atomic weapon for the first time this year. Her experts are reported to believe that it is more efficient than any yet produced in the United States.

The probable date of the test will be September or early October.

The test, a government announcement said, will be held in Australia—presumably on the Woomera rocket range in the isolated central desert.

Qualified sources reported scientists who worked on development of the atom weapon are convinced it is the best yet constructed—though not necessarily more powerful.

It will be detonated by an entirely new mechanism, the same sources said. The government announcement early today referred only to the forthcoming tests, at an unspecified date, on an "atomic weapon." All other information was withheld.

There was immediate speculation whether the weapon was a bomb, shellhead or some other atomic device whose explosions could be controled and which could be controlled and which grounds troops to pulverize spectargets rather than large cityarific targets rather than large city areas.

Chapman Pincher, the usually wel-informed Daily Express science reporter, said, however, "the weapon will almost certainly be a high-powered atomic bomb designed for use by aircraft."

The principal designer of the weapon is Dr. William Penney, 42, chief superintendent or armament research. Asked if the weapon is a bomb, he replied only, "draw your own conclusions."

The 1,200-mile Woomera range, developed jointly by Britain and Australia, is nearly 300 miles from the nearest city. Its aridity minimizes the possibility of radioactive contamination being spread by rain clouds.

Britain has been making plutonium—the material used for the U. S. bomb dropped on Nagasaki and tested on Bikini Island in the Pacific—at a plant in Sellafield, on the northwest coast, for more than a year. But there has been no extraction plant. The government announcement indicated such a plant either now is in operation or soon will be.

BRIG. ROCKINGHAM IS COMING HOME FOR DEFENCE POST

Will be Placed At Headquarters

Ottawa, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Brig. John M. Rockingham, 41, C.B.E., D.S.O., the big, tough fighting man who commands Canada's 25th Brigade in Korea, is coming home to a job at defence headquarters.

The army announced today that the man whose brigade calls itself "Rocky's Army" will return to Canada in the spring to become director-general of military training for the army. The appointment means the army's training schools will soon be learning the lessons of Korea from a top authority.

One of the most colorful soldiers Canada has produced, Brig. Rockingham will turn over his brigade to Brig. M. P. (Pat) Bogert, D.S.O., O.B.E., 43, a native of Toronto who will simply swap jobs with him.

Quiet, friendly and efficient, Brig. Bogert is a soldier with an excellent fighting record, too. He commanded the West Nova Scotia Regiment and later the 2nd Brigade with the 1st Division in Italy. He's not the dynamic type Rockingham is but among soldiers who fought under him there will be no doubt that the 25th Brigade is passing into good hands.

$35,000 Fire Loss

Hull, Que., Feb. 18 — (CP)—A two-alarm fire broke out today on Hull's main street, causing damage estimated at $35,000 to the Rocheleau block, housing a drug store, a restaurant and four apartments. At least 10 persons were left homeless.

Adjoining property suffering smoke and water damage included a Woolworth's store, a women's wear shop, a furniture store and an insurance office. There were no injuries.

RELIEVE CONGESTION

Richmond Hill, Feb. 18. (CP)—School children in this village just north of Toronto don't necessarily go to school for their education. The public school board decided to relieve schoolroom congestion by opening classes in the community library, the Masonic Hall and a 100-year-old school building four miles north of here.

QUADRUPLET LAMBS

Meaford, Feb. 18. (CP)—Quadruplet lambs are causing a sensation in livestock circles in this district. The four lambs, all in perfect condition, were born of a ewe on the farm of George Ellis, of St. Vincent township. Meaford is 50 miles northwest of Barrie.

Vincent Massey

The recently appointed Governor-General for Canada arrived at Trenton main station Sunday morning and proceeded to his home in Port Hope. He will be sworn in at Ottawa on February 28th previous to the opening of parliament.

Massey Says King's Death Had More Than Fleeting Effect On Problems In The World

Trenton, Ont., Feb. 17. (CP)—Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey said yesterday that he believed the death of the King had more than a fleeting effect on many world problems.

Canada's governor-general designate, who arrived here in a special R.C.A.F. plane from London yesterday—the day Viscount Alexander, his predecessor, left—said the sudden ending of so great and good a life had suspended controversies at many points throughout the world.

"I really think that many men of many conflicting views realized that an example of greatness and goodness had been given them by their sudden realization of the man who was gone," Mr. Massey told a press conference. "The world was impressed, and for the world's benefit, I think."

Mr. Massey's plane left London Saturday it paused at Lisbon to drop off External Affairs Minister Pearson and Defence Minister Claxton for the North Atlantic Treaty organization conference.

Buffeted by High Winds

Buffeted by adverse winds all the way from the Azores to Gander, Nfld., the plane arrived two hours and 11 minutes late. Mr. Massey was greeted by Health Minister Martin on behalf of the federal government.

Accompanying him to Canada on the plane were General H. D. G. Crerar, who attended the King's funeral, and Air Vice Marshal Hugh Campbell, representative of the joint chiefs of staff for Canada at the N.A.T.O. offices in Washington.

Last night Mr. Massey spoke by telephone to Viscount Alexander, who was in Halifax on his way home to take office as Britain's Defence Minister. Mr. Massey said later that they extended best wishes to each other in their future undertakings.

Asked at the Trenton press conference whether it could be expected that a chatelaine would assume the duties of hostess at Rideau Hall, the Governor-General's residence in Ottawa, Mr. Massay grinned:

"Please don't ask me such a question. I really can't answer."

Mr. Massey, who will be Canada's first native-born governor-general, said he planned to stay at Batterwood, his home near Port Hope, Ont., until Feb. 27. He said he would go to Ottawa that night for the official installation ceremonies Feb. 28.

Three Canadian Girls Arrive In Mexico by Plane

Mexico City, Feb. 18 (Reuters)—After a 3,500-mile flight from Ottawa to Mexico in a single-engine plane, three Canadian girls arrived here Saturday convinced it costs less to fly your own plane than it does to take a trip by auto.

In their trip, which took them down the east coast of the United States and across the southern U.S. over Louisiana and Texas, en route to Mexico City, their total expense for fuel, hangar space and landing fees was only $40, they said.

When the trio left Ottawa, sub-zero weather had grounded commercial air liners, but after passing Elmira, N.Y., they met no more difficult weather.

The three are Margaret Carso, who last summer won the U.S. International Women's Air Race, Irene Orton and Mrs. Irene Knowlton, all of Ottawa.

Pretty Young Blonde Admits Killing Husband

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 18. (AP)—A pretty young blond told police she shot and killed her army officer husband last night during an argument over aid her wealthy parents gave them.

Mrs. Richard O. Parsons, 22, said her husband contended her parents had done too much for them "in every way".

"I went to a closet in the bedroom and got my gun. . . I put the gun to his head and pulled the trigger twice," she said in a statement.

The slaying of the 24-year-old lieutenant occurred in the couple's apartment Saturday morning, but Mrs. Parsons didn't surrender until that night.

The woman said that from the time she shot him until she surrendered she chatted in her living room with a neighbor, visited a neighbor, went to a nearby grocery for a magazine to read and then phoned her parents in Tulsa.

THE ALEXANDERS LEAVE SECOND HOME FOR BRITAIN

Family Spent Six Happy Years in Canada

Halifax, Feb. 18—(CP)— The Alexanders, a wonderful English family who loved Canada and was loved in return, sailed last night into the cold Atlantic with a soft snow beating against their backs.

Viscount Alexander returned to Britain and the big job as defence minister as the most popular and understanding governor - general in Canada's history.

Canadians admired his reserved but open manner, the way he did things, and perhaps most of all, the wholesome, solid scene that surrounded his family life.

Here, they said, was a man who likes Canadians.

He skied on the Gatineau country's gentle slopes, painted Canadian scenes, sloshed about Winnipeg's flood waters, shinnied down a brass fire station pole and won his air force wings.

Canadian-Built Ships Seized By Communists

Hong Kong, Feb. 18 (CP) — Four Canadian-built ships, for which a Chinese company owes Canadian banks a multi-million dollar debt, were reported today to have been taken over by Chinese communists.

The independent newspaper Wah Kiu Yat Po said the four ships have been commandeered by the communists at Canton and partially dismantled.

The ships are part of a group of seven vessels built in Canada after the Second World War for the Ming Sung Company, a Chinese trading firm, with loans backed by the Chinese Nationalist government and the Canadian government.

Last October, the crews of the seven ships, which then were flying the Canadian flag, were reported to have taken them upriver to communist territory apparently as a result of fear that Canada would seize the vessels for payment of the $12,000,000 debt.

Operation of the ships under the Canadian flag in communist trade was an issue in Canada's parliament a year ago when Progressive Conservatives charged the vessels were carrying strategic materials to red China.

Canadian registration of the ships was revoked and the banks have started legal proceedings against the Ming Sung interests for payment of the government-backed loan.

Singing Star Gracie Fields Weds Radio Repairman at Capri, Italy

Capri, Italy, Feb. 18 (Reuters)—Singing star Gracie Fields and Boris Alperovic were married here today.

The couple were quietly married in St. Stephen's Cathedral.

For Gracie, 54, it was the third marriage. Alperovic, who was born in Romanian Bessarabia, is 48. It was his first marriage.

The wedding was celebrated at 12:07 P.M., (6:07 A.M. EST) shortly after the couple's return from Rome earlier today.

The church was thronged with people of Capri, who had met the couple at the dock 1½ hours earlier and accompanied them to the church.

They had gone to Rome Thursday night amidst rumors of a rift in their romance. Gracie was indignant that reporters and photographers were waiting for her at the station there.

"I won't say anything," she said angrily.

The next day she gaily reported "Everything is perfect" and explained she came to Rome "To do a little shopping."

Gracie was dressed in her favorite color—purple; Boris wore a grey suit.

As Gracie and Boris, the island's radio repairman, left the church, they were immediately the centre of congratulations and cheers.

Irrepressible Gracie had summoned her friends to her "Canzone Del Mare" villa here last Dec. 26 to announce:

"I'm in love, love." Then she introduced Alperovic as her husband-to-be. He has lived here for 20 years.

A broken radio set brought them together, she said.

The 48-year-old groom described his romance with Gracie as "Three-dimensional—spiritual, romantic and affectionate."

Gracie's first two husbands were actors. She divorced her first, the late Archie Pitt, in 1940. Her second, Italian-born Monty Banks (Mario Bianchi), died in her arms in August, 1950.

She and Boris obtained a special dispensation from Rome for the marriage. She had hoped to become a Roman Catholic before the wedding but later changed her mind and said she would enter the church after the nuptials.

Walkout Called Sunday Night, Picket Lines Form

Company Cannot Afford To Meet Terms Says Sale

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 18 — (CP) — Nine thousand production workers are on strike at the big plant of the Ford Motor Company of Canada.

The United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) called the walkout last night to enforce demands for items it wants included in a new contract. Its Canadian director, George Burt, said it was "forced" out on strike.

The company, in a statement by its president, Rhys Sale, said the price the union asked in return for industrial peace was greater than the firm felt it could afford to pay. It accused the union of calling the strike over "fringe monetary demands" after agreement had been reached on all non-monetary provisions of a proposed contract and on principal money matters.

Picket lines were set up as soon as the 10 p.m. deadline was reached. Few night-shift workers showed up, apparently, because most employees had little hope that a last-minute negotiating session by company and union negotiators and Labor Minister Daley of Ontario would result in agreement.

The union agreed to keep the Ford power plant open. It was closed during a 12-day wildcat walkout last December and extensive damage was caused to the factory by severe weather.

The strike came as a climax to a dispute that started 11 months ago with the launching of talks on a contract to replace one with an expiry date of June, 1951. A conciliation board report in December left the disputants still far apart. Nor could negotiating sessions in Toronto and Windsor during the last several weeks bring about a settlement.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Feb. 18. (CP)—Synopsis— Although some cloudiness persists in eastern. counties, the weather is generally clear over Ontario this morning.

The disturbance that moved up the Atlantic coast on Sunday causing light snowfalls over Eastern Ontario has developed into an intense storm. It caused heavy gales and snowfalls of up to 12 inches over the northeastern United States during the past 24 hours. This morning the storm is moving towards the Maritimes and is causing blizzard conditions over the Maritime provinces.

The weather over Ontario will be generally sunny and colder today and Tuesday. Another storm moving eastward from Colorado will bring increasing cloudiness to southwestern Ontario late Tuesday to be followed on Wednesday by snow and rain.

Night-Riding Floggings Abate With 10 Arrests

Whiteville, N.C., Feb. 18 (AP)—Tension of night-riding floggings in this section abated yesterday following arrest Saturday of 10 former Klu Klux Klansmen on charges of kidnapping and violating civil rights.

Columbus County Sherif Hugh Nance said "The atmosphere is greatly improved."

Nance said "It seems far from likely there will be any more mob violence in the immediate future."

For the first time in months, many of the county's residents spent a restful night Saturday night, unafraid that a knock on the door would result in their being lured away and flogged.

At least 11 persons, white and negro, were flogged during the last year. Most of the beatings occurred during the last few months.

Saturday, the F.B.I., after working quietly on the case since last October, moved swiftly and arrested 10 men. They were accused of taking a white man and woman into Horry County, S.C., and flogging them the night of Oct. 6. The victims were identified as Mrs. Dorothy Dillard Martin, 27, and Ben Grainger, 40 both of Fair Bluff.

The 10 men, including two officers, appeared Saturday at Fayetteville before U.S. Commissioner T. L. Hon and posted $5,000 bond each. They will be given a hearing Feb. 26.

The men were identified as: Early L. Brooks, 44, a constable and described by the F.B.I. as head of the Fair Bluff Klavern; Horace Strickland, 38, deputy sheriff and former policeman at Fair Bluff, Bobby Brooks, 19, Rosss Enzor, 43; L. C. Worley, 25; Bob Hayes, 38; Pittman Foy Strickland, 29; George Miller, 18; Sherwood Miller, 26; and Steve Edmund, 26.

In Louisburg, Charles P. Green U.S. District Attorney for Eastern North Carolina, said yesterday he will not ask for the death penalty against the 10 men. He added that he hopes to bring them to trial, probably at Fayetteville, on March 17.

Solomon Sero Found Dead Along Highway

Found by a passing motorist who saw an object lying in the snow at the side of the highway, the body of Solomon Sero, 58, of the Mohawk Indian Reservation, was discovered Sunday evening a mile east of Marysville.

Provincial police were notified and Bush's Ambulance was called, but the man was pronounced dead on his arrival at Belleville General Hospital.

Police at first believed the man may have been struck by a car but this was later discounted and it is believed Sero died as result of a heart attack as he was walking along the highway. A post mortem on the body was conducted this morning.

Sero was well known in the Deseronto area where he had lived all his life. He was unmarried.

Frantic Barking of Spaniel Credited With Saving Lives Of Five Persons in Apartment

The frantic barking of an English cocker spaniel is credited with saving the lives of five persons in a third floor apartment here after midnight Saturday when they awoke to find their hallway ablaze.

The blaze forced eight persons to the street until firemen were able to bring the blaze under control. Damage was estimated at about $1,000.

The fire took place in the hallway outside the apartment of Mr. and Mrs. George Hammett, 17 Bridge Street, East. Also living in the apartment were the Hammett's daughter, Mrs. Thomas McCracken, her husband, and small daughter Barbara.

In another apartment on the same floor lived Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Andrews, and Mr. Andrews' mother. All eight persons were forced to the street.

The fire started in a small alcove at the top of the stairway and spread through a doorway into the hall of the Hammett apartment. Barking of the dog woke the McCracken's who phoned in the alarm and woke other persons on the floor.

"Firemen told us that in another five minutes it would have been too late to save our daughter, who was sleeping in a room across the hallway," Mrs. McCracken said.

The heat from the blaze blistered paint and charred wallpaper the entire length of the hall. Firemen controlled the blaze with water from a booster tank.

Family regulations in the McCracken apartment previously ruled that "Laddie" the pet spaniel could not sleep on the bed. But that is all changed now.

"Laddie can sleep anywhere he wants to now", said the grateful father.

News of Trenton

Police Gun Bullets Fail To Stop Stirling Resident, Captured Later in Woods

Trenton — (Special) — A hail of police bullets and the prospect of being instantly killed on the high C.P.R. railroad bridge over the Trent River failed to stop a Stirling man fleeing from the two officers of the law on Sunday morning. A determined police sergeant and constable however got their man eight miles away and some hours later.

Trenton police are holding Arthur Delbert Ashley, 31, of Stirling and Frank Ventrcek, of Batawa on charges of breaking and entering and theft and they will appear in court on Tuesday.

At 4.45 a. m. on Sunday Sgt. W. Youmans and Constable Bruce Westfall were in the cruiser on patrol on Kidd Avenue near the C. P. R. station. They observed two men near the station platform each carrying a large box.

Started to Run

As the officers swung up to the platform to check the men they dropped both boxes and started to run. Ventrcek was caught by Constable Westfall almost in his tracks but the other man made off across the fields. The constable with revolver in hand gave chase following the tracks in the snow. He fired several shots over the fleeing man's head but instead of stopping the man moved faster. The constable traced his footprints through the Canadian Tar and Chemical yards and to the east end of the C. P. R. overhead bridge where they continued in the snow on the ties.

Caught Man in Woods

The constable not knowing what minute a train would trap him on the bridge decided to return to the patrol car and pick up the tracks on the west side of the river.

Ventrcek was jailed and the officers took up the chase again. More of the hunted man's tracks were picked up north of Trenton and the police were hot on the trail again.

Finally Sergt. Youmans and Constable Westfall caught up with their man in the woods between Frankford and Wooler. In the meantime Provincial Police officers L. McLeod and I. Tinkess and Detective - Sergeant R. J. Rutherford of Trenton were assisting in the hunt.

Earlier the Trenton Armouries had been entered by thieves who forced a washroom window at the rear of the building. Locks and doors in the Sergeants' Mess had been smashed and 21 quarts of whiskey, some ginger ale and beer and cigarettes along with $12. in cash had been stolen. The thieves were using boxes to carry away their loot.

Car Hits Train Trio Injured At Trenton

Trenton — (Special)— Three persons were injured in a car that was hit by an eastbound C.P.R. freight train on Saturday night at the West Street level crossing west of the Trenton C.P.R. station.

In hospital with shock and injureis are: the driver of the car, Collins Birt, 32, of 69 Delaney Street, Trenton, fractured leg and lacerations; Mrs. Marion Rupert, 35 of R.R. 7, Trenton, lacerations leg and face, and her 13-year-old son, Kenneth Rupert lacerations of the forehead.

The train had slowed down at the approach to the station but dragged the car with the occupants inside 150 feet along the right-of-way. Front and both sides of the car were crushed and damage was estimated at $1,400.

Marks on the roadway indicated that the car skidded 27 feet before the impact. Three persons heard the train whistle before they heard the crash.

The train was travelling east while the car was proceeding north.

Mr. Birt works at the Thompson Wholesale and Mrs. Rupert is employed at the Theatre Bar.

Police figure the three would have been killed if the freight had been moving at the regular rate of speed.

Four Persons Go to Hospital After Car Skids

Trenton—(Special)—Four out-of-town people were taken to the Trenton Memorial Hospital on Sunday when the car in which they were riding skidded and left the roadway, crashing a hydro pole on Dundas Street across from Senator W. A. Fraser's residence.

Shaken but not seriously injured were: driver Leslie Bedwell, 33, of Listowel, his mother, Mrs. Horace Bedwell, of Atwood, Mrs. Nelson Cowan of Atwood, and Jack Cooper of Atwood.

Police reported that the Bedwell car, travelling east, skidded on the wet packed snow when slowing up for a car ahead. It went into a spin and cut off the hydro pole.

Wires fell across the roadway and held up traffic before they were cleared. An ambulance conveyed the injured to hospital.

Car is Stolen, Youths Arrested

Trenton—(Special) — Trenton police arrested two teen-agers with a stolen car for Belleville provincial police yesterday.

O.P.P. reported a car from Plainfield had been stolen and requested local authorities to pick it up if located.

Constables Wilfred Jeffrey and Max Gainforth on cruiser patrol yesterday spotted the car on Dundas Street east. They apprehended Fred Scott, 16, of Plainfield and William Bannister, 16 of Corbyville as they left a restaurant and were about to enter the stolen car.

J. Raymond Carr, Superintendent Of C.N.R., Dies

James Raymond Carr, C. N. R. superintendent of the Belleville division, former alderman of the city, veteran and prominent in sports and social life, died in the Belleville General Hospital early Sunday morning following a major operation on Wednesday. In the death of Mr. Carr, who is a native of this city, the community lost one, who was active in all civic projects and who enjoyed the respects of a wide circle of friends in railway life.

Mr. Carr served his country in the First World War with the 26th Field Battery, was wounded overseas but was able to resume his work with the railway after his discharge in 1918. On resumption of his civil occupation he took an active interest in sport and for many years was an official of the Central Ontario Baseball League, when the Grand Trunks were cutting a wide swath in baseball circles in the province. He took an active interest in civic administration and was elected an alderman of the city in 1938 but was forced to resign the next year, when he was given a promotion with the railway.

Entire Life to Railway

He gave his entire life with the exception of time overseas to the railway. He started his railway career with the C. N. R. in this city in 1910 as a trainman and was soon classed as a conductor. When war was declared he joined with the battery and on return home again entered the service. In 1939 he was sent to London as a conductor and shortly afterward was transferred to Brantford as trainmaster. He held the same position in Gravenhurst and then was sent to Black Rock, N. Y., as assistant superintendent. Following this he spent some time at Allendale as assistant superintendent and then was promoted to superintendent with headquarters at Capreol. From Capreol he went back to Allendale as superintendent and then to Montreal as superintendent of the St. Lawrence division and finally one year ago was moved back to where he started his service as superintendent. Since coming here he has endeared himself to the officials and men under his direction and his death will be sincerely regretted.

The late Mr. Carr was born in Belleville, 59 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Carr. He was an active member of Christ Church and fraternally was identified with Moira Lodge A. F. & A. M. No. 11, the Order of Railway Conductors and the Association of Railway Superintendents of America. He was also a member of the Rotary Club and the Toronto and Montreal Railway Clubs.

Surviving are his wife, the former Sarah Hunter, one son, Captain Douglas Raymond Carr of the R. C. H. A. at Picton, two daughters, Mrs. Leslie (Florence) Lennox and Mrs. Norman P. (Dorothy) Brown, both of this city.

Resting at the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Home, Everett Street, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

Red Cross Quota Here $20,000 City Asked to Raise $13,000

Strong organizations stemming from the parent committee in Belleville are being set up in order to make the city and district Red Cross "blitz" scheduled for March 11th the success it was last year, campaign officials said today.

Campaign Chairman Alan Sprague working in conjunction with general committee chairman Judge J. C. Anderson said the sub-organizations are being established in Picton, Wellington, Bloomfield in Prince Edward County and Trenton, Frankford, Batawa, Trenton RCAF, Stirling, Marmora, Tweed, Madoc etc., in Hastings County.

The quota allotted to Belleville and district is $20,000. Of this amount the city of Belleville will be asked to raise $13,000. The combined counties of Hastings and Prince Edward will be requested to raise the remainder.

County Makes Contribution

The Hastings County Council has made the first step in general contributions, the county council contributing the amount of $650.

Profiting by the successful experience of Judge Anderson who inaugurated the "blitz" system of lightning fund-raising here last year, this year's committee is making even stronger organization efforts to make the "one-night" drive a success.

In conjunction with this a special names has been appointed and will get under way this week.

During this month the Canadian Red Cross Society is asking $5,222,000 from the Canadian public to continue work for the improvement of health, the prevention of disease and the relief of human suffering in 1952. This sum represents an increase of 4.4 per cent over the campaign objective of 1951. The Belleville and district quota has been increased commensurately with that of the national figure.

JUDGE J. C. ANDERSON

While costs of operation in all fields of Canadian business have continued to soar over the past years to a present high unparalleled in history, the Red Cross has battled consistently to keep its costs down, to avoid asking for more than the $5,000,000 which the public has become accustomed to accept as necessary for the operation of Red Cross services.

But now, despite the strictest of economy the society is forced to ask for more. The $5,222,000 figure represents the absolute minimum required to carry on existing services in 1952.

The Hon. Leopold Macaulay, chairman of the Red Cross Central Council said, "If our thousands of volunteer canvassers can attain this objective, the society can struggle through the present year. If not, we will have to do what we have always tried to avoid—curtail essential services."

The Belleville Red Cross committee feels that this city and district will maintain its proud record of never letting a humanitarian cause "down". Residents here have seen and experienced the work of the Red Cross in home, plant and minor disaster. They know what the Red Cross is doing, has done and what it will do in the face of emergency, and knowing this, it is confidently anticipated by committee officials that the 1952 quota will be subscribed.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 18 — (CP) — Sharply weakening mid-session support today dropped early afternoon stock market prices abruptly.

Trading weakened as the session progressed. A few penny golds, western oils and selected base metals attracted speculative interest while industrial dealings were mainly in leading issues. Volume for the first three hours was 1,545,000 shares.

Papers, constructions, steels and refining oils led industrials lower while utilities, agricultures, liquors and textiles weakened steadily, banks bucked the trend with a scattered list of fractional gains.

Western oil losses ranged from pennies to about 75 cents. Calvan Consolidated, Canada Southern Oil, Canadian Williston, Gridoil, Pacific Petroleum and Superior were among the heaviest losers.

Base metal leaders weakened abruptly. Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, Labrador, Noranda and Waite Amulet traded lower.

Orange Hall Mortgage Burned At Fitting Ceremony With Many Notables in Attendance

A six-year objective on the part of members of Benjamin L.O.L. No. 274, was realized last week, when in the presence of ranking Eastern Ontario Lodge officials the mortgage on the Church Street Orange Hall was burned.

The mortgage burning ceremony was conducted in the Orange Hall during a social evening at which Belleville and district members of the L.O.L. and women's and juvenile associations attended.

Writing off the indebtedness against the hall has been a double load for lodge members in that before it was completely finished the hall was burned, necessitating rebuilding. It was constructed in 1946 and burned in 1948 and then rebuilt.

Names on the mortgage were Bro. Ed. Sherry, Past Masters Irvine Eggleton, Joseph Shortt, Lorne Goodman and Very Worshipful Bro. W. Nickle.

The social committee who spent much time and effort towards paying off the mortgage included Master T. Farnsworth and Bros. Lorne Goodman, Ed. Sherry, T. Sculthorpe and Don Foster, with Sisters Mabel Asseltine, Rita Foster, Millie McKenna, Maude Farnsworth, May Whittle and Sister Balyx.

Silence Observed

Prior to burning of the mortgage a two-minute silence was held. Committee members then touched matches to the mortgage following which J. Shortt gave a brief history of the hall and how it was burned and then rebuilt.

Bro. Jimmy Clarke donated a beautiful sword which he had carried around the world during the Kiltie Band world tour. The sword was received by Lodge Master T. Farnsworth who expressed his appreciation to Bro. Clarke.

Right Worshipful Bro. Fred Bateman, Grand Master of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario East, congratulated members of L.O.L. 274 on the job which they had completed in building the hall, while tribute was also paid the lodge by Bro. Cecil Palmer, Past Grand Master of Grand Black Chapter of the Royal Knights of Ireland from Ontario East. Right Worshipful Bro James Diamond and R. W. B. George F. Reid, also attended.

Many Notables Present

Other notables making brief addresses were County Master Bro. Charles Fair; County Sec. Bro. George McCullough; County Chaplain Bro. William Woods; County Master of Centre Hastings, Bro. Coulter, and Ex. Mayor Jack Allin. Bro. Elmer Sandercock, M.L.A. and Immediate Past Master Bro. Jule Bentley, also spoke briefly.

Sister Kent with 31 years as a member of the L.O.B.A. won a special prize donated by the boys' juvenile lodge No. 231, while Bro. W. J. Hall won the prize as the oldest L.O.L. member with 61 years. He was closely followed by Bro. A. Morton, 60 years; Bro. W. Kennedy, 58 years and Bro. T. Sculthorpe with 47 years. All are members of the L.O.L. 274.

Dance Follows Function

Red, white and blue streamers decorated the hall for the social evening, which was followed by a dance and lunch served by members of the L.O.B.A. No. 350. Miss Dorothy Alexander of Wellington entertained on the piano, mouth organ and accordion. Bro. B. Wood presented a cake on which was enscribed the words "Congratulations 274." Chairman of the evening was Bro. Don Foster.

Lodges taking part and assisting to raise money for the hall included Benjamin L.O.L. 274; Royal Black Preceptory No. 853; Lydia L.O.B.A. 350; Crystal Chapter 34; Girls' J.O.L. 233, and Boys' Benefit J.O.L. 231.

Stage is Set, Principals, Cast Ready for Show Presentation

Director of music Larry Brown stands with baton poised.

And with its downbeat at 8.00 tonight, the Commodores orchestra will swing into the overture that will usher in the Kiwanis Club's 1952 edition of its popular musical revue "Pack Up Your Troubles".

The colorful extravaganza will be presented four nights through Thursday.

Observers who watched the dress rehearsal of the show yesterday predict a brilliant run. First-nighters will see a production that is comparable if not better than the four spectacular shows that blazed a trail of success in entertainment circles of the city in previous presentations.

Producer-directors Harold Carruthers and Charles Cawker believe they have welded a show that will meet with the wholehearted approval of lovers of this type of entertainment of the city and district.

Months of Rehearsal

They with Messrs. Larry Brown, director of music and the Commodores orchestra, the Morrison School of Dancing, a galaxy of vocal and instrumental artists, comedians, backgrounded by a well-trained chorus, not forgetting those behind the scenes, without whom no productions can be a success, have worked strenuously for three months in perfecting what should be a footlights credit to themselves, the Kiwanis Club and the city.

They are proud of the fact that the cast of nearly 60 is an all-Belleville assemblage. They felt that the type of talent, instrumental, vocal, choreographic and comedy available in the city and district was such as to produce a show that would be on a par with one headlined by out-of-town artists. Rehearsals have proved they were right.

Fast Moving Production

True there will be no Lily Pons, Guy Lombardos, Paderewskis, or Eddie Cantors, but there will be a highly entertaining fast-moving production that should not fail to meet the approval of lovers of musical variety stage presentations.

Tonight's inaugural of the 1952 edition of "Pack Up Your Troubles" climaxes, as was said before, months of hard work, headaches, rehearsal and sacrifice of time and effort on the part of all connected with the production.

Their remuneration. Nothing in dollars and cents for themselves. Just the wholehearted sincere applause of a packed collegiate auditorium on the four nights of presentation.

Only 200 reserved seat tickets are on sale for each of the four nights. All tickets may be purchased at Cook's Cigar Store and that of Fred Symons.

The curtain rises at 8.15.

Stage photographs of scenes, cast and principals of the show are now on display in the windows of the offices of the Moira Fuels, West Bridge Street. Taken by Jim Driscoll the pictures give a colorful pictorial display of the show.

MANY DOGS ENTERED

Toronto, Feb. 18 (CP)—Nearly 1,000 dogs, including some of the best prize animals in North America, are scheduled to appear in two dog shows to be held at the Canadian National Sportsmen's show here. One show will be held March 19 and 20, the other March 21 and 22.

GOOD TIMING

Toronto, Feb. 18 — (CP) — A gunman with good timing stole $1,400 from a crowded butcher shop Saturday.

Some 40 persons in the store were unaware of the robbery as the lone robber forced a cashier to hand over the money about to be deposited in the store safe.

He missed a large sum in the safe.

THE REAL DANGER IS WITHIN

The decline in Great Britain's economic position is hown in an easily-understood form in a statement which as been issued by the United Kingdom Information ffice, which is an agency of the British government.

"Before the war," says the United Kingdom Informaion Office, "every inhabitant of the United Kingdom ould be said to have, on the average, a claim of nearly 224 on the rest of the world. At the end of the war, that osition had been reversed, and every Briton owed the est of the world about $56.

"By June 30 last, as a result of persistent balance-ofayment deficits incurred by Great Britain since the end t the war, the position had worsened further and the verage external debt borne by every inhabitant of the ountry had risen to about $154."

It is well known that the British elected a Laborite r socialist government at the end of the war and that his government remained in power until only a few onths ago. When the Laborites assumed office, each riton owed the rest of the world about $56. The deteroration in Britain's position during the war years was ue, as everyone knows, to the necessity of paying for a arge part of the most destructive war in history.

But this same war ended just before the Laborites ere elected. After the Laborites took over and started heir socialization programs of one kind and another, ritain's fiscal position worsened just as rapidly as if the ountry were still engaged in fighting the Germans and heir allies. In other words, Britain's six-year experiment n socialism has proven about as destructive, in an econmic sense, as waging a war against the most dangerous ilitary machine that has been assembled in modern imes.

Many thoughtful men, especially among our religious eaders, have emphasized in recent years that one of the reatest threats to civilization is from forces operating ithin the western countries themselves, and not all from xternal agencies.

With these people we are inclined to agree. Western ivilization has, during the centuries, survived all sorts of hysical assaults from without. Whether it is going to be qually successful in combatting moral assaults from ithin remains to be seen.

The most dangerous enemy of Canada and of the ther civilized countries is not the half-fed, half-clad and emi-illiterate barbarian beyond the Iron Curtain. The ost dangerous enemy of our system is the glib politician ho tries to bribe us by offering us gifts purchased with ur own money.

MANAGERIAL GROUP PENALIZED

In a speech which he made to the Canadian Credit nstitute in Toronto a few days ago, Edgar G. Burton, resident of the Robert Simpson Company, was sharply ritical of the level at which the government is taxing the ncomes of those whom he described as "the managerial roup."

"In an expanding economy like ours," said Mr. Burton, who is a director of at least several large corporaions as well as the head of one of Canada's largest merhandising concerns, "we must have more money to plow ack into the economy. The high rate of taxation makes impossible for the managerial group to acquire savings o set up business. This group would accept risks, but the ax burden they bear acts as a major obstacle to their cqquiring any kind of stake."

At another point in his remarks, Mr. Burton stated: We may have gone too far in making income tax proressive to the point where it actually is a deterrent to eal progress. It used to be possible for a young man to ave enough from his income to go into business for himelf. Now, both junior and senior executives are able to ave little more than enough to protect their families."

Although he is still a relatively young man, Edgar Burton has already demonstrated business acumen of no ommon order. His utterances, we believe, are worthy of espectful attention and careful consideration.

MORE SALARY INCREASES

Salary increases averaging about $250 a year for 3,000 overnment employees, including 2,500 in Ottawa, were nnounced by the Civil Service Commission last Wednesay, according to the Ottawa Journal.

These pay raises, also according to the Ottawa ournal, are retroactive to December 1, 1951. They cover 233 classes, including general, scientific, professional and enior administrative positions. Some of these people are eceiving as high as $8,000 a year. The commission's nnouncement also said there are still between 600 and 700 classes of employees to be dealt with.

This latest list of salary hoists brings the total inrease in the government's payroll in recent weeks to $24,000,000, of which $6,300,000 is in Ottawa alone.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

(Copyright, 1952, Edgar A. Guest)

THE DIFFERENCE

If life were just a strife for food
And struggle 'gainst our natural foes,
We'd all be creatures, wild and rude,
And live as brutes from start to close.

The animals are not concerned
With courtesy and conduct fair.
The only lesson they have learned
Is how to find their food and where.

They never bother to improve
In any way the pit or den.
Restrained in instinct's rigid groove,
They miss the dreams allowed to men.

But man has faith by which to live,
And he has heights to which to climb,
And as he gathers he must give
And share with others strength and time.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

The new Rector of Christ Church the Rev. G. G. Wright, presided at the annual vestry meeting of the parish and he appointed Mr. George Watkin as his warden and Mr. Mark Vanner was elected Peoples Warden of Christ Church and Mr. Frank Mills was elected warden of St. George's Church which is a part of Christ Church parish. The executive committee is composed of the Rector, Wardens, the representatives to the diocesan Synod and the following: S. T. Leggott, W. H. Dowsett, F. G. Chamberlain, J. B. Ives, Thos. H. Marshall, J. Reid, Harold Armstrong, William A. Ewing, H. D. Row, John Sargent, R. A. Backus, S. Snell, E. Smith, E. Day, James Varley and R. Bone. The auditors are G. B. Smith, O. H. Scott, H. D. Row, R. A. Backus, F. G. Chamberlain and W. H. Dowsett.

Mr. W. McIlmoyle of Lindsay is visiting friends here.

Feb. 18th., 1922.

St. Michael's hockey team defeated Queen Victoria School team in a match played on the Lingham Street open air rink last evening, the score being 3 to 0. The following composed the teams: St. Michael's, Wilkins, Truaisch, St. Dennis, Summers, Walsh and Murphy; Queen Victoria, Ridley, Kelly, McBride, Ives, Wilbur and Forester. The star players for Queen Victoria School were Forester, Wilbur and the reliable goaltender Ridley. For St. Michael's the stars were Walsh, St. Dennis and J. Truaisch. The referee was F. F. R. Baldree and he gave entire satisfaction.

The Board of Education has decided to build a school in Coleman Ward. The project has been long under consideration. Tenders will be called shortly.

40 YEARS AGO

Feb. 18th., 1912.

The Quarterly Official Board of Bridge Street Methodist Church will vote on the church union question on the evening of Feb. 20th.

Recently about forty neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Stark, 4th concession of Sidney township, met at their home on the eve of their departure for their new home in Roslin and presented them with a purse as a slight token of the high esteem in which they are held in the community. An address was read by Mr. F. J. Knight and the presentation was made Mrs. E. Ketcheson.

Mrs. E. Graham of Carroll, Manitoba, formerly of Belleville, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. Murphy, North Front Street.

Mr. Henry O. Hart of Grand Rapids, Mich., a former Belleville boy, and well known to the boys of twenty-five and thirty years ago, was a caller today at the Intelligencer office. He has made a success of the foundry business in Grand Rapids.

50 YEARS AGO

Feb. 18th., 1902.

The Belleville junior hockey team defeated the Port Hope team here last evening, the final score being 11 to 1. The Port Hopers were fast, skilful and aggressive, but the local lads outclassed them at every stage of the game. Until the Belleville boys got too far ahead the game was exciting and interesting. It would warm up anybody to see the Belleville youngsters on the forward line go down the ice with their pretty combination. Hough, Allen and Galloway are a speedy three of a kind and Sandy Burrows played the game of his life last night. Adams played his usual brilliant game. Tanney at point showed up well while Charlie Dolan did what little he had to do with neatness and despatch. If anybody wants to see the makings of a star goal keeper he can look under Charlie's hat. The following composed the Belleville team: C. Dolan, T. Tanney, Adams, Burrows, Allen, Hough and Galloway. The officials were: Referee, J. L. R. Gorman; timekeepers, E. G. Beamish, Port Hope, and H. Wallace, Belleville. Any junior team that comes here and can beat the Belleville boys on their own ice will be a dandy—sure.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

IT COSTS TO BE RIGHT

One of my readers recently wrote me and quoted this expression: "The turtle never gets any place unless he sticks his neck out."

This is just another way of saying that life as a whole is a calculated risk. If we are never going to take any risks, we are never going to serve our generation with much gallantry. In every office there are people ready to jeer and criticize anyone who takes a firm stand on any unpopular issue. Many a business organization in the country is ready to subject dissenters to all sorts of financial reprisals if they talk out of turn. In labor circles one is liable to be liquidated if he jumps to his feet and berates the brass hats. Even in the church and in educational institutions, those who will not conform themselves to established patterns of thought often find that they are first subjected to cold disdain and then perhaps to demotion or dismissal.

It is no easy task to live a courageous life, standing every day for what one believes to be right. We have to stick our necks out on many occasions in our defence of the right; and we may be sure that there will be someone standing near with a big stick waiting to slap us down.

But sometimes the slapper gets slapped.

TRIPLETS BORN

Hattiesburg, Miss., Feb. 18 (AP) — Now there are seven children less than four years old in the family of Rufus P. Thornton, unemployed oilfield worker. Mrs. Thornton, 31, gave birth to triplets yesterday — two girls and a boy. Thornton has not worked since last November when he was injured while working on a derrick.

DOG ALSO SAVED

Cleveland, O., Feb. 18 — (AP) — When fire broke out in the home of Albert Singleton, all of the occupants got outside safely except his brindle bulldog, Lady. Singleton went back in. "We found her spreadeagled on the floor," he said. "Her breathing had stopped." For 10 binutes he applied artificial respiration. It worked. The dog is recovering, he said today.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

PROMISSORY NOTE

It's never wise to put too much faith in a prospectus, but I'm allowing myself a slight glow about the future of Canadian television. The baby is unborn, and will not be on view for another six months, but the parents are sure that it will be a handsome child.

I've been reading in particular some pre-natal reflections by Mavor Moore, who is the chief producer for CBC Television in Toronto, and since there's so much misinformation abroad on the subject I thought we might profitably examine Mr. Moore's hopes and fears.

The Great Television Debate goes on. A large number of people can't understand why we don't buy a bunch of old Hopalong Cassidy movies or put funny hats on Claire Wallace and Kate Aitken and get into the video field quickly on the theory that everything will turn out all right in the end.

I'm inclined to think that the CBC method, however irksome it may be for those of us who can't wait for television to louse up our lives, is the better.

For a year and a half, now, a staff has been training and experimenting and this summer they will begin full-scale operations—none of which will be seen by Canadian viewers. In this way the CBC hopes to bury its early mistakes in dead air so that when they come to life in August for real, as they say, we'll have something worth peering at.

It makes a lot of sense to me, but then I've never bled much for Hopalong.

* * *

I'm glad to note, too, that Mr. Moore is aware of the lethal possibilities of the weapon. A somewhat cautious approach is advisable with TV for the simple reason that its effect on life is devastating.

It has a narcotic effect on children, for example. In Chicago recently a representative high school took a survey and discovered that students watch an average of 23-and-a-half hours of flickering-images every week (the equivalent of a double feature every night). In a Connecticut junior high school it was 27 hours a week or nearly four hours a day! (The exclamation mark is Daddy's.)

With these kind of statistics as a reminder that TV may shape the thought and actions of the next generation—or my kids, as I like to think of it—it seems only common sense to look before leaping.

Mr. Moore puts it in his own whimsical way: "I leave it to you to guess what effect these viewing habits are having on the whole family, from dictating meal-time, bed-time and room arrangement to a new interest on the part of mother in the gentle art of wrestling."

* * *

Now of course, a great many Canadians have an abhorence at the thought that the CBC might try to "educate" them. Naturally, being Canadians, we view with gimlet-eyed suspicion anything that might smack of "government control," such as educational programs.

Fortunately Mr. Moore is an old theatre man and highly sensitive to an audience, even of the ectoplasmic TV type.

"When people ask us whether we are planning programs which will educate on the other hand or entertain on the other," he notes soothingly, "we might answer that we don't regard the two as mutually exclusive. Every program which holds your attention educates you in some way—it may be down instead of up, but you get something from it."

Mr. Moore does not say it, but there is obviously room for Hopalong and even Kate Aitken in the theatre of video, but there must also be room for programs designed for adults, as well. The pattern doubtless will be the pattern of CBC radio and I can think of no better model.

* * *

Probably the most promising of all aspects of Canadian television is that we are able to study the United States brand, or the Bared Bosom and Dancing Cigarettes type, and to be thus reminded how easily the medium may be perverted.

Mr. Moore says modestly that he and his cohorts are "good and scared" and I hope that they are shoring up their morale by the occasional peek at the American channels, returning refreshed and with new hope to their workshop.

There is, as Mr. Moore observes, a rare chance in this country to do something freshly Canadian."

I suggest that that phrase—"a rare chance to do something freshly Canadian"—be printed on large signs and displayed prominently in the CBC television studios.

Whenever an editorial writer or commercial station operator or a half-baked Canadian raises the cry of "Hurry up!" the builders of television in Canada could look at the signs and keep right on building.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

An old schoolmate of mine, who has gone completely to pot through drink, describes his experience in terms of driving a motor car.

"My brakes," he says, "got worse and worse as time went along. I knew I was hitting up too hot a pace: but whenever I really needed them, the old brakes worked well enough, especially as I knew the trick of going into low gear, to help out the brakes.

"Then, one fine day, I found myself headed down a wrong road. I forget how I made the wrong turn . . . But it got rougher and rougher, even when I went into low gear. So I decided to back up.

"I reached for my reverse gear. And there wasn't any! If you try to imagine what it would be like to go through the motions of letting your car into reverse, only to find there isn't any, you will realize the way I felt."

This man is one of thousands of our generation who learned to drink as a soldier in the first war and whose service in the second war, not overseas but honorable and valuable, did not improve his condition. All through his life, both his family and friends have winked at his hitting the bottle in the opinion that it was one aspect of the manly thing.

Whether his life would have been happier if family and friends had taken strenuous measures to interfere with his drinking is another matter. He doesn't think so. It is his view, he had a good time; and so did everybody else.

Only, now, everybody is having anything but a good time watching him going down that side-road that grows rougher and rougher, with no reverse gear, hardly any brakes left, and his low gear just about worn out.

TODAY'S TALK

—By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

HONOR

I read in my newspaper recently of a bank in Yonkers, New York, where the president of the bank is testing out a new idea. Many go to the bank to get small change, and it apparently takes up a lot of valuable time from the tellers. So in this bank are bowls of change, placed in convenient locations in the outer office, and anyone can come in and take out change not to exceed five dollars, depositing the bills.

To date no one has shortchanged the bank! I believe it is one of the fundamental characteristics of human beings that they like being put on their honor. Those who defy it are in the vast minority. I know a number of restaurants in downtown New York City, doing a big business at lunch time, where people are put on their honor. They wait upon themselves, keep in mind the total purchases—each one of which is marked—and then go to the cashier, state the amount and pay their bill. I understand there is little loss, if any, for these places seem to be very successful.

I recall, when in school, that many a time the instructor left the room while an examination was on, when cheating could easily have occurred, yet I saw none. If more people were put on their honor in a number of places, better people would be the result. As a matter of fact, most of us are placed on our honor throughout life. It's the dishonest who fail.

I recently read of a chap who found a large sum of money. He immediately reported it to the police, but no one called for it, and after the limited time the entire sum was turned over to the boy who found it. He would not have felt happy to have kept his find a secret, but he was richly rewarded later for his honesty.

Doing the honest thing always pays. Short cuts to success or happiness are always dangerous. There are always invisible eyes following the one who dispenses with all honor. He's like a hunted animal. He knows no peace.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

NUTRITIONAL DEFICIENCY AND PYORRHEA

I had intended to say, in the talk about the pyorrhea vagary the other day that trouble known as pyorrhea, in my opinion is not a specific disease but a manifestation of physical degeneration due to nutritional dificiency.

That I, a newspaper quack, have the temerity to express an opinion or advance a theory about pyorrhea infuriates many dentists. But before they indite any unprintable protests to editors or publishers about my carryings-on they might learn something of advantage to their patients by reading the late great Dr. Weston A. Price's classic Nutrition and Physical Degeneration and make a voyage to Tristan da Cunha or at least familiarize themselves with the reports of dentists, physicians and other scientific observers who have seen the incomparably fine teeth of the people there.

Fifty years ago when the medical profession realized that the traditional concept of chronic joint trouble—rheumatiz due to "exposure" to cold and damp—made less and less sense as our knowledge increased. So they tried to drop the name rheumatism and began to label chronic joint disability arthritis instead. This sounded more scientific and indeed it impressed the customers. Arthritis means joint inflammation. In most cases there is little or no evidence of inflammation at any stage—but no matter, the new name put the doctors away out ahead again, and as I infer from correspondence with people in all walks of life, the doctors are still maintaining a safe lead by beguiling patients with such phony diagnoses as "rheumatoid arthritis," "hypertrophic arthritis," "atrophic arthritis," "metabolic "arthritis'," "osteoarthritis," "arthritis deformans," "infectious arthritis" and the like.

One recognized authority at the beginning of his book says "our first concern . . . . is to classify it . . . on an etiological basis. At present, however, the etiology" (cause) "of all types of arthritis is not definitely known. For the time being, therefore, we must adopt a presumptive . . ." In other words, as long as your customers pay well we'll guess what ails you and what to do about it.

Not definitely known, the man says. That adverb is unbearably irksome, whether it is used to sell cigarettes or help a struggling author pad his book. If the cigarette smoke is less irritating or the cause of joint trouble is not known, why not say so without betraying uncertainty or doubt about it? Or do you think that using the term indicates intellectuality?

I'd rather lead up to it gradually, but that is too difficult in the space I have here, so I'll say right now: In my opinion—remember I'm no authority—in my opinion chronic rheumatiz or arthritis is a manifestation of physical degeneration due to nutritional deficiency.

Having answered the rheumatism riddle in a sentence, I shall next deal with the pyorrhea problem. In my opinion pyorrhea alveolaris or Rigg's disease or periodontoclasia or chronic atrophic alveolitis or gingivitis expulsiva is a manifestation of physical degeneration due to nutritional deficiency.

No, the needle is not stuck. You haven't heard the half of it yet.

Dope Habit

On examining the label I find I have been taking three times a day for several years for chronic headache tablets each of which contain 2 grains of acetophenetidin—I'm afraid it is more of a habit by now. Is this anything like acetanilid? (Mrs. M. W.)

Answer — Otherwise called phenacatin, a coaltar derivative having the same painkilling, sense-deadening, blood-destroying, heart weakening effects as acetanilid. Champs in Legs and Feet at Night

Haven't had a cramp since last September when I began taking Ca and D. Really can sleep nights now. (C. P. MacW.)

Answer—Mature adults who suffer painful cramps in legs or feet (sometimes in arms or wrists) at night may get prolonged relief by supplementing their diet with a good daily ration of calcium and vitamin D, as described in pamphlet Adult Tetany and Growing Pains. For pamphlet send stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Time-Honored Ritual Follows Memorial Services for King

Officers of the reserve regiments here, the 9th anti Tank, RCA (ALI) and the Hastings and Prince Edward observed time honored ritual following memorial services for His Majesty King George VI on Friday.

Ceremonial toasts were drunk to the memory of the late monarch and glasses were smashed according to the ancient British ritual. The first toast to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth II was drunk following that to the King.

In the 9th Anti Tank Regiment mess the haunting notes of the Scottish lament "Flowers of the Forest" rang softly through the hushed stillness as Lieut. Col. G. C. MacGregor, M.C., his officers and special guests stood at attention. The lament was played by Pipe Major J. Browning of the regimental pipe band.

Major Archdeacon Arthur Smith, regimental padre gave a brief memorial and the toast to the Queen was then drunk.

Special guests of Col. MacGregor and his officers included Lieut. Col. Bryson Donnan; Lieut.-Col. A. E. Geen, Lieut.-Col. Vincent Doyle, His Worship Mayor A. McLean Haig, Major Harry Alford, Lieut.-Col. Milton Davison, Corporal H. R. Hancock and Constable R. V. Hunter of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

The ceremonial toasts ritual was observed with the same impressive solemnity in the officers' mess of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment where Lieut.-Col. Porritt and his officers gathered following their attendance at Christ Church for the memorial service.

Following the toast to the Queen, Col. Porritt said, "In her service may our hearts be stout and our sword arms strong." Guests included Padre Canon J. B. Creeggan, Christ Church and two officers of the "Quinte" sea cadet corps.

Fine Assortment

Mrs. P. Murry, convened the sewing table and with her coworker, Mrs. J. Sproule, displayed a lovely assortment of aprons, towels, knitted goods and embroidery work.

Thanks to the people of the district the tea was a large success. The proceeds are to go towards recreation equipment for the school.

Women's Campaign To Boost Thrift A 'Great Success'

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Feb. 18. (CP)—Three months ago 600,000 determined Canadian women banded together to attempt to cut living costs.

Their leader, Mrs Allan Turner Bone, of Montreal, president of the National Council of Women, says now that so far the crusade has been "a great success". She hopes it may prove a barrier against further inflation.

Launched last October by the 59-year-old council, the Thrift Campaign has moved into towns and cities from coast to coast, wherever there are representatives of the organization.

Housewives have been urged to cut out the frills in their buying: to serve only one kind of cake at tea-parties; not to haunt bargain-counters for items they don't need.

They've been told they're likely to get more value—and more vitamins—for their money if they buy the cheaper meats instead of the high price cuts. For instance, liver, they have been told is an excellent source of vitamin A, also vitamin C. And pork liver—at 36 cents a pound in Toronto—contains "almost three times' 'as much iron as beef liver—at 38 cents a pound.

The 13,000-member Canadian Association of Consumers is one of a dozen other national women's organizations backing the drive.

In monthly bulletins it urges housewives to use twisted newspaper instead of wood for kindling; to save vegetable water for soups and gravies.

Consumer Resistance

Tangible results are difficult to determine in this kind of campaign. But Mrs. Bone says are beginning to show. She cited as a possible example the fact that some retailers now talk of consumer resistance.

However, she prefers to regard the drive as a long-range educational program.

Begun on a plea to women to exercise purse control, the campaign's path hasn't been too smooth. The word "thrift" met with opposition in sections of Canada not as affluent as others and chiefly from housewives who figured they already were practising it to the limit. But once explained as an anti-inflation measure, it won support..

From its national headquarters in Ottawa the council distributes tips to Canadian housewives. These include inexpensive recipes.

"The more demand we make for goods the more producers and manufacturers will be pressed into supplying them," the council explains in a folder. "Shop windows are not always an accurate indication of background conditions. We can create shortages by overbuying and so pushing up prices.

"Women had to be convinced that they could curtail expense," says Mrs. Bone. "And to do this we had to show that, while the cost of living had increased 90 per cent, the net personal income had increased 190 per cent and despite high prices and high taxes, personal saving was 147 per cent higher in 1950 than in 1939."

Women were not asked to stop spending, but simply, to defer it, to give careful thought to their needs rather than their wants.

Why were woman approached? Because statisticians claim they spend 80 per cent of the consumer money in Canada.

Women of The Moose Give Housewarming

On Monday evening about 30 girls under the surpices of the Women of the Moose, Chapter 435, met at the home of Lena Connel to surprise Mrs. Connel with a housewarming. Mrs Connel welcomed the girls to her home and was presented with a beautiful and colorful lamp from the chapter.

Games such as bridge, euchre, and rummy were played with everyone enjoying themselves. Prizes were won by Orlene Knox, Irene MacMurter and Lena Connel.

Co-hostesses Gladys Ritch, Florence Carufel, Nellie Scrymgeour and Ruth Mintz prepared appetizing refreshments.

The tables were lovely with pastel colored tablecloths and darkly colored centrepieces. The tempting sandwiches and dainty sweets were served by Mary Haslip, Florence Carufel and Irene MacMurter. The tea was graciously poured by Kathleen Donovan.

On saying goodbye to her guests Lena Connel thanked each and all who had participated in the evening's enjoyment, for their kind wishes, on her behalf.

Energetic Club Entertains Tweed Harmony Club

On Friday evening, the Energetic Club of Holloway Street United Church, entertained the Harmony Club of Tweed at their regular meeting.

The devotional portion took the form of a memorial service to the late King, opening with quiet music and the call to worship. The Scripture was read from Revelations by Mrs Pearl White. Appropriate prayers for the King were given by Oscar Wagar and a tribute by Bill Townson.

A discussion regarding the bus trip to Ottawa and a motion to buy flags for the church concluded the business of the evening.

A sing-song led by Jim Scriven, was enjoyed, as well as a film, "The Connors Case" with Ross Burtt at the projector. A contest and game led by Frank Wilson, was followed by bountiful refreshments, in keeping with Valentine day, served by the executive.

Rev. A. L. Sisco expressed appreciation, on behalf of the Harmony Club for a pleasant evening. The "Tatler" was read by the editor, Bill Townson.

Past Noble Grands Enjoy Euchre Party

The Past Noble Grands Club met on Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Ethel Sandercock, East Dundas Street, with the president, Mrs. Annie Rose, presiding.

Two minutes of silence were observed in memory of the late King George VI.

It was decided to have a card party one evening in March in the Oddfellows Hall, Front Street.

After the business was concluded, euchre was enjoyed. Those winning prizes were, Miss Estella Wellman, Mrs. Rhea Mitchell and Mrs Dora Morton. The lone hand prize went to Mrs. Nellie Cooper.

Valentine refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants, Mrs. Annie Rose and Mrs Georgina Charlton.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mrs. Sandercock by Mrs Lottie Smith and Mrs. Nellie Cooper for a most pleasant evening.

"QUICK-CLEAN" WASHING EVERY TIME

Why deny yourself the best to save a few cents a week

Here's a good rule to follow when you buy a washer today. Ask yourself "Will it be serving me faithfully, many years from now?" An apparent saving of ten dollars—or fifteen dollars—or even fifty dollars—spread over fifteen years is just a few cents a week. Can you afford to gamble when you look at it this way? Can you afford not to buy the best?

don't sell your future short

Don't allow yourself to be talked into buying a so-called "bargain". Remember a real bargain does not depend only on the price-tag. You have to consider quality—the years of trouble-free service the washer will give—the good name of the maker—before you can decide whether or not it's a real bargain.

How old is your washer?

If the washer you are using now can no longer give you "quick-clean" washing every time, you are wasting money and energy every time you use it. The G-E Washer has every known feature—every feature you've always wanted—to help you breeze through your wash. We say this to you: Compare all the makes, feature by feature, and we're confident you'll choose G-E. Whatever else you do—see the G-E Washer before you decide.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A Parent's Responsibility—Does it Last Forever?

Must a parent's responsibility for grown children last throughout the parent's lifetime, or is there a point at which sons and daughters should be left to work out their own destinies?

That is the question which seems to be raised by a tragic letter from a 70-year-old mother who appears to believe that maternal responsibility goes on to the very end of life. "All my girls are happily married except two," she writes, "and I must do something to get them settled before I die."

Now if this woman succeeds in getting two daughters settled before she dies, I would say that she will have accomplished the miraculous. For both young women have snarled up their lives almost, I would think, beyond any untangling.

The mother begins with the story of the older of the two, who is 30, and who her mother says "has a smart and pretty little girl born out of wedlock six years ago. The little girl lives with me.

"The child's father who never saw her until she was five years old, gives my daughter $5 a week. He is a married man with a son almost 18 years old, but for the last ten years, he has been living apart from his wife. He has told my daughter that he will take their child and bring it up, but he will not marry her. My daughter says she will stay single, and bring up her daughter herself.

"Must this child go through life paying for what her parents did, or is there a way to fight for her right to her father's name? Her father and mother don't seem to care."

The other daughter is 28, and she also has involved herself with a married man, this one having two children. For ten years, she has been hoping to marry this man, her mother says, during which time she has had her own apartment where "she waits for him to spend his free time with her."

Breaks All Ties

For the first six years of her relationship with this man, the mother's letter discloses, the girl cut all ties with her family. "I never saw her in all that time," she writes, "and I didn't know whether she was alive or dead. Every time I saw a girl who looked like her, I ran after her, and people were constantly telling me tales about her. Then one day, I went to a big dance, and there she was. And though she was still with the same man, I was so happy to find her again.

"But now after ten years, I cannot take it any longer, and I want to know if there is a way in which that man could be made either to free himself and marry my daughter, or to tell her definitely that he does not intend to marry her and then leave her alone."

To boil this letter down to its essence, what this woman wants first of all, of course, is to see both daughters married to the men who have so thoroughly disorganized their lives. That is all she will settle for in the case of the daughter with the one man's child. In the case of the other daughter, she will accept as second-best, if she must, the man's complete and permanent withdrawal from the young woman's life.

I am very much afraid this mother is not going to go along with the only advice I feel I can give her, for, on my side, I cannot go along with her in her conviction that she is the one who must straighten things out for her daughters. To my way of thinking, she should keep her hands off their lives, and leave them to work their problems out for themselves. They shut her out when they took their lives into their own hands, which seems to me clear evidence that they prefer it that way. Moreover, I cannot see any possible good that she can do by involving herself in the complications of either situation. If these two men haven't shown any inclination to make matters right for the two young women in all these years, their aging mother is not going to be able to force them to do so. All she will accomplish by trying, is to further complicate the whole business, and make herself even more unhappy than she is now.

While it is bitterly hard for a mother to reconcile herself to the fact that children of hers should ruin their lives, and while it is doubtful that she will ever accept the fact that she cannot retrieve their lives for them, the fact remains that if they will not do it for themselves, she is helpless. And her responsibility stops there.

Gravy and Scallop Know-How

As you know I try to reserve Monday's space for meat talks. But you have swamped me this week with mail so I have to use every available inch and minute to answer you.

I chose B.D.'s letter to answer because she wants gravy news and scallop know-how, so we are still on the fringes of the subject of meat.

Dear Mary Moore: Would appreciate your advice on the following questions: How do you make gravy for steak that has been broiled? Are you just supposed to pour hot water on the pan, and seasonings? I know it is supposed to be thin, but you don't like too much water on it, to make it flavourless.

(2) also would like to know how to cook scallops. My husband and I love them, and I would like to get them golden brown similar to the kind I eat in good restaurants.

(3) I am going to make mincemeat and wondered how long and what temp. you use for a mincemeat pie. . I can make nice tasty gravy for my husband and myself by just adding a little hot water. However I am interested in knowing how to make it for 6 people, to put on the table in a gravy boat. I'm watching the paper for some appetizing soup recipes too. . .B.D.

ANSWER TO B.D

We were taught in school that thin pan gravy—made as you do it—is merely spooned over each serving of steak. But I know that when a man wants gravy it is his wife's business to provide it. Buy two things: best quality gravy browning or beef extract and monosodium glutamate (MSG or Accent). These assure good color and flavor—you can thicken it if you like. Then use water or potato or other vegetable water for liquid. For 1 pint of gravy do not use more than 1 teaspoon MSG, but use the gravy browning or beef extract at your own discretion.

DEEP FRIED SCALLOPS

One pound scallops ,1 tablespoon each salad oil and lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 slightly beaten egg, 1 tablespoon cold water, fine sifted bread or cracker crumbs. Wash and dry fresh scallops. If large cut into 3-4 or 1-inch cubes. If frozen quick-thaw as directed on package. Mix salad, oil, lemon juice and salt; add scallops, moving them about to coat each one with this "marinade", then cover and let stand in refrigerator for 1 hour. Drain. Dip scallops in the egg mixed with cold water, then roll in fine crumbs. (Repeat this egging and crumbing again for extra crisp crust.) Cover bottom of frying basket with scallops and fry until golden brown on all sides—about 3 or 4 minutes. Use deep fat or salad oil at 370 deg. Fahr. This temperature will brown a cube of day old bread in 60 seconds. Drain on unglazed paper. Serve with lemon wedges or Tartare Sauce.

TARTARE SAUCE

One cup chilled mayonnaise, 1-2 teaspoon each minced onion and parsley, 1 tablespoon each chopped capers, cucumber pickle, and stoned green olives, 1 teaspoon vinegar. Just before serving, combine chilled mayonnaise with all other ingredients which should be well-drained. Good with any fish.

Temperature and time for baking mince pie: Bake at 425 deg. Fahr. for 40 minutes. But if desired you may start the pie at 475 deg. Fahr. for 10 minutes, then reduce temperature to 400 deg. Fahr. to finish. This gives the crust a better chance to puff and be flaky.

I have given you pea soup, French onion soup and mulligatawny lately. Watch for minestrone next week.

The Man-of-the-Family Plans the Silver Wedding Celebration

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My wife and I are to celebrate our 25th wedding anniversary next month, and I wish you would help us with our problem as I have been reading how you help other people in your column. We have a family, and our means are limited. But we would like to give our friends and family a good time on this occasion. Would you approve of our carrying out our idea to hold "Open House" on a Sunday afternoon and evening? If so, what would you suggest in the line of refreshments? Also would it be proper for us to announce this affair in our local newspapers?

M. H.

Thank you, sir, for coming to my column. .I am proud to help plan this Wonderful Occasion! Yes. Open House is the very best plan; the maximum of hospitality for the minimum of expense. Also, as concerns expense, keep in mind that it is far easier and far less expensive to provide the refreshments you can appropriately serve during afternoon hours than when the hours named for the party run over into evening, supper-time. So I suggest a Sunday afternoon Open House. . naming hours 3-to-6 (or 7), or 4-to-six (or 7). For those hours, this menu is customary: small, thin sandwiches with simple fillings (and perhaps made of various kinds of breads); small cakes and/or delicious cookies; nuts, potato chips, popcorn to "nibble"; and for beverages, coffee and/or tea, and, for the toasts to The Anniversary, fruit punch or whatever-you-wish. But be sure, sir, to have an Anniversary cake, as fine and decorative a one as you can with a white icing, and some decoration in silver—the edging, or the initials—and certainly the so-important dates, 1927-1952. (You and your "bride" should, when all the guests have arrived, cut the first slice of this cake, you holding your right hand over her right hand, and then you two share this first slice, evidencing anew your promise always to share! Please don't omit this festive and always-to-be-remembered ceremony.) You should send your "bride" a wedding-y corsage, and you should wear (hint it to your children) a white boutonniere, perhaps a carnation.

If it is customary to send this kind of invitation to your local newspaper, do this; or, if possible, telephone the invitations, or write notes. And deep salutations to you and your "bride," sir!

What Are the Duties of the Matron of Honor?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be matron of honor at my sister's wedding. What exactly are my duties?

Patricia

Your duties are mainly social ones. To be charmingly co-operative with every wedding plan. To be a gracious guest at the pre-wedding festivities. To wear your costume...which you pay for, although the bride plans every detail of it...prettily and decoratively at the wedding; and to carry your bouquet gracefully. To give proper attention and alert care to the bride's train and bouquet...particularly after the ceremony, when you hand the bride's bouquet back to her and then adjust her train and veil before she starts in the recessional. To greet the guests graciously as you stand next to the bride in the receiving-line at the reception. And to assist the bride to change froh her wedding costume to her going-away costume.

WALKOUT CALLED

Major Strike in 1945

The last major strike at the Ford plant, called Sept. 12, 1945, lasted 99 days and, at one point, Ontario Provincial Police reinforcements were brought here to keep order. The walkout spread to the U.A.W.'s Chrysler local and eventually involved 20,000 men.

The memory of that shutdown still hangs like a gloomy shadow over this industrial city of 121,000 persons, in which one person in three is dependent on income received from the Ford plant.

If the strike lasts a week, it will facce layoffs in the 40 feeder plants that supply materials to the automotive works of Ford and Chrysler.

The new tieup also puts 1,000 factory superintendents and foremen and 1,200 Ford office workers temporarily off the job.

When negotiations broke off, company and union representatives had dealt with 61 of the 85 clauses in a proposed contract. Left unsettled were union demands for an increase in the number of statutory holidays to eight a year from six, an increase of seven cents an hour in night-shift differential, inclusion of workers in certain classifications such as foundry men in special wage boosts and $1,000 company-paid life insurance policies for Ford pensioners.

The Union previously reduced its wage increase demand from 21 cents an hour over the basic pay of $1.35 to the 15 cents an hour the company offered.

Burt Gives Statement

Mr. Burt said in his statement that the issues remaining, by themselves, would not seem insurmountable.

"But it should be remembered that the union gave up almost every one of the major recommendations of the conciliation board in order to get at the items which remain—and then the company said we couldn't have them.

"We gave in on the union shop. We dropped the voluntary overtime issue, despite the unanimous recommendation of the conciliators in favor of such overtime. We withdrew our request for a skilled trades apprenticeship committee. We compromise d our seniority demands.

"When we finally arrived, almost empty-handed, at the clauses which involve both principle and money, the company offered us a show-piece vacation item, time and one-half for Saturdays as such and included the laid-off workers (2,700 workers who were given notice last June) in the retroactive pay."

Mr. Burt said that, since the June layoffs, few workers in the plant now have more than three years' service and less than five. Workers in that group would receive extra vacation time under terms of the company offer.

Company On Issue

Mr. Sale said in his statement: "We feel we have done everything any reasonable person might expect us to do to avert a strike. Right up to the last minutes we have had hope that reason would prevail and that a strike could be prevented. But the price the union asked in return for industrial peace was greater than we felt we could afford to pay. We deeply appreciate the efforts that have been made by the Minister of labor for Ontario (Mr. Daley)."

The labor minister, who averted a strike set for Jan. 27 by persuading both sides to meet in his Toronto office, has been in Windsor since last Wednesday, when he initiated the final series of pre-strike conferences. He and his depututy, J. B. Metzler, planned to stay here today to be available to union or company officials.

Mr. Daley said in a statement at the start of the srike that he was saisfied both sides had tried—"Up to the point where they felt they could go"—to react agreement. He said they had negotiated in good faith.

Wife Accidentally Shoots Husband With .22 Rifle

Hamilton, Feb. 18 — (CP) — A wife's curiosity about the operation of a .22 calibre rifle resulted Saturday in the accidental shooting of her husband.

William D. Smith, was admitted to hospital after having been shot in the abdomen. His condition was reported yesterday as fair.

Mrs. Smith told police she returned home from work Saturday to find her husband cleaning the house. Checking for dust she found her son's rifle, pointed it at her husband and jokingly asked how it worked.

"He said just pull the trigger," Mrs. Smith told police.

"I pulled the trigger and heard it go off. He slumped over the side of the chair he was sitting in."

THE ALEXANDERS

With him when he boarded the liner Franconia were his attractive wife, Lady Alexander, their son Brian, 12, and Susan, 3½. Their eldest son, Shane, 17, is attending Harrow and Rose, 19, will complete her course at McGill University before returning home.

In his farewell address he said that he and his family had spent the happiest six years of their life among the Canadian people.

"For us, Canada has become our second home, and we shall always look upon it as such.

Treasured Possession

"The affection and friendship of the Canadian people is one of my most treasured possessions, and I can never express in adequate terms my gratitude to you for all you have given me and my family during the six years we have lived in Canada."

He praised the choice of Canadian-born Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey as his successor as governor-general. Although he did not refer to him directly he said "... I am glad that it is to someone who is not only a personal friend of mine but one who is a distinguished and well-known man who has all the attributes and qualifications which will make him a worthy representative of our Queen."

Several hours before Viscount Alexander arrived in Halifax, Mr. Massey arrived by plane from London at Trenton, Ont.,

Some 3,000 persons braved near freezing winds to give Viscount Alexander Canada's final farewell.

BRIG. ROCKINGHAM

Brig. Rockingham is the man who was working in an important civilian job in Victoria — he had just had a promotion — when he got a phone call in August, 1950, from Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, then chief of the general staff.

"Want to go back to war?" asked Gen. Foulkes.

"Give me 20 minutes to make up my mind," said Brig. Rockingham.

Put on Uniform Again

A day or so later the put on his Canadian Scottish uniform and flew east to begin the job of molding a fighting formation out of the flood of youngsters and war veterans pouring into the recruiting stations in answer to the call for a special force to fight under the United Nations banner in Korea.

In April, 1951, he had his formation set up business in Korea. They since have built up a tremendous reputation for courage and efficiency.

The change in command is in line with the general policy of rotation which applies to all officers and men serving with the Canadian Brigade in the Far East.

Brig. Bogert is to report to brigade headquarters about April 15 and the actual change of command will take place at a date dependent upon operational circumstances at the time. Brig. Rockingham will then return to Canada for leave prior to assuming his new duties.

Born in Australia Aug. 24, 1911, and moving to Victoria as a young lad, he went to work for the B.C. electric in 1933 and cut brush ahead of line crews as his first job. He was mobilized as a lieutenant in the Canadian Scottish when war broke out in September, 1939, commanded the Royal Hamilton Light Infantry and, later, the 9th Canadian Infantry Brigade in northwest Europe. He was to have commanded a brigade in the Canadian Army Pacific force after the war in Europe ended, but retired to civilian life shortly after the Japanese surrender.

Born in Toronto

Brig. Bogert was born in Toronto, March 17, 1908, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Bogert who now reside in Montreal. He is a graduate of Ashbury College, Ottawa, and the Royal Military College of Canada.

He was a lieutenant in the Royal Canadian Regiment before the outbreak of war, and three years later was commanding the West Nova Scotia regiment in Britain. In January, 1943, he was given a staff appointment at 2nd Canadian Corps and he held this appointment until he reassumed command of the West Novas to take them to Sicily in July, 1943. He continued to command this regiment in the Italian campaign.

He was promoted to the rank of brigadier in October, 1944, and appointed to command the 2nd Infantry Brigade.

At the end of hostilities, Brig Bogert commanded a brigade in the occupation force in Germany then returned to Canada to successive appointments as commander Eastern Ontario area, Kingston, and commander British Columbia area, Vancouver. He attended the National Defence College at Kingston last year.

PICTON

Memorial Service At Cenotaph For Late King

Picton—Every place of business in Picton was closed all day Friday in tribute to his late Majesty King George VI. At five o'clock a memerial service, impressive in its simplicity, was attended by more than 2,000 persons. Held at the War Memorial, the service opened with Chopin's Funeral March, followed by the hymn 'Abide With Me' the music being played on the United Church organ and broadcast over the carillon tower. As a two-minute silence was observed, the RCSA guard, at the corners of the monument presented arms and then stood with arms reversed. The silence, was announced and ended by a cannon booming from the RCSA station. The 'Last Post' and 'Reveille' rang out upon the cold breeze, and as the sun sank behind a bank of clouds, County Warden C. Hughes deposited the memorial wreath.

The mourning colors were removed from drums, color staffs and trumpets.

The singing of 'O Canada' was followed by 'God Save the Queen,' and the royal salute.

As the mile-long parade returned to the Legion hall, the salute was taken by Norris Whitney, M. P. P., Lt. Col. R. J. Fisher, MBE, and County Warden Calvin Hughes

Among those taking part in the parade were members of the Canadian Legion and other veterans, members of the Legion Ladies Auxiliary, The Royal Canadian School of Artillery (AA), RCSA Cadets, 127 and 128 Batteries RCA, Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment (D Company), Girl Guides, members of Sir Thomas Picton Chapter IODE, St. John Ambulance Brigade.

In the morning a service in the Church of St. Mary Magdalene was largely attended, Rev. Hope Payne officiating. A memorial mass was celebrated at St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Church by Rev. J. G. Clancy. Many local stores had windows appropriately decorated during the week.

His Furnace Will Not Smoke, Inventor Says

Vancouver. (CP) —Officials in charge of anti-smoke campaigns may be interested in the claim of a Vancouver man that he has invented a smokeless furnace.

Joe Colosimo, 47, says the principle of his invention is simple and may be applied to the oldest furnaces at a cost of between $30 and 0. He says it also may be used on larger furnaces, such as those used in hospitals.

Following a recent demonstration here, Fire Marshal W. A. Walker said he was "impressed" but that he could not endorse it until the device has been tested and approved by the British Columbia Research Council.

Colosimo is a veteran of the Second World War and holder of the British Empire Medal. He used his re-establishment credits to set up a foundry where he works on the "smokeless furnace" and other inventions.

He claims his invention not only eliminates smoke, but gives 40 per cent greater heat from the same fuel. Instead of the smoke pouring straight up, it is pulled down to the bottom of the furnace by a down-draft and is reburned before the remaining "smokeless smoke' moves up the chimney.

Colosimo has also produced a new type of heater for orchards, to protect trees from frost, and demonstrated this in California recently. He plans to show it in the Okanagan fruit district soon.

Roland Burelle Radio Expert Although Blind

Montreal. (CP)—Roland Burelle, 42-year-old Montrealer, is unique in Canada.

He is the only blind man in the country who holds a graduate's certificate as a radio technician. He is so proficient today that he operates his own radio repair shop

Blind since he was nine years old, Roland Burelle first thought of studying radio when he heard about the radio engineering institute for the blind at Omaha, Nebraska. He had saved up $2,000.

"You'll never manage, radio is just a maze of wires and condensors and it's a mystery to people with sight, so how do you expect to solve its intricacies? You'll burn your fingers black with soldering irons," his friends told him.

But Burelle was undaunted. The Canadian National Institute for the Blind backed him and encouraged him. "Try it," he was told. "The blind have faith. They can do anything."

At Omaha, Burelle met La Von Peterson, director of the institute, who developed and perfected adaptations which enable the sightless to use the same precision used by other technicians.

"We had three hours a day of class lectures and five hours of laboratory work, and I always studied by Braille text books late into the night," says Burelle.

The blind radio technician repairs a radio in the same way as a sighted person, but where the latter uses his eyes to find the trouble, the sightless uses his ears and his sensitive fingers. His instruments give him a sound and his numerous dials have raised dots for his fingers.

"People said that I'd burn my fingers black with the soldering iron, but look at my assistant. Ask him who burns his fingers most often."

"Customers call on me with work every day. My business is growing and I have proved that the blind can do anything because they have faith," he said.

Col. E. A. Baker, blind managing director of C.N.I.B., said of Burelle:

"We should understand that Mr. Burelle is the first Canadian to take this course. The development of his new business will be watched with interest. It is possible that he will pioneer a new field of endeavor in this country."

Canadiens, Leafs In Second-Place Tie; Rangers Keep Pace With Bruins

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THIS IS IT!

Tonight the junior Hawklets face one of the stiffest tests of their 1952 season when they meet the Peterborough Triple Links here in the first of the best-of-five junior "B" semi-finals playoffs. The Hawklets, so Coach Red Doran informs us, will be at full strength with the exception of Harry Brown and are ready to meet the tough Peterborough squad in what should be a hockey classic. Schedule play is past and forgotten for the moment and all four teams in the group start from scratch in the chips-down series. Neither squad will be fooling in tonight's battle and it should be one of the best junior tilts of the season. The Hawklets meet the Links here again on Wednesday night with the third game in Peterborough on Friday. Lindsay and Kingston start their series in Lindsay tomorrow night.

NO LUCK AT ALL

Just when Coach "Red" Doran figured he had given the sickness-injury jinx the ole heave-ho up pops the debbil again. Saturday night in Kingston, Jud Semark, just returned to the lineup after being out with an injured arm went back into retirement again with another injury. Crashing into a goal-post, Semark severely injured the arm and will be out indefinitely. Gerry Desjardins playing his first game in eight weeks aggravated his injured leg and retired from the game.

The Hawks lost their seventh tilt in a row and are now in third slot just one point ahead of the Kingston Sacs. The standing reads Petes, 28; Eagles, 25; Hawks, 24; Kingston 23. Again short-handed the Hawks paced by Red Doran and Peter Jones put up a plucky fight, but the extra manpower of the fresh Sacs platoons told the story. Hawks meet the Petes in Peterborough Wednesday night.

LEAFS BASEBALL MANAGER AT PICTON

The Picton Rotary Club goes sportsminded at the weekly luncheon in the Royal Hotel tomorrow noon when "Micky" Murphy newly-appointed general manager of the Toronto Maple Leafs Baseball Club will be the guest speaker. Sports moguls of the town have been invited as has the Picton baseball team as well as press and radio from out-of-town.

The 31-year-old Murphy, colorful Jack Cooke's right bower for the coming season has plenty of background. He attended Iowa State and Morninside Colleges in Iowa and during his stint the the US Army Air Corps in the Pacific in World War II played baseball, basketball, and football. Following the war he served as general manager of the Sioux City baseball club of the Western League, a Class A outfit and finished on top of the heap in 1947. He led the team to third spot in the next season, sixth the following year and in 1950 and 1951 guided the squad to second and fourth spots and won playoffs in both instances. Micky is married and has no children.

NICE GESTURE!

Thanks to the generosity of the Houston Lumber Company and Alderman Harry Rollins, the trophies of the Belleville Hockey Association now are on display in a handsome glass-front cabinet placed in the north canteen of Memorial Arena. The cabinet was an out-and-out gift of the Houston Company and is greatly appreciated by association officials. The trophies including those of the Ontario Intelligencer, Radio Station CJBQ, the Pat Boland Trophy, the Daw Whalen Trophy, the Canadian Legion, and others will be awarded to the various winners later on with miniatures presented as permanent possessions. The trophies will remain in the cabinet. It is expected the cabinet will be placed in a permanent position in the canteen at a later date.

A GOOD SHOW! !!!!! !

The Ontario Sportswriters and Sportscasters Association are tossing their efforts this year in a fine gesture in raising funds for the Ontario Society for Crippled Children. The boys of the press and radio are throwing a $25 per plate dinner at the Royal York, Toronto on Thursday, March 13th, and there'll be enough world-famous sports luminaries to almost fill the place. Such greats as Gene Tunney, Jack Dempsey, Joe DiMaggio, Frank Leahy, Francis Ouimet, Marlene Stewart, Lionel Conacher, Bobbie Rosenfeld and possibly Bob Hope or Dizzy Dean as guest speaker(s).

It should be the greatest array of sports talent past and present ever assembled in Toronto and it is expected over 300 will attend. You can place your reservations through this department if you care to, and in so doing you will not only get a double eyeful of topflight sportsmen but also aid a fine humanitarian cause.

"THE PATHS OF GLORY . . ."

Well, well look at this. The boxing experts south of the border after praising Rocky Marciano to the skies after his knockout of Joe Louis, did an about face on the Brockton Blockbuster following his TKO victory over blubbery Lee Savold the other night, and now he is just another scrapper who "has a lot to learn".

One sports writer tabbed Marciano as being a "floundering lout who may have been vastly over-rated on the strength of his knockout of Louis. He says "the rock-fisted Rocky couldn't upend the venerable Savold once and looked abysmally crude in trying to do it. If Marciano is the second Jack Dempsey, the first Dempsey should sue him for libel."

"Rocky stirred enough breezes with his missed punches to have supplied a wind tunnel. All he had to do was bowl over a harmless sitting duck and this was beyond his power. Rocky's left hook, as badly thrown as it was, was his only effective weapon and his dread right was worthless. The only thing the right cross achieved was to floor Marciano himself as he missed violently and went sprawling of his own momentum.

"The Blockbuster obviously needs work. Al Weill, nursing him along with supercaution, should realize that now. Before the Savold exhibition everyone had the impression that Marciano could destroy both Jersey Joe Walcott and Ezzard Charles simultaneously. Now no one can be sure that he even could catch up with either since they both are crafty ring generals.

"Rocky Marciano has an awful lot to learn."

Rookies Grab Score Spotlight As National Race Tightens; Rayner Hurt, Out for Season

(By The Canadian Press)

Emile Percy Francis, known in hockey circles as "The Cat," has been in and out of the National Hockey League for the last five years. Last night, the 26-year-old goalie from North Battleford, Sask., may have turned in an exhibition that will keep him around for a long time.

Called in from Cincinnati of the American Hockey League to replace Chuck Rayner, the Rangers' regular goalkeeper who may be out for the rest of the season, Francis stood off a barrage of Canadiens' pucks and earned the Blueshirts a 3-2 victory. Rayner suffered a torn left knee cartilage Saturday night at Montreal.

The win gave the Rangers a split with the Habs who won 5-1 in Montreal Saturday night.

All Tied Up

The Canadiens' lone victory moved them into a second-place deadlock with Toronto Maple Leafs who tied their only game 2-2 with Chicago Saturday. The New York clash kept the Rangers in pace with Boston Bruins who came throught with a 5-2 victory at Chicago Sunday afternoon.

The Leafs and Habs are tied for the runner-up position, 13 points back of the idle Detroit Red Wings. The Bruins and Rangers are dealocked in fourth. Chicago remains in the cellar.

Rayner was hurt near the end of the second period Saturday when he skated out to hook the puck away from Paul Meger. He fell to the ice and Meger sprawled over him. Rayner finished the game, but doctors said they thought he will have to have an operation on the injured limb.

Ed Slowinski handed New York a 1-0 Sunday night lead. Hy Buller made it 2-0 in the second period. Then Dick Gamble put Canadiens back in the game, but Ed Kullman scored what proved to be the winner. Bernie Geoffrion notched the Habs' other tally.

Elmer Lach received an assist on Dick Gamble's goal—his 345th of N. H. L. career. It broke Bill Cowley's all-time assist mark.

Herb Dickenson gave New York their brief 1-0 lead at Montreal Saturday, all but erased by five following Canadiens goals. Dickie Moore potted three of them while Bernie Geoffrion collected the other two.

Rookies Stand Out

Yesterday afternoon at Chicago, rookie Real Chevrefils led the Bruins to their 5-2 win with two goals, his first of N. H. L. play.

Milt Schmidt, Ed Kryzanowski and George Sullivan collected the other Bruin tallies while George Gee and Bill Mosienko banged in the Black Hawk goals.

Chicago's Bep Guidolin drew fines totalling $125 for a misconduct and a match penalty. Both troubles resulting from arguments with referee Red Storey.

It was Tod Sloan who once again saved Toronto from a loss with a goal at 13.02 of the final period. Harry Watson tallied the Leafs' other goal while Pete Horeck and Steve Witiuk lit the light for the visitors.

Leafs took a first period lead and then Chicago tied it up and went on to hold a 2-1 third-period edge. Sloan's goal ended that.

Jeannette Altwegg Takes Early Lead In Figure Skating

Olso, Feb. 16—(CP)—Jeannette Altwegg, the English girl who holds the world figure-skating championship, took the early lead today in an effort to succeed Canada's Barbara Ann Scott for the Olympic title.

After two figures were completed by the large field of 25 in the opening phases of compulsory or school figures, Miss Altwegg led with an unofficial score of 290.4.

Suzanne Morrow of Toronto, hard at work training in Europe for several months, was scored fifth with 267.

Canada's two other entrants were outside the first 10. Vevi Smith of Toronto was 11th with 249 and Marlene Smith of Niagara Falls, Ont., 16th with 233.4.

Tenley Albright of Newton Centre, Mass., was scored second with 278.4 and Jacqueline du Bief, ranked close to Miss Altwegg as a favorite, was third with 275.4.

Sonya Klopper, 17-year-old New York school girl who holds the United States and North American championships, was fourth with 270.3, and Barbara Wyatt of Great Britain sixth with 265.2. Virginia Baxter of Detroit was seventh with 264.3.

The field had more school figures to go through this afternoon and another set Monday, with the free-skating half of the event scheduled for next Wednesday.

Crippled Hawks Bow to Sacs For Seventh Straight Defeat; Semark Sustains Fresh Injury

Kingston, Ont. — Belleville's grievously-wounded and short-handed Hawks fluttered in adversity here on Saturday night and sustained their seventh consecutive reverse when the Sacs posted an 8 to 4 victory that cut the losers third place lead to one point. Slightly over 1200 fans were in attendance.

The locals, with Cliff Aitken the marksman, opened the scoring sixty-one seconds after the game began and continued to force the issue with such telling effect that they led by 3 to 0 at the first intermission. Sammy Mulholland, aided by Don Murray, got the second counter at 13.11 and at 16.58, Gerry Wager, with Myra Bender assisting, flashed the puck past goalkeeper Green.

Even in Second

The Hawks came back strongly in the next session and split goal getting honors evenly, each scoring twice. Coach "Red" Doran, with Jones assisting, beat Don Anderson at 4.36 and duplicated the feat at 12.48 after George MacGregor, had connected for the locals at 9.34. Later in the session, MacGregor struck again after Aitken had engineered the attack.

Although the fact may not have been observed by the fans it is thought likely that a joint record was established when each team got exactly as many goals as assists although only one assist was awarded on each marker. Aitken and MacGregor, each with two goals and an assist, earned the imaginary "stars" but Jones of the Hawks was a worthy challenger with one goal and two assists. Doran and Mulholland each scored twice.

The locals took the worst of it in penalties with five that consumed 18 minutes as against four minors assessed against the visitors. The only double offenders were MacDonald, who got two minors, and Latimer, who served a minor and a misconduct.

Seven of the nine penalties inflicted by referee Pete Nigh, were served in that hectic middle period, the highlights being — a minor and misconduct against Dave Latimer and a minor to goalkeeper Don Anderson. The Sacs drew four of the sentences but extra man-power enabled them to prevent the Hawks from staging dangerous rallies.

MacDonald, with Vernon Goyer drawing an assist, made it a 5-4 affair at 6.31 in the last period but "Gabby" White who took a pass from the speedy MacGregor, got that one back, at 13.41. The visitors then threw caution to the winds and went in for all-out attacking which paid dividends when Jones outguessed Anderson at 15.18. The effort, however, took a heavy toll and two quick counters by Aitken and Mulholland rang down the curtain . . .

The teams:

Belleville: Goal, Green; defence, Reeves and Semark; centre, Goyer; wings, MacDonald and Moher. Alternates, Doran, Jones, Wardhaugh, Barrett, Day and Desjardins.

Kingston: Goal, Anderson; defence, Stewart and Chretien; centre, Murray; wings, Mulholland and Aitken. Alternates, MacGregor, White, Larmer, Wagar, Bender, Goodfellow, and Latimer.

Referee: Pete Nigh, Peterborough; linesman, Art Casterton, Kingston.

First period

1 Kingston, Aitken. (Stewart)	1.01
2 Kingston, Mulholland (Murray)	13.11
3 Kingston, Wagar, (Bender)	16.58

Penalty—Larmer.

Second period

4 Belleville, Doran (Jones)	4.36
5 Kingston, McGregor (Goodfellow)	9.34
6 Belleville, Doran (Jones)	12.48
7 Kingston, McGregor (Aitken)	18.29

Penalties — MacDonald (2), Stewart, Latimer (minor and misconduct), Anderson, Doran.

Third period

8 Belleville, MacDonald (Goyer)	6.31
9 Kingston, White (McGregor)	13.41
10 Belleville, Jones (Barrett)	15.18
11 Kingston, Aitken (Murray)	16.13
12 Kingston, Mulholland (Murray)	17.21

Penalty—Jones.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Defensive bidding may seem tough. But it softens up when you and your partner know what's what. You know what's what only when you know its signals and simple mathematics.

When an opponent opens with a bid of one, suppose you have a hand that is as good as an opening of one. How tell your partner you have such a hand? By saying double.

Being as good as an opening one bid your double shows at least five tricks, with at least four high cards among them, of which at least two are sure tricks.

Suppose you have five tricks but not quite four high cards or two sure tricks. Then you would merely bid your suit if it was at least biddable and had no less than five cards in it.

Thus, if you defensively bid a suit you deny a hand as good as an opening one bid. This distinction is valuable information between partners who are defending against an opponent opening.

South dealt these cards:

NORTH
♥A Q 5
♦J 6
♣Q J 6

WEST	EAST
♠9 6	♠7
♥K 7 4 2	♥10 9 8 6
♦A K 9 3	♦10 8 7 5
♣K 7 2	♣8 5 4 3

SOUTH
♠K J 10 4 3
♥J 3
♦Q 4 2
♣A 10 9

Lacking the requirements for an opening one bid, south passes. West opens with a diamond. He has enough; five tricks, four highs, two sures, and a diamond suit that is biddable.

North also has enough for an opening bid of one in something. He has six tricks, one more than he needs. He has five high cards, one more than he needs. He has two sure tricks, just enough.

The bidding having been opened by an opponent, it is too late for north to open. But he can show partner that he holds a hand that would have opened. He says it with the word double.

True, north also has enough for a bid of one spade. But a bid of one spade would have denied the strength in north. He is much better off telling south what's what.

Don Smythe, Toronto Boulevard Club, gained revenge from last year's defeat by Bev Westcott, Toronto Badminton and Racquet Club, by reversing the verdict this year in downing Westcott 15-8, 15-6, for the men's singles crown.

The new ladies' doubles champions are Miss Ince and Joan Warren, Toronto Carlton Club, who defeated Edith Marshall and Mary Gill of Toronto Carlton 15-7, 16-14, in the final.

Gordon Simpson, Kingston, and Dick Birch, Toronto Carlton, are the new men's doubles champions, defeating Dick Sebben and Grant Henry, Toronto Strathgowan, 11-15, 15-12, 15-12 in the title match.

The last match of the tournament saw the new pairs contest in the mixed doubles championships as Miss Ince and Birch took the measure of Miss Marshall and Bud Porter, Toronto B. and R. Club, 15-12, 15-4.

AT THE CAPITOL
"DISTANT DRUMS"

Lovely Mari Aldon, Toronto born actress now under a Warner Bros. contract, got her first taste of Southern hospitality on location for "Distant Drums," the United States Pictures Production presented by Warner Bros. Gary Cooper has the starring role in the Technicolor epic which bows tonight at the Capitol Theatre, for its first city showing.

"I was born and raised in Canada and then came to California," said Miss Aldon. "All I know about the South was what I read in history books, and although I had heard the phrase, "Southern hospitality,' I didn't quite know what it meant. It's like Catalina Island, you don't appreciate it until you've seen it."

Specifically, the luscious blonde was referring to the Southern gentlemen who escorted her around town when she was in Florida for the film's production.

"I guess it's the tradition of the South, the way the men treat their women," Mari said. "They make a woman feel so delicately feminine the way they open car doors and offer their arm to cross the street."

"Distant Drums," story of the Seminole Indian Wars of 1840, features Richard Webb, Ray Teal and Arthur Hunnicutt.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 18 (AP)—For the first time since his movie career began, Dana Andrews is a free man.

The handsome leading man bought his way out of his contract with Samuel Goldwyn, who shared Andrews' talents with 20th-Fox. "I had to pay him $100,000," said the actor ,"but it was worth it."

His current film, "Assignment—Paris," is his last under the old Goldwyn deal. Andrews wanted to break the contract so he would be able to enter an attractive deal with director Mark Robson. The latter plans to sail to the South Seas to film one of the stories from "Return to Paradise", the best-seller by James Michener. Robson wants Andrews for the leading role.

Parks Returns

Larry Parks is coming out in the public eye again, after remaining in hiding since he testified in Washington he had been a communist. This week he made an anti-communist speech before an American Legion meeting in Monrovia. He also showed up at the Photoplay dinner with his wife Betty Garrett.

His only unreleased film, "Love is Better Than Ever", will be shown soon. . .

Corn Pays Off

At 70, Cecil B. DeMille is finally reaping the awards. He was given a special Oscar last year, won a Photoplay award and will be honored by Hollywood foreign correspondents next week.

The oldtimer was long overlooked by the academy and others who dealt out awards for "artistic merit". Now the award-givers realize that corn can't be ignored, particularly such a popular variety as DeMille's.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Tuesday, February 19,

March 21 to April 20—(Aries).. Wishful thinking and emotional action do not promote progress or real happiness. The soundly cooperative, sensibly busy individual will get off to a good start. Mixed aspects; guard speech.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—May have to do some convincing of those with whom you deal in business or any transactions. A wise reasoning attitude, processing each item carefully, will put you through wisely.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Main objectives today may be money or property matters. Stars suggest you go easy, get all data possible before acting. Clear-cut knowledge, without biased judgment, needed throughout.

June 22 to July 23— (Cancer)—Hidden advantages for you to find. Have the desire, will and energy, and you will achieve. But caution is needed in handling savings, others' affairs or earnings. Don't judge hastily.

[illegible] to September 23—(Virgo)—In contact with many people, large concerns, labor in general? Stress calm manner and tolerance. To exaggerate reacts unfavorably You are equal to grand day's job.

September 24 to October 23—Libra—No day for post-mortems. Get to facts quickly; study well real business of the day. Wise reservations necessary. Nature manifests itself as a wonderful guide for your outlook.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Some contrary viewpoints to bridge, especially likely in money matters in early hours. Accept no "fancy" theories; study, differentiate carefully. Use your common sense.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)— Prime for a big, benefic day and you will be building it up. Regular business, personal affairs highly favored, Avoid inconsistencies, be alert, direct and you can reap rewards.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Day's yield will depend on how hard and smartly you can handle both problems and advantages. Pursuit of important issues, devoting time energetically in right way, brings results.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— May think at first things look difficult. Under the surface is plenty of opportunity. Use it and your talents well; it will require work, thinking, but will pay big dividends.

GEORGE VI, ELIZABETH II

The King is dead
God rest his soul
Throughout the world
The church bells toll.
The King is dead,
And millions mourn,
From the humblest to the highest born.
A King respected, honored, loved.
Now gone to his reward above.
History will record his reign,
And "George The Good,"
Shall be his name

The King is dead
Long live the Queen,
May she with strength
And wisdom reign
The guns salute,
The church bells ring
For her, the daughter of a King.
On her young shoulders
Falls the heavy task,
A heritage of birth, unmasked
To rule an Empire of renown,
And proudly, humbly, wear the crown.

—Anne Simpson.

Have You Forgotten Your Feathered Friends

You are very generous my friend,
And never refuse a helping hand,
You give to charities one and all.
You giev till it hurts to church and hall
You feed the beggers and help the blind
And bring good cheer to a troubled mind
Your generosity never ends.
But have you forgotten your feathered friends?
When the snow lies deep, and the winds blow cold
The crumbs from your table are precious as gold
To God's little creatures, who stay all year
To brighten our lives with a song of cheer

—Anne Simpson

Bail Totalling $6,000 Set For Three Men

Fort William, Feb. 18 — (CP)— Bail totalling $6,000 was set Saturday for three men charged with alleged irregularities at the government taxation office here.

Israel Jacob Grosman, 36, of Toronto, and Joseph Rosario Armand Seguin, 33, of Hull, Que., both former tax assessors at the Fort William office, were to be released on bail of $2,500 each.

Wallace Charles Du Guay, 40, of Campbellion, N. B., an accountaint, was to be released on $1,000 bail.

In court Saturday they were remanded for preliminary hearing next Saturday.

Grosman and Seguin were charged with conspiracy to defraud, uttering forged documents and breach of trust. De Guay was charged with conspiracy to defraud.

Seguin and Grosman are accused of making use of a false document, purporting to be signed by W. A. Blennerhassett, Dominion income tax director here. The document would purport to relieve two Fort William residents from paying income tax and filing returns.

Husband Gives Self Up to Face Abduction Charge

The victim of a two-day search by police, John Lalonde, seen here with his bride of six days, 15-year-old Marjorie May McGonegal, gave himself up at police headquarters at Perth, Ont., to be formally charged with abduction. Action was the result of a warrant issued by the girl's mother, who told police she had been opposed to the marriage of her young daughter to 43-year-old magazine salesman for some time. The couple were married on Feb. 7 in Perth, while mother was away visiting her husband, a construction worker at Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. — Central Press Canadian.

Police Captain Says 34 Killed Aboard Airliner

Burgio, Sicily, Feb. 18 (AP)—Police reached the wreckage of a British airliner on the side of nearby Mt. Rose today and reported all aboard were dead. Accounts differed, however, as to whether the toll was 31 or 34.

A police captain with the search party said he counted 34 bodies — 17 men, 14 women and three children. Previous reports from the crash scene said the dead numbered 31 and the airline operating the chartered craft said it was carrying that number—26 passengers and a crew of five.

Many of the victims were reported to be families of British soldiers stationed in Kenya, Britain's East African Colony. The plane, a twin - motored Viking, was en route from London to Nairobi.

The Carabinieri captain commanding the search party said the plane crashed 3,600 feet up the mountain, which rises 4,500 feet near this little village 10 miles from the southeast coast of Sicily.

He said the bodies were scattered over a wide area and many were stripped of their clothing. The plane did not burn and the dead were recognizable.

The plane was operated by a charter firm, Hunting Air Transport. It was last heard from late Saturday afternoon, an hour before it was due at Malta.

The wreckage was first sighted yesterday by another British passenger plane.

Airline officials withheld announcement of identities of the dead pending notification of next of kin.

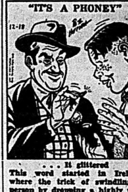
WHY WE SAY



. . . It glittered

This word started in Ireland where the trick of swindling a person by dropping a highly polished brass ring at the victim's feet was used by street robbers. The ring was picked up by the swindler who would exclaim that he had found a solid gold ring which he would promptly sell to the victim. The word phoney comes from "fainne" the gaelic word for ring.

Provincial Grants Cover Practically All Outlay

Bancroft—An examination of a North Hastings township school area's financial statement showed that in 1951 the ratepayers paid for very little more than the free text books and supplies that were issued to the pupils and that provincial grants covered practically everything else.

Mayo is a township a few miles east of the village of Bancroft. It has a two-room school at Hermon and a one room school at McArthur's Mills. These two places now have the children who are transported from the closed building at Hartsmere. The total enrolment for the past few years has been about 75.

An abstract of the audit of the school area, dated Dec. 31st, 1951 and signed by Nelson Whitmore, chairman and A. W. Ramsbottom secretary-treasurer gives clearly the financial picture.

At the end of 1950 the credit balance was $3,878.75. During the year government grants received were $12,138.46; township grants were $600; the trustee levy was $221.68, and Denbigh township paid tuition fees of $70.

In 1951 the average cost of books and supplies given free to each child was approximately $10. As these were bought in quantities with discounts, the cost to individual parents, if bought privately, would have been about $11.50 per child.

For a total of 75 pupils this would have required an outlay of $862.50 by fathers and mothers. Their share of the gross disbursements of $11,557.68 that included expenditures for teachers' salaries, instructional supplies, administration, transportation, operation, maintenance, auxiliary agencies, and capital outlay was a total of 821.68.

That the school affairs of Mayo are in good financial position was shown by a cash balance of $5,351.35 and $822.37 to be paid by the township. Against these assets of $6,173.72 there were not any liabilities. The capital balance sheet showed assets of $14,175.00 with debentures of $3,500.

Undesirable Alien

Serge M. Rubinstein, Russian-born financier, has been ordered to leave the country by the U.S. Immigration Service following a finding that Rubinstein had committed an act "involving moral turpitude" by dodging the draft in World War II. Committing such an act makes an alien deportable. Since his arrival in the U.S. in 1938, Rubinstein has been in and out many courts and jails on various offences. — Central Press Canadian.

Congregational Meetings

ALLIANCE TABERNACLE

The annual congregational meeting of the Christian and Missionary Alliance Tabernacle was held on Tuesday evening [illegible] a good representation of members present. The pastor, the Reverend Robert Gray presided.

Following a short devotional period, consisting of the singing of "The Church's One Foundation" and the reading of the Scripture from 1 Cor. 4, with emphasis on the second verse, "Moreover it is required in stewards, that a man be found faithful." The various reports were read from the different departments of the church, each showing a substantial balance on hand for the ensuing year.

These reports included the church treasurer's, Mr. Harold Vanderwater, which was most gratifying, showing a total of $9,245.28 received with a balance of $471.04 after all disbursements had been made.

Fine Missionary Spirit

The missionary treasurer's report for the year was more than pleasing as from April of 1951 to the present time, $3,931.52 had been received and sent to New York. This showed an increase of missionary giving of $545.24 over that of the year of 1950.

In mentioning the fine missionary spirit of the church, Mr. Gray brought out the fact that in point of giving, the missionary fund for the past five years was $15,179.43, about one-half of the total offerings over all.

The cheques are made out to the Christian and Missionary Alliance and are forwarded to New York, and from there to the Royal Bank, Toronto and from there disbursed to the missionaries in sterling areas, as India, Hong Kong and other places where the sterling currency is used.

Other reports included the Women's Prayer Band which meets each Wednesday afternoon to pray for foreign missions; the Sunday School; an oral report of the meetings held at the Old People's Home, given by Mr. Breach who has been bringing cheer to these aged people for the past 30 years; and the pastor's report which was heartening and all-inclusive. It also included the Y.P. report.

After the reading of the reports, the election of officers resulted with the following being elected 'en bloc': treasurer, H. Vanderwater; financial secretary, D. Benn; missionary treasurer, Mrs. F. Fraser; secretary, K. M. Dixon. Executive Committee: J. L. Atyeo, A. A. Breach, T. Winters, H. J. Ward. Sunday School superintendent, G. N. Brown; Young People's president, P. Delaney; communion table stewardess, Mrs. J. Weese.

An honorary board membership was established for retiring board members who had served for a number of years. Those whose names were to be so honored were: H. Vrooman and G. Brooker.

Where do they get Nickel?

"Son, about 90 per cent of all the nickel used in the world comes from Canada. The Inco nickel mines and smelters are the biggest in the world. They are near Sudbury, Ontario. Some of the mines are nearly a mile deep. Altogether there are over 280 miles of underground tunnels."
"At Sudbury millions of dollars have been spent developing better methods of producing nickel. That is one reason why Canada produces 90 per cent of the nickel used in the world. Today most of it is going into the defence programme."

McCann States Refunds Coming On Income Tax

Wants Returns Filed As Early As Possible

Ottawa, February 19 — The Hon. Dr. J. J. McCann, minister of national revenue, today announced that out of approximately 3,500,000, more than 2,000,000 individual taxpayers will be entitled to refunds on their 1951 income tax of a total amount in the neighborhood of $60,000,000. Taxpayers claiming refunds should file their 1951 returns as soon as possible in order that they may receive their refund cheques early.

The current tax deduction tables provide for approximately 100 per cent tax deduction at the source, and the following are some of the factors which may cause over deduction of tax at source from individual taxpayers and entitle them to refunds:

1. Interrupted employment.
2. Charitable donations or unusual medical expenses.
3. An increase in the number of dependents.
4. The allowance for certain union dues which are deductible for the first time this year.

It is estimated by the taxation division that individual taxpayers in Montreal and Toronto will likely claim refunds totalling $11,000,000 in each city. In Hamilton and Vancouver, the amount of refunds expected to be claimed will be in the neighborhood of $4,500,000 in each city.

Given Priority

The returns of taxpayers entitled to refunds are given priority by the taxation division, provided they have been correctly completed and all the required attachments are included. To ensure early attention to the return, a taxpayer should check the following:

1. That the proper income tax form is used. The T-1 short form is for use by individuals whose earned income of any amount is solely from salary, wages or pension and whose investment income, such as interest, dividends, rents, etc., if any, is not over $2,400. All other individuals — such as taxpayers in business or receiving commissions, farmers, fishermen, doctors, lawyers, and taxpayers claiming foreign tax credits, will use the larger T-1 general:
2. That the form is fully completed and signed;
3. That the tax is calculated correctly;
4. That the T-4 salary and wage slips, receipts for charitable donations and receipts for medical expenses that are claimed, are attached securely to the income tax form;
5. That certificates for allowable union dues are attached securely to the income tax form.

Will Receive Rebate

The minister emphasized that if taxpayers will observe these points and file their income tax returns early, they may expect to receive any refund cheque to which they are entitled promptly.

In order to obtain quicker service, taxpayers requiring information should write or visit their nearest income tax office as soon as possible.

The preparation of the millions of refund cheques is the responsibility of the treasury branch, which is prepared to issue the cheques rapidly.

The 1951 income tax forms are available at any post office or income tax office. In addition, many employers are assisting their employees by having the income tax forms available at their places of employment.

The attached list shows the estimated amount of refunds likely to be claimed according to district income tax offices.

WANT INVESTIGATION

Guatemala City, Guatemala, Feb. 19 — (Reuters) — Union leaders representing 6,000 employees of the United States and British-owned International Railway of Central America today demanded a "complete investigation of the financial position" of the company. In answer to requests for wage increases, Thomas Bradshaw, president of the firm, had told the employees that the company was "on the verge of bankruptcy".

30 Persons Die In Three-Day Blizzard

Boston Feb. 19—(CP)— More snow is on the way for New England where 30 persons died in the blizzard which ended early yesterday.

While the northeastern states were still digging out of their worst storm in years, the weather bureau predicted snow or rain in the south and snow in the north for tomorrow.

The 30 deaths in the storm which began Sunday night were followed by the loss of even more lives when the storm cracked two tankers across the middle off Chatham, Mass., yesterday.

The howling northeast blizzard deposited from about eight inches of snow in Boston to 31 inches in parts of New Hampshire. The 26-inch snowfall in Lewiston, Me., was the heaviest since the blizzard of 1888.

More than 1,000 persons were marooned by the storm in 350 cars and nine buses on route 1 near Biddeford Me.

Knut Hamsun, Nobel Prize Winner, Dies

Oslo, Feb. 19. (AP) — Knut Hamsun, 92, the noted Norwegian author and Nobel Prize winner died today.

The author, who led a vagabond existence during his early life and once ran a horsecar in Chicago in the 1880s, was a fisherman off the Grand Bank of Newfoundland.

He won the Nobel Prize in 1920 for his novel "The Growth of Soil."

When the Germans invaded Norway in 1940 he denounced the Norwegian government for organizing resistance. In 1945 he and his wife were arrested on charges of collaborating with the Germans and quisling authorities.

The reason charge against him finally was dropped because of his age.

USEFUL SAVING

Vancouver, Feb. 19 (CP) —Mrs. George Churcher knew what she was doing when she stopped buying tailor-made cigarets and started rolling her own. With the money saved, she paid for a trans-Pacific telephone call to her soldier husband in hospital at Kure, Japan. "I think he was really cheered up," she said.

Japan Joining Canada, United States In Studies of Pribilof Seal Herds

Ottawa, Feb. 19 (CP) —For the first time in more than a decade, Japan is joining Canada and the United States this year in their perennial studies of the great Pribilof seal herds of the northern Pacific.

Japan's re-entry into the continuing seal search program ranging across the Pacific has given officials here expectations that she again will become a signatory to the Alaska fur-seal agreement, which she abrogated in 1941.

The agreement imposes rigid controls on the killing of seals among the 300,000,000 that breed in the U.S.-owned Pribilof Islands north of the Aleutians. Canada and the U.S. now are the only signatories to the treaty, which protects about 80 percent of the world's fur seals.

Japan withdrew from the agreement before she entered the second World War. She claimed the herd, migrating along the Japanese coast, was devouring huge quantities of fish.

That is one of the questions which this year's three-way research program is aimed at settling. One of two expeditions financed by the U.S. will cruise the Western Pacific taking about 3,000 seals and examining them to see what they eat.

U.S. authorities have contended that earlier, but smaller-scale, investigations show seals live largely off non-commercial types of fish.

The western expedition and one based on this side of the Pacific—there will be two ships in each—also will dig into the long-standing puzzle of just where the seals go when they leave the far-northern breeding grounds. They disappear for about five months a year.

Canada has a sizeable stake in the research program, since she splits the yearly seal harvest with the United States. The U.S. gets 80 percent of the controlled kill and Canada the remainder. Last year, Canada got 12,000 pelts worth about $660,000.

The Canadian share in this year's research program will be to provide scientific workers for the operations starting about now and ending in June. The Canadians will be F. H. C. Taylor, J. I. Manzer and B. M. Chatwin, all of the fisheries department's Pacific biological station at Nanaimo, B.C.

HULL MURDER CASE COMPLETED, READY FOR JURY

No Defence Witnesses Asked to Testify

Hull, Que., Feb. 19 (CP) —The case of 37-year-old Rheal Leo Bertrand, charged with the fire-murder of his 52-year-old wife, will be given to a Court of Queen's Bench jury sometime today.

Defence Counsel Jean Drapeau of Montreal has announced that the defence will call no witnesses but today he and Crown Prosecutor Noel Dorion of Quebec City will sum up and Mr. Justice Valmore venue will charge the jury on points of law.

The Crown yesterday ended its six day parade of witnesses.

It charged that Bertrand, employee of an Ottawa dry-cleaning establishment who practised psychiatry at night on the strength of correspondence - school degrees, killed his wife last Nov. 10 in a remote hunting cabin near Lac Ste. Marie, Que.

It charges he drenched her body with cleaning fluid and then set fire to the cabin.

Bertrand's defence is that his wife, whom he married two months before she died, was trying to light a gasoline lamp in the cabin when the lamp exploded, setting the place on fire. He told police he was momentarily absent from the cabin at the time but the fire spread so rapidly he could do nothing to save his wife.

Rural, Village Teachers Stay Away from Desks

Sydney, N. S., Feb. 19 (CP) — More than 330 rural and village teachers in two Nova Scotia counties will stay away from their desks today in strike action to back up salary demands.

Cape Breton county's 243 teachers have been on strike since Jan. 31 and last night refused a settlement offer of a $100 increase plus an extra $100 for married male teachers. They asked a straight $300 increase.

In Antigonish county, on the mainland, the 93 rural and village teachers announced last night that they would remain away from their desks until their demands were met. They asked a $180 yearly increase, $100 increment after a year's experience and additional increases for each year of training.

In Cape Breton county, about 5,500 students have been left without classes by the strike. Antigonish county has about 2,000 rural and village pupils.

Both county councils rejected the demands last month and referred the matter to the provincial government.

Council Strikes 63-Mill Tax Rate, Increase of Four Mills Over Figure of Last Year

A 1952 tax rate of 63 mills—four mills over that of last year, was struck by city council at their budget meeting held Monday afternoon.

Construction of new school buildings with the necessary increase in teaching staff, together with salary increases for teachers and other civic employees, made up a big percentage of the overall mill rate increase. The general rate alone is up close to three mills over last year, this year standing at 33.4 mills.

An increase in assessment of slightly more than a million dollars over last year helped to keep the mill rate from going even higher. The assessment for the general rate this year is $18,097,370.

Public Schools up Little

Operation of the public schools system will require a mill rate of 16.6 mills this year, an increase of .7 mills over last year. The city's share of maintenance and operation of public schools, together with debenture charges is estimated at $270,809.33 as compared with $240,819.30 last year.

The high school rate this year is down .4 mills but with money requirements remaining essentially the same as last year at $101,803.87. last year the requirements for high school purposes was $101,933. The mill rate on an assessment of $18,206,570 this year is 5.6 mills. The Separate School rate is the same as the public school rate at 16.6 mills and on an assessment of $1,862,420 will raise $31,000.

Rate Broken Down

The mill rate for the city's share of local improvement is 1.5 mills; for garbage collection 2 mills and for hospitalization 2.3 mills.

Here it was pointed out by Alderman Bruce Laitimer that the rate for hospitalization was misleading as costs for indigent patients and nursing homes was included. He thought these costs should be broken down and listed on the tax bills.

The mill rate for relief purposes this year is 1.6 mills.

Making up more than one half of the total tax rate is the general rate, which is set at 33.4 mills. On an assessment of $18,097,370 this rate will raise $604,452.15.

Sundry receipts for the year from licences, police and fire grants, public works grants, fines and fees and receipts from parking meters were estimated at $168,250.

The big item in city expenditures out of the general rate is the Board of Works, cost of which is estimated at $203,125; the police commission will cost an estimated $105,138 and the fire department $130,580. The increase in the fire department results from the necessary hiring of five additional firemen to reduce work hours of members to 56 hours per week as required by provincial statutes.

Police this year were granted an increase of $250 in their "take home pay," while members of the fire department will receive $120 over their last year's "take home pay."

Supplementary Budget

Budgets of both departments were not completely settled until the time of the budget meeting with a supplementary budget of $1,550 being passed for the fire department. This was necessary to bring firemen's salary increase more in line with that of other departments.

Germany's Entrance Into European Community Worked Out by Big Three Ministers

London, Feb. 19—(AP)—The foreign ministers of the three western powers and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of western Germany said today they have removed obstacles to Germany's entrance into the European community.

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States, British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France listed in a communique seven points which they said assured a successful conclusion of talks now going on in Bonn and Paris.

The three ministers and Adenauer have been engaged in conferences here since Saturday in an effort to smooth German-French relations, open the way for creation of a European army in which German and French armed forces would be unified, and pave the way for a "peace contract" between western Germany and the occupation powers.

France Gives Aproval

Earlier today the French national assembly, by a vote of 327 to 287, gave a qualified approval to the European army plan for rearming Germany.

The foreign ministers' conferences here were a prelude to a full-dress meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Lisbon, Portugal.

Points in the four-power statement were:

1. They have decided to set up a series of meetings to deal with the problem of re-establishing armament production in Germany.

2. Have agreed on methods for dealing with war criminals now held in the west German republic.

3. Received the report of the N. A. T. O. temorpary committee of "wise men" recommending that west Germany contribute $2,677,500,000 to western defences and they were certain final agreement will be reached by the end of the current week.

Into Free World

4. Welcomed agreements toward establishment of the European defence community with its integrated European army and said this would provide the "solid foundation" for a peace contract between west Germany and the allies: The two treaties, the communique said, will constitute a "single structure" to bring west Germany into the free world.

5. Agreed on recommendations to be made at the meeting of N. A. T. O. in Lisbon this week on the relationship between N. A. T. O. and E. D. C.

6. Pledged the four countries would "ensure the preservation and the progressive strength" of the E. D. C. as a "partnership for peace."

7. Declared continuing efforts should be made to unify Germany by democratic and peaceful means.

Jury Returns Suicide Verdict

Sault Ste. Marie, Feb. 19 — (CP) — A verdict of suicide was returned last night by a coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Francis Jean, 59-year-old recluse found dead in a snowbank Saturday, shotgun wounds in his head. A discharged shotgun lay beside the body.

The jury heard evidence that Jean had made elaborate plans for his death.

Police said that the two-room cabin where Jean lived alone was spotlessly clean. Jean had cancelled his post office box and mailed his valuables to his brother, Peter, in Flint, Mich.

In the letter, he had sent the combination to the lock on his cabin door.

Neighbors testified they had heard Jean threaten to kill himself. One said Jean had done a large washing Feb. 2. — something he had never done before.

Police went to the cabin after they were contacted by Flint police on the request of Peter Jean. Peter had received letters from Francis in which the recluse said he would kill himself when his money ran out.

When Jean cancelled his post office box, he was asked if he wished to leave a forwarding address.

"Where I'm going I don't need one," he said.

SECTIONS OF TWO BROKEN TANKERS DRIFTING WILDLY

Seven Known Dead And 13 Unaccounted For

Chatham, Mass., Feb. 19—(AP) — Rough Atlantic seas boiled anew today under freshening winds as the coast guard cutter Eastwind neared the stern of the severed tanker Fort Mercer which has 33 survivors aboard.

Nine men were believed lost from the tanker Pendleton, which suffered the same fate as the Fort Mercer in yesterday's blinding snowstorm. Nine others are unaccounted for. Thirty-two were saved last night.

The drifting wreck of the Mercer was about 50 miles off Cape Cod.

May Throw Line Aboard

At coast guard headquarters it was considered probable the Eastwind might throw a line aboard the Mercer and tow her into Boston rather than attempt a rescue in the rough sea.

Meanwhile, the cutter Yakatat took two men from the bow section of the Mercer, bobbing in high waves 40 miles from the stern.

Rescued were Captain Frederick Paetzel of Houston, Tex., and purser Edward Turner, New York City.

The Yakatat reported the weather was growing worse and that she was unable to remove two other survivors by boat. She said she would try to shoot a line aboard and use a raft to effect a rescue.

The Eastwind replaced the cutter McCulloch which was ordered back to Boston. The McCulloch reported no sign of life aboard the bow of the Pendleton which was aground 1,500 yards off the Pollock Rip Lightship.

First word that 33 survivors were aboard the stern half of the Mercer came from the military transport Short Splice just after rescue operations resumed at dawn.

"We have just contacted the stern of the Fort Mercer," the Short Splice messaged Coast Guard headquarters. "There are 33 survivors aboard. They all seem o.k. The stern is riding good."

Among those feared lost in the bow of the Pendleton was her skipper, Capt. John Fitzgerald, 38, of Boston.

32 Seamen Rescued

Thirty-two seamen were rescued from the fourth section by the light of flares in a daring, split-second operation carried out in the face of a screaming northwest storm off perilous Chatham bar.

GIVES MONEY BACK

London, Feb. 19 (Reuters)—A British firm has given $112,000 back to its customers believing it has made too much money. The company, Hugh Stevenson and Sons, cardboard box makers, paid its chief customers two shillings back for every £1 spent during the last six months. Reason is that the company fixed high prices in anticipation of high raw materials costs, then found it could buy them cheaper.

Willie Sutton, Noted Bank Robber, Netted After Five-Year Manhunt

New York, Feb. 19 (AP) —Fugitive Willie (The Actor) Sutton emerged today from the role of an obscure miser with a $6-a-week room, and was called before a judge as the most sought bank robber in the United States.

Two alert young policemen recognized Sutton on a Brooklyn street yesterday, ending a vast five-year manhunt launched when he made the second prison break of his career.

Police were taking special precautions today as Sutton, 51, was to plead before Judge William B. Groat on an indictment accusing him of a $64.000 bank holdup here in March, 1950.

Sutton, whose exploits and disguises have become criminal legend, also has been mentioned by police in many other recent big jobs—including the $1,500,000 robbery of Brink's, Inc., Boston armed truck service, in 1950.

When asked about the Brink's job yesterday, Sutton told reporters:

"Hell, I don't know anything about it. I'll probably be blamed for anything unsolved in the books."

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan said the arrest "ends the greatest manhunt in history."

Sutton was spotted while tinkering at his automobile battery. He did not want to pay a garage mechanic $1.50 to do the job for him. But police found $7,000 in cash in his pocket and another $2,000 in his $6-a-week room.

Asked how he eluded capture Sutton said he kept away from police, never ate twice in the same restaurant, avoided old friends and "ducked women" who "can also get you in trouble."

Sutton earned his name of "The Actor"—as well as "Slick Willie"—from the disguises he used in his bank jobs.

Mr., Mrs. Harrison, Mr., Mrs. Gunter Accident Victims

Were Going to Florida For Month's Vacation

En route to Florida by motorcar where they intended to take a month's vacation, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Harrison, 14 Forin Street, Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard P. Gunter of Coe Hill, were killed Monday afternoon near Berwick, Pennsylvania, when their car was in collision with a large truck.

State police stated that the northbound truck driven by Stewart Ridgeway of Harrisburg, veered to the wrong lane in the road and crashed head on into the Canadian car. He is being held on a manslaughter charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, and Mr. and Mrs. Gunter, friends of many years standing, left Belleville Sunday morning in Mr. Harrison's car. The accident occurred 3.30 Monday afternoon, five miles north of Berwick in the northeastern part of Pennsylvania state.

Car Almost Demolished

The collision with the heavy truck almost completely demolished the Canadian car and drove it 40 feet back up the highway. Three of the passengers died instantly, one being thrown out of the car onto the highway.

One of the women was still living and was rushed to Berwich hospital but she died about 20 minutes after being admitted.

Identification of the four Canadians was made through personal papers carried, licence number of their car and a wrist watch which Mr. Harrison had been wearing. A gasoline purchase slip indicated Mr. Harrison had purchased gasoline at Syracuse, N.Y. early Monday morning.

The bodies are being returned to Belleville by the Belleville Burial Company. Employees of the burial firm left this morning for Berwick.

All Life in Belleville

Mr. Harrison was 62 and had lived all his life in the Belleville area and had been employed at J. B. Boyce and Sons as auto salesman for many years. Mrs. Harrison was the former Elsie Collins of the Moira district in Huntingdon township. Mr. Harrison took an active interest in educational matters and was a member of the Board of Education for several years, being chairman of the board in 1943. Since then he had acted on the advisory vocational committee.

Mr. Gunter, 58, had lived in Coe Hill all his life and was postmaster at the village. He was a veteran of the First World War. Mrs. Gunter, 56, was the former Laura Empey of Eldorado.

Mrs. Gunter and Mrs. Harrison were girlhood chums and had attended normal school together. Both were school teachers prior to their marriage.

Mr. and Mrs. Harrison are survived by two sons, Eugene 29, and Donald, 25, both of this city. Mr. Harrison has a brother Harry Harrison of Thurlow township, while Mrs. Harrison has a brother John Collins, of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Gunter has three sons, Ivan 31, of Coe Hill, Blake 29, of Oshawa, both Second World War veterans, Dale, 21, of Coe Hill, and one daughter Mrs. Shirley Turner, teacher at Blackstock near Port Perry.

Witness Says He Was Told To Keep Quiet

Kitchener, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Clayton Bechtel, who said he discovered the body of 21-year-old Donald Fowler, of Stratford outside a trailer last Nov. 21, said in court yesterday he was told to say nothing about his discovery.

Bechtel testified at the murder trial of Alvin Lebold and Albert Deleary, accused of slaying Fowler in a shooting outside a trailer shared by Lebold, Deleary and Fowler.

Bechtel said he went to the trailer about 8 a.m. to find out whether Fowler intended working for him that day. He said he found Fowler lying on his stomach outside the trailer, apparently dead.

When he opened the door of the trailer, he saw Lebold sitting on a chair and Deleary standing beside a stove, said Bechtel.

"Lebold turned and said, 'don't say anything.' Then he repeated, 'don't say anything.' Deleary remained silent."

Bechtel said he went immediately to the nearby home of Robert Hallman, for whom Lebold and Deleary worked. Accompanied by Hallman, he returned to the trailer. Then they called police.

Defence Counsel A. W. Boos asked Hallman if Lebold and Deleary had been drinking. Hallman said he didn't notice.

Asked if he had ever seen them drinking, Hallman replied that he had seen them drink but "they were always sober on pay days."

Earlier, Crown Attorney Harold Daufman, outlining the Crown's case to the jury, said the Crown would try to prove there had been a drinking party at the trailer the night before Fowler was found dead with a bullet in his neck.

The trial is continuing.

THE WEATHER

Toronto Feb. 19 (CP)—Synopsis: Most of Ontario basked under sunny skies yesterday, while the Maritimes were lashed by one of the worst storms of the season. This storm is gradually pushing out into the Atlantic leaving behind a thick blanket of snow along the northern coasts.

A new disturbance developing over Kansas will spread cloud into the southern half of the province today with snow gradually moving in from the west. Above freezing temperatures on Wednesday may turn some of this snow into rain in southwestern regions, while along the lower lakes there is a risk of some freezing rain mixed in.

Northern regions will remain mostly sunny today and Wednesday. Little change in temperature is expected for all regions.

Bucket Brigade Helps to Save Tyendinaga Home

A bucket brigade comprised of about 20 neighboring farmers was to a great measure responsible for saving the frame home of Charles Sargent, 7th concession of Tyendinaga, when the home caught fire this morning.

Firemen from Belleville raced to the scene and were successful in extinguishing the blaze. Damage to home and contents was estimated at about $1,800.

"Farmers manning the bucket brigade did a remarkable job in holding the fire until we got there with our pumper," Fire Chief Vance said.

Cause of the blaze was said to have been over-heated stovepipes in the living room of the dwelling. The owner of the house, C. Sargent is 94 years old, while a 75-year-old daughter, Mrs. Jean Kerryhart, acts as his housekeeper.

Advised to File Objection With Liquor Board

Residents of the Coleman Street area will oppose any move by the Canadian Legion to secure a public house licence for their club room in that area.

This was learned at Monday afternoon's meeting of city council, when a delegation from the Coleman Street area waited on council protesting the application of the Legion to secure a licence.

Spokesman for the delegation was Mr. Robt. Andrews who said that residents in the area did not want to have a public house next to their doors.

"I have no objection to the Legion," he said, "but we do not want to have to contend with the drunks when they are kicked out of the building."

He said that he personally owned several residences in the area which were of equal if not greater value than the Legion property. He said the district was far from being a slum area. Mrs. Frank Bateman also spoke for the delegation.

Mayor Haig advised that the final decision of granting a public house licence rested with the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, and advised the delegation to file their objection with that board.

Text of Budget By-Law Address by Ald. C.L. Hyde

Your Worship Mayor Haig and fellow members of the Council of the city of Belleville,—

As chairman of your executive and financial committee it has fallen to my lot to bring to your attention the annual financial budget for the year 1952. In presenting this budget for your adoption I believe I am expressing the sentiments of each member of this council when I say it is with deep regret that we have found it to be absolutely essential to levy for a considerably higher tax rate than that of last year. It has been a pleasure to work with all outstanding committees, city officials and members of other civic boards who played any part in the preparation of the estimates for this year, because of their harmonious cooperation and sincere effort on the part of everyone to hold necessary expenditures to a minimum, consistent with proper maintenance of services.

I feel we would be negligent in our duties if we were to levy for any amount of revenue which would not be sufficient to pay for the cost of all our lawful financial obligations, and therefore We cannot be expected to offer any apology for the proposed increased rate of 4 mills.

I cannot feel that any individual or group can be justly singled out for blame because of the situation we find ourselves in at the present time. We are caught in the maelstrom and rising tide of an unprecedented inflationary cost of living period from which there seems to be no evasion just now.

The people who may feel the effects the most are those persons whose income has become of a somewhat stationary nature and perhaps in some cases this condition may be alleviated because of the recent passing of the Old Age Assistance Act. A detailed copy of estimated revenues and expenditures will accompany these remarks and a copy given to the press. However, I feel I am duty bound to render some specific explanation for the main reasons of our increased rate of taxation.

Increase in Salaries

One of these is the demand for a general increase in salaries and wages in all departments of our civic administration, which appears to be quite justifiable and consistent with the general trend of the time.

Another main reason is the fact that the corporation's share of the debenture debt for development of the newly annexed areas and including the purchase of the old County Home property, has inevitably matured and must be honored this year, which will require an additional tax levy of over 2 mills. We hope to recover something from this with the sale of the old Home, and the vacant lots still unsold in that vicinity.

The Public School Board has been obliged to employ an additional thirteen teachers and no doubt the Separate School Board has added a proportionate number to their staff. In this regard I wish to add one rather significant observation. The net tax revenue which the city treasury will receive from the Wartime Housing homes in Churchill Heights and below No. 2 Highway, will, for a period of ten years, be almost nil, according to an agreement with the Wartime Housing and Mortgage Corporation At the same time we are obligated to serve these areas with educational facilities and all other municipal services, which is an actual subsidy to these veterans and their families, a consideration then undoubtedly deserve.

There would necessarily be in each of these homes, two or more children, the majority of whom would be of school age, so it is quite obvious that this number of children would almost absorb the services of the additional teachers on the staffs of our elementary schools. The Public School Board is also faced with the necessary expenditure of quite large maintenance repair items on two of the older school buildings. Their requisition indicates an increase of approximately one and a half mills or a total of 16.6 and the Separate School Board request an equal rate.

Remain About Same

I am pleased to report that the corporation's share of the cost of operating the Collegiate and Vocational School will, after deducting government grants, remain about on a par with last year. The new High School Area Board has requisitioned a larger sum of money but a slightly lower rate, because of our increased assessment of over one million dollars.

The Public Works department appropriation will indicate an increase of one third mill because of wages and additional cost of materials used for construction and maintenance of sewers, sidewalks and roads etc.

The police department will require a small increase in their rate and also the Corby Public Library Board.

The fire department, under new regulations is obliged to employ several additional firemen, and all firemen are on a shorter period per day and an increase in pay, requiring approximately one mill increase in tax rate over last year. May I add that the provincial government re-imburses the municipality with 20 percent of the cost of operating the fire department and the police department and 25 percent of the cost of Children's Aid wards in boarding care.

Costs Somewhat Higher

Under the welfare department the Children's Aid Society costs will be somewhat higher as also will the maintenance of direct relief and welfare although this will be somewhat relieved because many recipients will be cared for in our part of the new County Home and because more will be receiving the Government Old Age Assistance.

We hope to promote a more aggressive program of industrial expansion and have provided a small additional appropriation for this purpose. The executive committee operating budget will require nearly 1-2 mill additional revenue for administration and we weel that members of our City Hall staff are now second to none for efficiency and co-operation.

The board of parks management will, of course, receive their one mill according to by-law and we feel inclined on top of that to lend some assistance to the proposed improvements to Victoria Park and harbor facilities.

The Recreation Commission did an excellent job last year and we feel are entitled to a somewhat larger appropriation this year. We are hopeful that the Kinsmen Club swimming pool adjoining the tourist park will be in operation this summer for the benefit of our children and their parents. This commission also receives a substantial government subsidy.

I am sure that the citizens as a whole will be pleased to learn of the very satisfactory financial progress made by the Hospital Board of Management during the past year. The board is to be highly congratulated on the improvement in equipment and general efficiency in the operation of that important institution, in fact the board will this year be in a financial position to pay a large portion of the annual payment on hospital debt, from operating profits, an item I am positive will be very gratifying to everyone concerned. While the budget by-law shows a requisition of $41,162.95 for hospitalization, I would like to explain that this item includes the cost of the care of indigent patients, welfare and after care of T.B. cases.

The city property committee proposes some further improvements to the offices of the City Engineer and the Police Court and possibly the installation of public lavatory facilities.

Must Exercise Caution

I am fully cognizant of the fact that while our city's financial condition is not at all embarassing, we are treading close to the border line and must exercise extreme caution in the handling of public funds. We are reducing our capital debt at the rate of over two hundred thousand dollars per annum so that at the end of a ten year period that item would be reduced to a comparatively small amount, providing it is possible for us to refrain from issuing any large size debentures during the next few years. This, I would strongly urge upon all future councils.

In my opinion the time is long overdue when some solution must be found to relieve the heavy burden of taxation from property owners and real estate, when you consider that everyone benefits directly or indirectly from services supplied by the city.

One method would be to have the federal and provincial government contribute much larger grants to municipalities especially for education and welfare and recreation.

Another alternative would be to impose so called "nuisance taxes" with government permission, such as sales tax, a tax on luxuries, utilities etc., to which everyone would contribute.

I hesitate to mention another observation. I have been a member of the Board of Directors of the Children's Aid Society for 10 years and I believe the time long past due for a federal law permitting sterilization of mentally and morally deficient persons most of whose offspring become a permanent burden on society. I realize this could not be done indiscriminately but only on recommendation of a well-qualified board of examiners. I am advised that this simple operation does not produce impotence on the part of anyone and would save all social service organizations, and municipalities and governments hours of work and worry and large expenditures of money.

I hope I have made our position quite clear to the citizens as a whole and I am sure that all members of council have endeavored to serve you conscientiously, to the best of our ability, so as to merit a continuation of your confidence in all efforts on your behalf.

Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey Says Late King George VI Set Good Example for All

Trenton (Special)—As he sat on a red leather chesterfield and talked to newsmen in the lounge at the officers' mess at the Trenton Air Station Sunday the man destined to be Canada's first native born governor general in modern times looked fit and ready to take on his new post on February 28.

Only minutes earlier Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey had stepped down from a big R.C.A.F. C-5 that had carried him with other V.I.P.'s across the Atlantic from London. The transport, with Gen. H. D. Crerar, Air Vice Marshal Hugh Campbell, N.A.T.O., official, Campbell Moodie, Canadian government official at Washington, landed at 11.10 a.m., less than 24 hours after it had soared away from an airport near London, England. Two of the passengers, Mr. Massey and Gen. Crerar, had attended the burial service for King George VI.

At the station awaiting the arrival of Mr. Massey was his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Massey of Port Hope. Hon. Paul Martin, minister of health and welfare, grasped Mr. Massey's hand as he walked off the ramp.

Mr. Masey was on his way to Batterwood, his English type estate five miles north of Port Hope. In the next 10 days he will prepare for his summons to Ottawa. He said he will not rest but intends to attend to business matters until the night before he leaves to assume office.

Mr. Massey refrained from commenting on his appointment. He said he was a private citizen until February 28 and would say nothing until later on.

He said the tragic events of the last two weeks in England brought out a vast feeling of tenderness toward the British Royal Family. He said it was a great privilege to be there.

He felt that the King's death had a quieting effect on the troubled news in the world today.

The world he said had an example before them of the simple quiet goodness in the person of the late King. He spoke of the great surge of affection and sincere emotion great men and commoners alike had shown during the bereavement.

Mr. Massey had planned to return to Canada by ship and was disappointed that he was not in Halifax to say goodbye to Earl and Countess Alexander.

The plane that brought Mr. Massey back touched down at Lisbon, the Azores and Gander before touching down at Trenton.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 19 (CP) —Prices dipped sharply today in early afternoon stock market dealings as mid-session support weakened steadily. Trading was active.

Papers, utilities, constructions, steels, foods, liquors, refining oils, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues led industrials lower with a broad list of losses ranging from fractions to more than a point, textiles and retail stores slipped steadily.

Western oil losses ranged from pennies to about $1. Calgary and Edmonton, Calvan Consolidated, Federated Petroleum, Gridoil, Home Oil, North Canadian and Canadian Williston were among the heaviest losers.

Base metal leaders dipped abruptly. Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, Normetal, Noranda and Steep Rock showed losses ranging to 50 cents. Ascot, Barvue, United Asbestos and Yukeno eased pennies.

Senior golds were mixed. Junior producers, prospects and holding companies declined.

"BELLEVILLE'S LARGEST INSURANCE OFFICE"

'Pack Up Your Troubles' Staged, Produced by Kiwanis Club One of The Best of Series Given

By GEO. H. CARVER

Fastidious first-nighters turned "thumbs-up" on the Kiwanis Club's 1952 edition of its musical extravaganza "Pack Up Your Troubles" at the Collegiate auditorium Monday night.

The first all-Belleville cast backgrounded by the superb music of Larry Brown and the Commodores orchestra came through with flying colors in a delightful revue-patterned presentation that merited the ovation given it.

It is a good show. The production is good. It is well-balanced with a fine sequence of numbers in which variation is the keynote. There is subtle as well as a dash of slapstick comedy. Coloring and lighting are excellent and although at the beginning the acoustics were slightly awry this was quickly remedied and the presentation rolled merrily onward to its musical climax.

Speaking collectively the choral work and the ensemble dancing of the Morrison School of Dancing were outstanding features. Director Larry Brown has welded together a chorus of exceptionally fine voices with an eye to balance. The choral background to featured vocal numbers added a delightfully melodic touch.

Marked Ability, Grace

Colorfully costumed in appropriate garb the members of the dancing school gave ample evidence of marked ability and grace. The feature number in the "Carmen" satire executed by Harry Morrison and Peggy Trainer was a masterpiece of the Spanish dance. The "old-fashioned waltz" with dancers apparelled in period evening attire was an eye-pleasing spectacle, restful to the eye and ear with its distinctive Straus musical background.

Back to the chorus for the moment. The ensemble smartly and nattily garbed in evening apparel open the show and carry through a fine performance with specialty numbers. Their background work in the featured "Excerpts from Gershwin" and the comedy adaptation of "Carmen" were outstanding.

Ethel Smith Lawrenson's splendid voice was heard in several numbers. Mrs. Lawrenson's versatility was evident in her role of a Spanish "Little Red Riding Hood" when she displayed comedienne traits that fitted in appropriately with the humorous presentation of the famous opera. She was heard in duet with Art Duby in "Why Do I Love You" and "You Are Love" while her performance in the Gershwin number was outstanding.

Art Duby and Ron Elmy male vocal stars of the show who shared the spotlight with Maestro Harold Carruthers are heard in several offerings all of them tuneful.

Featured stars of the show are Betty Domosly, heard with the chorus in How High the Moon", Aldythe Arthur, whose voice in the "Morgan" manner is heard in "The Man I Love" and Alice Vandervoort and J. Hutchinson: The latter pair (this is off the record) do a delightful solo and duet with "Orange-colored Sky" and "She's a Lady."

Topflight Comedy

The comedy is topflight and laugh - provoking Ed Waterhouse and Bill Salter headline the "laughs" department and come through with excellent performances. Skits like "On the Beach," "Alphonse and Gaston," "Poetry and Prose," "Our Nell" in which they are aided by Jimmy Aikens and Glen Penman on the old "mellerdrammer", and which should be seen to be appreciated, are climaxed with hilarious antics in the "Carmen" number. Subtle comedy along the race-track tout-sucker line is splendidly staged by Tom Peake and Horace Ward-Whate and extends in sequence through the show ending in a "bloody" climax.

In every presentation of this kind some member of the cast comes along and nearly "steals the show." In this case it is the versatile Sylvia Motley. Possessed of a fine voice Miss Motley opens her performance with the plaintive solo "Bill" reverts to comedy type in "Song Titles" and climaxes a splendid performance with Don Rose in a teen-age number "Hey, Good Lookin'" in which she trips a "mean Charleston."

Tribute to Gershwin

One of the musical highlights of "Pack Up Your Troubles" is the number "Tribute to Gershwin" in which the entire cast and orchestra join to bring out in tuneful sequence many scores of the famous composer. Such well-known numbers as "Liza", "Lady be Good", "Wonderful, Marvellous", "Embraceable You," "I Got Rhythm," "The Man I Love", "Of Thee I Sing" are brought out in their original melodic beauty.

Charles Cawker and Phil Huddleston merge their piano mastery on twin instruments. Stan Wiggins, trumpet virtuoso of the Commodores, Miss Motley, Ron Elmy, and Aldythe Arthur are featured in this tuneful melange of music. Orchids to Director Larry Brown for this one.

Perhaps the most colorful setting of the show is that of the closing offering "Carmen". The famous Spanish lady would turn over in her grave with merriment could she see the Belleville comedy adaption of her tragedy, with its "Red Riding Hood" motif and twentieth century slang lyrics.

Splendid Satire

Lawrenson, Waterhouse and Salter against a background of operatic airs, orchestral and choral, satire the famous opera in a performance that nearly brought down the house last night.

Dean Whalen "doubles" in piano and organ and comes through with a scintillating performance both with the orchestra and in an accompanist role on the Hammond organ.

"Pack Up Your Troubles" is a delightful departure from the usual amateur entertainment. It is well-staged, well presented, well-balanced and well-produced. It is a good show and should not be missed by lovers of musical revue entertainment. It runs through Thursday night.

HE WANTS ACTION

Lord Lovat of Beauly, one of Scotland's greatest ndowners and cattle breeders, marched into the House Lords in London recently bearing a pair of rowelled urs on a large platter.

After having placed his spurs on a chair beside him ere everyone present could see them, Lord Lovat proeded to deliver a scathing indictment of the food proction policies of the British government. He referred the £30,000,000 which had been spent in an unsuccessl effort to produce peanuts in West Africa. He also entioned another scheme which, he said, had cost 00,000 before it was abandoned as hopeless. This one d for its purpose the building of a factory to process ark's fin soup for wealthy Chinese. Another costly plan hich had turned out to be a fiasco, he said, was one for e production of eggs in Gambia. This egg undertaking, remarks indicated, had produced many headaches, but w eggs. He did not quote the cost of the egg project. he projects to which Lord Lovat was referring were all dertaken by the Laborite government which was deted a few months ago.)

Lord Lovat then declared there were at least 20,000,0 acres of land in Britain which could be cultivated but hich were not under cultivation.

But the spurs, what of them? Oh yes, the members the House of Lords were also curious about their purse. When some of the noble lords asked for what they re intended, Lord Lovat explained that he was going use them to spur the present government into action developing some of Britain's idle land.

TIME FOR ACTION

Two classes of Ontario farmers are going to be adsely affected by Great Britain's latest austerity dees. These are the tobacco growers and the producers milk for cheese factories.

Tobacco growing is not important in this section of e province, but the cheese industry is. Last year, the itish spent about $7,500,000 in buying about 25,000,000 unds of Canadian cheddar cheese, a large proportion which is produced in this area.

Whether the cheese industry will be able to market surplus elsewhere outside Canada's boundaries reins to be seen. The American market is not likely to either profitable or permanent, because the government the United States has always displayed a determinan, highly commendable from an American viewpoint, protecting the American producer from foreign compeon.

The government of Canada cannot force either the itish or anyone else to purchase Canadian cheese, ecially if the potential purchaser is, like Britain, in edy circumstances. But there is one thing which the vernment of Canada can do and which, in our opinion, should do — it can give reasonable protection to the ry farmers and cheese producers of this country from eign competition and thus preserve for them their me market, at least.

TOBACCO CONSUMPTION DROPS

Although the population of this country has increased arply in recent years, the consumption of most forms of bacco is declining, it is shown by figures released by e Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Cigarets sold during 1951 totalled 15,667,266,000, as mpared with 17,167,729,000 during 1950, the bureau ys. Cigars sold in 1951 totalled 169,136,000, as comred with 198,981,000 in 1950. During 1951, the amount cut tobacco sold was 27,297,000 pounds, as compared th 25,911,000 in the preceding year. The use of plug bacco dropped from 2,333,000 pounds to 2,011,000 unds. Snuff use was also down, from 943,000 pounds to 9,000 pounds.

The decrease in cigaret consumption is partly due, it believed, to more smokers "rolling their own," and rtly to a greater use of cigarets smuggled into this untry from the United States. The increase in the use both smuggled cigarets and the hand-made variety is obably due in large measure to increased taxes on garets.

A triumph held for a far-off morn.

But one for fathers and mothers, too.

The glorious thrill of a dream come true,
The tender blend of a smile and sigh
And often a tear as the class goes by.

Suicide is Top Secret in East Germany

By TOM REEDY

Berlin, Feb. 19—(AP)—Suicide has become "top secret" in the Russian zone of Germany.

The communist government has impounded all records of suicides, has forbidden all newspapers to list suicide ever as the cause of death, and in many cases has compelled doctors to falsify their reports.

An east zone doctor ventured an opinion that the suicide rate is "very high" but only the tight-lipped people's police have any idea what it is.

The "outlawing" of suicide is in keeping with the red philosophy that such things don't happen in a communist "paradise." The orders to keep up such a facade apply to Gerhart Eisler's propaganda ministry which controls the press; to the interior ministry which governs the police and to the central administration which handles statistics.

The Ministry of Health gets into the act by frequently certifying a suicide as a death from heart attack or merely from old age. Known tuberculosis cases are never listed as such.

East Germans, still not accustomed to such tinkering with obvious truths, say that almost three-fourth of the suicides in the Russian zone are traceable to "the hopelessness" of life under tyranny.

No Hope

A clergyman commented:

"It is the hopelessness of the psychic, the spiritual and the economic situation which makes men and women throw their lives away so easily."

A farmer, for instance, cannot meet the communist-imposed quotas. It may be that the quotas for him were deliberately fixed so high he couldn't possibly meet them. His farm would then be subject to seizure and reassignment to a favored political friend. He gives up in the face of what appears to him to be certain defeat.

Little business men or mechanics who have been squeezed out by the encroaching "nationalized" industry; the teacher fired for "political unreliability," the pensioner who can't make ends meet, are other candidates for suicide behind the iron curtain.

The harsh economic laws—five years in prison for tiny infractions—frighten the public and those too weak to resist or to flee to the west frequently take the suicidal way out.

Federal Govt. Offers Some Aid To Municipalities

Toronto, Feb. 19— (CP) —Immigration Minister Harris said yesterday that the federal government may give assistance for social and welfare services for new immigrants to relieve the burden on municipalities.

He told the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities, that the government is aware that many municipalities are heavily burdened by social services costs and that measures to relieve the situation are being considered.

Despite criticism of continued immigration when unemployment is heavy, more immigrants were needed "if we are going to maintain production."

He said more skilled workers still are needed for defence production. Every effort would be made to bring them from Europe but the government would not hesitate to tell people if they were not needed.

"I hope you will find in the near future that we have not forgotten the immigrants when they have arrived in your municipalities."

The association decided to petition the highways department for a 50-per-cent subsidy for the buying of snow blowers to clear county roads.

Two resolutions were voted down. One sought an increased subsidy on county roads and the other suggested that suburban and county roads be amalgamated under one body and paid for by a uniform levy on cities and towns.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Snow has many functions, the greatest of which is to demonstrate to us city and town dwellers in what filth we live.

When a snowfall clothes the world in a perfect splendor of purity, there is more than beauty in it. There is a sense of holiness, a queer feeling of escape, of amnesty. With every ugly mortal thing hidden, it is as if we had been forgiven our debts. We start with a clean sheet.

In the country, this impression lasts a long time. As the days go by, the barnyard may become a little mucky; a trampled spot will grow around the woodpile; and where the cars and trucks stand by the side door of the farm house, it is a mess. But over the fields and across the pastures, the glorious purity survives, week after week; and on their slopes, the woodlots purvey serenity and mystery to the eye.

But in city and town, a brief glimpse is all we are allowed of the dispensation. Within an hour, the shovels are flying, the sand and ashes are scattering, snowplows snorting. From the thick air the dust and soot is being soaked up by the snow. Before the day is done, white is grey. From doors and alleys, filth is being chucked out; trash, garbage, refuse has begun to pock the margins of the paths we have made; it blows off trucks; the hands of children scatter it about; dogs help. A countryman coming into a town or city three days after a snowfall must form the impression that cities and towns are all slum.

The word slum probably comes from the Latin cella, meaning a room. Slum first appears in English as meaning a room in the sense we now use doss or flop. With cities and towns moving steadily in the direction of apartment houses, duplexes, boarding houses and ever-diminishing suburban bungalows, new-fallen snow gives us something to fret about.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

NOTHING DULL IN NATURE

No matter what the season of the year, there is never anything in nature that is either dull or uninteresting. I have a small pool on my home grounds, fed by a spring. I stood before it today and watched the clean water gush from the hill above it. Day and night it flows leaving a little song behind as it feeds the pool. Birds come to bathe and quench their thirst in the water, and before many months now the overhanging branches of the trees will cast dancing shadows about it.

Today I also called upon my friend and neighbor, John Kieran, who had just returned from one of his daily walks along the Hudson River, and he told me, in his habitual enthusiasm, of many eagles that he had seen shortly before. This reminds me of a recent book that he has had published, entitled: "John Kieran, an Introduction to Birds." It is a beautiful book, in full color, and describes a hundred of the more familiar birds that we all look to as our friends. What a joy to learn about them from a man whose life has been devoted to the study of birds, flowers, and the great outdoors!

Anyone who is a lover of nature is a good person to have for a friend, for I often think of such a one as highly and intimately connected with the Infinite Mind over all. You don't find mean or uninteresting people devoting themselves to the love of nature. Nature lovers are among the select of this world.

I can easily understand why the recent book, "The Sea Around Us," by Rachel Carson, is being so widely read. It is one of the most fascinating books I have ever read about the sea, its inhabitants, its structural base, and its all-round personality. The author tells things about the sea that fill you with wonder, and you learn of happenings that go on all the time that have an effect upon shipping, sailing, storms, and climate that you never suspected. In fact the sea concerns us all through its moods and manner in many ways. This book is also distinguished by its poetic prose.

The more we learn from nature the better human beings we become, and there are lessons there that face you when least expected. Nature is steeped in revelations and surprises.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

THE DROPLETS ARE FINE BUT THEY CARRY DISEASE

Even though most of the old timers in the medical profession have recognized for more than fifty years now that a boor who sneezes at you without covering mouth and nose may give you whatever disease he has, and sometimes instruct patients accordingly, they still get away with murder in daily practice by stringing customers along with no diagnosis or a phony diagnosis—to wit, "just a bad cold."

After all, who cares whether the patient is coming down with measles, three-day coryza, pneumonia, grip or meningitis? Use plenty of aspirin or similar dope to benumb the patient's sense of illness and soothe the anxieties of those in the environment, and just coast along until it runs its course or a real crisis occurs. It is always easy to explain that the minor indisposition you thought or said it was has "developed" or "turned" into the grave illness you failed to diagnose or recognize in the first place.

This is not to imply that a doctor who knows his business can recognize or diagnose any or all of the respiratory infections at onset or in the stage of invasion in every instance. On the other hand it is certainly foolhardy on the patient's part and less than frank on the doctor's part to ascribe any illness or indisposition that requires treatment to "cold."

The moisture spray given off from mouth and/or nose when a person coughs or sneezes has a range of four to twelve feet. The spray may be seen, photographed and in some circumstances the impact of droplets may be felt. These obvious facts constrain the old timers to acknowledge the reality of cough and sneeze spray.

As any bacteriology student can prove by exposing agar-agar plates and examining microscopically the cultures that grow on the agar-agar, the droplets carry whatever germs the coughing or sneezing individual harbors in mouth, throat or nose. So the old timers are constrained to go along with the teaching that as a principle of hygiene every sneeze or cough should be covered with handkershief, hand or mask in the presence of other person or persons.

Now it is odd that the medical and health authorities of our time are so reluctant to recognize the reality of conversation spray. Aside from my feeble squeaks about it, tell me, children, have you heard or read anything about the hazard of conversation spray, that is, anything uttered or written by a health authority or teacher?

Conversation spray is not so easily visible, but it may be photographed and sometimes the impact of conversation spray droplets is palpable. Conversation spray has a range of one to five feet, depending on the modulation or the vehemence of the conversation. The moisture droplets composing the spray are generally finer than the droplets of sneeze or cough spray, but they carry infection just the same.

A suitable mask prevents the indiscriminate spread of the c-r-i via polite conversation spray. A more efficient, more comfortable mask than the unpleasant gauze (cheesecloth) affair is described in the booklet Call It C-R-I, available on request if you inclose 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope. The booklet deals with the Common Respiratory Infections — which cause three-fourths of the illness treated by physicians and surgeons.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Well Informed

Thanks for informing me that I can't catch cold from sitting or standing or going about for hours with wet feet. In my work this will save me a lot of worry ... (S. J. W.)

Answer—No matter whether your comment is sincere or sarcastic, the British Medical Research Council and I now agree that wet feet, drafts and "insufficient" clothing have nothing to do with the ailments which ignorant people call "colds."

How Long ir Quite Some Time?

I have a problem which has... quite some time...maybe you can help—(Composite of many queries).

Answer—Please, folks, state your question and spare me the hums and haws. That sort of thing becomes tedious when it is repeated a hundred times in the day's mail.

Cyanosis

I'm sorry you didn't tell the cause of cyanosis (blue disease) when you answered my inquiry. (Mrs. V. S.)

Answer—Cyanosis is what physicians call bluish or purplish skin, mucous membranes and nails. It may be due to various causes which interfere with oxygenation of the blood. Common cause of mild chronic cyanosis is acetanilid habit. This is described in a chapter in booklet C-V-D—for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope. CVD means cardio - vascular disease—heart-artery troubles. Acetanilid, taken usually in some "harmless" nostrum, destroys red corpuscles, interferes with their oxygen-carrying function, damages the heart. Yet a lot of dfs take it for trifling ache, pain or discomfort.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

NOT BY FRONTAL ATTACK

There is a warfare which goes on continually between the flesh and the Spirit. Their demands are contrary, the one to the other. The result of this insistent conflict is that we may become weak creatures, not able to do the things that we would.

St. Paul insists that there is a way to resolve this conflict. Desist from all frontal attacks against sin, which so often end in defeat; win your victory by filling your life with the Spirit of Christ. To strive against evil thoughts and practices is to wage a battle in which Satan has all the advantage; to fill the heart with love, to dwell upon our devotion to Christ, means to crowd evil out of our lives and thus to win our victory over the evil one by circumventing his designs.

"Walk by the Spirit," said Paul. Carrying the Spirit of Christ into your daily life. Religion is not something to be practised one day in the week and forgotten the rest of the time. Christian faith means loyalty to Jesus Christ all the time in thought and deed.

The way to achieve Christian goodness is not by trying to be good but by seeking after Christ and taking Him into our hearts. When we do this, righteousness follows in natural sequence.

Recent Trends in Agriculture Discussed by Ralph Campbell At Rotary Club Luncheon

A few of the most important "Recent Trends in Agriculture" were discussed by Ralph D. Campbell in addressing the Rotary Club at a special Farmer's Day program on Monday.

Mr. Campbell, head of the Department of Agriculture Economics at the Ontario Agricultural College is a native of this locality, being born near Foxboro, and is a Rhodes scholar.

"One of the most notable trends is the decline in farm population," Mr. Campbell said, and considered both sides of the problem. He stated that it would be good if the decline came from marginal areas and used the Haliburton area, where much of the land is not practicable for farming, as an example. "This was not the case however," he said "as these areas were where the smallest percentages of people shifted from."

"To a certain extent," the speaker said "this trend is an almost certain sign of an increase in the standard of living," and gave his reasons for thinking so. He added, however, that he did not think this decline should be encouraged.

Risen More Than Industry

"The second, and most obvious trend," said Mr. Campbell, "is the rise of prices." He said that all prices have risen compared to the pre-war level but on the whole, farm prices had risen more than the industrial prices.

"It is often overlooked," he continued "that farm prices were much too low in the pre-war days. It is interesting also that the farm prices rise is not general." He compared the crop rise of 65 points in the cost of living index to the rise of almost 250 points in animal products.

"The recent drop in animal product prices," he said, "can be attributed to the loss of the bacon market and other markets abroad. Consequently the backlog of products cause a drop in market prices," he added.

Explained System

"Another trend is toward collective bargaining," said Mr. Campbell. "At the present time, 22 separate farm products are sold under collective bargaining agreements," he said, and explained this system in detail.

The fourth trend, was that of changing governments. "In the 1920's" he said, "the government dealt only with the physical and technical aspects of their positions but today, they go into everything fully."

As examples of this, Mr. Campbell named the Canadian Wheat Board which buys and sells all wheat in the country. "It is an interesting development which, in a recent poll among the Western farmers, was favored by 89 percent of the voters."

A trend toward farmer co-operatives was the last one dealt with by the speaker. He compared the figures of farmer co-operatives in 1939 ($200,000,000 turnover in one year's time) to those of 1950 ($1,000,000,000 turnover for the year). "Of the 156 affiliated co-operatives in Canada at the present time," Mr. Campbell said "at least 100 of these have been formed in past seven years, and indication of the tremendous growth."

Club Appreciation Expressed

Mr. Campbell was introduced by Rotarian Fred Wilson and extended the appreciation of the club by Rotarian Art Francis.

All other farmer guests were introduced by their sponsors and officially welcomed by song.

Rotary president Court Miller called for one minute's silence in memory of a former member, James Raymond Carr, who passed away Sunday.

Birthday roses were presented to Robert E. Houston and Roy H. Macklem by Brigadier Reg Gage on behalf of the club.

Fire Destroys Motor Vehicle

Campbellford—A fire which broke out about 3 a. m. Sunday morning destroyed a car owned by Donald A. Sharp of Front Street. No explanation for the cause of the blaze has yet been established. The car was parked in a driveway beside Mr. Sharp's home, and had not been started in about two weeks. Mr. Sharp heard the sound of what he thought was breaking glass about 3 a. m. and looked out his bedroom window to see the whole interior of the auto on fire.

The Campbellford fire department responded to the call in a matter of minutes but were not able to get the pumper operating for about fifteen minutes. Neighbors threw pails of water on the blazing auto and had the fire under control when the pumper started to operate and a line of pressure hose finished the job.

The interior of the car was gutted, but the motor and tires may be able to be salvaged. When Mr. Sharp looked at the car, a 1929 Essex today, he said, "Oh, well, I won't have to buy a 1952 licence for it anyway."

Mustang Fighter Crash Landed In P.E. County

Trenton — (Special) — Crash landing his Mustang single engined fighter on the farm of Norman Tyler, 3rd concession of Ameliasburg township, 10 miles south of Trenton, Flying Officer R. E. Neill, of Trenton RCAF, walked away from his disabled aircraft this morning. He was unhurt in the crash, but his plane was damaged.

FO. Neill was on a routine training flight out of Trenton to the firing range on Nicholson's Island in Lake Ontario, when as he dove into the target from a high elevation his motor conked out. He made a wheels-up belly landing, skidding 1,000 feet on the snow-covered field and crashing through a stump fence before comang to a stop.

The belly of the plane, one wing and the propellor, were badly damaged as the plane skidded along the ground. The plane was carrying a full load of ammunition for its six machine guns.

When the plane came to rest the pilot got out and walked to the Tyler farm home from where he telephoned his station.

An RCAF ambulance was directed to the scene of the crash landing by radio from an observation plane overhead.

Monette's Appeal For New Trial Is Granted

Toronto, Feb. 19 — (CP) —The Ontario Court of Appeal yesterday ordered a new trial for Richard Monette, 29, of St. Catharines, sentenced to be hanged April 8 after he was convicted of the November slaying of Harper Harris, 84-year-old farmer.

Monette's appeal was based on the assertion that the charge of the trial judge to the jury was incomplete. J. Sedgwick, Monette's counsel, maintained the jury should have been instructed to determine whether Harris had met his death as the result of an unlawful act of Monette's.

The body of the aged man, a bachelor, was found at the foot of his cellar steps.

The appeal was granted on consent of Crown Counsel W. C. Bowman. He did not argue the appeal.

Mr. Sedgwick said the evidence against Monette "was purely circumstantial."

"But the charge to the jury contained no instruction as to how circumstantial evidence should apply and be considered," he said.

City Represented At Annual Meet Of Soccer Assoc.

The annual general meeting of the Ontario Football Association, the soccer legislative body, was held in Toronto on Saturday in the King Edward Hotel with president Arthur Arnold presiding.

Controller Shannon of the city of Toronto was guest speaker at a luncheon presented for the visiting delegates. Mr. Shannon stated that he would do all within his power to give soccer a better break in Toronto with regard to allocation of playing fields.

The treasurer's report showed a creditable bank balance, mainly as a result of the Fulham-Celtic game played in Toronto last year This year it is expected that Tottenham Hotspurs and Manchester United will play an exhibition game in Toronto during their tours of this country.

Junior soccer brought considerable discussion. It seems that soccer has been introduced into many of the Ontario public schools but apart from Toronto the Bay of Quinte F. A. was the only organization to sponsor minor soccer. Other associations indicated their intention to put this plan into operation this year.

Some Rule Changes

Notable among the rule changes was an amendment which standardized the method of substitution of players during a game.

Arthur Arnold of Hamilton was re-elected to the office of president for the coming year. Other officers elected include Bill Simpson, Toronto, secretary-treasurer, Maurice Honeyman, Windsor, Harry Brockbank, Toronto, and Bill Cook, Hamilton, as directors.

Among the visitors at the meeting was John Jackson, ex-Scottish International and Chelsea goalkeeper, who arrived in Canada near the end of last year.

Les Digby was the delegate representing the Bay of Quinte Football Association.

Who Will be New Poet Laureate Is Strictly a Guess

By Carter L. Davidson

London, Feb. 18—(AP)— The Queen has literary lights guessing on who eventually will replace John Masefield as poet laureate in her reign.

She has no known favorite among contemporary English poets. Loading condidates for the job that pays a barrel of wine a year are two playwrights:

T. S. Eliot, American-born author of "The Cocktail Party" and Christopher Fry, who wrote "The Lady's Not For Burning."

Both go for dialogue in abstract poetics but don't carry verse as far as Shakespeare did.

Masefield, now 74, was given the symbolic laurel in 1930 by King George V. His most recent works were a simple quatrain on the death of King George VI and a longer commemorative on the day of the funeral.

Palace circles won't speculate on whether the Queen has a favorite poet. But they point out that the laurel traditionally goes as an award of merit to the realm's outstanding poet at the time of the death of the reigning laureate rather than as a gift to a monarch's favorite.

The historic exception, and a precedent if one is needed, is the celebrated snub of Rudyard Kipling by Queen Victoria.

When laureate Alfred, Lord Tennyson died in 1892, Kipling was unchallenged as the outstanding contemporary poet of Britain and probably world. Victoria was furious with him, however, because of his poem entitled "The Widow at Windsor." It was in the British soldier's aitch-dropping vernacular and contended that while she owned " 'alf of creation," the cost was reckoned in bitter life and death of her soldiers.

Kipling's "Recessional," a reverent piece on the greatness of the Victorian empire, failed to offset the disfavor he won with "Missus Victorier," as he called her in "The Widow".

Victoria left the post open four years after Tennyson's death, then gave it to the relatively-unkown Alfred Austin, author of "In Veronica's Garden," and other pieces inspired by nature study.

The job is strictly honorary but its prestige makes it a great plum.

Beginning with Geoffrey Chaucer, who wore the larel from 1,328 to 1,400, it traditionally has earned its holder the barrel of wine and some times a small yearly allowance.

Masefield is still hearty and healthy. His newest book is an autobiography — "So Long to Learn"—to be published March 10.

COUNCIL STRIKES

Alderman Duffy said the wage agreement with firemen had been finalized soonest with the fire committee driving a "stiff bargain" on the assumption that all other chairmen would do the same.

Mayor Haig said he for one did not want to keep down the city tax rate at the expense of city employees. He thought agreements arrived at had been "fair".

Executive and finance committee costs are estimated at $72,980; the recreation commission $17,580, and the board of health $22,600. Both of these items are up from last year.

Total receipts for the year are estimated at $1,389,927 with expenditures of $1,386,534. Estimated surplus is $1,142.

The mayor viewed with alarm the constantly increasing tax rate and said the time must come when the city found some other source of revenue besides real estate.

"We are fast coming to the position when consideration might be given to the city taking back the waterworks from the public utilities," he said.

Approving of the budget by-law were Mayor Haig and Aldermen Batemen, Clarke, Countryman, Duffy, Hyde, Lattimer, Porter, Rollins, Smith, Thomas and Tice. Opposing the by-law were Argue, McNevin and Temple.

Proposal Turned Down

Placing of the proposed new firehall on the Dundas Street tourist park was turned down by council when it again came up for discussion.

The recommendation calling for the fire hall to be placed on the tourist park with the solicitor to take the necessary action to secure the property, saw considerable discussion by councillors before it was defeated by an 8-7 vote.

Previously an amendment to have the firehall built on the property to the rear of the park was defeated.

"I have never changed my mind on this question", Alderman Harry Rollins stated. "I have always been against placing the firehall on the tourist park."

Will Fight Project

He said he would fight the project to the limit even if it means an injunction." He said Belleville citizens did not want the firehall on the tourist park.

"As chairman of the fire committee I am not interested in the citizens," returned Alderman Duffy, "I was elected to do a job and in my opinion and in the opinion of experts the firehall would be better placed on the front of the tourist park."

He termed opposition to placing the firehall on the park as being silly prejudice and a little stupid."

Alderman Hyde objected to being called "stupid" and said he was speaking for some 2,000 members of Bridge Street United Church, who opposed the project.

Alderman Hyde and also Mayor Haig thought the firehall could be built at the rear of the tourist park.

Mayor Haig said that in spite of the recommendation and of the opinion of the experts he thought the whole matter could be settled amicably and satisfactorily if the hall were built at the rear of the tourist property.

Expropriation Opposed

He felt that locating the firehall a few feet further from the street would not matter that much if a proper and decent approach was provided.

Alderman Tice said he was opposed to expropriation of the property and was also opposed to placement of the firehall in a restricted residential area.

The vote on the recommendation to place the firehall on the park property was as follows: Yes — Aldermen Argue, Duffy, Lattimer, McNevin, Porter, Temple and Thomas. No—Mayor Haig, Aldermen Bateman, Clarke, Countryman, Hyde, Rollins, Smith and Tice.

Representatives of the public works department and from the city engineer's department will visit centres where the sanitary fill method of garbage disposal is being used to get first hand information and to view available equipment.

Adopt New Method

The city has decided to adopt this method of garbage disposal in favor of an incinerator. The city's agreement with the Francis Hankin Company of Montreal to purchase incinerator equipment will be cancelled with the city re-imbursing the company to the extent of $4,350.

Mayor Haig noted that the release of contract was being secured to clear up any liability which the city may have to the company in future years.

The purchase of a new half-ton truck for the public works department at a net cost of $1,145 was approved. This cost includes turning in the present truck.

The parks board and the traffic and light committee will meet to discuss placement of lights on Zwick's Island.

The city housing committee was authorized to make a survey to determine if additional rental houses are needed in the city and if so to investigate the possibilities of such houses being built under the new Provincial-Federal housing plan.

WEDDINGS

BURRILL—PERMAN

St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, February 9th., at 10:00 a.m., when Jean Winifred Perman, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Perman, of Greenford, England, became the bride of Kenneth Arthur Burrill, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. Burrill, Newcastle-on-Tyne, England. Archdeacon the Venerable Arthur Smith officiated.

Given in marriage by her brother, the bride wore a lovely, floor-length gown of lace and nylon marquisette featuring a fitted bodice with full skirt ending in a chapel train. She wore tight-fitting mitts of similar material ending in lily-points over the wrists. Her veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a close-fitting floral headpiece and she carried the gift of a friend, Mrs. Townsend, a white Bible crested with red Sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Lorraine Tasker was matron of honor, becomingly gowned in blue lace over taffeta with matching accessories. She carried a nosegay of mixed flowers.

Mr. Frank Litticford, of Toronto, was groomsman, and Mr. Douglas Renninson, Mr. Roy Combley and Mr. Gerald Tappin, of Montreal, were ushers.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Townsend, 70 Station Street, which was tastefully decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells.

Telegrams were received from friends and relatives in England and Australia.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto and Montreal.

Mr. and Mrs. Burrill are residing in Belleville.

GRAVES—BURNSIDE

The marriage of Miss Marion Joyce Burnside, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Earl Burnside, of Madoc, and Harry Mark, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Edwin Graves, Jr., of Jacksonville, Florida, was solemnized Saturday morning at 11 o'clock in the chapel of the First Methodist Church, of Chapel Hill, North Carolina.

The Rev. W. M. Howard, pastor of the church, officiated.

Lt. James E. Graves, of Fort Benning, Ga., served as best man for his brother.

Miss Isabel Hughes, of Montreal, was the bride's maid of honor, wearing a gray wool two-piece dress with black accessories and corsage of yellow iris.

The bride was dressed in an afternoon suit of gray and black wool featuring a flared peplum. The blouse was of white lace and crepe. Her hat was a pill box of violet velour with a violet veil and her corsage was of three pink orchids with violet throats.

The chapel was decorated with white roses, the flower of Mr. Graves' fraternity.

Immediately following the ceremony, the bridegroom's parents entertained the wedding guests with a bridal breakfast in the Pine Room of the Carolina Inn. The table was adorned with white tapers and an arrangement of white roses.

Shortly after the breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Graves left for a honeymoon at Sedgewick Inn, Sedgewick, North Carolina. They will reside in Chapel Hill until Mr. Graves graduates this summer.

Prima Donna Mary Garden Approaches 75th Birthday But Retains Zest for Life

Aberdeen, Scotland, AP) — Mary Garden approaches her 75th. birthday with the same tangy zest for life that sparked her operatic career.

The Scottish-born "singing actress" whose voice thrilled North Americans and Europeans in the first three decades of this century keeps her horizons wide.

She'll be 75 February 20. The day probably will be spent quietly behind the granite walls of her comfortable apartment on Aberdeen's Rosemount Hill. There'll be a few callers, most certainly no celebration, but this doesn't add up to the life of a recluse.

Among her plans for this year are a trip to Paris to see about French publication rights for her autobiography; another speaking tour of the United States — her fourth in as many years — and a pilgrimage to southern France to help an old friend promote a new opera training Mecca.

Slipped on Street

A few weeks ago she slipped on Aberdeen's ice-covered cobbles while shopping and wrenched her leg. She was ordered to bed.

"I've got the bandages off," she confided to a friend who called, but "of course, I will rest it."

But she interrupted the "rest" that same week to travel to London to make a requested broadcast for the BBC.

On the whole, however, the old-time favorite of the Paris Opera Comique, the New York Metropolitan and the Chicago Grand Opera Company leads a disciplined and orderly existence.

Outside her apartment are cold granite walls and colder northern skies, but inside there is warmth.

She Favors Red

In her favorite salon deep carpets are overlaid with a magnificent leopard skin rug. The motif is red (she favors this color and her ensemble always has a touch of it)—red silk coverings over period furniture, antique pieces from France and a brooding bust of Napoleon.

Each piece has the aura of "belonging". Each has a direct link in the life of the prima donna. The room is an invitation to rest and talk of the opera and its people. It's as warm as the greeting of Mary Garden.

She will venture no opinions on world vices and virtues. Political talk is taboo.

She is looking forward to September and her trip to the U.S. — "this time for five months." She is delighted at the prospect of spending one whole month on the west coast.

"California," she sighs. "So warm, so lovely — I just adore warmth."

Then she'll come back to her beloved Aberdeen and the treasures of her salon, for as she once said proudly: "So I live, and will die — A Scot."

Women's Institute

MARMORA W.I.

The February meeting of Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. H. P. Nayler, with a good attendance of members. In the absence of Mrs. E. Brady, secretarial duties were taken by Mrs. L. R. Green.

The financial statement showed finances in a good condition. Two 'thank-you' cards were read; a letter was received from the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Navy League, soliciting support for the purchase of ditty bags for the sailors. In a later order of business, $10 was voted for that purpose. Another letter drew attention to Achievement Day being held in Madoc on February 16, when the project is "Working with Wool".

Letters of thanks for parcels received were read from Corporal Roy Jones and Private Merle Gordon, both stationed at Hannover, Germany. Also read was a letter of appreciation from Miss Lee, Home Economics teacher of Central Hastings high school district, for the bed donated to Marmora high school by the branch for Home Economics.

A quilt made by the Institute members was exhibited by the president, the same to be used in a drawing.

A paper on "Good Publicity" was read by W. J. Cottrell, acting publicity convener.

Mrs. P. Gray sang "If I Might Only Come to You", with Mrs. L. R. Rundle as accompanist.

These two members also sang "Always" as a duet.

Two Valentine contests were won by Mrs. W. D. Lavender and Mrs. E. C. Prentice, respectively.

Mrs. Gray also read some verses on St. Valentine.

Two minutes silence preceded the singing of "God Save the Queen".

The committee for the month served refreshments.

The March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. M. Kouri.

K. Carlsen Hits Fashion-Scene With Spring Hat

Paris Feb. 19. (Reuters)—Capt. Kurt Carlsen, the skipper who stayed aboard the Flying Enterprise for two weeks before it went down in the Atlantic, has commandeered a niche in the spring fashion scene.

"Capt. Carlsen's" hat in white pique with a visor of black bakou, leads off the spring hat collection of Svend, one of Paris' top milliners.

Other models stress types of cloches and slouched brimmed hats, which Greta Garbo made famous. Dramatic effects are achieved with chiffon scarves or merry-widow veils, or flowers growing through the floppy brims.

A novelty note appears in white pique printed with scribbles from blotting paper. Svend's own signature, in reverse, is used on one model, which completes the theme with a large feather quill pen speared through the crown.

The nautical note is continued by Paulette who sticks to the French navy. Little berets, complete with topknot and ribbon streamers, are featured in fabric and straw. Other models are copied from Breton-brimmed sailors with the neat small brim bent back against its crown.

A tiny Gibson girl sailor is literally anchored on the head in the back, with a wired scroll in the shape of an anchor, extending down from under the brim.

Paulette features a new approach to spring with wool and jersey hats. Even grey flannel appears in a pert little cloche, paired with its own stole.

Trimming is restrained, and if presented at all, is handled with a light-as-air touch. For the last word in feminine flattery, Paulette takes yards of wispy tulle and drapes it round the shoulders, or allows it to fall unrestricted down the back.

Other effective tricks are seen in untrimmed hats which are matched with their own special bunch of posies, pinned at the waist or on the shoulder.

Fashion Flashes

HANDSOME and original ensembles dominate important Spring collections. From one famous house comes a loose and moderately full coat done in salt and pepper tweed with wide black braid outlining the mandarin neckline and fronts. Self fabric ties fasten the coat, which has a lining of taffeta in bright green to match the color of the simply-styled sheen gabardine dress.

THE EASY LOOK prevades in casual straw hats soon coming along for Spring. Red, white and blue straws, woven in a checkerboard design, make a pretty little casual done on soft lines — with a turned - down, curved brim that is pleated at intervals for a rippled effect.

WE NOTE more than a passing interest in the corde handbag, for it appears in several collections, as well as being shown in all-corde groups. Borrowed from the leather bag is a rectangular corde box with basket style handles and a gilt metal frame. And, for an extra touch, it is leather-lined.

Walter Bent Tells Quinte W. I. of His Work in Boys' Schools

The regular monthly meeting of Quinte Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Stanley MacDonald, Shannonville, with the president, Mrs. Grills, presiding.

In respect to the late King George VI, all remained standing for two minutes silence, after which Mrs. Grills read a poem, entitled "The King Is Gone".

The theme of the meeting was "The Importance of Music and Art in the Community", given by Mrs. Jack Parrott. In the absence of the secretary, who is ill, Mrs. Arnold Mitchell, read the minutes and letters. It was decided to accept the Rednersville invitation for February 21.

The program was conducted by Mrs. Jack Parrott. "Beyond the Sunset" was rendered, and the "Story of a Deck of Cards", was told.

Guest Speaker

Mrs. Jack Parrott then introduced the guest speaker, Mr. Walter Bent, former leader of the Boys' Y.M.C.A. choir, who told of his work and experience with boys' schools, during his volunteer work at the Bowmanville and Galt Training Schools.

Mr. Bent also gave a detailed account of his day's work when he was overseas with boys' schools in England, Germany and Paris, France, describing the condition of some homes the boys came from, enlivening his remarks with many humorous stories of his personal experiences. He praised the Sunday Night Fireside Hour for all denominations and the progress it is making.

Mrs. Kenneth Vivian graciously thanked the speaker for his most interesting message.

A quiz contest, conducted by Mrs. Parrott, was won by Mrs. Ormsby and Mrs. Kenneth Reid.

Mrs. MacDonald favored with more musical readings, completing the program.

After the meeting closed, refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be held at the new County Home instead of at the Kiwanis Centre.

Mrs. C. Minaker Celebrates 100th Birthday

Picton.—Many flowers, gifts and messages of congratulation were showered Sunday on Mrs. Charles Minaker, the occasion being her one hundredth birthday. A week ago, she suffered two weak spells but recovered sufficiently on Sunday to receive close relatives and friends. Mrs. Minaker resides alone at her home on Grove Street, and until a short time ago, did her own household duties. A good neighbor has, for some years, done other tasks for her.

Mrs. Minaker had interesting reminiscences for the guests and shared with them the birthday cake with its 100 candles.

A policy of 'early to bed and early to rise', is given by Mrs. Minaker as the secret of longevity. She does little reading but follows events of the day, and church services on the radio.

In earlier days, Mrs. Minaker was a dressmaker. Her husband died eleven years ago.

Born in the village of Milford, she was formerly Catherine McQuoid, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William McQuoid. She is the last surviving member of a family of eleven. All of her life has been spent in Prince Edward County and she has resided in Picton for the past 68 years. She has several nieces and nephews.

Mrs. M. Mackereth Attends Chapter 55 Birthday Party

Chapter 55 of the Order of the Eastern Star held a birthday party at the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue, on Friday evening. Many visitors from the district chapters were present who were most warmly welcomed by the Worthy Matron, Mrs. Muriel Smith, and the Worthy Patron, Mr. Percy Kerr.

The largely attended gathering was also honored by the presence of Mrs. Mabel Mackereth, W.G.M., of Toronto, and Mrs. Clarke, Grand Martha.

The W.G.M. gave an interesting and instructive address, outlining the principles of the O.E.S. for which it stands. Mrs. Mackereth also commended the Worthy Matron and Worthy Patron and officers on their work and manner in which the chapter was conducted.

During the evening, a fine solo was rendered by Miss Beverley Buck, later followed by refreshments and birthday cake, cut by the W.G.M. A social hour rounded out a most enjoyable evening.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

And now, it's an interfering father-in-law

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 25 years old I have been married for seven years to a man 12 years my senior. We have two children, and we got along wonderfully until the past few months, but since then all we do is argue.

We live with my husband's people, and my father-in-law is always interfering and yelling at the children, even calling them names. If I go out, he checks the time I leave and the time I return, demanding to know where I went and why. We have our own two rooms, but that doesn't keep him from coming up whenever he wants to and insulting any friends who come to see us, so that many of them won't come here anymore. He opens all our mail and nags us about anything he doesn't like. If I get a phone call, he stays where he can hear the conversation and then questions me about it. If I have occasion to call a doctor, my husband's whole family comes up and stays until the doctor goes away.

Honestly, I am at my wits' end. We can't move because we can't find a place at the rent we can pay or else the place doesn't want children. I'd rather live in one room, though, than keep on this way any longer. I don't want to make any trouble for my husband, because after all it's my husband's father, but I can't stand much more. Please tell me what to do.—I. L. T.

Dear I.L.T.:

You certainly need immediate help in getting out of this intolerable situation, so that you and your husband and children can live your own life.

My suggestion is that you go to a social agency in the town where you live, or else in the large city near by, and ask there if someone cannot help you find a place where your family can be by itself. If there is no family service organization in your own town send me a stamped, addressed envelope so that I can communicate with you personally and tell you where to go for advice in that near-by city. You need not feel hesitant about consulting such an agency, as it is their business to aid people with family problems, and I think you should seek this aid without delay.

In the meantime, try to make your husband understand that even though the trouble-maker happens to be his father, he has the right to privacy for his family and should assert that right. By this, I mean that he should tell his father quite firmly, though as tactfully as possible of course, that he must not interfere.

Mutual friends are the best medium for introductions

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am very much attracted to a 19-year-old boy to whom I have never been introduced. I'm three years younger than he is.

How would you suggest I go about meeting him so I can be sure of my feelings for him? We have a mutual friend, if that would be any help to me.—Anne.

Dear Anne:

I can't think of any better help to you in a situation like this than a mutual friend. People usually make new acquaintances through such a medium, one way or another.

Can't you just simply mention to this person you both know that you'd like to meet this chap? From there on, you'd be on your own.

I suggest, though, that you be reasonably casual about the whole thing. What's the rush about making sure of your feelings? Better be careful not to show so much eagerness that you scare the boy off—or maybe, even, the possible introducer!

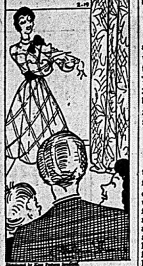
BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Cosmetic Technique



Illustrated by King Features Syndicate

The family wants to be proud of Mother.

There are conscientious homebodies who take care of everybody and everything except themselves. They forget that the mistress of the home should not only be the balance wheel of the family, keeping the domestic machinery running smoothly, but also she should be its chief ornament.

Some demon housewives polish silver until it shines, but let their tresses get dull and dusty. Curtains are spotless, but the housedress isn't. Keeping the home just so, everything clean and in order, is a noble occupation; but a woman has a duty to herself and her family, and that duty is to keep herself as young and pretty as she possibly can. Husband and children want to be proud of mommy. They won't notice whether the silver is polished or the curtains are freshly washed.

When bedtime comes, the wife and mother is entitled to devote half an hour to primping and fussing, to putting herself in order, to fighting the battle against birthdays. She will say she is tired, wants to crawl between the sheets.

But the beautifying efforts will relax her. She will feel righteous, will probably sleep more restfully after attending to her pulchritude tasks.

As mornings are busy, her warm bath should be had at night. It will take the weariness out of her bones, give her an opportunity for self communion. The bathroom is the only place in the house where she can get away from the constant demands upon her time.

"Before bathing, she should wash her face with a bland soap, first removing make-up with cream. After a warm rinsing and gentle drying, she should apply a light cream. The lubricant, combined with moist, warm air, will do wonders for her skin, give it freshness and tone.

Scouring the body surface with a soaped brush will liven the circulation; the blood streams will dispose of fatigue bugs. Most mothers only go to bed when they are so tired that they can't navigate any longer. A ten-minute soaking will quiet the nervous system. It will stop nagging at her.

After drying herself with a coarse towel, she can give herself a fragrant tonic rub that will keep the skin all over her body as smooth as silk.

After that, she should apply a heavy cream with light tapping. She mustn't overlook her neck; necks like to get in on the cosmetic feast.

Two minutes of hair brushing, one minute of scalp mauling, and half a minute of rubbing cream into the fingernails completes the job. It is insurance against a lot of good-looks griefs.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Manners are made, not born

Make your manner. Manners are made, not born. So it's you who must choose the fabric and the pattern of your manners. This makes the "basic dress" of your personality. Then you add becoming accessories. . . .the graces and amenities of life. Perfect ensemble!

She must get church authority

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Last year, prior to my graduation, I married a man in the service, before he went overseas. We did not have a large wedding or reception and did not send out formal announcements of our marriage, for we planned to have a rededication of the ceremony and a reception at home, upon his return from overseas. Now I have just received word from my husband that he will be home in a few months, and we would both like to have this ceremony right away after his return. Please tell me if it is permissible to have this service in church with a formal ceremony? If my husband wears his uniform, how should the ushers be dressed? And how should the invitations read, since many of the people to be invited already know of our marriage?—M.

Before you make any plans about this procedure, my dear girl, you must consult with an authority in your church concerning the regulations and the permission of the church . . .if possible, consult with the clergyman who performed the marriage ceremony.

..How to address wedding invitations to adult daughters, sons

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When unmarried young people are to be included in the wedding invitations, is it correct to write their names on the inner envelope along with the "Mr. and Mrs."?—A.

The best form is to send one invitation to "Mr. and Mrs." and a separate invitation to a grown-up daughter or a grown-up son. . this gives proper compliment to each adult. Or one invitation may be addressed to two or more adult daughters: Misses Clark. (The same on outside and inside envelopes.) And to two or more adult sons: Messrs. Clark, on both envelopes.

Or, when the number of invitations must be limited, the outside envelope may be addressed to "Mr. and Mrs. John Clark", and the inside envelope to:

Mr. and Mrs. Clark
Miss Mary Clark
Miss Anne Clark
Mr. Arthur Clark

Or, for several adult daughters and sons:

Mr. and Mrs. Clark
Misses Clark
Messrs. Clark

Important Note: All of these forms avoid the taboo form "Mr. and Mrs. —— and Family" . . . which is in the worst possible taste, because it is too vague, does not make the proper bow to each person invited.

Food for Thought

By Mary Moore

Florence Nightingale, Unlimited

I have a story to tell you.

I have been saving it until Marianne made her first visit home after going into nurses' training school.

As you know she took Day Nursery Teachers' training last year and worked in a City Day Nursery for six weeks, until more than half of the children were absent with mumps, whooping cough or pink eye.

She had three weeks in which to take stock of herself and analyze her feelings She wound up thinking her talents (my word) were not being extended to the limit.

She had the required credits and three weeks of grace to make arrangements, and managed it in record time, and was accepted.

Last night she burst through the door radiant and bubbling over with sheer joy and enthusiasm.

"Oh mother, when I think how close I came to missing this glorious experience."

She had so much to spill out she stood with her elbows resting on top of our high oven (it was hot too) while I prepared dinner and talked without even taking off her coat or gloves or pausing for breath for nigh onto 30 minutes. Her classmates, her big sister nurse, the wonder cafeteria, swimming pool, skeleton (!), supervisors, good-looking internes, recreation room, rules, rules, rules —even her red-lined cape—all are thrilling.

Not even black stockings dampen her spirits.

"It's the most wonderful profession in the world. Every girl should be a nurse." (Notice I quote.)

It may be all right to be a doting mother but this is a cookery column—not a nursing column. But who wants to cook when there is so much to be had? That's how I feel just now—but I have just had my lunch!

Some of you want to cook in a big way, for read this letter from Violet M. M.

Dear Mary Moore: The women of our church wish to put on a luncheon towards the end of the month. We would like to serve "chicken a la king" on hot biscuits. This project is to help raise money for church expenses, so could you please help us out by sending recipe (an inexpensive one) to 150 people. We enjoy your recipes very much and thank you in advance for your help.—Violet M. M.

ANSWER TO VIOLET M.M.:

I think I have exactly what you are after. The only extras besides chicken are condensed mushroom soup and canned pimientoes.

CHICKEN A LA KING

(For 150 people)

Eight cups unsifted flour, 2 teaspoons pepper, 8 quarts rich chicken stock, 1 105-oz. tin condensed mushroom soup (buy this from grocery wholesale where it is stocked for hotel, restaurant and hospital use), 6 cups water, 4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 24 oz. chopped canned pimiento (this is roughly 3 cups), 8 or 10 lbs. cooked and diced chicken weighed after it is diced. Blend flour and pepper, and stir them to a smooth paste with some of the chicken stock, then add all of the chicken stock and stir until thick. If chicken stock is hot the thickening time is speeded up. Use 4 large double boilers if you do not have kettles big enough to hold this. Add soup, water and Worcestshire sauce, heat through, Add pimiento and chicken, heat through. Half diced veal may be used in place of chicken.

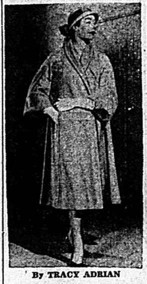
The service was concluded with the singing of "God Save the Queen."

The Popular Wrap Coat



By TRACY ADRIAN

THE WRAPPED coat which was so popular in the mad twenties is back again in a brand new treatment. The modern version is longer skirt and shorter of sleeve than that of the Prohibition era but it is also a lot more chic and becoming.

Blond Kashmir is the material used for this 1952 model. Triple stitching emphasizes the molded shoulder line and side seaming. Deep cuffs are another innovation.

Fear Loss of $20,000,000 to Ontario by U.K. Cut

Ontario dairy farmers may feel the pinch of Britain's financial crisis following reports that the United Kingdom will halt purchases of Canadian Cheddar cheese by 75 per cent this year which will result in loss of $20,000,000 to dairy industry. Such a reduction, predicted in Ottawa and London dispatches, would affect 16,000 or so cheese producing farmers, 350 cheese factories — and the dairy industry generally. Elimination of the British market, which bought 25,000,000 pounds at a price of more than $7,500,000 last year, will leave cheese producers with gloomy export prospects and probably may result either in curtailment of production or lowering of prices to attract greater trade in the domestic market.—Central Press Canadian.

RAWDON

Impressive Memorial Service Held in Stirling Community Hall

Rawdon — Last Friday afternoon, Stirling theatre was filled to capacity with folk from the town and all the surrounding community as a tribute to his Late Majesty King George VI.

The stage was arranged with a flag-draped table in the centre, a flag at half staff on the right and the King's photo placed on a purple background and surrounded with a memorial wreath.

Several Boy Scouts ushered the large gathering, which began arriving about 2.00 p.m., handing out printed programs which had been prepared by Messrs Dalrymple and Good.

At 2.30 p.m. the Girl Guides and Explorer groups, under the leadership of Mrs. Ed. Warren, Mrs. Joe Irish and Mrs. Ken Ray were seated on the left after which members of the Stirling Legion and the members of Stirling Lodge, No. 69, A.F. & A.M., occupied the right aisle.

Council Representatives

Seated on the platform were members of the Stirling band, under the leadership of Mr. Maurice Bell. The reeve of Stirling and Messrs. J. Holt and Earl Bailey, of the council; Reeve Vernie Heath represented Rawdon council; Mrs. Earl Green, Regent I.O.D.E.; Mr. Gordon Bailey, Worshipful Master of the Masonic lodge; Messrs. Joe Irish and Fred Harding, leaders of the Scout organizations. The clergy was represented by Rev. H. C. Secker, of St. John's Church of England, who read the Bible lesson found in St. John's Gospel.

Rev. A. E. Baker, pastor of St. Paul's, Carmel, offered the prayers. Rev. W. H. V. Walker, St. Andrew's Presbyterian, pronounced the benediction and Rev. R. R. Bonsteel, representing Rawdon United circuit.

At 3 p.m. Reeve R. K. West spoke briefly and the large group sang "O God Our Help in Ages Past," with band accompaniment.

The Bible lesson and prayer was followed with "The Last Post", given by William Aylsworth, who also gave "Reveille", after the silence this period closed with the National Anthem.

Address of Tribute

Fred W. Houchin, president of Stirling branch of the Canadian Legion, in an appropriate address paid tribute to the life of the departed Monarch George VI. He extended a message of deepest sympathy and loyalty to Queen Elizabeth II. and read the prayer which she repeated when she ascended the throne.

Mr. Houchin said: "We have come together today as a last tribute to our beloved and respected Monarch, who stood so steadfast and secure amidst the stress and storms of the nation."

The speaker told how the Canadians of this present generation had followed royalty from the days of the coronation, through World War II and referred to the courage of this family when they refused to seek haven outside of England during the blitz days.

Mr. Houchin also spoke of the various radio messages which gave the throne a great sincerity under God's guidance and the noble life of the late King George VI. and his beloved Queen and their happy family have been a great unifying force for good throughout the empire.

Millions of people mourn today for the dead Monarch and at the same time they give their wholehearted allegiance to the new Queen.

Mr. Houchin closed his message by repeating that famous radio message of 1939: "Put your hand into the hand of God."

The service closed with a favorite hymn of the deceased, "Abide with Me" and the benediction after which Stirling band contributed a burial selection.

The town council was represented by Councillors Hawley, Howard and A. B. Ross. Mayor R. K. Jackson was unable to attend, being on a business trip. Guides Helen Bowers and Marion Aylsworth represented Girl Guides.

Junior Hawks Defeat Peterborough Links 5-2 To Take 1st Playoff Game

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THAT'S ONE

The junior Hawklets by virtue of an allround effective display grabbed the first game of the junior "B" semi-finals playoffs here last night against the Peterborough Links. Ted DeGray, Duke Doran and Lalande came through with fine offensive efforts while Peter Green went brilliantly both ways with defence partner Munro also turning in a good effort behind the bluelines. But one swallow does not constitute a binge neither does a game clinch a hockey series. This Peterborough squad is far from out of the woods and the Hawklets can not afford to do any coasting. It's all out out here from here in. The teams meet here again tomorrow night.

The Hawklets were resplendent in their new sweaters last night. The garb was the gift of the Chicago Black Hawks organization and were brought here by Chief Scout Bob Wilson. They are replicas of the Chicago Hawks "away sweaters" with white bodies, black and red bands on the arms and black and red shoulder stripes. Black letters adorn chest and back. They contrast sharply with the off-garb pants and stockings and if and when the youngsters get the complete outfit they should be the nattiest-apparelled crew in the group.

And that should not be too far off. Scout Wilson promised that if the Hockey Association here supplied the stockings he personally would guarantee the pants for next season. Fair enough.

* * *

A SOUND IDEA

Perhaps it was the way the Galt Junior Hawks youngsters took an overnight vault into National Hockey League ranks in their stride. Perhaps it is a part of the Chicago Black Hawks organization's policy to develop youngsters as future reinforcements for the parent team. Whatever it is, it augurs well for not only the National Leaguers but for the junior "B", junior "A" and other farm units of the organization.

It is a plan to hold a hockey school in Galt this spring for a group of youngsters from all parts of the province ranging from 14 years upwards.

The school will be held under the supervision of Bob Wilson, chief eastern scout of the Black Hawks, who has been "ivory-chasing" for many years.

In fact we believe it is Wilson's "baby". Bob appears to be quite enthusiastic over the idea and believes it will pay off in topflight hockey material for the entire Hawks organization.

Players from Belleville, Galt and other Hawk farms will be invited to the school. It is expected that some twenty potential big leaguers will be in attendance.

The plan as outlined to this department by Mr. Wilson has its good points. First, the "students" will be at the peak of condition or at least in good condition since they will have finished a hockey season. They will not be handicapped by lack of skating or practice as would be the case if the school was held in early October, or before they had a chance to get the summer stiffness out of their legs and arms.

Secondly, potential junior "A" and "B" players will play together during the course, and be judged according to their ability.

In this manner, Black Hawk officials, coaches, etc. will be in a better position to judge a player's potentialities simply through a method of comparison. This cannot be done to any great degree of satisfaction if the players of different classifications are segregated.

Furthermore, Mr. Wilson will be in a much better position to know what players will be sent to such junior "B" teams as Belleville and Galt and to the junior "A" squad in the latter city next fall.

The school will be of 4 to 6 days duration and the youngsters will be given a stiff period of instruction and the opportunity to bring out the best talent they possess.

From this corner the plan is but another evidence of the sincerity of Black Hawk officials to secure and bring to its junior farms squads the best material available. Of course in so doing there may blossom forth National Hockey League material, but after all, that is the gist of the whole thing. But at the same time, junior "B" hockey insofar as the Black Hawks working arrangement squads are concerned. will get some much-needed added strength that should keep them on a par with other powerful squads in the district.

The school, Wilson said, will be timed so as not to interfere with players' studies. Also, he added, he hoped to arrange to have them see the Galt Hawks in Junior A action.

* * *

"THERE'LL BE A HOT TIME . . ."

The night of February 29th you won't be able to touch a resident of Tamworth with the proverbial ten-foot-pole. The Tamworthian chests will be shoved out to button-busting point, and who can blame them. For that's the night of the official opening of the brand new village arena, and the folks of the Addington county village are going to celebrate the occasion in a fitting manner.

"It ain't no Maple Leaf Gardens", brother, in structure, architectural beauty and seating capacity, but it serves the same purpose to these hardy village folk as does the famous ice palace to Toronto fans. They planned it, built it and paid for it "all with their own hands".

They're going to have a big night. A topflight hockey game, visiting badgers from various associations, the Belleville Quinte Skating Club's galaxy of figure-skating stars and the Kinsmens' Boys' Band of this city to supply the music. There will be official opening ceremonies and whatnot, and it looks like a grand old time is going to be had by all. Good luck to 'em. They deserve a lot of credit. And the new rink is something more than a place in which hockey is played. It is a structural monument to civic pride, and community spirit that, it is hoped, will remain for years an incentive for those who follow.

Eagles Edge Sacs By 7-6 Score

Peterborough Eagles moved to within one point of top slot in the senior 'B' group race at home last night when they turned back the Kingston Sacs by a 7-6 score.

Eagles now have 27 points, one behind the leading Peterborough Petes, with Belleville Hawks in third place with 24 and the Sacs trailing with 23.

The Hawks are guests of the Petes at Peterborough tomorrow night and entertain them here on Friday.

Stage Third-Period Offensive To Clinch Hard-Fought Game; Green, DeGray, Doran Shine

Belleville Junior Hawks roared through for three goals in the third period to defeat the Peterborough Oddellows by a score of 5-2 at the Memorial Arena last night.

The win gave the homesters a one-game lead in the best-of-five semi-final junior B series with the Triplelink club.

The Hawks were resplendent in their new white Black Hawk sweaters, a gift of the parent club.

The tilt was a typical playoff fixture, both teams playing clean hard-checking and close-checking game with no quarter asked or given by either squad.

Peterborough took the lead early in the game when Sullivan let a shot go from just inside the blue line that caught Barclay napping. He appeared not to be expecting it and fanned completely on it. Hefferman drew an assist on the play.

It wasn't until after the three-quarter mark of the same period, while the visitors were a man short, that the Hawks were able to tie the score. Gilmour was the payoff man on a rush with Doran and DeGray, the latter pair getting assists on the play.

Peter Scores Pretty One

Then just before the end of the period, Pete Green took Wilson's pass at centre ice, went through a pair of defencemen, and rifled a 25-footer across the net to catch the far corner for a score. It was the prettiest goal of the night and beat Wasson cleanly.

PETER GREEN

Although neither team was able to produce a score in the second period, both goalkeepers were called upon to make some nice saves, Wasson more so than Barclay. First Stewart for the Liftlockers and then Doran for Belleville rifled shots that hit the goal post and bounced away.

McCracken tripped in a puck scramble at centre ice and in falling, struck his head, knocking himself out. Time was called until the seriousness of the injury could be ascertained but after a couple of minutes, he was able to resume play.

Four penalties were issued in the second period, all to the home club and Ted DeGray and "Duke" Doran did an excellent job of killing them off. This duo played well and were two of the outstanding puckists on the night's play.

They made a rushing play shortly after the commencement of play in the final frame and in the melee, the puck was left lying in front of the net. Johnny Munroe, following up, lifted the disc into the centre of the net for what proved to be the winning goal.

Play seemed to speed up and shortly after, with Armstrong again sitting out a penalty, Hector Lalande gave the Hawks a 4-1 lead on a pass from Jacklin.

Stewart matched that one on a ganging attack while both teams had a man in the sin-bin. Jensen passed out to Stewart who slid the puck into the corner for their final score.

TED DeGRAY

Pete Green made another beautiful rush, stickhandling through two Petes, only to have the puck bounce off the goal post with a resounding thud. Lalande completed the scoring shortly before the bell when Jacklin passed out from behind the net and Wasson covering the other side.

The entire Hawk squad went well but DeGray and Doran were outstanding. Lalande also went well offensively while Pete Green, improving every game of late, topped the defencemen.

Aside from Wasson, who played a terrific game in the nets, Heffernan was the only outstanding player on the Oddfellows lineup.

The Teams

Belleville Hawks: Goal, Barclay; defence, Green, Wilson; centre Lalande; wings, Strahan and Jacklin; subs, DeGray, Doran, Gilmour, Munroe, Houle, Carey, Therrien.

Boxing Champs Must Defend Or Forfeit Titles

Quebec, Feb. 19 (CP)—The Canadian Boxing Federation today ordered six Canadian champions to defend their titles within 90 days or forfeit them.

President Wilfrid Samson said a C.B.F. regulation holds champions to one title-bout every six months, a condition which the six have failed to meet.

The champions are: Heavyweight Vernon Escoe, Toronto; light-heavyweight Tiger Warrington of Kentville, N.S.; middleweight Roy Wouters of Montreal; welterweight Johnny Greco of Montreal; Featherweight Frankie Amond of Vancouver and bantamweight Fernando Gagnon of Quebec.

Gene Letourneau, chairman of the rating committee, said the champions must meet logical contenders listed last Nov. 12. They are:

Heavyweight: Don Mogard and Earl Walsh, both of Toronto.

Light - heavyweight: Kenny Lovegrove, Hamilton, Ont., and Colbey McKluskey, Dartmouth, N.S.

Middleweight: Yvon Durelle, Baie Ste. Anne, N.B.; Jimmy Langston, Vancouver and Billy Fifield, Toronto.

Welterweight, Fritzie Pruden, St. Catharines, Ont.

Featherweight: George Sinclair and Dave Mitchell, both of Toronto, and Clement Bolduc, Sherbrooke, Que.

Bantamweight: Stan Almond and Jackie Turner, both of Vancouver.

Gordie Howe Paces Red Wings To 4-2 Victory

Detroit, Feb. 19—(CP)—Right winger Gordie Howe, the National Hockey League's top scorer, scored two goals in the final eight minutes of play here last night to cap a third-period Detroit Red Wing rally that brought a 4-2 victory over Boston Bruins.

The win was the pace-setting Red Wing's sixth straight, boosting their lead over the runner-up Toronto Maple Leafs to 15 points. The Bruins remained deadlocked with New York Rangers in fourth spot.

Boston took a 1-0 first period lead and held a 2-1 advantage by the finish of the middle session before going on to their 4-2 final.

Glen Skov and Johnny Wilson scored Detroit's other goals. Dave Creighton and Ed Sandford were the goal-getters for the losers.

Reds' Powell Leads American League Scoring

New York, Feb. 19—(CP) — Centre Ray Powell of Providence Reds heads into the home stretch today in his bid for the American Hockey League scoring championship.

Powell enjoys a 12-point edge over the rest of the field with only four weeks of play remaining The veteran playmaker has collected 78 points on 30 goals and 48 assists. His assist harvest is tops in the circuit.

Steve Wochy, veteran right winger of Cleveland Barons, is second with 66 points and Jackie Hamilton of St. Louis third with 64, Wochy is the league's top goal-getter with 32.

Pittsburgh's Gil Mayer leads in the race for goal-tending honors. Mayer has the best average, 2.45, and has turned in the most shutouts, five. Buffalo's Pete Durham continues to lead in penalties with 146 minutes.

N.H.L. Spotlight Shifts from Wings To Habs-Leafs Second-Place Fight

Montreal, Feb. 19—(CP)—Detroit Red Wings may be grabbing just about all the honors there are to grab in the National Hockey League these days but the spotlight has shifted from the powerful Wings to the battle going between Montreal and Toronto.

The upsurging Canadiens caught up with the Leafs in team standings during the week and this without the services of high-scoring ace Maurice (Rocket) Richard sidelined by injuries for 13 games.

Reason for the Montrealers' climb is the fact that the Habs had two victories in three starts during the week while the best the Leafs could do in three games was a single tie.

Upshot of the whole thing is that the Red Wings pace the pack with 74 points while Toronto and Montreal are tied for second with 61. Tied for fourth place, at 48 points apiece, are New York Rangers and Boston Bruins.

Howe Leads Pack

In the individual scoring department, Detroit's Gordie Howe continues to show the way with 58 points, made up of a record 31 goals and 27 assists.

Montreal's Elmer Lach holds down second spot with 53 points —12 goals and a pace-setting 41 assists. In third spot is Ted Lindsay of Detroit who has a 19-28 mark for 47 points while fourth is Don Raleigh of New York with 14 goals and 32 assists—46 points.

Sid Smith of Toronto comes next with 42 and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal and Johnny Peirson of Boston are tied with 41.

Among the goalkeepers, Detroit's Terry Sawchuk continues to hold the spotlight with 11 shutouts and an average of 1.81 goals-against in the 53 games in which he has participated.

Al Rollins of Toronto and Jim Henry of Boston have five shutouts apiece, Rollins having a 2:07 mark and Henry 2:55.

The Leafs are the most penalized club with 582 minutes spent in the penalty box and Rangers have the least — 421 minutes. The individual bad man is Gus Kyle of Boston who has spent 115 minutes in the cooler.

French Boy, 12 Starter In Olympic Skating

Oslo, Feb. 19 (AP) —Alain Giletti is almost undistinguishable from the hundreds of Norwegian small fry who press around the gates to collect autographs from competitors in the winter Olympic games.

But Alain goes right through the gates. He's the only starter for France in the men's figure skating which opens today, although he just turned 12-years-old—the youngest entry in the games.

Alain is the French senior champion in figure skating, and with a 10-year-old partner won the junior pairs title, too.

He is not reckoned to throw any scares into America's Dick Button, who has won the world championship for the last four years and is the defending Olympic champion. But Alain still could be the darling of the crowd no matter where he finishes among the starting list of 14 skaters.

Alain beat four competitors for his French title, and finished fourth among the 11 entries in the European championships about two weeks ago.

The medals he has won look pretty but Alain's greatest prize is the pocket knife he was given after he skated an exhibition in Vienna.

THE Calvert SPORTS COLUMN

by Elmer Ferguson

The general hockey public doubtless harbors the idea that referees are a drab, humorless lot of folk, whose principal aim in life is to annoy and harass toiling hockey players, spoil the contests by tooting their whistles, and visit upon the home players penalties which are of course outrageously unfair and uncalled-for.

But the referees are, in fact, a very pleasant lot of folk, doing a very difficult job, and in the main, doing it extremely well. And most of them have a sharp sense of humor. If they didn't, it's doubtful whether they could retain job and sanity.

Hockey lost a referee of vast color and keen sense of humor when Frank King Clancy decided to hang up his whistle and return to coaching duties.

But the fast-talking Clancy did not always get the best of it in verbal exchanges. One night he was being heckled by Babe Pratt, another lad who was very fast on the verbal trigger. Finally, in exasperation, Clancy snapped at Pratt: "I wish I was playing against you tonight."

"Well, ain't you?" innocently responded Pratt.

Clancy credited his mental balance in the refereeing field to the hard-boiled veteran Mickey Ion, who refereed for many years in the major league. "In my first game as an NHL referee," said Clancy, "I was working with Mickey. When we started for the ice, I was literally shaking, I was so nervous. Ion noticed this, stopped, took me by the arm, and said: 'Don't worry kid,. Remember this: the second after that puck is dropped, there will be only two sane people in the entire house, you and I'."

"I always kept that in mind," Clancy said later, "and I often thought afterwards that Mickey was right."

The late Lou Marsh, a rugged citizen and hard-hitting sports writer, refereed hockey games with the same virility that characterized his writing. In a small Ontario town one night, a lady fan, seated close to the ice was giving Marsh a terrific verbal beating. Lou heard, paid no attention. But a play developed that forced a faceoff in front of the belligerent lady. So she screamed at close range: "If you were my husband, Marsh, I'd give you poison."

"If I was your husband," Marsh retorted politely, "I'd take it."

Bald, fast-skating George Gravel, is one of the wittier referees of the present era. When a player feigned injury one night, and lay on the ice as if knocked completely out, Gravel said to him, quite pleasantly: "Please get up. The hockey players need the ice."

President Clarence Campbell is a martinet in the matter of enforcing rigidly the rules of the game, and stands four-square back of his referees, has visited sharp punishment on players who tangled with the officials on and off the ice. But when he was a referee, he took a lenient view of player belligerence. In the heat of a Stanley Cup match, Dit Clapper, of Boston Bruins, a notably clean and sporting player, annoyed at a penalty, tossed a punch at referee Campbell and landed a light, glancing blow of no damaging qualities. Most of those who saw the incident expected dire punishment to be visited on the offender. But Campbell didn't even report it. "Clapper is a nice fellow, always a gentleman, and just lost his head for a few seconds," he said.

Amazing Norwegian Skate Star Scores Olympic Triple-Slam; Breaks Own World Record

Oslo, Feb. 19—(CP)—Amazing Hjalmar Andersen of Norway virtually completed a triple grand slam in speed skating at the Olympics today shattering three records in the process.

Skating in the 10,000-metre race, Andersen broke his own recognized world record and the Olympic record and became the first competitor in the history of The Winter Games to score a triple on consecutive days.

Andersen's performance in today's race was so sensational it was practically a certainty no other skater in the field could equal or better his mark.

Andersen was clocked in 16 minutes, 45.8 seconds for the grind of approximately 6¼ miles. Hhis own recognized world mark, made last year, was 16:57.4. The previous best Olympic time was 17:24.2, made in 1936 at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, by another Norwegian, Ivar Ballangrud. Andersen has an even better mark for the distance—16:32.6—made in an international meet at Hamar, Norway, nine days ago, and now up for recognition.

Boosts Norway Total

Andersen's victory today sent Norway's team total in the unofficial point standings far above the others.

The win of this Norwegian super-star was just about taken for granted before the race but the supporters of the stop-Norway movement took some heart with the first appearance in the games today of the men figure skaters.

Even at the Canadian headquarters in the Olympic village there was scarcely a dissenter from the opinion that Dick Button of Englewood, N.J., will successfully defend the championship he won in 1948, although the little band of Canadian supporters was pulling strongly for Peter Firstbrook, 18-year-old Toronto boy who is Canada's only entrant. The figure skaters go through the compulsory, or school, figures today. The free-skating phase comes Thursday.

Andersen's win to start off the day gave Norway five consecutive championships in the last three days.

Andersen started the march of his country to first place in the standings by wining the 5,000-metre race Sunday. Yesterday he won the 1,500-metre race and his fellow-countrymen took Gold Medal honors in two ski events, the Nordic combined and the 18-kilometre cross-country. Today Andersen rounded out his triple.

Jap Second

Andersen's companion in his record-smashing effort was Kasuhiko Sugawara of Japan. The little oriental turned in a respectable 17:34, second best time of the first six racers, but was left far behind by the flying Norseman.

Other times turned in so far included Gothe Hedlund, Sweden, 17:39.2; John Hearn, England, 17:41.5; Joseph Merenyi, Hungary, 18:09.00; and Theo Medina, Germany, 18:24.4.

The lean Andersen, who runs his sporting goods shop in his native Trondheim, plans to retire after this year. He said he will compete in his last big meet at Trondheim early next month when the world championships will be held. He already has won three consecutive European and Norwegian championships.

"Hjallis" did not compete in the other skating race—the 500 won by Ken Henry of Chicago—but he captured the 5,000 Sunday in 8:10.6 to break Ballangrud's Olympic standard of 8:19.6 and he annexed the 1,500 metric mile yesterday in 2:20.4.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

The ban on American amateur boxers fighting in Ontario will continue to be enforced according to a letter from Douglas Roby, president of the United States Amateur Athletic Union, to Don Buddo, of the southwestern Ontario branch of the A. A. U. of Canada.

Buddo said last night in London, Ont., that he had "felt certain that the matter was going to be settled." Now it appears "as if it will never be settled."

The American A. A. U. slapped the ban on its amateur boxers appearing in Ontario rings two years ago for what they termed "inability of Ontario A. A. U. officials to uphold amateur standards in boxing." At various times, however, U. S. fighters have ignored the ban and displayed their wares in London, Sudbury and other Ontario points.

Just what the situation will be if any Ontario boys make the Canadian Olympic team is a problem that will have to be faced, Buddo said.

"Undoubtedly the Americans will protest to the International Olympic Committee, but we'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

Britain's 60-year-old auto ace, Lt.-Col. A. T. (Goldie) Gardner, plans an August attack on his own world speed record at Bonneville Salt Flats, Utah. Gardner set the world mark of 137.4 miles an hour in a 1½-litre car there last August. The veteran driver in a telephone interview from London said yesterday he will also bid for a new world record in the two-litre car class.

Canada's doubles team of Lorne Main and Brendan Macken advanced to the third round of the United States indoor tennis championships in New York last night with a pair of easy victories.

Murph (Hardrock) Chamberlain, suspended coach of Buffalo Bisons, will attend a hearing Wednesday before American Hockey League President Maurice Podoloff. Chamberlain, a former National Hockey League left-winger at Toronto and Montreal, was suspended and fined $150 Feb. 16, when he refused to being ordered to do so by referee Walton Russell.

Jean-Pierre Roy, who in 1945 pitched Montreal Royals to 25 International Baseball League victories said yesterday in Montreal he has received his release from Drummondville Cubs of the Provincial League and may pitch for Ottawa Athletics of the International League this coming season.

Fred Young of Chippawa announced yesterday in Niagara Falls that the Ontario Baseball Association's annual meeting, scheduled for St. Catharines April 18-19, has been postponed one week until April 25-26. Lack of hotel accommodation was given as the reason.

Spring Training Gets Under Way In Sunny South

New York, Feb. 19 (AP)—The spring training season was underway today amid pep talks by managers, sulking stars who refuse to come to terms and assorted rookie prospects—both of the hot and cold variety.

The almost-victorious Brooklyn Dodgers pitched camp in Vero Beach, Fla. When the entourage arrived, it was greeted by Gil Hodges, home-run king of the team, young infielder , Rocky Bridges and pitchers Ralph Branca, Carl Erskine and Clyde King.

The only player on the train was Carl Furillo, who joined the group of writers and club officials at Philadelphia.

New York Giants, who beat out the Brooks for the National League pennant in a playoff, got a one-day start along with the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Giants arrived in Phoenix, Ariz., yesterday and no sooner did they check in than manager Leo Durocher had the batterymen out drilling. But with all his men, Durocher probably is worrying more about the absent Sal Maglie than anyone.

Maglie remains at Niagara Falls, N.Y., determined to get more money than the National League champions have offered so far.

President Horace Stoneham apparently is just as determined as his 23-game winner to stand pat.

"We haven't heard a word from Maglie and we don't intend to make any further overtures at this time," said Stoneham. "The weather is fine here, and it's cold, I understand, in Niagara Falls."

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Feb. 19 (AP) —Jack Burke, Jr., the muscular son of a golfing father, won the Texas Open golf championship Sunday with a 72 hole total of 260 strokes, representing four incredible rounds of 67-65-64-64.

Want to know what that indicates? It indicates that in one generation—from club-making father to exhibitionist-entertainer son — the art of golf has improved approximately seven strokes to the round. That is, better clubs, better balls and incessant play have transformed sonny into a scoring machine the likes of which his pappy could not have dreamed.

This is a case where the figures may be nailed down. Exactly 28 years ago, over the same Brackenridge Park course at San Antonio, McDonald Smith won the fifth annual Texas Open with an aggregate score of 288. And playing with him in perhaps the most harrowing, hilarious finish of all golfing history were Jack Burke Sr., and little Bobby Cruickshank.

That was the memorable day Wild Bill Mehlhorn climbed his tree overlooking the 72nd green and shouted well meant encouragement to Cruickshank— something like "sink it Bobby!" Wee Bobby, who a moment before had first money as good as banked, jumped and got the trembles and took four blows from the edge of the green to finish an exceedingly angry second.

Jack, Sr., was a cool player, and for 11 holes of the final round he stayed dead even with Smith and Cruickshank. But on the 12th, a dogleg, he gambled on cutting across some trees with his drive, dropped a couple of shots and never got back in contention. He must have finished with about a 290.

The son has just shot the same layout four times in a total of 260 strokes. Perhaps this is not typical even of the wild scoring going on today, but it cannot be termed a freak, either, when one considers that a 60 and a 61 were shot in successive tournaments at Tucson and San Antonio. Doug Ford, who finished second to Burke, Jr., had rounds of 67-67-66-66.

We asked Joe Dey Jr., executive secretary of the U.S.G.A., what he made of it. Could Burke, the kid, be that much better golfer than his dad was?

"Given the better clubs he's playing with and the vastly improved greens he's putting on, I suppose we have to concede that he is," Joe said.

"What the general public probably doesn't realize is that this is a whole new breed of golfers.

"Strictly speaking, these are not golf professionals in the same sense that there fathers were. They are professional entertainers. I doubt that 50 percent of them could reshaft a golf club, and the art of teaching is a closed book to most of them.

Shown in practice action at Oslo, is Jeanette Altwegg, of England, who won first place in the important school figures phase of the Olympic figure skating championships. France's Jacqueline Du Bief was second ahead of two American girls — Tenley Albright, 16-year-old Newton, Mass., high schooler, and Sonya Klopfer, of Brooklyn, who is 17. Suzanne Morrow of Toronto placed fifth. — Central Press Canadian.

A 4-2 victory for Detroit over Boston last night strengthened the position of two Red Wing players among the seven in individual scoring in the National Hockey League. Boston's sole member of this elite group went scoreless.

Gordie Howe of Detroit denied the twine twice and chalked up an assist to take an even firmer grip on top spot. He now has 33 goals— more than any other player — and 28 assists for 61 points.

Closest contender is Montreal's Elmer Lach with 53 points, a league - leading 41 assists and 12 goals.

Ted Lindsay of the Red Wings notched an assist to make his hold on third spot a little more certain. He now has 19 goals and 29 assists for 48 points.

Curlers Enter Second Round Ontario Bonspiel

Toronto, Feb. 19 (CP) — Some 500 members of Ontario's curling fraternity today picked up their brooms for the second session of the 25th annual five-day Ontario bonspiel.

Toronto curling sheets took a pounding yesterday as 127 games were run off to move the 128 rinks well into competition for the Royal Trophy, main 'spiel event, and the Birks Trophy, first consolation award.

Tom Beattie's Toronto Curling Club rink, 1951 winners of the Royal, threatened again with a 17-10 first round win over the Tiverton crew under J. W. McFadyen. In the second round they edged Dr. A. E. Walkey's Hamilton Victoria foursome 6-4.

Last year's winner of the Birks Trophy, Dr. J. C. Malcolmson, also of the Toronto C. C., moved in to challenge Mr. Beattie's rink with a 13-4 round of the Royal over Arch Cochrane of Brampton. They posted the day's highest score in the second round, 21-12 against W. Barclay of Hamilton Victoria.

Play opens today with the first round of the Seiberling Trophy.

'Stop Norway' Olympic Athletes Cry; Undefeated Mercurys Meet Czechs

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Oslo, Feb. 19 (CP) —Supporters of the stop-Norway movement at the 1952 winter Olympics games took heart today with the first appearance of the men figure skaters.

You could canvass the whole Olympic village—even the Canadian headquarters—and find scarcely a dissenter from the opinion that Dick Button of Englewood, N.J., will successfully defend the championship he won in 1948.

Although pulling strongly for Peter Firstbrook, the 18-year-old Toronto boy who is Canada's only entrant, Canada's little band of supporters feel that only a broken leg or something equally disastrous can keep Button from repeating.

The men figure skaters go through the compulsory, or school, figures today. The free - skating phase is scheduled for Thursday.

Despite this reasonable assurance of "foreign" championship, the immediate business in hand was still to stop Norway.

All the Norwegians did yesterday was walk off with the three championships that were settled and romp to the point-scoring leadership.

Canada Meets Czechs

The hockey teams in the Olympic round robin championship got down to cut-throat business today, with four undefeated teams in action.

Canada's Edmonton Mercurys, moving into tougher opposition met Czechoslovakia and the United States faced Switzerland in the only two games scheduled. The other half of the fifth-round draw will be played Wednesday when Germany meets Poland and Finland plays Norway.

The Canadians had an easy time last night, shutting out Poland 11-0. The game proved only a workout for the Mercurys.

The Poles, woefully weak in every department of the game, had only seven shots on goal against 39 for the Canadians who looked as if they could have run up a much higher score had they tried. George Abel, centre for the Mercurys, fired three goals, and the other eight went to eight different players.

The United States had trouble with Finland's willing workers except in the second period when Bob Rompre of International Falls, Minn., scored three goals and sent the Americans well on their way to an 8-2 victory. He added a fourth goal in the final period, the only one the Americans could score then against both of Finland's tallies. Had the Finns come through with better marksmanship on the nets they could easily have narrowed the score margin.

Two other undefeated teams won last night. Sweden, with no byes in the four rounds, won 7-3 over Germany, and Switzerland's good looking club scored a 7-2 victory over Norway, the team the United States barely squeezed past, 3-2, in the opening round.

Stamps, Rockets Play to Tie

Calgary, Feb. 19—(CP)—Calgary Stampeders and Tacoma Rockets last night played to a 5-5 dealock in the lone Pacific Coast Hockey League game.

Mark Marquess, Doug Adam, Dutch Delmonte, Moe Young and Wingy Johnston scored for the Rockets and Mitch Pechet, Bing Juckes, Frank Ashworth, Dick Butler and Hal Brown tallied for Stampeders.

THAT PERSONAL TOUCH

Winnipeg, (CP)—The trend in the drugstore business today is back to the "friendly pharmacy," a druggists' meeting was told by J. Warren Lansdowne of Indianapolis. He said "Joe Doakes" often buys his toothpaste at the grocery store because the druggist has "neglected the personal touch."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Tell your partner whether you have a minnie or the holy city. A minnie is bridge jargon for a minimum bidding hand. The holy city means a hand that contains most of the good cards.

Defensively, your bid in a suit admits your hand is not quite as good as an opening one bid. With a hand as good as an opening bid of one, you say double.

As in this deal:

NORTH
♥A Q 5
♦J 6
♣Q J 6

WEST
♠9 6
♥K 7 4 2
♦A K 9 3
♣K 7 2

EAST
♠7
♥10 9 8 6
♦10 8 7 5
♣8 5 4 3

SOUTH
♠K J 10 4 3
♥J 3
♦Q 4 2
♣A 10 9

South passes. West opens with a diamond. North has enough for a bid of one spade. But with a hand as good as an opening one bid, he doubles. East passes. South is now forced to bid something.

First choice of response to a takeout double is an unbid major suit with four or more cards in it. So, south here bids a spade. It was not a jump. Therefore, he denies as many as five tricks.

North has a total count of six tricks; two aces, three queens, a short card in diamonds. With such good spades in north, if south has as many as four tricks, the pair may have a game in spades.

So, north bids two spades when west passes. It tells south that north has at least one trick more than his promised five. It asks south to say if he can show anything more.

A player is always assumed to have a minimum of two tricks. Thus, south may now increase the contract one in number for each trick he has in excess of two.

If south has no more than two tricks, he will pass. With three tricks, he will have one raise. With four tricks, he will be able to raise two; a double raise is enough for game.

Therefore, with the four tricks he holds, south will now bid four spades. With the six promised by north they have ten; enough for game. Don't hold back.

Tells How Reds Control Thought Within the Party

After posing nine years as a communist in the party, Mrs. Bernice Baldwin, 49-year-old mother, revealed herself as a U.S. government agent and testified at a congressional hearing. Her testimony included evidence on how the party in the U.S. distributed books to give members the "correct" line of thinking on international problems.—Central Press Canadian.

Kemsley Scholar

Grant Roberts, 29-year-old reporter on the Toronto Globe and Mail, has been awarded the sixth Kemsley scholarship in journalism. He will spend a year in Britain gaining experience in the various offices of the Kemsley newspapers. Object of the annual scholarship, also given in Australia, New Zealand, and South Africa, is to encourage an exchange of ideas and experience among journalists and to strengthen Commonwealth ties. Mr. Roberts, born in Montreal and a graduate of McGill University, is a son of Leslie Roberts, well-known writer.—(CP Photo.)

DESERONTO

Deseronto — The local group of the C.G.I.T. held their annual bazaar and tea in the United Church Sunday school.

Upon entering the guests were invited by Miss Dolores Gardiner to sign their names in the visitors' book and were welcomed by Mrs. Townsend and Miss Florence Gonyou.

Orange Grove

It was an "Orange Grove Tea" and the hall was decorated attractively to carry out the theme. Numbers of orange trees "suspiciously" resembling those seen at Christmas, bore wonderful oranges and scattered among trees were tea tables and various booths, in charge of the girls.

One could buy orangeade, orange cookies, candy oranges and oranges from this booth. The home cooking table was a popular spot and trading was brisk. The work table with its array of merchandise found many customers.

Quartet tables in charge of a C.G.I.T. girl proved very inviting to all comers. Members of the W.M.S., who presided at the tea tables were: Mrs. J. Dawson, Mrs. W. Cochrane, Mrs. Herb Aylsworth and Mrs. H. M. McKee. The girls and their leaders are to be congratulated on having planned and carried out such a successful and worthwhile project for their organization.

CAMPBELLFORD

Midgets, Bantams Win and Lose At Wellington

Campbellford—The Campbellford OMHA teams, midget and bantam, played in Wellington on Saturday night, the midgets winning on the round by a ten goal margin, and the bantams losing by the narrow margin of one goal.

The midgets had more trouble with the slightly heavier and much improved Wellington team on Saturday, and tied them 6-6. On Tuesday last, they defeated the same team by the score of 12-3.

The midgets will now tangle with the Stirling midgets and with the reputation both these teams have established, during the season, fans are assured of lots of excitement as they battle to stay in the playoffs. The local youngsters play in Stirling on Monday night, with a return game here on Friday. It is a home and home series, goals to count.

The OMHA bantams looked as though they were going to come out on top of the heap on Saturday night in Wellington also, but were unable to overcome the three goal lead the Wellington lads gained over them when the two played in Campbellford on Tuesday last. Wellington defeated the local bantams here by the score of 3-0 last week giving the locals quite a handicap to overcome on strange ice. They won their game 3-2 on Saturday, but lost the round by one goal.

The little fellows can now reluctantly hang up their skates for this season, but the loss seems to have more firmly established their determination to go on to the top next year. The team lost a number of its more experienced players to the midgets this year, when these boys grew out of the bantam age group. The bantams have certainly established a record to be proud of, and the local fans feel they owe a great deal of respect to these battling youngsters who provided them with many a thrill during the season.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 19 (AP) —Why are there so many unmarried actresses in Hollywood?

There are far more bachelor girls than bachelors among the film famous. To name a few: Katharine Hepburn, Lizabeth Scott, Mitzi Gaynor, Piper Laurie, Jean Peters, Ann Blyth, Patricia Neal, Yvonne de Carlo.

The list grows greater when you consider the unattached divorcees: Betty Hutton, Joan Fontaine, Barbara Stanwyck, Ginger Rogers, Kathryn Grayson, Marilyn Monroe, Ann Sheridan, Joan Crawford, Ann Miller, Paulette Goddard, Marilyn Maxwell, Rhonda Fleming.

Asked about this social phenomenon Marta Toren said:

"Why haven't I married? Because I'm old-fashioned. I just want to be married once, not 10 times. That's why I've waited."

The Swedish miss admitted that being a movie personality is not too conducive to romance.

Dates Scared

"Many men hold an actress some what in awe," she explained. "They are afraid to ask her for a date."

Marta agreed with Joan Fontaine that it is difficult to find a man who can live happily with a movie star.

But she didn't agree with Miss Fontaine's statement that she won't marry until she gives up her career.

"Marriage would be very difficult," said Marta, "but not impossible. I would have to find a man who would be very sympathetic to the kind of work I do and understand it. Preferably, it would be someone in this business, but I don't think I would marry an actor.

"I think another problem in an actress marrying is that she would often be making more money than her husband. I think that would be a very hard situation for a man. As for myself, I still think the man should be the provider."

The feature is now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre along with Charles Laughton and Boris Karloff in "The Strange Door."

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—You who do not worry about quick money gains but enjoy working out problems to do a finished job, whatever your occupation, can have a productive day, even make fresh advancement.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Your Mercury's position now stresses need for forethought, analysis, extra care in all propositions that could entail financial debts. But day encourages good work in any honest endeavors.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Can be sound achievement in your occupation, in family's security, government, community interests. Don't rush unthinkingly but push ahead. Fine influences. Heed intuition.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Many advantages for your benefit. Seek new achievement, due awards from those in authority But be patient, here, too. Your Sun and the Moon point up worthy undertakings, charities.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Though Mercury urges caution signing contracts, in all legal and important papers, day generally has splendid indications and can mean benefits, accomplishment for strong effort.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Important trades; handling machinery, tools, metals, lumber; essential construction, transportation among highly favored. Doctors, nurses, religious, government interests sponsored.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—First, hold emotions and worry under wise control. Then go ahead in day's schedule with unction, and gain. Familiar work and usual daily affairs can advance. Be cheerful.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius) — Mixed vibrations. Sudden decisions—hasty changes in any matter running smoothly, profitably—are tabu unless for urgent reasons. Day favors moderation, application to your job.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—You, like most of us today, can move ahead, contribute greatly to family's future security by sticking at tasks uncomplainingly. Keep eyes open for fresh advantages.

YOU BORN TODAY. Ambitious studious though not as active at times as should be for the high attainment your talents deserve. Cultivate your shrewdness into sensible caution, always keep motives honorable and unselfish. You have much ability and talent and if you apply yourself rightly, can go to the top in your profession or trade by honest work, prayer and the will to achieve. Think seriously of spiritual values; they bring gains that last and make for true happiness.

A moment after the rescue, that section of the split tanker was smashed against Chatham bar by breakers 25 or 30 feet high.

The two American tankers—the Pendleton and the Fort Mercer—apparently broke up at almost the same time yesterday in the winter's worst storm off this little fishing port.

Five, and possibly six, men perished early today when they leaped from the tossing bow of the Fort Mercer and missed the bouncing life rafts put out by the Coast Guard cutter Yakutat.

One man was lost while Coast Guards were taking the 32 seamen from the stern of the Pendleton.

Swallowed by Seas

Still another, although clad in a lifejacket, was swallowed up by the angry seas when he leaped from the Pendleton's bow in an attempt to reach a nearby Coast Guard motor lifeboat.

Positive identification of the lost men could not be determined immediately.

Some 38 men are believed aboard the two sections of the Fort Mercer but their fate is not definite. Its stern was last reported 48 miles off Chatham, separated from its bow by at least 12 miles.

The Pendleton's bow, with possibly eight men aboard, was last reported about a mile due west of the Pollock Rip lightship in Nantucket Sound.

One of the survivors of the Pendleton, Douglas B. Potts, 31, of Pasadena, Tex., said the ship "broke in half—all of a sudden—about 5:50 a. m. (EST)."

"I looked out and saw the bow of the boat floating to port," he thunder."

Ray Sybert of Norfolk, Va., the Pendleton's chief engineer, said the noise of the vessel breaking up sounded "like the roar of thundr."

"The seas were breaking in every direction," he said. "The tanker cracked right through No. 8 hold, just forward of midship. Right up to that time we had no warning anything was wrong."

Sybert had great praise for the coast guard rescue crew.

Nearly Miraculous

"Their work was nothing short of miraculous," he said. "Here were our young men (of the coast guard lifeboat crew) working in the dark against terrific odds. We will be indebted forever to the coast guard."

The rescue crew braved buffeting seas to make repeated passes at the Pendleton's stern as a plane dropped flares to light the scene.

Each time the lifeboat passed, one man leaped off the derelict stern.

All three sections of the two tankers were reported riding high. The stern of the Fort Mercer was reported by the coast guard as in better condition than the other two severed sections. Is lights glowed and its steam was up.

No Distress Signal

The Pendleton cracked so swiftly she didn't have time to send out a distress signal.

The Fort Mercer had radioed that her plates were cracking and that she was down by the stern.

The fate of the Pendleton might have been unknown except for a daring coast guard pilot who was seeking the Fort Mercer.

He flew so low through swirling snow he could read the Pendleton's name on the separated bow and stern sections.

Both the Fort Mercer and the Pendleton weighed 10,000 tons and carried oil. the former was headed for Boston and the latter was bound from Wilmington, Del., to Portland, Me.

BERTRAND

Yesterday the Crown concluded its case with two witnesses to disprove this defence. They were Bernard Peclet, 27-year-old chemical analysis expert in the provincial police laboratories at Montreal and Dr. Jean Marie Roussel, medico-legal expert in the same office.

Would Not Burn Easily

Dr. Roussel testified that the human body would not burn easily unless there was some combustible agent to kindle it. Yet Mrs. Bertrand's body had been so badly burned that all that was left was part of the skull and brain and a few calcinated bones—just about enough to fill a small shoe box.

He had come to the conclusion that Mrs. Bertrand's clothing must have been saturated with an inflammable fluid. But he did not see how she could have accidentally got her clothing saturated.

Mr. Peclet testified that there was no evidence in the cabin of an explosion. A gasoline lamp found in the ruins was not in working order at time of the fire. The valve that would allow the gas up to the wicks was turned off, though he could not swear that 't had not been tampered with before it came into his hands.

He said that examination of two five-gallon cans found in the ruins showed that one of them had contained an inflammable liquid called varsol. The varsol was similar to that used at the dry-cleaning establishment where Bertrand worked and where he met his wife.

MARMORA

Mrs. Harold Olsen Speaks on Living, Educational Customs

Marmora — The Marmora unit of Centre Hastings Women's Teachers' Federation held a meeting on Friday evening at the Marmora public school with Mrs. F. Hannah in the chair, and Miss Georgina Cole at the piano.

Information and discussion under the leadership of Mrs. E. Manchester and Miss Hilda Henderson was then held. Some of the topics discussed were the goodwill project, equal pay for women teachers, sick benefit, national health week, television in schools and salary schedules.

Miss Georgina Cole was appointed educational research convener for the unit.

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker was Mrs. Harold Olsen, of Marmora, formerly of Pennsylvania, and a graduate of Plattville Teachers' College, Plattville, Wisconsin. The speaker was able to give an interesting talk on some of the differences in customs, living conditions and the educational system she has noticed since residing in Canada.

Miss Cecilia Towns extended a vote of thanks on behalf of the unit.

Miss G. Cole then demonstrated the use of the flannelgraph showing how it could be used in the schools to stimulate the pupils' interest as well as for other purposes such as science, music and Bible study.

A display of teachers' magazines was also viewed at the back of the room enabling teachers to pick out such as were most helpful to them.

The meeting closed with God Save the Queen.

Refreshments were then served by ladies of Marmora Home and School Association.

HORSEMEAT STORE OPENED

40 PELTS TURNED IN

North Bay, Feb. 19 — (CP) — The Ontario Lands Department said yesterday that 40 wolf pelts have been turned into the district office for bounty claims since last October. The animals — most of them timber wolves — bring a bounty of $25 each.

TWEED

SIX FOX PELTS

Tweed — Six fox pelts were the bag of Ross Elliott, Palmateer brothers and Lincoln Elliott, who have been hunting them the past week. Most of the animals were shot near the farms of Arthur Palmateer and Dewey Kleinsteuber. Last fall Arthur Palmateer had 80 pullets destroyed by foxes.

According to the Tweed News, Mrs. Thomas Whalen, of Belleville, has not disposed of any property north of the village as reported as yet to Mr. Louis Rosen, of Ottawa, to open a scrap and metal business.

At the Knights of Columbus party held recently at St. Carthagh's Hall, Tweed, Mrs. Ern. Conkwright was the fortunate winner of a $25 jackpot prize.

The ice in Stoco Lake is reported to be 16 and 17 inches deep. Harold and Dick Bramley, of Kanata Beach, are busy cutting ice for their own resort and other tourist spots and cottages around Stoco Lake. Tweed summer ice users are served from Madoc.

Northern Life

At a recent meeting of Tweed Chamber of Commerce, Murray Dean of the Gibbard Furniture Company, Napanee, was the guest speaker. He described life about six hundred miles from the North Pole and at the most northern tip of the North American continent.

Mr. Dean spent two years in the Arctic establishing a meteorological station for the Canadian and United States governments.

The Chamber of Commerce thanks were expressed by Rev. A. L. Sisco. The matter of a new arena was also discussed at the meeting.

Building Project

Thomas Beatty, secretary of Tweed Amusements, complimented the Canadian Legion on the offer to tackle the rebuilding project. Mr. Allard Clarke, president of the Canadian Legion, said that under the plan in mind, it was hoped to provide space for dancing and possibly badminton courts. He also said that while the building would be administered by the Legion that members from other organizations would sit on the board. He emphasized that it would be a community building and not necessarily a Legion building.

Memorial Services

Two memorial services were held in Tweed on Friday, in tribute to the late King. At St. John's United Church, Rev. A. L. Sisco, pastor, conducted the service. Rev. F. F. Downing, rector of St. James' Anglican Church and padre of the Canadian Legion, Lieut. George Heron of the Salvation Army, and Rev. M. W. Heslip assisted.

A combined choir of all village protestant churches assisted.

At St. Carthagh's R.C. church, Rev. Dean Shannon had charge of the memorial service, assisted by Rev. Father Buckley. Members of the Canadian Legion attended both services; Protestant members going to St. John's and Roman Catholics attending the church of their own faith. All stores, schools and business places were closed in commemoration of the great services rendered by the late King.

Miss Colleen Bergeron spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Williams, at Rossmore.

The many friends of Mrs. Geo. Thompson, who has been ill for several weeks, will be glad to hear she is improving.

He has purchased the Tabernacle United Church parsonage at 246 Church St., in Belleville.

Paul King, who recently moved to his new four roomed bungalow, along the Moira River, was recently honored by his new neighbors and friends at a surprise house warming party.

The Teen'-Age Club recently enjoyed a skating party on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. A. Montgomery. Over 75 enjoyed the outing on a nearby pond and then Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery received the young people at their home. Dancing and games followed by refreshments completed an evening of fun.

Mrs. John H. Gehan, of Tweed, and Mrs. Thomas Bateman of Marmora, attended the funeral of their brother, the late Mr. Bruce W. Miller, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., on Friday.

On complaint of Garrett D. C. Morton, municipal clerk, Chief George Spratt has been instructed by Tweed municipal council to take immediate action against drunks and others who have been frequenting the rest rooms causing a disturbance. More Precious Than Rubies

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

The small white radio with the coral knobs sputtered a little over the announcement that the Mammoth Gold-buying Company, the oldest establishment of its kind in New York City, was responsible for her favorite program and Alma Conroy improvised the words to the classical recording which followed.

"Perhaps tonight everything will be all right," she sang, trying to believe that the hope would materialize.

It was part of a routine. Every evening Alma forced herself to this same optimistic note before Tommy, her husband, came home. And occasionally Tommy came home sober and cheerful. At other times—well, he did not mean to do wrong!

A wave of unreasoning love and sympathy for him swept over her, so acute that it was like a spasm of pain, and unconsciously she tossed back her mop of copper-colored hair in a defiant gesture. Let the world think what it would of Tommy, she knew better. Way down deep in him was an essential goodness and some day something would bring it to the surface and make him the man he should be: make him a success instead of an underpaid drudge.

It had to be, dear God, it had to come true, this dream of hers! Yes, in spite of what had happened that afternoon — and the fact that she would have to break the bad news to him.

She opened the box of flowers she had bought on her way home from work and the strong clean perfume of fresices began to compete with the savory odors which poured from the tiny kitchenette.

Alma put the blossoms in a bowl and set it on the card table which was already laid for dinner, and then set the chic, modernistic room to rights. It was always a nervous relief to use her hands—those well-shaped skillful hands which all day long manipulated gold or platinum and precious stones, welding them into the impeccable sort of designs which during better than a hundred years had made Trumbull & Company America's symbol for fine jewelry. Alma Conroy was the only woman journeyman-jeweler at The House, as its employees reverently called it, and she was proud of this distinction.

The work was absorbing, the endless cascade of jewels passing through her hands lent an unfailing magic to her day's work. And then—when the day's work was done there was this—the dread that Tommy would again fail her!

• • •

The shrilling of the telephone made her jump with alarm. That would be Tommy, urging her to abandon the meal she had prepared and join him at some bar where he would be buying the drinks for a crowd of worthless people—building up his ego by throwing away any money he happened to have on him, holding the centre of the stage he did not seem able to occupy in any other manner.

Well, this time she would refuse to go. She could not sit there and suffer the sight of her man cheapening himself—not again—never again even though it meant the first voluntary separation during the five years of their marriage. Her hand trembled as she picked up the receiver, but it was not Tommy.

"Alma, my dear," Joe Denton's rich voice was like balm to her taut nerves. "I just wanted to be sure you were all right."

Dear Joe, Alma thought, dear good Joe, he can't keep his love for me out of his voice, no matter how scrupulously he tries to hide it for Tommy's sake! Aloud she spoke cheerfully:

"I'm the same healthy red-head you said 'bye now' to at The House! Anything make you think differently?" She could feel his hesitation.

"Is Tommy home yet?" he finally said. Intuitively Alma knew this was a warning.

"No. Where did you see him? she asked quickly.

"At the Blue Cat Bar. He was drinking with Bright Muncie."

This was news. Alma had never had any particular liking for the colorful but worthless only son of the dignified president of Trumbull's—the fruit of a late second marriage. That the young man was employed by The House at all was a matter of store gossip, and she was not aware that Tommy knew Brighton Muncie except by sight. It was certainly surprising that the two should be together.

"I suppose you'll say it's a case of birds of a feather," she tried to make her voice light.

"No," said Joe gravely. "It's just that—well, you know Tommy can be a handful when he's been drinking. And I can generally calm him down. If you should need me, I'll be home all evening."

• • •

Alma thanked him and hung up, feeling weak and shaken. It was awful, the way people felt about Tommy, even Joe Denton, his best friend. If Joe had fallen in love with her, at least he had never said so and had tried to hide it, even from himself. Joe was loyal to Tommy. They had gone to school together, worked in the same places. But in her heart Alma knew that by now Joe had come almost to the end of his patience, seeing what a drag upon her Tommy had become.

"Apparently everybody except Tommy and myself thinks I ought to leave him!" she said aloud. "I know I ought to leave him. That makes sense. But I happen to love him—and love seldom makes sense, I guess!"

She went back and forth from the kitchenette, wondering how much longer she could endure the strain of her domestic life. Well, thank goodness, there was always her work—an escape into beauty and luxury.

On top of the evening paper lay a design for a pair of diamond clips; one of those incredibly accurate pen-and-ink drawings which the designing department handed out. It required 80 stones—baguettes, rounds and emerald-cut squares, the centre stones to be raised in the world-famous Trumbull prongs. Studying the drawing Alma forgot everything else. She had brought it home to outline a set-up for her own guidance, and the pieces would take plenty of time to make — dared she promised them in two weeks?

There was a sound at the door and she dropped the drawing, her heart resuming its anxious inquiry. Then Tommy Conroy came into the room, his thin darkly handsome face flushed, his manner carefully sober. He was not in bad shape she noted with quick relief, but there was a curious defiant brightness in his eyes. He flung a large package onto the sofa and his soft black hat on top of it.

"Hello, Jewels!" he said. Then he strode over and snapped off the radio.

"How can you stand that stuff!" he said contemptuously.

"It's one of the best on the air!"

"I'm sick of gold-buying — or selling! I get enough of that without having to take it on the air!"

"I thought you were not interested in Trumbull's," she said.

"Not in being a sort of super stock boy in the china department." Alma bit her lip. Now she'd have to tell him.

• • •

"I'm afraid I have bad news," she said. "I talked to Mr. Greig of the art department today. I'm afraid they want a photographer more along Mr. Dell's lines!"

"That doddering old fool—isn't he going to retire at all?"

"Alvin Dell has been good enough to make the commercial photographers at The House for 40 years!" she said reprovingly.

"Yes, while I wouldn't be at The House at all if it hadn't been for your influence and your doddering grandfather's!" She could feel her face growing crimson.

"Don't you speak of Papa Victor like that!" she flared. Tommy had the grace to look ashamed.

"Sorry!" he mumbled ungraciously. I know Victor is the Mr. Chips of the jewelry world and that he's been at Trumbull's for 60 years and all that. But listen! Everybody else at Trumbull's may think that just being there is reward enough for their services, but I don't! And now, what about Dell? Is he going or isn't he?"

"Yes, he's retiring," she said, "and I told Mr. Grieg that you were the logical man for the job—I showed him your photographs and he had to admit they were wonderful. . ."

"But what?"

"I guess maybe for once the truth won't hurt you." She was watching him with pain in her eyes. "He said you weren't the calibre for a position of such responsibility."

Camera Catches Paper Thieves

News vendor George Williams of New York was a trusting man—but that was years ago. He left his magazines and papers on a table in a New York railway station and trusted people to leave money for the papers they took. But, after losing $600 a year on pilfered papers, he installed a camera above his stand—and photographed four wealthy looking individuals in the act of walking off with his wares. Here he points to the culprit-catching camera eye. — Central Press Canadian.

BANCROFT

North Hastings Schools Pay Tribute To Late King George VI

Bancroft — Throughout North Hastings special memorial services were held in tribute to the late King George VI. in all elementary and secondary schools on Thursday afternoon.

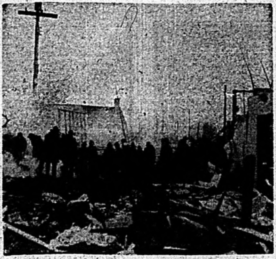
Bancroft public school assembled its 350 pupils and staff for the ceremony in the lower hall. Led by Mrs. Mary Schram the gathering sang "O God Our Help in Ages Past" and "Abide With Me". Mrs. Frances Twa read the special prayer that had been requested by Queen Elizabeth II. and Mrs. Margaret Musclow gave a brief address on the subject, "Our Late King." Preceding the National Anthem everybody (led by Principal J. W. C. Hutton) saluted the flag at the same time repeating the pledge of allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

At North Hastings High School four local ministers assisted with the special service. Rev. Kingsley Cutler, St. Paul's United Church, was the officiating clergyman. An address, "The Late King", was given by Rev. Walter Smith, St. John's Anglican church. The lesson was read by Rev. W. W. Stevenson, Bancroft Pentecostal church, and Mr. Simon Bronson, Brethren church, led in prayer. Also on the platform were Principal W. R. Robinson and Alexander W. Smith, Inspector of Public Schools for North Hastings. Carol Wiggins, a grade 13 student, was pianist for the hymns.

HEAT ALWAYS ON

Toronto, Feb. 19 — (CP)—For J. W. Reid, the heat is always on. Mr. Reid, Southern Otnario superintendent for the Canadian National Railways has a million tons of stockpiled coal to worry about summer and winter. His main concern is to keep it from burning itself up by spontaneous combustion.

Money Was Picked Off Trees



Spectators at the ruins of the Federal Loan Association building in Farmingdale, N.Y., were looking for profit from their curiosity. When the building was levelled by an explosion of a gas main, $10,000 in bills was blown into the air, settling on trees and streets. Eleven persons were injured. — Central Press Canadian.

MARMORA

Memorial Service Held in Plaza Theatre

Marmora — The public memorial service in connection with the obsequies of his late Majesty King George VI was held in the Plaza Theatre, Marmora, through the kind invitation of A. J. Maynes at 2.15 p. m. on Friday.

Prior to the service, members of Marmora Branch 237 Canadian Legion under Sergt. Robert Gray marched from the Canadian Legion Hall to the Memorial Hall, where a wreath of poppies was laid beneath the roll of honor by Major Percy Gray, and brief prayer offered by the Chaplain. W. J. Cottrell.

Color Party

Comrades T. McCann and L. Williams formed the color party. For the service in the theatre the robed choirs of St. Paul's and St. Andrew's united with Mrs. A. F. Fraser at the piano.

Introductory remarks by Reeve V. M. Lynch proved impressive. The hymn, "The Strife is O'er", was then sung.

Last Post and Reveille were sounded by Comrade G. Brooks and two minutes silence observed.

Rev. G. H. Bache took the invocation prayer and Rev. L. C. Ball read scripture passages.

Reeve Irwin McCoy, of Marmora and Lake Township, in a short address said "We have come here this afternoon to mourn with those who mourn. Because of the suddenness and uncertain time of our death it well behooves us to have our house in order". Next came the King's favorite hymn, "The King of Love, My Shepherd Is".

Sense of Challenge

Canon J. M. Brownlie in his address referred to the consciousness of the sense of challenge the King's death had brought and the personal loss which was being felt. Quoting the lines now famous as being used by George VI at the close of a Christmas message to his people, the speaker intimated that the King had never taken his hand out of the hand of God. Now it remained for us to pledge loyalty and devotion to our Queen.

Rev. G. D. Young B. A., B. D., offered the prayer for the Queen and Rev. W. C. Stevenson the prayer for the Royal Family.

The closing hymn, "Abide with Me", was followed by the National Anthem and benediction pronounced by Canon J. M. Brownlie.

Members of the Ladies' Auxiliary, which were present, joined the parade of Legionnaires back to the Legion Hall for dismissal.

Marmora Chapter I. O. D. E. attended the service in a body.

Dunlop to Order Three R's Taught In Ontario Schools

To Stop Spending Time On Music, Art, Athletics

Toronto, Feb. 20 (CP) —Education Minister W. J. Dunlop promised today that by next fall Ontario schools, will have received a department directive calculated to put the "three R's" back into education.

"I am anxious about time spent in activities that have nothing much to do with real study," Mr. Dunlop said in an interview. "I have discovered that in some of our schools an inordinate amount of time is spent on athletics."

The interview was a follow up to statements by the minister yesterday at a meeting of the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities when he urged a shift from "fancy subjects, frills and fads" in the schools and more stress on the three R's By "fancy subjects" he said he meant music, art and athletics.

Today Dr. Dunlop promised that when he termed the tendency to "sugar coat" education with athletics and "useful" activities will be curbed in Ontario schools before it is too late."

"These activities must be brought into their proper perspective and I intend to see that this is carried out," he said.

To Halt Expansion

The minister further indicated that school boards seeking "unnecessary expansion" of existing school facilities would receive little support from his department.

The interview was given almost at the same time as students at Ryerson Institute of Technology protested publicly that Dr. Dunlop has "gagged" a student-sponsored campaign to replace the 100-year-old main building and wartime emergency frame buildings that constitute the institute's quarters.

"This is just like being under a dictatorship," said Ron Evans of Toronto, second-year journalism student and editor of the student newspaper, The Ryersonian. "We must jump when Dunlop cracks the whip—and this is what they teach us is a free press."

Directive Issued

Edward Schrader, journalism instructor at the institute, said H. H. Kerr, Ryerson's principal, had issued a directive to stop the present student campaign for new buildings. He said officials of the education department had advised the principal to call off the drive.

Principal Kerr declined to comment on the charge that the minister had personally intervened.

Neither Dr. Dunlop nor his deputy minister, Cecil Cannon, would comment on student claims that the minister of education was "acting like a dictator" in stopping the new building drive.

Former Ontario Health Minister Dies in Hamilton

Hamilton, Feb. 20 (CP) —Russell T. Kelley, former Ontario Minister of Health and former president of the advertising agency which bears his name, died early today. He was 74.

Though his death follows a long illness which forced his resignation from the government post, he had retained a keen interest in public and business affairs and his last public appearance was three weeks ago at the 40th anniversary banquet of the Advertising and Sales Club of Hamilton. His son, H. P. Kelley, is president of the organization.

Mr. Kelley was deeply interested in church work and in many activities which furthered the interest of the community.

His term as a government minister began in January, 1946, under the Drew administration, a few months after his election as Progressive Conservative member for Hamilton Wentworth.

He established his advertising agency in 1913, developing it into one of the foremost of its field.

A heart attack in 1949, followed by a stroke in January, 1950, forced retirement from active business.

Destroyer Sioux On Way Home From Second Tour

Ottawa, Feb. 20—(CP)— The destroyer Sioux, first Canadian warship to complete two tours of duty in Korean waters, has been relieved by the Nootka and is scheduled to arrive at her home base at Equimalt, B.C., March 6, the navy announced today.

The Sioux, commanded by Cmdr. Paul D. Taylor of Victoria, was relieved last Wednesday by the Nootka, which had been in the Far East since early last May. In the last 19½ months, the Sioux spent all but two either on duty with the United Nations fleet or on passage to or from the war zone.

The Nootka, commanded by Commander R. M. Steele of Rothesay, N.B., sailed from her home base at Halifax Dec. 30 on the 12,600-mile voyage to the Far East. On Feb. 14, the day after her arrival at the Japanese port where Canadian warships are based, she put to sea with other U.N. units on operational duty.

Still in the Korean theatre are the destroyer Cayuga and Athabaskan.

This move was adopted in an effort to provide more efficient patrol of the Niagara River and lower Lake Erie to stop violations.

SUES CITY

Los Angeles, Feb. 20 — (AP)— The way George Brown tells it, he was driving down a street last Jan. 7 when his car hit a hole in the street. Result: a tire blew out. He caught a cold while changing it. He had to pay $5 for a cold shot. He missed a day's pay — $15.84. He had to pay $53.76 for damage to his car. Brown sued the city yesterday for $74.60.

Canada Leads World in Foreign Trade on Basis of Individual Effort

Ottawa, Feb. 20 (CP) —Canada, on the basis of individual effort, led the world in foreign trade last year. Leader in total dollar value, of course, was the United States.

The trade department estimates that on a per-capita basis, Canada in the 12 months ended September last achieved $536 worth of trade for every man, woman and child in the country.

Second was Belgium, and the United States far behind with only $173 per capita, less than one third of Canada's effort.

But with a population of 155,000,000 compared with Canada's 14,000,0000 the U.S. led the world in actual dollar value, with total foreign trade reaching $24,915,000,000. The U.S. maintained her lead established during the last half-century.

Despite a small population Canada provided keen competition as one of the world's major trading nations, and even on the basis of total dollar value, ranked fourth as an exporter, and importer.

The previous year, 1950, she ranked third, but France, gradually recovering from the devastation of war, slipped into the third spot last year.

Germany Makes Comeback

An astounding fact disclosed by a comparison of trade by the world's top traders is that Germany, hard hit by the Second World War, is making a rapid comeback. She ranked fifth in world trade, behind Canada. Before the war she ranked third.

Here is the department's survey on exports and imports for the 12 months ended last September, with all values in U.S. dollars: (In thousands of dollars)

	Exports	Imports
U.S.	$13,974,000	$10,941,000
U.K.	7,168,000	10,134,000
France	4,116,000	4,102,000
Canada	3,529,000	3,841,000
Germany	3,210,000	3,417,000
Belgium	2,466,000	2,471,000
Netherlands	1,851,000	2,525,000
Australia	2,228,000	1,814,000
Italy	1,517,000	1,928,000
Brazil	1,688,000	1,742,000

Canada achieved her world trading position with only three-fifths of one percent of the world's population.

COAST GUARD FINISHES HEROIC RESCUE AT SEA

13 Elect to Remain On Stern of Tanker

Chatham, Mass., Feb. 20 (AP)— Coast Guard cutters steamed to port today with 25 survivors from the broken tanker Fort Mercer.

Thirteen other seamen passed up rescue last night, electing instead to stick with the Fort Mercer's stern as volunteers in a salvage attempt. Efforts will be made to tow that half of the ship to port.

The Fort Mercer was one of two 10,000 ton tankers which broke in halves about the same time in a terrific northwest storm off this little fishing port Monday. The other tanker was the Pendleton. Both her halves have gone aground.

The latest batch of survivors brought to 57 the number rescued from the four drifting sections. Six are listed as dead and eight are missing and presumed dead

Eighteen of the 25 men rescued last night were due in Boston this morning aboard the Coast Guard cutter Achusnet. The cutter had been due to reach port at 7 a.m. but had to revise its estimated time of arrival because of rough seas.

Three others, also rescued from the Fort Mercer's stern, were on board the cutter Eastwind standing by at the scene.

The other four were taken off the bow section of the Fort Mercer and put on board the cutter Yakutat, expected to reach Portland, Me., some time tonight.

Two of the four taken off the bow were hauled aboard the Yakutat from life rafts floated by the tossing derelict. The other two were saved by the Breeches buoy method.

The Achusnet and the Eastwind teamed up to rescue the 21 men from the stern half of the Fort Mercer.

The two rescue vessels floated life rafts to the Fort Mercer — through 15 to 25 foot waves— and then pulled the men to the Eastwind.

When that operation proved "too slow," the Achusnet made two dangerous passes alongside the Fort Mercer. She took five men off the stricken craft on the first pass and 13 on the second pass.

The rescue operation was carried on 53 miles south southeast of Nantucket. The bow of the Fort Mercer capsized after the men were rescued from it some 30 miles from the stern.

Five men lost their lives from the forward section of the Fort Mercer in an earlier rescue attempt. The sixth was crushed between a rescue craft and the stern end of the Pendleton.

The eight seamen presumed dead were washed overboard from the bow of the Pendleton.

RESEARCH CENTRE

Washington, Feb. 20 — (AP)— General Electric has announced plans for construction of a $30,000,000 jet engine research centre at its jet engine plant in Lockland, Ohio. G. E. officials also reported, at a press conference yesterday the development of a new process for fabricating jet engine compressor blades. The process, faster and less costly than the forging technique now used, is being released through the air force to other jet engine producers, it was disclosed.

Little Chance of Recurring Butter Shortage Seen, Stocks Of Commercial Butter High

Ottawa, Feb. 20—(CP) — A well-stocked larder of government and commercial butter bolstered by another shipment of 2,500,000 pounds from New Zealand, has virtually put an end to the possibility of last year's panicky butter shortage recurring this year.

Federal agricultural authorities are confident that Canada will weather through the off-season winter months with butter prices remaining fairly steady at about 70 cents a pound retail for the creamery product and with the possibility of even a slight surplus when the new producing season opens in the spring.

Fearing repercussions of last winter's scarcity when prices for a short period shot up rapidly by about 15 and 20 cents a pound to 85 and 90 cents, the government decided to depend on foreign countries to bolster domestic stockpiles.

Government purchases of 10,000,000 pounds from New Zealand and west European sources are being increased by another 2,500,000-pound shipment from New Zealand. This shipment, expected to be the last from foreign sources this winter, is expected to be unloaded at Halifax shortly.

The commercial dairy industry, in addition to the government's purchases, imported 4,500,000 pounds late last year before the government took over the monoply in butter imports. Thus total imports have climbed to 17,000,000 pounds since the new butter season opened in April last year.

Imports Strengthen Pile

These heavy imports strengthened the slim stockpiles arising out of the summer production. Feb. 1, the country's stockpile totalled 35,712,000 pounds, up more than 10,000,000 from 25,579,000 on Feb. 1 a year ago.

But the government is in no hurry to get rid of its stocks, worth $8,000,000. It has announced no selling policy. It appears likely shipments will be made available to areas where any local shortage may develop. It also appears likely the government will use its stocks as a weapon to block any move by commercial interests to push up butter prices unnecessarily.

Importation of butter is not to the Canadian producer's liking, but the producers have reasoned that it would be better to have it that way than have chaos in the butter market. The government recently temporarily boosted its floor price to 63 cents a pound from 58 in order to offer the same price to the domestic industry as it has offered for imports.

Publisher of Sault Ste. Marie Star, J. W. Curran, 87, Dies

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Feb. 20 (CP) — James W. Curran, publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Star and one of Canada's best-known newspaper men died today. He was 87.

Mr. Curran, famed for his stories about the wolves of Algoma district, in which the Sault is the only city, had been ill for years. He suffered a stroke in 1941 but until a year or so ago maintained an active interest in the newspaper he took over as a sickly weekly 51 years ago and built into a thriving daily.

He offered a $100 reward to any person who could prove he had been attacked by an Algoma wolf — and never had to pay off. He coined a widely-quoted phrase to back his theory that wolves don't bite: "Any man that says he has been bitten by a wolf is a liar."

An active newspaper man for some 65 years, he worked on two Ontario weeklies — the Essex Chronicle and the Orillia News-Letter, both owned by his father — before joining the old Toronto Empire as a reporter in 1890. He served as city editor of the Empire before it was amalgamated with the Toronto Mail in 1895. Then he went to Montreal as city editor of the Herald, then published by the late J. E. Atkinson, former owner of the Toronto Star.

He came to Sault Ste. Marie in 1901 on a reporting assignment for the Herald, intending to travel farther west. He liked the city so well he stayed for six weeks, wrote 33 columns of copy which the Herald used in a special edition — then quit his job to buy the Star, a weekly with 2,000 circulation.

In 1912, he turned his newspaper into a daily. In 1917 he became a charter member of The Canadian Press when the National news agency was formed. He retained his membership until 1947 when ill-health led him to pass it along to his son, Robert L. Curran.

THREE MALTESE JAILED

Whitby, Feb. 20 — (CP) Three former residents of Malta were jailed yesterday following a disturbance at an immigrants' camp at nearby Ajax in which two men were injured. Crown Attorney Alex C. Hall said the trouble Monday apparently arose from animosities between men of different nationalities. He warned that if further cases of violence occurred he will recommend deportations.

THREE PLEAD GUILTY

Timmins, Feb. 20 (CP)—Three Timmins youths pleaded guilty yesterday to a joint charge of armed "toboggan" robbery of the Aunor gold mine a week ago. They were remanded one week for sentence. The three—Calvin Craik, 21, Kenneth Eastman, 19, and Reuben Utriainen, 20—were charged with robbing the mine of 10 bags of gold precipitates which were carted off on a toboggan.

Two Communist MIGs Shot Down, Five Damaged

Seoul, Korea, Feb. 20—(AP)— United States Sabre jet pilots today shot down two communist MIG-15 jets and damaged five in two furious fights over northwestern Korea.

Two MIGs also were damaged in the afternoon clash between 25 Sabres and 70 Russian-built swept-wing craft over Sinuiju. The fight lasted 15 minutes.

Allied jet pilots damaged three MIGs in a morning battle.

The U. S. Fifth Air Force said 26 F-86 Sabre jets clipped the MIGs in a seven-mile-high battle over Sinuiju. Seventy MIGs were spotted but only eight were engaged.

Allied losses are announced weekly.

Australian Meteor jet pilots said they destroyed eight communist trucks and four large supply buildings west of Haeju.

Canadian, U.S. Hockey Players Called Rowdies

Zurich, Switzerland, Feb. 20—(CP) — A dispatch from the Neue Zuricher Zeitung's correspondent in Oslo today described the Canadian and United States Olympic hockey players as "rowdies" and recommended that "the pollution of European hockey by overseas teams" be ended.

In a commentary on yesterday's Olympic games won by the Canadian and U.S. teams, the newspaper's correspondent said "the violations against the fundamentals of sportsmanship . . . belong among the unworthiest we have ever seen in a sports arena."

Canada yesterday defeated Czechoslovakia 4-1 and the United States defeated Switzerland 8-2.

"We have neither the words nor the space to describe in detail what some of these rowdies drilled in circus business considered permissible," the Neue Zuricher Zeitung said.

"It is now time to ask whether this pollution of European ice hockey through overseas teams should not be halted. One can be certain that neither the Canadians nor the Americans would let themselves be criticized. However, what seems good enough for their players and their public need not be held up as a model for European circumstances."

The newspaper reported that Sweden apparently intended to break off contact with Canadian and United States teams next season and expressed the hope that "other national federations" might follow the same course.

FORD OF CANADA PRODUCTION LINES AGAIN HUMMING

Workers Given 21-Cent Pay Boost Over 2 Years

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 20—(CP)— Ford of Canada production lines hummed again today, signalling the end of a strike of some 9,000 workers which lasted less than three days.

This industrialized city breathed a sigh of relief yesterday when Local 200 of the United Automobile Workers (C. I. O-C. C. L.) voted overwhelmingly to accept a Ford offer which included pay boosts totalling—by June 15, 1953—21 cents an hour in a two-year period.

During the strike merchants reported a business drop running as high as 70 per cent. Many had feared that the walkout—like the Ford strike which lasted 99 days in 1945—would cripple the city for many months. Forty feeder plants are largely dependent on Ford.

It was in a way a personal triumph for Labor Minister Daley who hammered away at a theme of conciliation until the strike ended yesterday in a few dramatic hours. When Daley-sponsored conferences failed in the minister's Toronto office, he came here for further persistence efforts.

In statements both the company and union paid tribute to his attempt to end what could have been a bitter and costly battle if it followed the pattern of the 1945 walkout.

An estimated 8,000 union members voted 87 per cent in favor of the proposed settlement, as recommended by their leaders.

Some Demands Not Won

The strike officially ended at 4:40 p.m. EST when the U.A.W. announced the result of the secret ballot.

Specifically, the contract provides: an immediate 15-cent hourly wage increase, partly retroactive to June 1, on a basic $1.35, with automatic three-cent hourly raises on June 15, 1952 and June 15, 1953; an improved contract seniority clause, an improved wage-scale for semi-skilled workers and compromise agreements on afternoon and night shift premiums.

Two items the union asked for are not provided in the agreement: $1,000 company paid life insurance policies for Ford pensioners and eight, instead of six, paid statutory holidays annually.

The contract seniority clause — union officials described it as the best in any U.A.W. contract in Canada—gives company wide seniority of 14 days. This means that in slack period layoffs of more than 14 days, senior men may not be displaced with men of less service with the company.

Under the new wage scales for semi-skilled workers, about 1,700 men will receive increases of 10 cents an hour and about 300, of five cents an hour. The union had been asking for 10 cent increases for about 2,400 men.

Under the new off-shift premium rates, afternoon and night-shift men will receive seven-cent hourly boosts. Previously the differential was five cents. The union had asked a seven-cent differential on the afternoon shift, 10 cents at night.

Bell Telephone Company Allowed To Make Increases in Local Rates

Ottawa, Feb. 20—(CP) — Increases in local telephone rates for Quebec and Ontario were authorized today by the Board of Transport Commissioners.

The board granted in part an application of the Bell Telephone Company for increases aimed at yielding the company $10,000,000 a year. It did not say how much the authorized rates would produce.

Business telephones would bear the heaviest burden of the increases, which follow "interim" increases granted last November. Residential service boosts are lighter, and in a few cases residence rates are not boosted.

Long-distance rates were not hoisted. These were raised in the November decision, and the company in its later application did not seek to have them go higher.

Depending on the size of the community, residential increases range from five cents to 35 cents a month. Business-phone increases are as much as $1.75 a month.

The board told the company it could put the rates into effect March 1, after giving three days' notice.

Company headquarters at Montreal announced immediately the rate changes would be put into effect on the date set by the board.

Simultaneously with the judgment, it issued an order making changes in the company's "rate groupings" the classifications into which communities are grouped for rate purposes according to size. The larger the city, the higher the basic rates. About 50 communities are boosted into higher rate categories, thus taking a double rate boost.

These include Chatham, Ont., Guelph, Ont., New Toronto, Ont., Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., and Valleyfield, Que.

Belleville and Brockville in Ontario are in the next-lower group, with Brockville taking a double boost as the result of moving up from a lower-rate class. Belleville's new rates will be: 2-party residential, $3.10 ($3); one-party residential, $3.90 (3.70); one-party business, $7.40 (6.60). Brockville will have the same new rates, increasing from $2.90, $3.45 and $5.80.

Death of Judge In Murder Case Causes New Trial

New Judge Will Sentence Ryan for Manslaughter

Hull, Que., Feb. 20 (CP)— Mr. Justice Paul Ste. Marie today ordered a new trial for Rheal Leo Bertrand, charged with murdering his wife.

The seven day trial of the 37-year-old Ottawa man came to a dramatic conclusion last night when the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue of Quebec, suffered a heart attack and died while delivering his final charge to the jury.

Mr. Justice Ste. Marie said it would not be legal for him to take over the trial at this stage and attempt to complete the charge to the jury begun by Mr. Justice Bienvenue.

He dismissed the jury.

The judge did not order a new trial, however, for Gerald Ryan, 22-year-old camp chef accused of strangling his wife to death at Temiskaming, Que., Sept. 15 last.

Ryan was found guilty of manslaughter at the same assizes and was to have been sentenced at the end of the assizes by Mr. Justice Bienvenue.

He was remanded for sentence March 6, and Mr. Justice Ste. Marie adjourned the court until that date.

It had been considered possible that new trials would be ordered on both the Bertrand and Ryan cases.

Was Charging Jury

Bertrand, 37, is charged with the murder of his 52-year-old wife of less than two months. The crown alleged that Bertrand killed her in a lonely hunting cabin at Lac Ste. Marie, Que., 65 miles north of Hull; that he saturated her body with an inflammable cleaning fluid and then set fire to the cabin.

Mr. Justice Bienvenue had reached a point in his charge where he was telling the jury if there was any reasonable doubt the benefit of the doubt should go to Bertrand. But he cautioned the jury not to render an acquittal out of sympathy, sentiment or weakness.

At this point, he hesitated and reached for a glass of water. The glass fell from his hand, rolled off the bench and shattered. The Judge slumped back in his chair gasping for breath while everyone stood momentarily transfixed.

In prisoner's box, Bertrand blanched and half rose from his seat as if to go to aid of the stricken judge. He looked at his guards and then sat down again and watched.

Once Cabinet Minister

Mr. Justice Bienvenue, a native of Nashua, N.H., was appointed to the bench a few years ago. He had served for a time in the Quebec Legislature where he at one time was Speaker and at another a cabinet minister in the Liberal government.

He was married in 1925 to the former Charlotte Langlois of Quebec. They had four children.

Stepson Tells Of Quarrel Before Slaying

Kingston, Feb. 20—(CP)— Prosecution witnesses continued to testify today in the trial of Allan Vernon Lyons, charged with murder in the butcher-knife slaying of his wife.

Yesterday a silent courtroom heard Howard Joyce, 12-year-old stepson of the accused, tell of the quarrel that ended in his mother's death in the Lyons kitchen Nov. 10.

The boy said his stepfather was beating him for being late with his newspaper deliveries when 31-year-old Mrs. Elda Lyons intervened. Turning on his wife, Lyons struck her in the face and left the room, slamming the door.

"Mother was wiping the blood off her face and neck," the boy testified. Shortly afterwards, Lyons returned to the kitchen and grabbed a butcher knife and said to his wife:

"If this is what you want, you're going to get it."

Howard said he didn't see a blow struck with the knife because things happened too quickly.

Mrs. Lyons died of a chest wound before police arrived.

Provincial constable Donald McRady testified that he was greeted by the accused at the door of the Lyons bungalow with the words:

"I'm it. I'm the one. I did it."

Dr. G. C. Lindsay, who pronounced Mrs. Lyons dead, said he bandaged a small wound on Lyons' thumb Lyons told him he was bitten by his wife during their quarrel.

Other witnesses said Mr. and Mrs. Lyons had been drinking beer in a downtown hotel on the day of the slaying but that there was no indication of a quarrel. They had planned to return downtown after supper.

Alcohol Smelled Before Fatality

Hamilton, Feb. 20 (CP) —Robert Jackson, 16-year-old Hamilton youth, testified today that he smelled alcohol on the breath of a driver of a transport truck which toppled onto an automobile Feb. 1, killing four of the six persons in the car.

Jackson was testifying at the preliminary hearing of Maurice MacArthur of St. Thomas on a charge of manslaughter.

Jackson said he was driving toward Hamilton along No. 2 highway directly in front of the transport. He had stopped his car after being "nudged" by the truck. He watched while the transport toppled onto another westbound car.

CAR MOUNTS CURB AND HITS TREE ON W. BRIDGE ST.

It was a rather expensive nap for Carl Babcock, Station Street, early this morning when he allegedly fell asleep while driving a car on West Bridge Street and crashed into a tree at the base of the hill. Damage to the borrowed car was estimated at about $450.

Babcock was driving east when as his car proceeded down Murney Hill it veered gradually to the right, mounted the curb and crashed into the tree. The tree prevented the car from striking the verandah at 37 Bridge Street.

Provincial police spotted the car against the tree as they came in from highway patrol and notified the city police department. Officers spotted Babcock as he walked across the lower bridge and on questioning him he admitted he had been the driver of the wrecked car.

OPTOMETRY STUDENTS VISIT DESERONTO OPTICAL PLANT

Students of the College of Optometry from the University of Toronto visited the Canada Zyl Company Ltd. at Deseronto Tuesday afternoon and were taken on a tour of inspection through this modern plant, it being the only all Canadian organization manufacturing plastic, gold-filled and combined plastic and gold-filled frames in Canada. The students came down in a special train from Toronto and after the tour of the plant returned to the Queen's Hotel by chartered bus, where dinner was served.

Short addresses were given at the dinner by G. Rickwood, president of Canada Zyl and a reply was given by the class president thanking the company for an excellent instructional afternoon. Mr. J. Casson, of the Imperial Optical Company, who accompanied the students thanked the company for their co-operation.

OLD JACK FROST CAUSE OF RUN

Old Jack Frost was indirectly the cause of a run for the local fire department this morning when they were called to Front Street to extinguish what was thought to be a blaze in an auto.

But the car was not ablaze, firemen discovered. Cold weather during the night had tightened up the radiator with result that gave forth with a column of steam and a passerby thought the car was afire.

Two Injured In Car Collision On Front Street

Mrs. Irwin Kerr, 61 Moira Street, East, and her six-months-old son David, suffered injuries Tuesday afternoon when the car in which they were riding on Front Street was struck by a truck emerging from a gangway.

Mrs. Kerr suffered a bruised right leg while her small son received minor head injuries. The Kerr auto was damaged to the extent of about $300.

Mr. Kerr was driving south on Front Street when as he passed the Provincial Tire store a truck driven by Samuel Hunt, 67 Dundas Street emerged from the gangway and crashed into the side of the Kerr vehicle.

Hunt told police that he did not see the car until too late and was unable to stop, while Kerr said he was unable to swerve to avoid being struck owing to oncoming traffic.

POLICE BLOTTER

City police early this morning were asked to assist in locating Mrs. Albert Shortt, 25, of 92 Moira Street, East, who was reported by her husband to have left home with her two small children, age four and two years.

Mrs. Shortt is 5 ft. 7 inches and weighs 130 pounds, has blonde hair and was wearing a red coat. Four year old Christopher was wearing a brown snowsuit and two-year-old Susan a red snow suit.

Two Trenton men were apprehended by city police on complaint from the Diana Grill that they had ordered a meal at the restaurant and then left without the formality of paying. The men were booked on an LCA count.

Justice Wells Guest of Honor Of Law Assoc.

"The Lawyer's Place in the Commonwealth" was the subject of an address by His Lordship Mr. Justice Dalton C. Wells at a dinner given in his honor by the members of the Hastings and Prince Edward Law Association at the Queen's Hotel on Monday evening.

His Lordship is presently presiding over the Spring Assizes which are in session at Belleville for the next two weeks.

His Lordship sketched briefly the growth of the courts in England from the time of Alfred the Great and illustrated how, on many occasions, during the fight for freedom of the peoples of England the Judges and Lawyers were always in the fore and most of the great advancements that have so revolutionized the laws in the last number of centuries have been brought about by the efforts of the members of the Bench and the Bar both by judicial interpretation and parliamentary enactments.

His Lordship continued that while we in Canada owe much to our friendly association with the United States, nevertheless he preferred the British system for the administration of justice and warned his listeners that they must not be engulfed by the large population immediately adjacent to them, but should hold steadfast to those British customs and traditions to which the world owes so much.

Not Primary Purpose

He pointed out to the junior members of the bar that while they had chosen a profession which would make for them a reasonable living, he emphasized that they should not consider this was the primary purpose, but rather, service to the public and to the State should be their objective and stated that if a lawyer practised with this foremost in his mind, he could not fail to succeed materially and would, at the same time render to his country great public service. He was particularly interested to note that three of the junior members of the bar namely Alderman Argue, Alderman Porter and Alderman Temple were serving on the city and Mr. K. G. M. Ross on the Hospital Board. This is the type of service which, in his opinion, would keep the profession in the high place which it presently enjoyed in public esteem.

His Lordship was thanked by Mr. Louis Maraskas and the President, Mr. R. A. Pringle, Q.C. presided.

Another distinguished guest was His Worship Magistrate C. A. Thoburn, Q.C. of Toronto. His Worship regretted that he was only going to be in Belleville for two or three weeks relieving Magistrate T. Y. Wills, but he was sure he would leave the city with pleasant memories, and was confident that because of the high calibre of the people of Belleville, the Magistrate's Court would not be congested with crimes of a serious nature.

The toast to the Queen was proposed by Mr. K. G. M. Ross who paid a fitting tribute to His Late Majesty, George VI, and he was sure that the bench and bar of the Commonwealth would serve the new Queen with the same loyalty and devotion that was rendered to His late Majesty.

Musical Treat Given Members Of Men's Club

A musical treat was provided at the monthly meeting of the Men's Club of St. Andrew's Church, Tuesday evening, when the men entertained their ladies at a pot-luck supper.

Miss Helen Grant enthralled her audience with her masterful handling of the xylophone, playing three delightful numbers, "Romany Life", "Dainty Miss" and "Canadian Capers". Mrs. Grant accompanied her daughter at the piano. Two young saxophonists, Bob Brearley and Doug Aselstine, won rounds of applause with their rendition of "Tea for Two". Peter Smith assisted at the piano. Miss Grant returned to sing "Kerry Dance" and "Smiling Through", both of which were much appreciated

The club members were asked to sign up as blood donors by Rod Cameron, who explained the requirements of the Red Cross in this connection.

Each man or couple at the well-attended meeting provided one item of food, and everyone seemed to have sufficient variety and adequate amounts

The men took care of the preparation of the tables, the distribution of the food, serving the beverage, and doing most of the cleaning up, but even so it was found convenient to accept the offer of assistance from some of the ladies and these were ably thanked by Roy Turner.

Jim Ward expressed the thanks of the audience to those who provided the musical entertainment.

PLANT SHUT DOWN

London, Feb. 20 — (Reuters) — A two-day strike of 1,000 men shut down a metal manufacturing plant after a worker was suspended for tossing dregs from his tea cup on the floor. After an unsuccessful appeal against a two-day suspension against the employee, the remainder of the workers decided they were also guilty of throwing tea leaves on the floor and walked off their jobs in sympathy.

Large Audience Greets Kiwanis Show at B.C.I.

A capacity audience greeted the Kiwanis Clubs second night presentation of its musical extravaganza "Pack Up Your Troubles" in the collegiate auditorium last night.

The cast inspired perhaps by the crowd-packed auditorium came through with another splendid performance, one that benefited by the adjustment of a few minor faults that were evident on the first night.

The production struck full stride last night. There was a vim and vigor to the various numbers. Individual artists "acclimatized" came through with near-faultless performances as did the choral ensemble and other features of the show.

In the individual artists and ensembles received fine ovations at the conclusion of the various acts and entertainment-loving Belleville put a definite stamp of approval on the show.

"Pack Up Your Troubles" will be presented again tonight and tomorrow night.

Homemaking Clubs Hold Achievement Day

Eighty-nine members from 12 homemaking clubs in Hastings attended their achievement day at Madoc on Saturday when the girls exhibited skirts and record books which they had made in the year's project "Working With Wool".

A great many of the girls completing the project said that learning to take care of wool skirts had been the highlight of the year's work.

A special feature of the day was a skirt parade when each girl gave the name of her skirt material and its cost. Justifiable pride was shown by the girls, especially if they had just commenced sewing.

Eight clubs set up exhibits showing "A wool skirt and its companions". Commentators were Rylestone: Lorraine Barnum: Ivanhoe: Eleanor Wright; Philipston-Zion: Donna Ray; Plainfield: Doreen Lott; Stirling: Marlene Carlisle; Eldorado: Marlene Johnson, and Chapman: Doreen Lynn.

Demonstrations and skirts were presented by Chapman, Queensboro, Bonarlaw, Plainfield and Ivanhoe clubs and topics chosen were, "New Life for an Old Skirt"; "Wool — the Fibre and Fabric" and "Hows and Whys of Pressing Wool".

County honor certificates were presented to Mary Bertrand, Irene Sine, Connie Sills, Marion McCoy, Shirley Holmes and Shirley Walker, who completed their sixth project.

Provincial honors were received by Doreen Lott of the Plainfield club, and Marilyn Parks of the Cooper-Remington club.

The success of girls' club work in Hastings is made possible through untiring efforts of club eladers and their assistant leaders and the home economist. Miss Elsie Irvine congratulated leaders on their work with special mention being made of Bonarlaw, Philipston-Zion, Stirling, Queensboro, Wallbridge, Plainfield and Chapman who had 100 per cent completion of projects by their members.

Already the girls are looking forward to their spring and summer projects "The Milky Way" and "Home Garden Clubs".

Betting Ring Smashed

Detroit, Feb. 20 — (CP) — A large pari-mutuel betting ring was smashed after a nine-hour series of raids on 20 places in the city, police said today. The ring was reputed to do a $20,000-a-day business.

They said they had arrested 22 men and 19 women in the raids. Seized were 12 late-model automobiles, nine pistols, $2,412 in cash and $75,000 in betting slips.

Police said they had been gathering evidence on the gang's operations for a year.

First Session 24th Legislature Opens Thursday

Toronto, Feb. 20—(CP)— The first session of Ontario's 24th legislature opens tomorrow with the largest government majority since confederation and with several major legislative moves already mapped for it.

The Progressive Conservative government of Premier Frost has promised one major piece of social legislation—financial assistance to needy disabled persons between the ages of 18 and 65.

This was promised by Welfare Minister Goodfellow at last fall's special session and is expected to take the form of $40 monthly allowances to bridge the gap between the end of mothers' allowances and the start of old-age pensions payments.

Another bill, affecting a large part of the provinces' residents, will deal with rent controls.

The government last spring fell heir to federal rent controls, a confusing jumble of parliamentary acts and orders-in-council dating back to 1941. Legislation this session will be chiefly a job of consolidating the federal regulations but it is expected to permit a fairly wide field for individual landlord-tenant agreements, appraisers and rent boards to set individual rental ceilings.

Many New Members

The Nov. 22 general election which swept the Progressive Conservatives back into office with 79 of the legislature's 90 seats also brings a large number of new members to the house.

Forty-five of last year's 53 Progressive Conservatives were returned along with 34 new government supporters. The Liberal party supplants the C.C.F. as official opposition with seven members—five former members and two new ones, together with one Liberal-Labor member who supports the Liberals and will sit with them.

Only two of 21 C.C.F. members of the last legislature will be back and the Labor-Progressive (Communist) party membership has been cut from two to one.

The sharply-reduced size of the combined opposition is expected to reduce the amount of debate and shorten the session to about seven weeks, two fewer than last spring.

Lindsay Juniors Trim Kingston

Lindsay Kinsmen scored a 9-5 win over Kingston Victorias last night in Lindsay Arena in the first game of a best-of-five semi-final junior B playoff series.

It was a penalty - studded affair with 20 penalties being handed out by referees Jim Crombie and Dick Ouimet of Peterborough.

Two match misconduct penalties were issued, both to Kingston players. Pat Hegarty and Jerry Montgomery were the offenders and when the latter received his, Doug Powell, high-scoring centre of the homesters also drew two minutes for tripping, five minutes for fighting and a ten minute misconduct.

These two teams meet again on Thursday night in Kingston with the third tilt scheduled for Saturday night in Lindsay.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 20—(CP)—Base Metal prices climbed steadily today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections wavered irregularly.

Industrial activity maintained a wide spread from leading issues but western oil, base metals and penny golds turnovers were generally moderate as speculators waited for the market pattern to develop. Volume for the first three hours was 1,147,000.

Refining oils led industrials' recovery while liquors also drew firm support. Agricultures, Steels, banks, manufacturing companies and retail stores held gains and losses in balance but utilities, foods and papers remained weak.

Base metal gains outnumbered losses about two to one. Changes were slight as Barvue, East Sullivan, Falconbridge, International Nickel, Mindamar, Noranda and Steep Rock climbed slowly.

Western oils were mixed. Calmont, Calvan Consolidated, Calnorth, Consolidated Cordadsun, Canadian Williston, Scurry and Trans Empire strengthened but Calgary and Edmonton, Kroy, Western Leaseholds and Wilrich weakened.

Senior golds were firm while junior producers climbed strongly. Prospects and holding companies made little headway.

SHORTAGE CAUSES DISMISSAL

London, Feb. 20 —(Reuters)—Steel shortages have caused the dismissal of 1,637 workmen in the Midlands of England so far this year, the regional board for industry was told yesterday. A total of 7,033 workers were on short-time because of the shortage of steel, earlier this month and 4,622 other workers on short-time because of lack of orders.

Police Reconstruction of Murder Case Differs from Statements

Kitchener, Feb. 20 (CP) — Did Donald Fowler die inside or outside the trailer near which his body was found last Nov. 21?

Police reconstruction of his death disclosed in testimony yesterday at the trial of two men charged with Fowler's murder, differed from the version in a statement made by one of the accused.

Alvin Lebold of Wellesley, Ont., and Albert Deleary of the Muncey Reserve are jointly charged with murder in the slaying of the 21-year-old Stratford youth.

Lebold, in a statement admitted as evidence, told police Chief Hilbert Schedewitz of Waterloo township that after receiving a blow from Fowler, he picked up a rifle. He "didn't know it was loaded and it discharged." The chief quoted Lebold as saying: "Donny staggered out of the trailer."

But Inspector Thomas Wright of the Provincial Police told the Supreme Court jury that a hole inside the cabin trailer in which the three had been living showed powder burns. On the outside the wood had been splintered.

Not Same Height

The inspector said the hole outside was not the same height as the hole in Fowler's neck. He testified the hole inside was a foot short of the wound in the neck, indicating Fowler was either standing or walking outside the trailer when the gun went off.

Prof. Jocelyn Rogers, medico-legal consultant to the Attorney-General's department, indicated the bullet came from inside the cabin and passed through the wall. He said there was no evidence of powder burns on the flesh of the corpse.

A statement Deleary also was admitted. It said the three had been drinking the night before. He didn't know how he got home. When he went outside he saw Fowler lying near the trailer.

When he went back in he asked Lebold concerning Fowler and the latter told him: "I guess he is dead. We had better report it."

The inspector said the statement was made by Deleary in the county jail after he had been fully warned.

CREW MEMBERS ARRESTED

Las Palmas, Canary Islands, Feb. 20 — (AP) — Twenty-four crew members of the Argentine liner Buenos Aires were arrested by 50 soldiers of the Spanish marine corps yesterday after a mutiny aboard ship. The mutiny occurred when the ship arrived with 900 Spanish emigrants from Vigo en route to Buenos Aires. It followed the captain's order that no crew member could leave the ship since she completed refuelling in two hours.

MADOC

Miss Moorcroft Shows Interesting Travel Scenes

Madoc—The February meeting of the Ladies' Club was held at the home of Mrs. C. Moon with a good number in attendance. Mrs. Adams presided and opened the meeting.

There was a short business discussion, one of the principle points was regarding the junior choir gowns which resulted in the decision to make the gowns.

The meeting was handed over to Mrs. Storring, who called upon Mrs. B. McCoy for the devotional part of the program. Mrs. McCoy chose for the scripture reading, Matthew 26:9-13, and spoke of the high esteem in which the late King George VI had been held and of his example for all. She also expressed sympathy for the Royal family in their great loss. Prayer was offered by Mrs. Adams for Queen Elizabeth II.

Mrs. P. Nayler introduced the guest of the evening, Miss Moorcroft, who showed some interesting pictures of her trip to Vancouver depicting vivid scenes of the Calgary Stampede as well as a number of pictures of animal life, and some beautiful scenes of the mountains and flowers.

Mrs. S. White tendered thanks to Miss Moorcroft for her interesting talk and pictures, and to Mrs. Moon, the hostess, for her hospitality.

A social half hour was spent following the close of the meeting.

UNCLE SAM SHOWS HOW

Last year, Canada grew a big crop of coarse grains. lso, there is a large quantity of winter-damaged wheat in estern Canada. Canadian farmers were hoping that the nited States market would absorb at least part of this urplus of livestock feed.

But there is a bill before the United States Congress hich, if passed, will ban the importation into the United tates of feed grain from Canada. It was introduced by senator from Indiana, where a great deal of grain is rown.

Our guess is that this bill will be passed. American gislators, regardless of their party label, are extremely ctive in seeing that American industry, including the ood-producing industry, is given adequate protection rom foreign competition.

Canadian potatoes, grapes, cheese, aluminum and arious other commodities have, either directly by ariffs or indirectly by one subterfuge or another, been anned from the American market in recent years.

From an American viewpoint, it seems to work out ll right, too. The Americans have the highest standard f living in the world. Perhaps some other people can earn a thing or two from the Americans.

WINNIPEG UNHAPPY

Municipal authorities in Winnipeg are complaining hat, for the second consecutive year, relief to indigents n that city has cost more than $1,000,000. The exact igure for 1950 is not given, but the 1951 cost was $1,089,-10, which is a tidy sum, even in a big town like Winnipeg.

In addition to those receiving relief, there are, of ourse, large numbers receiving unemployment insurance, s well as others who are eligible for neither relief nor unmployment insurance, and who must depend on begging r stealing.

Perhaps everyone in this country is as happy and rosperous as some folk would have us believe, but the Winnipeg municipal authorities seem inclined to doubt it.

ONE BRIGHT SPOT

Ontario's death rate from tuberculosis was 25.9 per 00,000 in 1950, but only 13 per 100,000 in 1951, the lowest ate and the sharpest drop in the history of the province.

In these days of distress, uncertainty and upheaval, t is pleasant to be able to record that we are progressing n at least one respect.

Within the lifetime of many who are still living, uberculosis was by far the most serious threat to the lives f the people of this country.

FISH HOGS

We don't think anything is to be gained from the urling of charges and counter-charges by the men who perate fishing and hunting camps in Northern Ontario nd the resident fishermen and hunters.

Those who have lived in the north for many years now that many residents used to dynamite creeks and akes to get fish, which they salted down in barrels. They now of the illegal nets and other methods that were used. More recently they have become aware of a new type of ishing hook, used by residents, in which a strong spring eleases a sharp barb when it is "tripped" by the fish.

On the other side of the picture we have had visitors rom the United States who violated the fishing laws to uch a degree that they are no longer allowed to fish on his side of the border.

Observance of the game laws is not a one-way street or visitors from south of the border, and it seems like a utile argument to suggest that one group of fishermen s more angelic than another. — (Sudbury Daily Star.)

THEY WANT OUR DOLLARS

As a sign of the times, Canadian currency is not only being accepted in New York often at par, but there are signs proclaiming "We want your Canadian money" in stores and hotels.

For incoming travellers, Manhattan's "polite" taxi drivers now even take a Canadian $2 bill without the fishy-eyed stare reserved for inflated Chinese Nationalist and Confederate money.

Similar reports have been received from Buffalo, N.Y., the Canadian shopping centre, where the sudden desire for Canadian money since it was freed from exchange controls has been proclaimed on store window stickers. — (Toronto Financial Post.)

HEART OF CANADA

What is the centre line of Canada's population, east from west? Sixty years ago it was on a line drawn from Prescott, Ontario. Now it is a line following Yonge Street north from Toronto to its northerly tip at Penetanguishene. Penetang is now right at the population heart of the Dominion. — (Midland Free Press Herald.)

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

Feb. 20th., 1932

At the annual meeting of the congregation of Bridge Street United Church the pastor, the Rev. Dr. Bell, presided. Mr. J. E. Shortt reported for the Sunday School of which he is the superintendent; Mrs. Stoneburg, secretary, reported for the Women's Association; Mrs. Harold Halton reported for the Women's Missionary Society; Miss Lazier reported for the Mission Circle; Miss Betty Gilbert reported for the Mission Band and Miss Marjorie Hall reported for the Canadian Girls in Training, Mr. Harry W. Ackerman reported that the amount raised for all purposes was $22,584.50 and the amount raised for missionary and maintenance funds was $7,873.19. The following were elected to membership in the Quarterly Official Board: Mrs. J. G. Galloway, Messrs. H. J. Clarke, E. W. Dickens, Morley P. Duff, George H. Griffin, John F. Houston, Glenn McKinnon, Fred W. Sprague, Ralph Morden, Russell Wotten, J. Imlah, and W. H. Finkle. During the year two bequests totalling $6,236.83 were turned over to the church treasurer from the estates of the late Mrs. Addie Campion and the late Mrs. Annie Farley.

The Printers defeated the Elliott Five in a bowling contest, the count being 2278 to 2123. Barlow of the Printers rolled the high string with 217 and Hill of the same team had the high three string with 541. The following composed the teams: — Printers, — Barlow, Ridley, Draycott, Harrison and Hill; Elliotts, — W. A. Elliott, W. W. Elliott, H. Ray, A. J. Child and C. Duesberry.

Feb. 20th., 1922

This part of the province had a real mid-winter thunder storm last evening which commenced about 6.30 o'clock. The services in the churches had hardly commenced when the lights went out. In Bridge Street Church the gas equipment was used, but it lighted the church dimly. The organ could not be used for lack of electric power and the choir and congregation sang well-known hymns unaccompanied. In the Tabernacle a few gas lights were used and in other churches candles were brought into use. Thunder in winter means colder weather according to weather prophets, but this remains to be seen.

Mr. Fred B. Smith of this city has been elected Vice President of the Hardware Dealers' Association of Ontario.

40 YEARS AGO

Feb. 20th., 1912

Fire Chief Campbell's report shows that there were sixty two fires here last year and the brigade responded to seventeen false alarms. The fire loss totalled $77,000., which includes the Deacon Shirt Factory loss of $50,000.

Messrs. W. B. Deacon, John Elliott, W. N. Ponton, H. Sneyd and C. M. Reid of the local Board of Trade will leave tomorrow to attend the annual meeting of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade in Toronto.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn, barrister, gave an interesting address to the members of the Epworth League in connection with Bridge Street Church last evening on the Methodist Discipline.

50 YEARS AGO

Feb. 20th., 1902

Mr. C. H. Tumulty of Madoc, D. D. G. M., will officially visit Moira Lodge No. 11 A.F. & A.M. here this evening.

A number of citizens were guests at a social gathering last evening at the home of Mr. W. Ketcheson, 4th. concession of Sidney township.

Mr. Samuel McGee is visiting friends in Stirling.

Mr. John Harris is attending the Grand Lodge of the A. O. U. W. in Toronto.

Messrs. W. C. Mikel, W. S. Morden and W.A.G. Hardy went to Toronto today and will attend the banquet which is being tendered to Hon. J. P. Whitney this evening. Messrs. Northrup, Porter and Carscallen will also attend.

Mr. Thomas Batty will leave shortly to visit friends in the Old Country.

TREE FARMING MAY HELP

Toronto, Feb. 20 (CP) —Kenneth Clark of Toronto, president of the Ontario Federation of Hunting and Anglers, suggested last night that tree farming might forstal communist infiltration north of Toronto. He told the Agricultural Institute of Canada that physical, moral and mental degeneracy in economically-depressed areas could be remedied by improving the area economically with reforestation measures.

TRIED TO BORROW

Cooksville, Feb. 20 (CP) —James Adams, convicted of taking an automobile without the owners' consent yesterday went to jail for 12 days because he was unable to raise $24 court costs. Constable D. R. Rothwell said Adams took the car belonging to Harold Wright, 49, after the two had been on a drinking spree. Before he left the court, Adams tried to borrow the $24 court costs from Wright.

OUR TOWN

WILD BLUE BOYS

Hardly a week goes by that some magazine doesn't come out with a lurid story about the possibilites of space travel, promising us a picnic on Pluto or Mars, if we should live so long, and I want to say, in all frankness, that I don't understand it.

I happened to have been reading one of the stories last week just before I fell down the basement stairs and wrenched my knee pretty badly and I guess that sort of brought home to me the enormity of it all.

One minute I was credulously contemplating a 48 million mile journey into outer space at five miles per second and not ten minutes later I fell over some roller skates and nearly killed myself in a fall of eight feet (speed unestimated).

There's modern science for you. Hundreds of people (or dozens, anyway) are perishing every day falling down stairs or by slipping in bath tubs on little pieces of soap, but what are the scientists doing? Inventing a non-slip fool-proof tread for a bath? Not on your life. They are worrying about the effects of cosmic radiation among the satellites and probably dying like flies, themselves, in slippery tubs.

* * *

This particular story is by a man named Derek Wragge Morley. They've all got names like that. You never heard of a man named Joe Green who wanted to turbo-jet himself into the stratosphere, did you? I happen to know a man named Joe Green and he stands on a rubber mat when he's changing light bulbs.

This fellow Derek Wragge Morley talks about an excursion to Mercury, a place of needle-like rocks over a molten mass, as Joe or I would talk about a stroll down to the corner grocery.

I suppose that's what disturbs me about the rash of outer-space stories. It's just that I try, but I can't generate any enthusiasm at all about getting into a rocket ship. Call me an old stick-in-the-mud, if you will, but I just don't want to go to Mercury. I couldn't go anyway, with my wrenched knee and, besides, I have to see the dentist Friday.

But, still, there is an enormous number of men determined to set up an interplanetary bus system and I would like to meet just one of them in person.

I have a theory, you see, that they are just a little bit crazy.

My faith in scientists hasn't been exactly a shining thing since they made an atom bomb and these outer space articles aren't helping much.

I once met a famous scientist when a friend of mine took me to lunch at the Rideau Club in Ottawa. He looked perfectly normal, drank a whiskey sour and talked pleasantly about the Toronto Maple Leafs.

But at lunch I noticed something that seemed to me significant. The man lost his collar button or, worse, had forgotten it!

I kept thinking, here is this man who is monkeying around with electrons and gamma rays and heaven knows what else that might blow us all into little pieces —yet this man has mislaid his collar button!

I haven't felt altogether safe since that day.

It's that awful gap between the frailty of human beings and the terrifying scope of the things they're blindly tinkering around with that unnerves me and probably accounts for the twitch I'm getting under my left eye.

I keep imagining Derek Wragge Morley stepping into his space suit and having a terrible time in there because he has a nasty cold in the nose.

I would like to meet Derek, too, to find out why he wants to go into space. Is it, I ask myself, a lust to know the answers to the cosmic mysteries? Or has he a nagging wife? Is his interest purely scientific? Or does he just have a cock-eyed urge to jump over the moon?

There seems no question that he is representative of a curious breed of men.

The normal man, looking up into the heavens on a clear and starlit night is content to savor the sweet, mournful mystery of the universe and, given the right conditions, may have no feeling of compulsion whatever except to strum a guitar.

But Derek and his type look upwards and see no beauty, feel no furtive delight in the incomprehensive. Instead, they wonder irritably about the gaseous nature of Saturn and brood about the gravity pull of Mars.

They'll do it, of course. One day they'll all crowd into their turbo-jet rocket, the newsreel cameras will grind, and they'll disappear into the twinkling sky, never to be heard from again.

And I will sit on the porch with my guitar and smile an inscrutable smile.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A Cree Indian whose home is wherever he makes a shack on one of the several mighty rivers that flow into the west side of Hudson's Bay gave me a lecture on economics. We were discussing aeroplanes, and the wonderful service they were rendering in the far north. This Cree can hire an aircraft to fly him and all his supplies, in three hours, into the trapping territory that formerly took him three weeks to reach by canoe. The same aircraft will come in later and bring him and his take of furs out to civilization.

"It is a wonderful thing," I submitted.

The Indian reflected for some time; and you must always wait while an Indian reflects.

"It is not the most wonderful," said the Cree.

"What is the most wonderful?" I enquired.

"A snare," said the Indian.

"A bit of wire!" I scoffed.

"A bit of anything," said the Cree. "Suppose you lose everything. Your canoe, all your supplies, your axe, your knife. You are alone. You have nothing. You are now going to die."

I waited.

"With your hands," he said, "you take some little roots and make a snare. You catch a rabbit, a partridge, a muskrat, You do not die. You eat. From the rabbit skin, you make, in a few days, better snares. You get rabbits for a blanket, a coat, something for your feet. You do not die. When you are ready, and have enough, you go to where there are other people. For a man, a snare is the first thing in the world. It is the first thing we teach our children. A snare is the most wonderful thing."

A high aircraft moved slowly across the distant sky. I wondered if its crew knew how to set a snare. I wondered how many mechanized men in the whole of America knew how to set a snare. According to the Cree, most of them are as good as dead.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ACKNOWLEDGMENT TO GOD

I witnessed a most unusual sight on my TV set recently. Probably unique. I was viewing a boxing contest, as thousands of others were in their homes, as well as those in a crowded hall. Immediately upon being declared the winner, the successful contestant knelt on his knees in his corner and offered a brief silent prayer before that great audience and his handlers! It was an inspiring sight. He was proud to thank God for his victory, for which he had probably prayed.

I have been thinking a great deal of that strange incident and the thought came to me that that was a perfectly natural act for a man who has faith in his heart. We pray to God for success in an enterprise, and if we are successful we are happy, but how often we fail then to thank God for our victory. It seems to me we should give thanks always when our prayer seems to be answered, and even when it isn't immediately answered we are the richer anyway, as Stevenson once stated.

Prayer is always a preparation. If we place ourselves in the right attitude of mind to receive a blessing, that blessing will result somehow, though it may temporarily be delayed. Prayer is to get us ready, even to face failure with a high heart and with courage. But when our prayer is answered why should we put off for an instant thanking God from a full heart?

Many years ago, while I was sitting in a dentist's chair, the Doctor told me of an incident that occurred with a friend of his who was very ill, and even death was expected, so he made the promise that if God would only allow him to live he would do a certain thing. Well, he got well—and then repudiated his promise! Even God expects us to keep our promises to Him.

We pray for a great many things, and many of these prayers of ours are answered, often in larger measure than we expected, yet we are so negligent about acknowledging our gratitude to God for his mercies. Even though we receive blessings for which we have not prayed, how enriching it can be for us to thank God for them anyway!

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

YOUNG FOLKS AND OLD FOLKS

Medicine has made strides, hygiene greater strides, from Doctor Osler's time to our time. I'd say from Osler's time to Brady's time, but I just can't muster the courage.

In the "doctors' bible" Osler expressed his view, the view of the medical profession in the 19th century, in these words:

"Longevity is a vascular question" (that is, length of life depends on the condition of the blood vessels), "which has been well expressed in the axiom that 'a man is only as old as his arteries'."

In the pamphlet Young Folks and Old Folks, available on written request (no clipping, please) if you provide stamped self addressed envelope, I present the twentieth century view of longevity. Without actually paraphrasing Dr. Osler, the pamphlet treats longevity as a nutritional question. It is in the field of nutrition that hygiene, the science of preservation of health, has advanced.

In the nineteenth century a doctor looked for structural, anatomical or organic changes. If examination revealed none the doctor dismissed the patient's complaint as merely functional.

Today a doctor tests or measures the various functions and endeavors to correct errors of hygiene which may account for whatever functional deficiencies the examination reveals.

In most cases the patient's complaint, the functional deficiency, is a fault of nutrition, usually an inadequate intake of one or more of these essential elements, through the years:

Thiamine, riboflavin, vitamin D, calcium, phosphorus, iodin.

Mind, now, wiseacres and knuckleheads, I do not intend to attribute all functional ailments to inadequate intake of these nutritional essentials. I'm not so nutty as oyu and your favorite quack may choose to think.

The U.S. Public Health Service estimated, on the basis of surveys in various rural and urban areas, that three-fourths of all the illness, medical and surgical, attended by physicians is directly or indirectly due to the c-r-i—common respiratory infections. In spite of my preoccupation with nutritional deficiency I think that is a sound observation. Nor am I unmindful of the frequency of functional and organi ailments due to anoxia, especiall the carbon-monoxide anoxia o smokers and persons exposed t an atmosphere polluted by carbon-monoxide from any source.

In the pamphlet I define v-i-t-e —preservation of the characteristics of youth etc. etc. V-i-t-e i the difference between the individual aged 7, 17, 47 or 77 who i just "not complaining" and on who enjoy being alive.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Sounds Incredible

About two years ago I suffered from arthritis, rheumatiz or whatever you call it. Took to tumbling somersaults, about a dozen every night in bed. Today thanks to you, I am well and able once again to do all my work. I'm keeping up the somersaults and have no pain whatever. (Mrs. K. W. N.)

Answer—This I'll have to see. I roll mine on the floor first thing every morning, but I haven't the nerve to try such a stunt in bed. Pamphlet on the value of a dozen rolls a day, more or less, available if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope. Old stiffs past thirty who have not attempted any acrobatic activity in years will try somersaults, if at all, on their own responsibility. It doesn't mean a thing to me if any one gets seasick or breaks his neck somersaulting.

College Student

I am a college student, 49, mother, grandmother, annoyed by hot flashes. Taking no medication but hope you will tell me if there is anything to help... (S. C. A.)

Answer—It can do no harm, may do good in various ways if you supplement your diet with an adequate daily ration of Ca and D, as described in the Menopause pamphlet—remember, this is not medicine, but essential nutritive elements which are probably deficient in your daily diet. So don't expect medicinal effects, but merely the general improvement you will experience after several weeks.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BROUGHT BEAUTY OUT OF UGLINESS

Lillian Baylis, head of the famous old Vic Theatre, died some years ago in London. She took charge of the famous theatre after it had been a most unsavory reputation as a disreputable music hall. It was said in earlier days to have been "the focal point of vice" in all London. For many years within its walls "drunken audiences shouted obscenities at performers hired for their adeptness at vulgarity."

What did Lillian Baylis make out of the old Vic? She made it the most famous Shakespearean theatre in all the world. So outstanding were her achievements that she received the honorary degree of Master of Arts from Oxford University, the only woman, save Queen Mary, ever to receive that degree.

George Bernard Shaw said of her: "When she was in difficulty, she went into her office, got down on her knees, and prayed. Everything then came out all right."

Here was one of God's lovely souls who brought beauty out of ugliness and trusted God every day to help her in her mission.

FAITH PROVES PAINFUL

Goderich, Feb. 20 (CP) —Faith in a friend's shooting ability proved painful for a Goderich man. He held out his hat; the friend fired with a .22-calibre rifle. Away went the hat, away went the tips of two of the hat-holder's fingers and along came police. The marksman was charged with possession of an offensive weapon.

Women's Hospital Auxiliary Prepares for Fashion Show

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Hospital Auxiliary took place at the Nurses' residence Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. Buchan presiding.

A letter was read from Mrs. Lytile, secretary-treasurer of the National Association of Hospital Auxiliaries, giving an account of the activities of member auxiliaries during the past year and enclosing a copy of the message sent to Queen Elizabeth on behalf of the Association by Mrs. Margaret Rhynas, president. The text is as follows:

"Greetings.

The officers and members of the National Council of Voluntary Women's Hospital Auxiliaries of Canada mourn the passing of His Beloved Majesty, King George VI.

To Your Gracious Majesty, Queen Elizabeth II, we send our love and loyalty. As a devoted daughter of the late King George VI, we wish to express to you sincere sympathy in the loss of a greatly loved father. May it please Your Majesty to convey to the members of the Royal Family the sorrow we share in their grief. Especially would we remember at this time the Queen Mother, Elizabeth, the Dowager Queen Mary and Princess Margaret.

February fifteenth, Nineteen Hundred and Fifty-two,
Toronto, Canada."

Mrs. Wilson reported by letter on the appreciation of 42 ward patients for Christmas gifts of boudoir slippers for the women and socks for the men.

Reading Cart

Mrs. Lennox reported that the library cart is now in operation and is much appreciated by the ward patients. It is hoped to keep the reading matter up to date and donations of small magazines and pocket editions of westerns and detective stories may be left at the Quinte Book Shop. Jig saw puzzles, cards, games, children's magazines and books would also be welcome.

Mrs. Robb reported that over $500 had been realized from the Christmas dance and the Manly Macdonald picture. The recent rummage sale convened by Mrs. Galt realized $50.

Mrs. Buchan expressed the appreciation of the auxiliary to Mrs. Sillitoe retiring supervisor of the Opportunity Shop, and to Mrs. Dallas, retiring bookkeeper and treasurer of the Opportunity Shop, for their untiring efforts and capable management over the past two years.

Mrs. W. H. Finkle is the new supervisor of the Opportunity Shop, Mrs. E. Buchanan, bookkeeper, and Mrs. Dallas treasurer. Mrs. Finkle announced that all members of the auxiliary had been divided alphabetically and those from A to J are asked to see that spring merchandise is donated now. Those from J. to Z are asked to donate summer merchandise for sale in April. Similarly the first group is asked to be responsible for autumn merchandise and the second group for winter. It is hoped that all interested citizens will take this opportunity of supplying and patronizing the shop. Mrs. Finkle emphasized that the Opportunity Shop is the citizens opportunity to serve their hospital.

Plans for the Spring Fashion Show are well under way ably convened by Mrs. F. Deacon. This will take place early in March and the two performances, afternoon and evening, are looked forward to as events. Tickets are available from all the exhibitors, Bill Cook's and all members of the auxiliary.

The March meeting is to be held on 3rd Wednesday instead of Tuesday and will take place at the Queen's Hotel, preceded by the annual luncheon tendered the models in the fashion show. It is hoped all members will make a special effort to attend and notify to that effect in ample time.

Plans Launched For V.O.N. Week In This Area

The February meeting of the V.O.N. Board was held in the Y.M.C.A., on Monday of this week with a good attendance.

The president, E. E. Follwell, after opening the meeting welcomed Miss Evelyn Pibus, national supervisor, who is paying her first official visit to the Belleville branch. She succeeds Miss Elizabeth Reed, who has been granted a year's leave of absence.

Miss Pibus, who is a graduate of Montreal General Hospital and of the course in Public Nursing at McGill University, brings to her new position a wealth of knowledge and experience.

Mr. Follwell called on Bill Stovin, acting chairman of Publicity committee, to report his plans for V.O.N. week. Mr. Stovin outlined his plans for National V.O.N. which is from Feb. 23rd, to March 1st. He gave the local angle of the campaign employing the media of the press, radio, service clubs, churches and schools. It was moved that $50 be allowed for press and radio publicity.

The president congratulated the committee on their very excellent plans and called on Miss Pibus to address the meeting.

Purpose Not Financial

Miss Pibus commented on the thorough plans that were being made. She said the purpose of the National V.O.N. week was not financial but rather to bring to the attention of the public the wide variety of services of the order that are available to people in all walks of life. She referred to the fifty scholarships that are given to nurses who take the course in Public Health.

Mr. Follwell thanked Miss Pibus for her extremely helpful remarks.

Miss Connor, nurse-in-charge of the local branch, gave a detailed report on her month's activities. She welcomed Miss Barbara Ward, graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital, Hamilton, to the local staff. There are now three full-time nurses on the staff.

Reports were then heard from the various committees and the meeting was adjourned.

Harris Reminds U.S. it Cannot Stand Alone

Rochester, N. Y., Feb. 20—(CP) — A Canadian cabinet minister reminded the United States last night that no country in the free world is strong enough to play a lone hand in current affairs.

Walter Harris, minister of citizenship and immigration, said in the first of the University of Rochester lecture series on Canada that the U. S. "is giving heartening leadership to the free world, and no plan for the resistance of aggression is likely to succeed without your seal of approval."

But, he added, "all the free nations will need each other—none of us is strong enough to go it alone."

Harris describes Canada as a country growing rapidly in international stature and facing the future with calm confidence.

Canada realizes she is not a great power and makes no pretensions of being one, he said. But she was pursuing a policy she believed most likely to be an effective means of preserving world peace.

Striving for Peace

In a world facing the prospect of a third world war, Canada was striving for peace alongside the U. S. "Because we, too, are idealists though perhaps not in the grand manner that you are." Canada, as well as the U. S., saw its young men die in two wars in Western Europe "and we want to make sure that those losses were not in vain."

Discussing Canada's part in world affairs, Harris said it was Canada that first suggested the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. She had been a consistent supporter of N.A.T.O. ever since it was formed. Canada was also resisting aggression in Korea.

Declaring that "Canada evolves her policies in the light of geography and resources," Harris noted that the Dominion has a larger area than the U. S. with less than one-eleventh of the population. The Canadian communications system, in relation to the country's population, was the most extensive in the world.

Harris emphasized that "relations with the U. S. always have been, and will continue to be an essential part of the foundation" of Canada's foreign policy.

Kiwanis Speaker Starts Campaign For District Support of Churches

"Ye are the salt of the earth, but if the salt has lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted? It is good for nothing but to be cast out and trodden under the foot of man."

With this quotation from the Bible, William Slade, addressing the Kiwanis Club on Tuesday, launched a campaign for the month of March to persuade people to go to church. Mr. Slade is chairman of the Support of Churches in Spiritual Aims Committee in this district.

"There are three essentials in this life," stated the speaker, "and these are food, shelter and clothing. The greatest of the three is food and of the thousands of food items, salt is the the most important. We eat salt or we die."

Outlined History

Mr. Slade proceeded to explain the various functions of salt and outlined the hostory of the mineral, stating that the pages of history are liberally sprinkled with salt.

He referred to the period of time about 2,000 years before Christ, when salt was gathered from the shores of the Dead Sea and transported inland. "As the salt passed from trader to trader," the speaker said, "each one added handfuls of white sand in order to increase his profit. By the time that the product reached its destination, it had lost much of its value."

"From that," said Mr. Slade, "we get the meaning of the phrase 'if the salt has lost its savor, wherewith shall it be salted, it is good for nothing.' In other words, it has lost its usefulness."

Speaker Asks Question

"Are we as individuals, as Kiwanians, as Canadians, gathering up too much sand in our daily lives," he asked? "Greed, jealousy, intolerance, intemperance, slander, bigotry, gossip, selfishness, they are all sand and you could add a great many more," he said.

The speaker asked each listener to examine our Democratic-Christian way of life. "What sand do we find here, he asked? Communism is most certainly sand in our Canadian way of life. Communists are bound together by no secret oath but by a simple conviction that it is necessary to change the world," he emphasized.

Mr. Slade recalled instances of communist enthusiasm and compared it to the lack of enthusiasm amongst the Democratic-Christians or those who professed to be. "Over half of the world today are ill-housed, illiterate and underfed" he added and this half is ripe for communistic doctrines."

Becomes Religion

"Communism has become a Russian religion," Mr. Slade continued. "It will only be defeated by a better religion, fortified and supported with every day enthusiasm. Yes, it is a tremendous job, but we have got to start somewhere and it might as well be Belleville. We have got to start with someone, it might as well be you and me. Let's start it off by making certain that each of us becomes more conscious of our church."

"Good Christians make bad subjects for dictators," he added.

The speaker was introduced by George Hosang and the club's expression of appreciation was made by Jack Bonn.

Among the guests present at the luncheon was Miss Evelyn Pibus, National Supervisor of the Victorian Order of Nurses, who addressed the meeting briefly. She told the Kiwanis Club of V. O. N. week which will be carried out from February 24th to March 1st, during which time the public will be informed of the many activities of the organization.

Mrs. Ralph Morden Talks to H-S Meeting

The first meeting, since organization of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association was held Tuesday evening, in the auditorium of the Queen Elizabeth School.

The meeting opened with Mrs. J. Mastine presiding, but before further business was begun, Mrs. Mastine spoke briefly and explained that due to pressure of other commitments, it was necessary to tender her resignation and introduced Mrs. J Godwin, who had been elected by the executive to fill the vacancy of president.

Mrs. Godwin called upon Mrs. H. J. Fuke for the minutes of the organization meeting which were adopted as read and after Mr. F. Benson, vice-president, gave a short resume of broadcasts dealing with education, the members of the executive. were introduced. This was followed by an introduction by Mr. Anderson, the school principal, of the teaching staff.

The speaker of the evening, Mrs. Ralph Morden, president of the central committee of Home and School Association, who was introduced by Mr. J. Bennett, gave an interesting talk on the aims and purposes of Home and School Associations with a resume of its history since its inception through foresight and the desire to attain better understanding between parents and teachers, concerning the many problems that affected the education of the child, mentally, physically, morally and spiritually.

The founder of the movement and leader through its many phases of organization Mrs. A. C. Courtice, carried on this work until her death in 1923 with such effect that there are now 174,000 members in the Dominion of Canada, and the movement is becoming world-wide.

At the conclusion of her remarks, Mrs. Morden was thanked by Mrs. A. O. Drysdale.

After a recess, during which the parents had an opportunity of visiting the classrooms, a sing-song was enjoyed with Mr. Lionel Blaker acting as song-leader and Mrs. J. B. Ledinghom doing the honors on the piano.

Refreshments, under the convenership of Mrs. N. Meldrum, ended the meeting.

President, Mrs Follwell, extended to all an invitation received from the King George Home and School to attend their 21st anniversary meeting at which Mrs. McLellan, president of the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations, will be the guest speaker on the topic "Children are our Teachers".

Mrs. Carruthers, radio convener, announced that Mrs. McLellan would also be heard in the next program for "Home and School on the Air".

Mrs. Follwell urged everyone to support the "Leap Year Dance", which is to be the one money-making event of the year. With Mr. Fred Symons as convener in charge of a good committee, the evening promises to be one of excellent entertainment and good fellowship. Everybody come!

The Parent-Study course on Tuesday evenings at the Collegiate was brought to the attention of all with the hope that as many parents as possible would take advantage of it, any Tuesday night during the next ten weeks.

Founder's Day

To commemorate Founder's Day, Mr. Willis Jackson gave a short talk on the birth of the Home and School Association. The idea originated first in Washington, and was introduced into Canada by Alexander Graham Bell. Mrs. Courtice, wife of a minister, and for a long time head herself of a private school, started the first Home and School Association in Toronto and by 1919, Home and School had grown into a province wide organization Mrs. Courtice's daughter, Mrs. Colin Campbell, is now president of the National Federation of Home and School Associations.

The Banner roll call showed as winners the classes of Miss Hillis and Miss Wilson for Queen Mary, and of Miss Arkles and Mr. Lloyd for Prince Charles.

Mrs. Beeby, program convener for the evening, presented the Quintones, Alf Evans, Dalton Kaye, John Grant, and Dick Brettingham, who delighted the audience with three numbers "Mississippi Moon", "Mood Indigo" and "Susie Brown".

Guest Speaker

Mr. T. A. Carruthers introduced the guest speaker for the evening, Dr. R. M. Billings, regional director of the Mental Health Clinic in Kingston. Dr. Billings with degrees from Queens and from Toronto universities is not only a doctor of psychiatry, he said, but also an accomplished pianist.

Dr. Billings gave a short talk to show that any behaviour problem with a child is a symptom of something wrong in his background or experience, and that the adverse influence on the child is generally just little things, not something outstanding. For instance, the kind of talking and thinking which goes on in a home affects the child, and a sense of security and serenity is essential to his emotional health.

To illustrate his point, Dr. Billings showed a film called "Family Circles", which showed vividly first the frustration felt by the eight-year-old boy enduring Visitors' Day in school without the attendance of either of his parents to view his efforts, secondly the fears aroused in a young girl by unwise talk of death and bogeymen heard just before her bed-time, and thirdly the devastation of mental health in a lad shown doing his homework to the tune of vociferous bickering by his parents.

"Buzz Sessions"

Dr. Billings employed the age-old maxim of "We learn by doing" in the guise of the new method known as "Buzz Sessions". Divided into four groups, each with a leader and a recorder, the audience retired to separate rooms to get acquainted and discover through discussion the three outstanding failings of parents as shown by the film.

In general session again, and as approved by Dr. Billings, the three worst faults were listed as quarrelling of parents before a child, thereby destroying the very basis of his security in life; allowing a child to be frightened even by casual conversation; and disinterested in a child's work.

The Rev. O. E. Wagar expressed the pleasure and gratitude of all present to Dr. R. M. Billings for the honor of his presence and for the benefit of his address and of his new mode of presentation which afforded friendly informality and the opportunity for all to speak.

A social hour followed.

Thanks to Mr. Rowley were expressed by Mrs. Lent.

As this was the annual meeting of the club, a full report of the year's meeting was given by Mrs. Parliament and the financial report by Mrs. Wannamaker. Mrs. C. Earle reported the cards sent and the letters received.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

What of a daughter's responsibility toward her mother?

Two days ago this column concerned itself with a story of a mother's obsessive sense of responsibility toward her daughters, both of whom had gone down sordid dead-end streets in their lives. The question involved was whether the mother's feeling of responsibility toward her children was justified or not.

Today we have something in the nature of the reverse side of that question in a story concerning the responsibility of a daughter toward her mother.

The letter which brings this girl and her situation to my attention is written by a family friend. She says that she and several others would like to know whether or not, under all the special circumstances of the girl's life, I think she still has a duty toward her mother.

"This young friend of mine," he friend writes, "made a most unfortunate marriage about nine years ago, due mostly, I believe, to her desire to escape from an erratic, domineering and often cruel mother. Shortly after the birth of a child the girl's marriage broke up, ending in divorce. The break-up was as much the mother's fault as the marriage itself, because of her constant ridicule of her daughter's husband, resulting in the daughter becoming ashamed, bewildered and extremely unstable emotionally. However, after the girl left her husband she returned to her parents' home, taking her child with her.

"In a short time the mother resumed her abuse of her daughter and began to abuse the child, too, beating her and screaming at her. I might add that the girl's mother and father were never on good terms, not even speaking to each other about half the time.

High Type of Person

"The daughter was holding a most responsible position and going to school at night, which I think gives an idea of the high type of person she is. Realizing that if she continued to live with her mother, her own child was in for the same kind of childhood she herself had endured, she suddenly took her child and left, and her father went with her. All three of them moved in with the father's mother, and after awhile the girl married a very well-educated boy of excellent character. The marriage has worked out unusually well, and today, after nearly three years of it, during which time her husband has legally adopted her child, she is a different person, happy and well-adjusted.

"The thing that has everybody wondering, I think, is that she now never sees either of her parents. Her father, after leaving the girl's mother, began to go with a woman who is not a very desirable individual and is extremely jealous of his daughter. From all appearances, this girl never seems to give either of her parents a thought, and her child, now eight years of age, has such vividly bad memories of her grandmother that she never wants to see her again.

"Do you think this girl has made a wise choice in regard to her parents, or do you think that it is her duty to do something about seeing them again?"

In the case referred to at the beginning of this column concerning the mother who felt herself so responsible for her grown daughters, I gave it as my opinion that the daughters should be left to manage their own affairs. I hold the same opinion so far as this girl's responsibility toward her parents is concerned.

After years of unhappiness because of her mother's abuse, later compounded, no doubt, even though in a lesser way, by her father's lack of consideration for her in taking up with a disreputable woman companion, the girl now has the opportunity for a well-adjusted and satisfying life. I can see no reason in the world why she should jeopardize this opportunity by interweaving the pattern of that happy life with the warped pattern of her parents' lives. If, at any time, she wishes to see her mother or her father, that is, of course, her privilege. But, as I see it, duty does not enter into it.

DIRECTIONS

The Corn Fritters are for Eileen M. She'll let you all share them though—I can tell from the nice letter she wrote. She gave me a recipe for Baked Frankfurters and Corn which I will try and pass on to you.

Use the leftover shells of halved grapefruit—used for breakfast and washed and for part of the fruit cup mixture—to hold your fruit. Top it with a halved maraschino cherry. Serve icy coldfi

SWISS STEAK

Buy a piece of round steak weighing 1 1-2 lbs. cut 1 1-2 inches thick. Mix together 1-4 cup flower, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, and pound this into ; side of the steak with steak pounder or side of saucer. Turn over and pound remaining flour into other side. Be sure all of the flour mixture is used up. In a large heavy frying pan melt 2 tablespoons fat or heat 2 tablespoons salad oil, and brown the beef in it quickly on both sides. Then add: 1 1-2 cups canned tomatoes, 3 large onions, peeled and sliced, 1 finely chopped outer stalk of celery, 1 minced and peeled clove of garlic, 1 tablespoon thick condiment sauce. Cover and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 2 1-2 hours or simmer on top of stove. Uncover for last few minutes to allow sauce to become thick. This is wonderful with mashed potatoes or fluffy boiled rice too.

Round steak may be even lower in price by the time this reaches you (it is 87c as I write this), but isn't it a relief to see the price of anything come down?

CORN FRITTERS

Three eggs, yolks and whites separated, 1 2-3 cups cooked or canned kernel corn, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 cup sifted flour, about 6 tablespoons fat or salad oil. Beat egg yolks until very light, then add the corn, seasonings and flour to them. Beat egg whites stiff and fold them in. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat in medium-sized frying-pan. Turn over when under side is brown. These are often served with butter and syrup, but when beef gravy is around I want a little on them—so use your Swiss steak gravy for this.

ICE-BOX LEMON PIE

This is made in a baked pastry shell or in a graham cracker shell (see below). One can sweetened condensed milk, 1-3 cup lemon juice (or lime juice), 2 egg yolks, 1 1-2 cups well-drained crushed pineapple, 1 cup whipping cream, slightly sweetened. Stir the lemon juice into the condensed milk. The mixture will thicken. Beat the yolks thoroughly and add the milk and juice mixture to them. Beat a minute longer. Add the drained fruit and pour into prepared crust. Spread with the whipped and sweetened cream. Garnish with sliced cherries. Chill at least 4 hours or overnight.

GRAHAM CRACKER CRUST

Mix together 1 cup finely rolled graham cracker crumbs, 1-4 cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-4 teaspoon nutmeg, and 1-8 teaspoon salt. Work into them 1 1-2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Measure out 2 tablespoons of the leftover egg whites and beat them slightly then stir them into the mixture. Line 9-inch buttered pie plate with this mixture, pressing it firmly to fit plate. Bake 5 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Cool.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Attention, spring brides. . .all brides, all grooms!

It is absolutely essential that, in the receiving-line at the wedding reception, the bride should be at the groom's right. So plan your receiving-line accordingly.

Her young sister accepts expensive dress as Christmas gift from boy friend

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister (18) has written to several of our relatives about her happiness over the expensive dress she received for Christmas from a young fellow with whom she "goes steady". They have been going together for about two years. I just can't condone her behavior, for I feel that her admitting acceptance of such a personal and expensive gift will bring her much unflattering criticism, no matter her innocence. Somehow I feel that she accepted this gift for lack of know-how to refuse it graciously. I just can't imagine how else she would do so foolish a thing. Perhaps I'm old-fashioned—am I? If so, I'll admit at once that I'd rather be called old-fashioned, if that's the name for the mannerliness and propriety I believe in.—A Sister.

I wish that young sister of yours had some of your wise point of view and clear-eyed vision! You're not "old-fashioned" . . . you're just that good word right.

It has always been the rule. . . the extremely wise and extremely sensible rule. . . that a woman must not accept wearing apparel as a gift from a man, not even from her fiance. Some cynical so-called "moderns" may not regard this rule. . but we are speaking of your sister, and we don't want her to be or to become cynical or a hard-faced, hard-spirited "modern" bent on the "gimme" technique. It's most unfortunate, pathetic, that at 18 she is starting her social life on a definitely-not-right basis, that, by accepting an expensive dress from man friend she puts herself in the wrong category. I doubt if she accepted this gift because she didn't know how to refuse it graciously. I think it's because she has allowed her social life to be limited to this one 'young fellow' since she was only sixteen years old, and so she has had no chance to let her sense of values develop in the right direction. She is so young and so lacking in discrimination that she brags about the wrong thing!

Can't you talk over these so-important things with this young sister of yours, lovingly and very tenderly and very understandingly? With your shining sense of self-respect, you can, I know, show her the way to keeping her self-respect, her sense of right-direction.

Invitation not necessary, but not incorrect

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

During the past year or so my husband and I have received invitations to the weddings and receptions of several of our friends' children—but our son was never included in these invitations. Now our son is to be married in the near future, and we would like to know if we should invite these young married people. These young people have never been close to us; only their parents.—S.

I should say that your son is the one who should make the decision about this. Since he was the one who was "never included" in the invitations to their weddings, it would certainly not seem necessary to include them in the invitations to his wedding. However, this gesture would not be incorrect, and perhaps he and his bride might feel that they would like to know these young-marrieds, would like to have them come to their wedding.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Good-Looks Code For Ash Blondes

For some strange reason many ash blondes have no idea that they have been short-changed by the fairy godmother who kissed them in the cradle. They feel that they are betwixt-and-betweens, neither true blondes nor brownettes. They would prefer to be in a definite beauty bracket. Pretty silly. Often this type has hair that carries beautiful lights and shadows. If it is kept shining clean, is of abundant growth, is charmingly arranged in a chic hairdo, complaints are not in order.

Like the true blonde, this type of hair requires the most fastidious care so that it will not go off the gold standard, look tarnished. Strong shampoo mediums are fatal, often cause the tresses to take on a darker shade. Just as often they cause the delicate shafts to dry out, to break at the touch of a comb. Pretty young things who launder their own locks instead of having professional treatment, are likely to use any soap that may be at hand. A bar of soap should never be rubbed over the head. Particles of soap are bound to cling, despite prolonged rinsnig. The soap should be in liquid form or a cream product should be used.

Vigorous daily brushing not only invigorates the growth, acting favorably upon the glands in the scalp, but also imparts an appearance of lustre and freshness that makes hair of any color appealing and attractive. Do not, my friend, think that brushing will weaken your permanent wave. If it does, the wave did not qualify in the first place. Brushing makes undulations more fluid, more natural-looking.

The ash blonde can use makeup a bit more lavishly than the true golden girl. A powder that is a combination of flesh and ivory usually is flattering. Rouge and lipstick of orange-red tones are likely to give the skin more richness and softness than the blue-reds or the raspberry tones. If one indulges in eye shadows, a faint bronze is a happy choice.

There may be a problem in the selection of dress colors. Beige, being close to the color of the hair, offers no contrast, is definitely out. Browns are not a happy choice, unless they are dark. Black is safe; it gives the skin a creamy cast, is particularly pleasing for the ash blonde with blue eyes.

Voilet, and all shades of orchid are favorable, as are certain shades of green. Dove grey is on the can-wear list, but steel grey should never be worn. It is a cold austere color.

MARMORA

Marmora — In connection with the national day of mourning for King George VI. a celebration of Holy Communion was held at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, at 10.30 a.m., with the rector, Canon J. M. Brownlie, officiating. Brief mention was made of the mourning of the Royal family and the subjects of the Queen. The "Te Deum" was sung at the close of the service followed by God Save the Queen.

A memorial service for his late Majesty King George VI. was held at Sacred Heart church on Friday at 11 a.m. when the Rev. J. A. O'Neill delivered an appropriate address in which he paid tribute to the late King, Queen Elizabeth and other members of the Royal Family. The choir sang the Libera and additional hymns.

Circle 2 of St. Andrew's Women's Association held a successful Valentine party in St. Andrew's Hall on Thursday evening.

Mr. Norman Hipson has received word of the death of his mother, Mrs. William Hipson at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Alfred Richardson, of Toronto. The deceased lady was in her 85th. year. The funeral was held on Saturday with Mr. and Mrs. Hipson and their daughter, Mrs. John Vanvolkenburg attending.

60 Pigs Burned in $12,000 Fire in Tyendinaga Twp.

The large frame barn of Mr. Roland Weidmann, 2nd concession of Tyendinaga, 15 miles east of Belleville, was completely destroyed by fire Tuesday afternoon along with nearly 60 pigs, many of them ready for shipping.

Also destroyed was over 30 tons of hay along with a quantity of grain and farm machinery. The cattle and horses were running in the yard at the time of the blaze. The loss is estimated at $12,000.

Weidmann was in Belleville attending the livestock sale when his barn burned and did not know of the loss until he returned. Mrs. Weidmann was home but had taken an afternoon nap and did not waken until she was roused by Charles Allport, a neighbor who noticed the fire. The fire had gained such headway that he was unable to get into the stable to save the pigs.

The barn was wired for electricity and a new pressure system had been installed last year. A hayrake, seed drill and other farm machinery was lost.

GROUNDED BIRD

Edmonton, Feb. 20 (CP) — A great white pelican was seen walking along the ice of a nearby lake in its journey to warmer climates. After being captured, the bird was found to have been wounded by a hunter, and was unable to fly. It died shortly afterwards.

EASILY SEEN

Abbott Asserts Budget Surplus Excellent Thing

Ottawa, Feb. 20 (CP) —Finance Minister Abbott asserted last night that his top-heavy and widely-criticized budgetary surplus has been "an important element in bringing inflation under control."

Rather than "a bad thing," the surplus has been "an excellent thing, not just for the government, but for each and every one of you" he said in an address prepared for delivery over the CBC's free-time political broadcast "The Nation's Business."

The surplus, which totalled $721,000,000 at Dec. 31 against last year's budget forecast that it would total only $30,000,000 for the whole of 1951-52, had enabled the government to meet certain cash disbursements without "invading the already tight capital market" with new bond issues.

He said that to date this fiscal year the government has used $300,000,000 of the budgetary surplus to meet non-budgetary expenditures, leaving about $400,000,000 available for paying off some of the national debt and increasing the government's working cash balances.

In the nine months ended Dec. 31, the government paid off or withdrew from the market about $260,000,000 of the national debt and, in addition, transferred to the Bank of Canada $70,000,000 in cash to meet bonds and interest coupons which had matured but had not yet been presented for payment.

Had the government not had the big budgetary surplus, Mr. Abbott suggested, it would have had to borrow some $300,000,000 of new money and refund most of its maturing debt instead of paying it off.

Faraday Will Spend $15,000 On Twp. Roads

Bancroft — Faraday municipal council expects to spend $15,000 on its township roads in 1952. By-law, No. 454, passed at the February council meeting classified the year's expenditures as follows — maintenance $10,000; bridges and culverts $2,000; machinery $1,500, and miscellaneous $1,000. This was submitted to the Ontario Department of Highways for approval. At the same meeting the road superintendent was authorized to spend $600. on maintenance in February.

SAW UTOPIA

London, Feb. 20 AP—The government told its envious subjects today about the land they are all looking for—a group of sun-bathed tropical islands where there is no income tax, land tax or estate duty. All that is to be found, the colonial office said in a report, is the three Cayman Islands, a British dependency of Jamaica. The islanders live by exporting turtles and rope.

Mother Tells Of Heartbreak Son Can Cause

New York, Feb. 20 (AP) —The 79-year-old mother of bank robber Willie Sutton told yesterday of the heartbreak that a criminal son can cause.

Mrs. Mary Sutton, white-haired and tiny, said:

"It's such a terrible thing for a mother— three children, two of them wonderful and never in trouble in their lives and the other one in trouble all these years.

"I just can't understand it."

She sat in the Brooklyn flat she shares with the other two children and looked over the papers telling of Willie's arrest Monday.

"Oh, my God," she moaned. "Now the neighbors will know. The one thing we've been afraid of is they'd find out I'm Willie Sutton's mother."

Mrs. Sutton was told that Willie had been living within two miles of her for five years.

"My goodness," she said softly, "and he never got in touch with me."

Two Rescued After Going Through Ice in York River

Bancroft—(Special) — When Richard Peever fell through the ice into the York River at about 8.00 p.m. Monday night he had to rescue both himself and a pal, Herb Spence, who tried to help him.

Richard and Herb were crossing the river just below the Station Road bridge with Herb leading. The thin ice cracked and down went Richard into twenty feet of dark fast running icy water.

Yelling for help his companion tried to pull him on the treacherous ice but instead it cracked and the two went in over their heads. In order to escape the grip of his struggling companion, young Peever wearing a leather reinforced mackinaw coat had to dive below the surface for a few seconds. With Spence clutching his soaked clothing he managed to break a path to thicker ice and crawl to shore.

Russell Creighton, Bancroft's police chief, who was directing traffic at the nearby arena, yelled directions from the bridge a few feet away as the ice was too thin to support his weight. After the rescue Mr. Creighton drove the shivering half-frozen boys home.

HAWKS IN ACTION!

Both senior and junior Hawks swing into action tonight against Peterborough teams with the seniors taking on the pesky Petes in Peterborough and the Hawklets entertaining the Triple Links in the second game of their best-of-f... Junior "B" semi-finals series.

The senior race is tied up tighter than a debutante's napeneck hairdo, and every game from here in will have a bearing on the standing. A win tonight for the crippled Hawks over the Petes will put them three points ahead of the Kingston Sacs while a Petes victory will strengthen the McGillis crew's top spot. The Petes are back here Friday in their final scheduled appearance.

Meanwhile the junior Hawks are gunning for their second victory over the smart Triple Links. Their 5-2 win the other night came as a result of fine play individually and collectively. And they'll need all their power and ability to turn back these Links tonight. The Liftlock younkers have not tossed in the sponge by any stretch of the imagination and they'll be a tough win-hungry crew when they step on Memorial Arena ice tonight.

MINORS TOO!

The minors see action too tonight when the Belleville Hockey Association juveniles, midgets and bantams go to Kingston to play the first of a goals-to-count two-game series with teams from that city. The second game will be played in Memorial Arena tomorrow night in what should be a stellar hockey attraction. It will be "Minor Hockey Night" and fandom here should not pass up this opportunity of seeing six smart young teams in hockey battle. Don't miss it.

MIKE GOES TO BAT!

Personable Mike Murphy, a right handsome broth av a bhoy, didn't do the Toronto Maple Leafs baseball club any harm at Picton yesterday.

The quiet-spoken 31-year-old general manager of the Leafs, if personality, immaculate appearance and a more than passing touch o' the blarney, can be judged sales points, put the Cooke ballchasing club over with a bang.

He had big Dave Price, radio sportscaster with him, but Mike didn't need the Pricelan plugs. Dave in his own (we love this) inimitable manner sold Mike but plenty, but the handsome young Irisher really had the Picton Rotarians and their guests reaching for their pockets with his personality.

He talked baseball talk which was a refreshing departure from the club's ballyhoo of a recent radio program that netted them some $1,300. They paid tribute to the radio station here and went overboard with a handsome gesture by presenting Jack Devine with a silver tray suitably engraved. Incidentally they gave Mike Murphy his choice of a pen set or five pounds of cheese. Dave Price grabbed the cheese and the mice in Fort Lauderdale will be getting a Canadian treat in the near future. In passing we might mention there were newspapermen there, too.

However young Mr. Murphy, a baseball veteran as far as playing years go regaled the clubmen with some humorous anecdotes of the game. He didn't force the Leafs club down Rotarian throats albeit he desserted his speech with a few timely plugs.

Said Mike, "The Toronto team will be a young club this year. One that can "run". The greybeards will be sent to other pastures."

The boy has something here. "Give me a ball club," he said, "that will score two runs in the first innings. Then it's up to the other club to catch up and psychologically speaking, in its hurry to draw level it will make mistakes.

Mike said he believed the day of the slugging ballplayer has gone. The pitching today is a lot better and teams are concentrating on better defensive play. He quoted the Boston Red Sox as an example. They had excellent pitching, Mike felt, but were not strong defensively.

The Leafs club, Mr. Murphy said without twitching an upper lip, plans on ultra-plus entertainment for the fans over and above a baseball game. The game, said this example of how baseball executives wear "civvies" in a "man of distinction" manner, will be the entree to the baseball fare, but the "trimmings" will be tasty and enjoyable. There will be excellent entertainment, he said, although he did not infer that Maestro Jack Cooke would adopt a Veeckian complex and toss in a few midgets as pinch-hitters.

He stressed the point that the Leafs management would put accent on youth this year and believed the new set-up would not only be an attraction to baseball fans all over the province but result in a fine club for the Leafs.

In a post-luncheon talk with Mike we discovered him to be a fine type of baseball officialdom. He has a fine personality, a sense of humor, Irish and otherwise. Mike is the type that makes friends easily and the Leafs front office could not have made a better selection of an ambassador-at-large.

HOW ABOUT 7-11?

According to a Dodger fan the old hex (No. 13) rode herd on his favorite "Bums" in that hectic game in which Bobby Thomson blasted the ball and Flatbush hopes for the pennant out of the baseball lot. Here is how he figured the jinx worked:

(1) The Dodgers climbed to a 13½ game lead but could not pass it. (2) The fateful day of the big blow added up to 13, the third day of the tenth month, October 3. (3) The big blow came in game No. 157 of the schedule for the Dodgers and those numerals total 13. (4) Robert Thomson (13 letters in his name) represented the 26th (2x13) out in that Giant game which the Dodgers never achieved. (5) Who was the victim? Branca, No. 13. How many games did Branca win all year? Right, 13.

Whether the Dodger management was aware of the hex is not known but it did develop that they gave Branca a new number. He will wear No. 12 in the coming season.

"BOSS" BOUDREAU

It looks from here as though Lou Boudreau, bossman of the Boston Red Sox means business. In an article in the current issue of the Saturday Evening Post, Lou points out that "I'll make the rules and I expect the players to live up to them. My business is to win and that's got to be the business of the Red Sox as well. If they don't win, believe me, it won't be because of lack of ability."

Lou writes a highly entertaining story of what he expects to do and what the Bosox, he hopes, will do. It's worth reading.

Leafs, Rangers Split Points, Pull Ahead of Habs, Bruins

By ED SIMON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

For almost half a season it looked as if Gaye Stewart was just another good hockey player who had gone sour.

New York Rangers had acquired him in an off-season trade with Detroit Red Wings. It cost them Tony Leswick, a fine defensive winger, but it seemed a worthwhile exchange for a man who had never scored less than 18 goals a season for 8 years in the National Hockey League.

The only hitch was that Stewart went through 22 games in a Ranger uniform without scoring a single goal. The word went around that the likeable 28-year-old forward from Fort William was on his way out of the N. H. L.

But Bill Cook, who had just taken over as Rangers' coach in mid-season, was ready to string along with his slumping star. And his faith has paid dividends.

Last night Stewart fired home two goals in 22 seconds against Al Rollins in Toronto Maple Leaf nets as the teams played to a 3-3 draw. That brought his goal-production to 13 for the season. With 15 games left, it looks as if he'll fill his scoring quota.

Both Teams Benefit

Both Toronto and New York benefitted from the split in points. The Leafs moved a point ahead of Montreal Canadiens, with whom they had been tied for second place. The Rangers did the same at the expense of Boston Bruins, with whom they are battling for the fourth and last playoff spot.

Stewart's rapid-fire performance was only one of the highlights of the game which was rescheduled from Feb. 6 because of the death of the King.

Before the final whistle, Rangers had blown their two-goal lead and dropped behind. It took a score by rookie Herb Dickenson with less than three minutes left to earn their tie.

Max Bentley, Harry Watson and Ted Kennedy looked after the Toronto scoring.

Referee George Gravel had a busy evening, particularly in the second period, when he dished out 11 penalties including a major, a misconduct and a match sentence.

Defenceman Gus Mortson of Toronto drew a match penalty when Gravel ruled that he had deliberately attempted to injure Ranger defenceman Hy Buller in a stick-swinging incident.

Mortson won't play again until his case is dealt with by league president Clarence Campbell. The least that can happen to him is an automatic $100 fine.

Mortson's defence partner, Jimmy Thomson, was given a misconduct five minutes earlier for telling Gravel what he thought of a minor penalty for slashing. Eddie Kullman of the Rangers took a major for high-sticking George Armstrong of Toronto.

Tonight the Rangers go home for a date with the league-leading Red Wings in the only game scheduled.

HOCKEY'S BIG SEVEN

(By The Canadian Press)

Ted Kennedy of Toronto picked up a goal and an assist Tuesday night as the Leafs and New York Rangers played to a 3-3 tie to move into the big seven in the National Hockey League's individual scoring department.

Kennedy, Johnny Peirson of Boston and Bernie Geoffrion of Montreal each have 41 points, one less than Sid Smith of Toronto who holds down fifth place.

Gordie Howe of Detroit continues to pace the pack with 61 points and Elmer Lach of Montreal is second with 53.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Trygve Lie, secretary general of the United Nations, is willing to tackle the diplomats of the world at cross country skiing.

In Oslo for the Winter Olympic games, he was asked what he thought of the idea of gathering world politicians in Olympic games competition rather than in political conferences.

The U.N. meeting in Paris was Olympic enough, he said, but if such a competition is ever held, "I would have as good a chance as anybody in the assembly to win the 50 kilometre cross country ski race."

Lie is from Norway where everyone skis.

Back in Hamilton from a winter in Florida, Carl Voyles, coach and general manager of the Big Four Football Union Hamilton Tiger-cats, made a few comments yesterday on proposed changes in Canadian rugby union rules. He doesn't want to see the number of playing imports increased from seven to eight. "We should encourage the Canadian players, not the Americans."

Value of 21 stake races, headed by the $100,000-added Belmont June 7, will be a record $447,500 for the spring meeting at Belmont Park, it was announced yesterday in New York by the Westchester Racing Association.

Kitchener park board's plan for a $40,000 roofless grandstand at Victoria Park hit a snag at Kitchener council yesterday. A parks board delegation, with William Taylor as spokesman, in effect asked council to permit the board to prepare to call tenders on the grandstand. Mayor Weber said "no", with determination. He urged council to withhold decision at least a week.

Cadet R. J. Stetten Monday night won the Gold Cup, top honor in the Royal Military College Boxing Show at Kingston when he captured the novice and open middle weight titles in two bouts with cadet C. L. Griffin-Beale. Cadet A. S. Derrick of Kingston won the open welterweight title over cadet P. N. Warren.

Yonkers (N.Y.) Raceway will get an additional two weeks of grand circuit harness racing this year, it was announced yesterday in Yonkers, by William H. Cane, president. Cane said they would be held during the final two weeks of the Yonkers spring meeting, May 12-25. Yonkers opens a 35-night spring session April 15.

Olympic Canucks Look to Morrow For Points Today

(By The Canadian Press)

Point-hungry Canadians looked today to Suzanne Morrow of Toronto to do something about it. Suzanne went into the final phase of the figure skating championship with sixth-place ranking she earned in the compulsory figures last Sunday.

Jeannette Altwegg, Britain's 21-year-old precision specialist, was far ahead on the school figures. Tenley Albright of Newton Centre, Mass, was in second place.

The women slalom specialists went to work today, with Canada's usual quartet from Quebec province entered—Rhoda Wurtele Eaves, Joanne Hewson, Rosemarie Schutz and 17-year-old Ucille Wheeler.

While the girl figure skaters complete their event, the man figure skaters take a 24-hour rest before tackling their free skating.

Dick Button, the world champion from Englewood, N.J., is already conceded a successful defence of his title in a breeze. But Canada has a few more placing points in prospect. Peter Firstbrook, 18-year-old Canadian senior men's champion from Toronto, placed fourth in the compulsory figures yesterday and should do as well in the free skating Thursday.

The first championship up for decision today was the 50-kilometre (31.07) mile cross-country ski race with Niles Karlsson of Sweden favored to repeat his 1948 success.

But when you talk of success in these 1952 games, you don't have to go any further than Hjalmar Andersen.

He's the 28-year-old Norwegian speed demon who yesterday won his third gold medal in three days of speed skating, the only athlete in the history of the winter Olympics to capture three titles in three days.

Yesterday he won the 10,000-metre race, beating the Olympic record and his own record. Last Sunday he toppled an Olympic record in winning the 5,000 metres and on Monday he added the 1,500 metres the only event of the three in which he failed to beat the Olympic mark.

Only 33 of the 87 entries in the slalom qualified for the second run, and Bob Richardson of Montreal was the only Canadian to make it, he placed 27th.

Two Canadians did just a little better in the 10,000 metre speed skating race which Andersen made look easy. In the field of 30, Ralph Olin of Calgary placed 21st and Gordon Mackay of Saskatoon 24th.

Flyers Thump Warriors 4-2

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Louis Flyers have their work cut out for them in their bid for an American Hockey League playoff berth but it appears they will go down fighting.

St. Louis trails third place Cincinnati by seven points today and has 14 games remaining to the Mohawks' 12.

The Flyers turned back the Syracuse Warriors 4-2 in the league's only game last night The triumph was their fourth straight over Syracuse and their sixth in seven games with the Warriors this season.

St. Louis sewed it up with three goals in the second period by Pat Lundy, Jackie Hamilton and Don Morrison. The other Flyers marksmen was Glen Snmor. Doug McMurdy and Billy Gooden scored for Cincinnati.

Nothing Rubber About These Czechs; Canadians Beat 'Em The Hard Way

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Oslo, Feb. 20—(CP)—Already deficient in points in the 1952 winter Olympic, Canada now has been caught with its courtesies down.

It all happened last night before 10,000 people in the Jordal Amfi Stadium.

Just before the Czechoslovakia-Canada game started, the Czech captain skated over and presented the Canadians with a Czechoslovakian Olympic flag.

There was an embarrassing moment. The Canadians had nothing to present in return.

Then the two clubs went out and put on the roughest game this tournament has seen, Canada winning 4-1. Slashing, hooking, holding were thrown in; even a mild fistic display by Canada's Gordie Robertson.

Game a Sizzler

Coach Lou Holmes had his hands full directing the club. He must have found time for a little extra curricular work too.

When the game ended he asked the Czech players to line up at centre ice. He shook hands with each one, then dug into his pockets and presented every Czech player with a Canadian Olympic pin.

The game was a sizzler. Unlike other European teams Canada's players—Edmonton Mercurys—have met, the Czechs play more of the Canadian-style game. They lack only one thing—a knowledge of solid body-checking.

The Canadian supporters were worried when the Czechs scored their first and only goal before the Mercurys got themselves sorted out. Then the body-checking started in earnest and the big crowd of Norwegian fans booed the Canadians, not understanding that this was all part of hockey.

Centre Billy Gibson tied the score before the first period was over and added another in the last period to lead the Canadians' scoring. Bruce Dickson and Robertson accounted for the other goals. Robertson was given his major penalty in the last period when he let go a couple of cream-puff blows at a Czech player.

Canada took the lead in the series with four straight victories and the best for-and-against goal average. Sweden, with a bye yesterday, and the United States are also undefeated in four starts.

The Americans put on a fistic show, too, in turning back undefeated Switzerland 8-2. Joe Czarnota of Walpole, Mass., and Gian Bazzi of the Swiss team outdid Robertson with their punching and both drew majors. There was talk later that the Olympic hockey officials may do something about this wrangle.

Olympic Changes

Oslo, Feb. 20 (CP) —Judges of the Olympic men's slalom ski race today reshuffled some of the placings in yesterday's event.

The first 10 finishers were not affected, but Bernhard Perren, of Switzerland, originally 11th, was penalized five seconds for deviating from the course and dropped to 21st. Hans Senger of Austria, originally 12th, was disqualified for missing the control gate.

The effect was to move most of the finishers forward a notch. Bob Richardson of Montreal is placed 26th instead of 27th.

Surging Teepees Roll Upwards With 6-3 Win

(By The Canadian Press)

St. Catharines Teepees continued their upward surge in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series last night by defeating Galt Black Hawks 6-3. The win gave the Garden City team sole possession of fourth place, breaking a tie with Toronto St. Michael's.

In the senior A loop, a five goal deficit in the first period against Owen Sound Mercurys was too much of a handicap and the Mercs lost 8-4 to the second-place Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen

The Mercs still are likely to win a berth in the playoffs. They would have to lose both remaining games and Hamilton Tigers would have to win at least three remaining if Hamilton is to replace them.

The S.t Catharines victory was sparked by Bill Haas with two goals and Gerry Foley, Gord Myles Henry Ciesla and Frank Martin placed the others.Galt scorers were Ed Switzer, Trader Horne and Jack Price.

Kitchener's eight goals were all singles, scored by Don Bauer, Ed Stankiewicz, Bob Schnurr, Maurice Leveque, Jim Osinski, Doug Verity, Bill Mitchell and Jim Pernfuss. Owen Sound marksmen were Andy Grant, Tom Burlington, Bill McComb and Buck Forslund.

Ontario Bonspiel At Mid Mark

Toronto, Feb. 20—(CP)— The 25th annual Ontario Bonspiel today hit the half-way mark with more than 200 games under its belt.

The first two sessions of the five-day spiel — 127 games on Monday and 75 yesterday—placed the some 500 curlers far into play for the Royal York, Henry Birks, Seiberling and North American Life trophies. Six consolation awards plus the prized Royal York trophy will be awarded by the close of play Friday.

The 1951 Royal winners, the Toronto Curling Club rink skipped by Tom Beattie, appeared well on the way to a repeat as they slid into the fourth round. In the first round they knocked over J. W. McFadyen's Tiverton rink 17-10; edged Dr. A. E. Walkey of Hamilton Victoria, 6-4 in the second, and topped W. Govenlock of Forest 10-9 in yesterday's third round.

Two other former winners were eliminated from Royal York competition yesterday. Dr. J. C. Malcolmson of Toronto C.C. 1951 Birks winner, slipped under 14-13 to L. E. Ross of Agincourt and Henry Sifton of London, Parker Pen Trophy winner last year, took the short end of a 10-9 count to Dr. H. H. Hetherington of Brampton.

Finn Woodcutter Wins Olympic Ski Marathon

Oslo, Feb. 20—(CP)— Veikko Hakulinen, a hardy, Finnish 26-year-old foreman of a wood cutting gang, won the 50 kilometer (31 miles, 120 yards) Olympic cross country ski race today when he finished the snow marathon in three hours, 33 minutes and 33 seconds.

The leg-weary, gaunt-faced Finn brought his country its first Gold Medal of the current Olympics. He won by four minutes, 34 seconds over Eero Kolehmainen, another Finn, who slogged home to the base of the giant Holmenkollen ski base in 3:38:11.

Norway's Magnar Estenstad, who had been the winner's closest pursuer through most of the second half of the grind, took third in 3:38;45 followed by Olav Oekern, Norway, 3:38:45; Kalevi Mononen, 3:39:21 and Nil Karlsson, Swedish defending champion, 3:39:30.9.

It was the second fastest time ever recorded for the distance in Olympic competition. Elis Viklund of Sweden won in 1936 at Garmisch - Partenkirchen, Germany, in 3:30:11. Nils Karlsson of Sweden captured the 1948 grind at St. Moritz in 3:47:48.

The field, cut down to 36 when the four American entries withdrew when they figured they did not have a chance against the classy Scandinavians, started out at one-minute intervals.

Hakulinen took over the lead at the halfway mark and held it all the way.

One-Arm Marlie Leads Junior Scoring Parade

Toronto, Feb. 20 (CP)—Dashin' Danny Poland, the patched up centre who plays for Toronto Marlboros when he's not in hospital, is gunning for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League's goal-scoring record.

Official statistics released yesterday give Poland 57 goals and 69 assists for 126 points. He's eight goals short of the record set last year by Lou Jankowski of Oshawa Generals.

Poland, who has been playing with his left arm in a cast for about three weeks and who suffered a broken nose and two black eyes last week, has six games left.

He scored four goals and four assists last week to jump into a tie with Guelph's centre Ken Laufman. Laufman picked up a pair of goals and five assists.

The pair hold a comfortable 12-point lead over Ken Wharram of Galt Black Hawks. Wharram, injured in a game at Toronto Feb. 10, will be out for the rest of the season.

Don Head, Toronto Marlboros goalie tops the netminders with a 2.86 average and leads the shutout department with four.

It can't do that to me!

Oh, yes it can

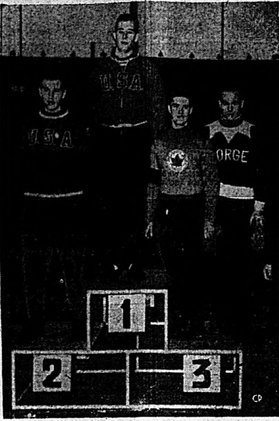
Canada's Point-Winner



Gordon Audley, Winnipeg speed skater, stands on the winners' podium as Canada's first point-winner in the winter Olympics at Oslo. Audley, wearing the Canadian crest and with a mourning band in memory of King George VI around his right arm, tied for third with a time of 44 seconds in the 500-metre speed-skating event with Norway's Arne Johansen, who stands behind him. Donald McDermoot, extreme left, with a time of 43.9 seconds, was second. Ken Henry, second from left, was the winner with a time of 43.2 seconds. Henry and McDermoot are from the United States. — (CP Photo.)

Gordie is Doing Quite Well-- And Howe!

Detroit, Feb. 20—(AP)—Big, imperturbable Gordie Howe, Detroit's one-man hockey arsenal, not only seems a shoo-in for National League scoring honors a second straight season but the New York Rangers claim he is in a class by himself as a beak-buster.

"He broke my nose with a high stick,' insists captain Allan Stanley of the Rangers.

"He broke mine with an elbow," echoes Rangers' Eddie Kullman.

Detroit sources claim, however, that the Red Wings' star has developed a new straight-arm technique as a defence against octopus-like holding tactics.

In recent games Howe has been grabing his stick with his shaft and using his left to fend off all opponents.

How well this has worked is revealed not only in Howe's physical destructiveness but also in his scoring operations.

Gordie has bagged at least one goal in each of the last six games, the Wings winning them all. His season total of 33 goals puts him comfortably ahead of the ailing Maurice Richard and his point total of 61 gives his an eight-point edge over Richard's Montreal colleague, Elmer Lach.

The 23-year-old bulldozer is off on his scoring tear without the accompaniment of veteran centre Sid Abel, on the casualty list, thereby destroying the myth that Abel's playmaking skill lifted Howe to stardom.

Howe borrowed the straight-arm from football. He also picked up a switch-hitting style from baseball. Gordie is the only player in the league who has mastered the art of switching hands on his stick, so that he can shoot from either his right or left side without warning.

British Gal Favored For Skating Title

Oslo, Feb. 20 (CP) —The Olympic championship that could be worth $1,000,000—or only a simple gold medal—will be decided late today.

The title at stake is the women's figure skating championship. Sonja Henie of Norway and Canada's Barbara Ann Scott proved it can be made to pay. They parlayed good looks, skating ability and press clippings into big business that's still paying off for them.

But the prospects are this year's crop might have to settle for heaps of clippings, or maybe second billing in a professional ice show—should any of them decide to hit the dollar trail.

Britain's 21-year-old Jeannette Altwegg is expected to be a cinch to win tonight. The experts say she can't lose if she keeps her skates on the ice.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Elva Tyme says she would be a good bridge player if she could learn how to bid. When the bidding ends, she says she has trouble playing the hand.

She was declarer in south at four spades in this deal:

NORTH
♠A Q 8 5 2
♥A Q 5
♦J 6
♣Q J 6

WEST	EAST
♠9 6	♠7
♥K 7 4 2	♥10 9 8 6
♦A K 9 3	♦10 8 7 5
♣K 7 2	♣8 5 4 3

SOUTH
♠K J 10 4 3
♥J 3
♦Q 4 2
♣A 10 9

The opening lead from west was diamond king. When holding ace and king combination in one suit, lead the king. It tells partner you have the ace in that suit when he discovers where the queen is.

Elva could see at once that there would be no losers in trumps. Two losers in diamonds are certain. There is a possible loser in the heart suit and a possible loser in clubs.

With four probable losers, the contract of four spades will be defeated unless one is saved. How to save one is what she must plan. And it must be saved in either hearts or clubs.

West had opened the bidding. So, it is very likely that he holds both kings outside of the lead suit. If so, the chances of saving the club trick may be abandoned for the moment.

This decides her to make a stab at trying to save the trick in hearts. And for this purpose, sooner or later, she leads a small heart from her own hand toward the dummy.

If west does not go with the king, dummy queen is played and the trick in hearts is thus saved. This is known as a finesse; one of the simpler plays that students learn early.

A finesse is an attempt to win a trick with a card that is lower than a card held by an opponent. To be successful, the lower threat card must lie in the hand that follows the higher card hand.

A finesse usually has a 50-50 chance of succeeding. Frequently, however, remembering the bids will tell you when it is safer. This is what Elva often forgets to do.

BANCROFT

Pontiacs Drop First Playoff To Madoc 13-7

Bancroft—Madoc swamped Bancroft Pontiacs to win the first of the semi-finals for the championship of the Hastings-Addington hockey league in a 13-7 score in Bancroft Arena on Monday night.

Johnny Durant, one of Father Flannigan's juniors from St. Mikes, a fellow who graduated just at the time that Joe Primeau was entering made his first appearance as coach for Madoc. Judging from the form his team displayed Johnny innoculated the gang with the spirit of the Fighting Irish. The boys from the south were as hot as half a dozen erupting volcanos.

A couple of youngsters were standouts for Madoc. In goal, Jack Hatch, Jr., the 19 year old successor to 'Toar' Ross, although beaten seven times, was as cool as a basket of cucumbers on the rock of Gibraltar. Reg Shadbolt, a 17-year-old grade 12 high school student and the youngest fellow on the ice, gave an excellent performance as a rushing defenceman.

Referee Goyer and linesman Barrett of Belleville did not notice any more than the minimum number of penalties. In a bumping bee by the boards somebody allegedly bashed Doug Tufts in the ribs. Going temporarily berserk Doug flattened nearby Cecil McAlpine and started to make mincemeat of his face. By the time Goyer and Barrett had hauled Doug away for a five minute session in the sin bin, Cecil, the wrong man, had a bloody nose a cut cheek and a few assorted scratches.

For the Pontiacs Stew Stringer was one of the best. Besides skating countless acres to defend young Art Young he soloed once and helped on another. For most of the Bancroft team it was that off-night that one likes to get out of his system.

Madoc goals were scored by Reynolds 2, Carswell 2, Shadbolt 2, Tufts 2, Thompson 2, Nickle and Smith, while N. Brough with 3, E. Brough 2, Stringer and Green scored for Bancroft.

Madoc: Goal Hatch; defence Lavender and Nayler; centre, Nickle; wings, Smith and Reynolds; subs Kellar, Thompson, Carswell, Shadbolt, Liater, Naylor, Ross.

Bancroft: Goal, Young; defence Stringer and McAlpine; centre E. Brough; wings N. Brough and Delyea; subs Bruce, D. Maxwell, Stuckey, Hogarth, Green, Hattin, Dugald, T. Maxwell, G. Maxwell, McGhee.

Referee: Goyer of Belleville; linesman, Barrett of Belleville.

MARMORA

Stirling Bows To Marmora 5-3

Marmora — Marmora, playing host to Stirling in the opening game of the Trent Valley Hockey League playoffs, won a 5-3 victory over their arch-rivals on Monday night before a crowd of approximately 400 fans.

It was a fast game with outstanding work by Killian and Bates, in the opposing nets, keeping the score down.

Stirling gained a two goal lead early in the second period on goals by Garvin and Harden with an assist to Tanner, but before the period had ended, Jones clicked on Stewart's pass and Trumble netted the puck during a melee after Forestell had given him the puck.

Lavender sent the homesters into the lead early in the final frame on Forestell's pass and shortly after, put Marmora two goals up as Trumble laid a pass on his stick.

Benny Mason reduced the lead with Bastedo assisting but Lavender fed Trumble for Marmora's fifth and final goal to give the homesters an insurance marker.

It was a good playoff encounter with the issue being in doubt until the final bell, each team featuring fast rushes.

The teams:—

Stirling — Bates, Mowat, Tanner, Wright, Harden, Wannamaker, Bastedo, Hunter, Garvin, R. Mason, B. Mason and McCrory.

Marmora — Killian, Moynes, Gray, Forestell, Lavender, Trumble, Jones, Mantle, Stewart, Smith, Brown, Kerr, Darrah and Doyle.

Referees — C. Puffer and R. Garden, Norwood.

Flyers Stop Tacoma Streak

(By The Canadian Press)

Tacoma Rockets were streaking toward a Pacific Coast Hockey League record for straight victories until last night in Edmonton. There the Flyers, with a 3-1 triumph, stopped them at 12 undefeated games, just one less than the record set a few weeks ago by New Westminster Royals.

In Victoria, meanwhile, Vancouver Canucks were tightening their grip on sixth-place in the league standing with a 1-0 win over the Cougars.

Eddie Joss, Ching Johnson and Bert Giesebrecht scored for Edmonton in the Prairie game. Bill Davidson got the lone Tacoma goal.

In the game by the sea, a first period goal by Don Smith was all it took for the Canuck victory.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 20 — (AP)— The topic most movie stars are talking about these days is not the Academy Awards — it's the "18-month club."

The "18-month club" is Hollywood slang for the group of movie personalities planning to take advantage of a new provision in the tax laws.

The 18-month plan provides that U. S. citizens who are bona fide residents of a foreign country for 510 days in an 18-month period are exempt from paying U. S. income taxes for that period.

The provision was intended to encourage oil and aircraft workers to accept foreign assignments. Now movie firms and agents have been studying the plan as a means of landing huge, virtually tax-free salaries for stars and directors. Of course, the talent would be required to pay income taxes in the countries where they reside, but in many lands that would be negligible.

One star will bring 400,000 tax-free dollars home after an 18-month movie-making spree abroad.

Among members of the "18-month" club are Gene Kelly and directors Anatole Litvak and John Huston. Mario Lanza and Gregory Peck have been mulling plans to join.

Here is some of the comment about the plan:

Gregory Peck: "I have been thinking about it. I had already decided I wanted to get away from Hollywood for a while. I plan to go to the Olympic Games, and I might stay over in Europe and make some pictures. . . . But I wouldn't make just any pictures in order to get the tax benefit. Two or three bad pictures in this business and you're washed up."

A business manager of the stars and former internal revenue agent — "there might be loopholes which the government could invoke. After all, there is a lot of difference between an oil worker who is needed at an American refinery in Arabia and a movie star who wants to take a tax-free vacation."

A top Hollywood lawyer — "a big agency in manoeuvring these 18-month deals, just as it did the production - company setups a few years back. And just as it happened before, the excesses will probably bring a government crackdown."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Thursday, February 21

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Go along in your best manner, checking carefully each intended move. Some things only fairly solvable, and most require more thought, careful handling. Don't look always for the unusual.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Both financial matters and personal affairs may become trickier to handle, more complicated to solve. Be patient, steady; don't rush or expect what you really should not have or get.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Manufacturing, dealing in foods, essentials, money or real estate will need keen, shrewd management. Keep informed, know what is going on in the world. Forget personal desires awhile.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Gains possible, especially in routine, daily tasks (be tactful). Don't think of "the good old days" while trying to accomplish with the present. Get into improved ways, keep up-to-date.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—May find it harder today to maintain tempo or temper, and not easy to create. Expect this occasionally, it's natural and helpful. The higher you climb, the harder, but also the more rewarding.

August 23 to September 23—Virgo—Day-dreaming and hero-worship are often inspiring but are no substitute for handling realities, knowing qualities based on personal performance, facts. Differentiate carefully, fairly.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Open day. Likely invigorating for some, less so for others. It need not be dull for you. Take all matters calmly, but smartly analyze. Use past experiences as guide. Heart interests tops.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Conscientious standards essential. Mixed sort of day. Don't go haywire in any direction. Especially handling money, properties or personal valuables take care. Be consistent.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Business, personal matters have equal chance under extra effort, thoughtful management. Be ready to sacrifice. Distribute your effort to cover tasks, opportunities well.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Uncertain in spots; be wisely on guard, alerted to possible happenings these times. Can't be touchy either, nor lax or thoughtless. Build your ideals no matter the present hardships.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— To expect returns you will have to extend your best, carefully energetic self. Handle your affairs cleverly. Be youlr peasantest to make rough ends meet, as you so well can.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces) — Stars indicate little offered without hard, intelligent work, keen attention, especially in important matters. More benefic rays for most personal affairs now.

YOU BORN TODAY: Pisces, your Sign, is that featuring two fishes; it represents intellectuality, refinement. But sometimes you "swim" in opposing directions. You delight in sunshine, nature. You are honest inherently and do not look to find dishonesty — really shocked when you do. You tend to accept with confidence all told you. Your generous nature can lead you into difficulties, if you are not careful. Strike a happy medium, be not oversensitive. 1952 a stimulating, interesting year.

Birthdate: John Cardinal Newman, famed churchman-writer; Ann Sheridan, actres.

More Precious Than Rubies

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

Alma Conroy paused a little before she went on with the bad news—that Tommy wouldn't get the job he wanted at The House.

Tommy had his back to her now and was mixing a drink.

They want a settled man, someone who is loyal to The House," she tried to explain. "And — oh, Tommy, perhaps Mr. Greig knew that you sometimes drink too much and what with having to handle those precious things when you photographed them. . .I hope not, but I'm afraid that's what he thought. For you are a wonderful photographer—it's such a pity that you always seem to spoil your own chances!"

Tommy looked at her over his shoulder and surprisingly, laughed.

"Thanks for the lecture!" he said. "Well, let that old fuddy-duddy keep his confounded photography. I've got something better!"

"Where?" she was startled.

"Right at Trumbull's. A big-time job—and you didn't get it for me either, my girl!"

"Tommy! But that's wonderful, dear! What sort of a job?"

"I can't tell you,"

"Nonsense—why not?"

He came over, put down his drink and took her face between his fine, long hands. "Do you know that places in Trumbull's class do a lot of confidential business?"

She nodded. "I suppose so. I never thought about it!"

"Well, that's all I can tell you."

"Is that why you were out with Bright Muncie?"

Tommy shot her a quick look from under his heavy brows. He looked angry.

"I said, we are not going to discuss details. I don't even want it known that I'm working with Bright. He made that plain. Now will you shut up and believe that your husband is on the big time at last?"

"I want to believe it! Oh, Tommy, how I want to believe it—but you've crowed too soon before. This time I'd like a little proof."

"Okay! How about this?"

He flung his hat aside and thrust the package he had brought home into her hands. They shook a little as she unwrapped it, feeling numbed by the statement he had just made and curiously detached from all reality. Under the tissue paper inside was a stole of gorgeous silver fox. She lifted it out, staring incredulously.

"You must have worked awfully hard for this!" she said uncertainly. Tommy gave a short laugh.

"Easiest money I ever made!" he said. "Try it on—it won't bite! What's more it's all paid for. From me to you with love."

Sliding the soft fur around her shoulders she suddenly wanted to cry. After all these years Tommy had brought her a present like this! Only a man who was making real money would buy such a thing —unless—unless he were Tommy Conroy!

She wanted terribly to accept the gift as a symbol of accomplished fact, even though offhand it just did not seem possible. But there were the furs: they spoke eloquently. Perhaps at last the moment for which she had longed so long had really arrived. How she would laugh now at Papa Victor's misgivings about Tommy, at Joe's disgust at his friend's backslidings!

Tommy making good! It justified everything—the fact that she had supported him, given him one fresh start after another, shielded him from the consequences of his own mistakes, built up his courage with flattery and faith

A slow warmth began to fill her: the youth and strength of which long subconscious worry had sapped her, came flooding into her veins again.

"Tommy," she said chokingly. "My darling, my darling, I knew this would happen some day!"

"That I'd eventually pay off?"

She could not endure the taunt, even though it was flung laughingly.

"Oh, Tommy, it isn' that— it's just that I wanted you to be a man! I love the present of course! But your having stood on your own feet to get it is even more precious to me." She looked at him under lowered lids for a long moment, allowing him to see the great welling of tenderness in her eyes. "Darling!" she added softly.

"Darling!" He echoed the word with infinite meaning, his eyes meeting hers in that deep, basic understanding which was the thing that had held them together despite all reason.

Then the years of quarreling seemed to fall away from her like a tattered cloak leaving her naked before the old passion which she had sometimes felt was dead. His arms were around her, his lips gentle on the edge of her hair. She trembled in his embrace and clung to him.

It was only later that her mind began to function. And as usual, her reasoning was not all her own.

In her mind, there seemed to come, as they often had before, the faces of two widely different women now dead, who had reared her.

They were Aunt Pleasant Lee, her mother's old maid sister with whom the summers of her childhood had been spent and whose mind was as upright as her grimly clean body, and Gran' Bijou, Papa Victor's French wife. Alma could not remember her own mother who had died at her birth, but Gran' Bijou was very vivid—a gay old lady with suspiciously black hair, bright lipstick on her withered lips and a warm love of life hovering about her as like an aura.

Alma had adored both the summers on the bleak New England farm and the winters in New York where Gran' Bijou sang the supposedly naughty French songs of her youth and Papa Victor taught Alma the glorious art of jewel making. The two women spoke very clearly tonight.

"Far be it from me to criticize" Aunt Pleasant was being severe about it, "but I do hope, Alma, that you haven't driven your husband into anything wrong by nagging him about being a failure! Eastiest money he ever made, eh? Don't like the sound of it. Nagging is no way to build up a man!"

Gran' Bijou, laughing at the pomposity of mankind's penalizing of sex, broke in.

"How foolish," she said, her earrings twinkling like her laughter. "He brings you into his arms with a gift, and at once you try to find a moral issue! Do not deceive yourself, bebe! Take this hour of happiness lightly. It is a good thing in itself, and that suffices!"

They are both right, Alma thought. She and Tommy could not live happily on love alone. They had tried that before and it had failed.

More than once in the past Alma had grasped at some seemingly sturdy performance of Tommy's, only to find that it broke like a straw when she gave it weight. But it was good to have been happy if only for an hour. Perhaps that was the only way happiness came to anyone—in brief snatches. But the old, long cherished hope of a fine, balanced life between them did not die in her.

Presently Tommy was lighting a cigarette looking at her.

"This new job of mine will take me out of town once in a while," he was saying.

"Out of town? When will you be going, Tommy?" This was rather dismaying

"Tomorrow. I'll be gone overnight. Maybe two nights It may happen pretty often. Listen, Alma we've never been separated. I wonder if you'll—well, with your temperament . . . you see, I'm jealous as the dickens."

"Jealous of whom, silly?"

"Well, Joe Denton, for one!"

"Joe is your best friend."

"I've been noticing the way he looks at you lately. I think he likes you pretty well. And that Better-Diamonds section job he has, is sort of glamorous—what with the formal clothes The House makes him wear. Regular Duke!"

"But, dearest, Joe and you and I have been running around together for years. Joe is devoted to you!"

"How do I know?" said Tommy, stamping out his cigaret viciously. "Maybe I don't know anything — except that right now I'm hungry. What happened to that dinner we were going to have?" Alma sprang up her with her usual devoted obedience.

"I'll try and rescue it!" she said.

The next morning Tommy left early. Alma, still glowing from the happiness of the evening before, breakfasted and set the apartment to rights quickly and efficiently. Then she pulled a large hat that was beautiful but unfashionable down over her rough-cut copper-colored hair and stood for a long moment staring at the mirrored reflection of the full mouth and wide set gray eyes which dominated her face.

It was not strictly speaking, a beautiful face, and Alma knew it. She was aware too that her body was just an average, gently rounded body looking neither older nor younger than her 26 years. As a rule Alma cared very little about her appearance excepting only that it be cleanly and devoid of the ridiculous of too current fashion. But today, thinking of Tommy's surprising jealousy, she realized for the first time that she bore a certain resemblance to Gran' Bijou.

"A French temperament and a New England conscience," she said aloud. "That's me, and it's an awful combination.

She picked up the lovely new fox stole and drew it around her tenderly, caressing it with her cheek. It was going to be a bit of triumph to be able to say Tommy had given it to her or—and it was a chilling thought—ought she to mention that fact just yet?

Perhaps not. At least she had better not brag too generally until the store grapevine had established Tommy's new, secretly important position at The House. This impulse to be careful was not an altogether happy one. And it seemed a little strange and lonely not to walk to work with Tommy as she usually did.

The new midtown building which Trumbull and Co. had recently erected stood gleaming in the midwinter sunshine, and Alma on the opposite corner, paused for a moment to gaze at it with a sort of obeisance to The House as a symbol of integrity. This was a quality which had been bound up in the family many years.

Old Victor Blanchard, her grandfather, had been at Trumbull's for 60 years. Her father, Jules Blanchard, had been a journeyman-jeweler at The House until his sudden death from pneumonia when Alma was only three years old. Then six years ago Papa Victor had brought her to work and presented her to the president of Trumbull's in much the same manner with which a knight of King Arthur's Court might have presented a young aspirant of his own blood to the service of the Round Table.

THOMASBURG

Thomasburg — The Valentine party sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the United Church held at Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bateman's was enjoyed by a goodly number. Games and contests were played and prizes given. A novelty sale netted a fair sum to the treasury. To conclude a pleasant evening; refreshments were served. Mrs. Baldrick voiced the appreciation of the W.A. to Mr. and Mrs. Bateman for their hospitality.

To Mrs. F. Porter, Mrs. J. Chappell and Mrs. E. Jones who have been ill for some time go the best wishes of the community for their return to health.

The Thomasburg-Moira Young People's Union meeting was recently held at the manse. The program started with a short sing-song followed by the devotional period conducted by president Mr. B. Moorcroft. The fellowship part of the meeting was led by Mr. G. Inroy, and recreation by Rev. M. Clarke.

It was decided to hold the previously postponed skating party in Stirling rink Tuesday, February 19th. Thanks were tendered Mr. and Mrs. Clarke for their hospitality and refreshments were served by the social committee.

The junior choir of Thomasburg United Church Sunday School acceptably rendered the music for the morning service on Sunday. The church services have been without a choir for a time, and it is hoped these young singers will be encouraged to continue.

The sympathy of the community is extended to Mrs. Laureson Kennedy and family of Thomasburg in the sudden death last Tuesday of her father, Mr. Alexander Crawford of Tyendinaga township.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Baldrick and family and Mr. Charles Jones were Sunday visitors at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Jones.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Richardson and family, visited Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Richardson, Stirling.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Vance, Belleville, were guests Sunday afternoon of Mr. and Mrs. W. Yateman.

Ontario Plans Law to Increase Building of Homes

Hon. Louis Breithaupt Reads Throne Speech

Toronto, Feb. 21—(CP) —The Ontario government plans new legislation aimed at stimulating house building, it was announced today in the Speech from the Throne Lieutenant - Governor Louis Breithaupt read at the opening of the new session of the new session of the Ontario legislature.

The 1,500-word speech, outlining sessional legislation, also forecast establishment of a Crown corporation to provide funds to finance construction of homes in villages, hamlets and rural areas.

The legislature opening, shorn of ceremony because of the death of the King, marked the first official function for Mr. Breithaupt, sworn in last Monday as successor to Ray Lawson. The new lieutenant-governor was formerly Liberal member of the House of Commons for Waterloo North.

The speech said that "we meet in an atmosphere of deep and profound sorrow" at the death of the King.

"By his great courage, his unsurpassed devotion to duty, his simple dignity, his example as a husband and as a father, his fortitude in adversity and by his serenity of spirit, he has made an enduring impression upon his peoples throughout the world."

To Queen Elizabeth II "we tender . . . our loyalty, our devotion and our affection."

Financing Difficult

The speech gave no hint of the nature of the housing measures. But it mentioned that house construction had been slowed up because "the capacity of our people to build and to own their own homes is not equal to the demands on them to provide the initial financing."

The rural housing plan, forecast during the provincial election campaign last fall, would set up the Crown corporation as an approved lending institution under the National Housing Act. Other measures would be introduced to provide for assistance to young farmers.

A select committee of the legislature would be set up to supervise and to study the province's rent control regulations.

The government planned to abolish in certain cases the ban on actions against the crown as represented by the Province of Ontario without Her Majesty's consent.

Further legislation would deal with modernization, expansion and improvement of rural telephone lines. The province's hydro-electric power commission had been asked a year ago to undertake this work.

Proposals would be laid before the legislature "designed to establish a sound and permanent basis for assistance to our mining municipalities." For the last year a special committee representing the government, the municipalities concerned and the mining industry had been studying this problem.

Municipal Problems

A committee representing interests concerned had been studying the general problem of provincial-municipal relations. The government's attentions were directed toward solution of fiscal and other administrative problems of municipalities.

Satisfactory progress was being made on expansion of the provincial highways system despite shortages of materials and restrictions on public works requested by the federal government as an anti-inflation measure. A safety compaign was being pressed and emphasis would be placed on solution of municipal highway problems

The Speech forecast establishment of a $40 monthly pension to all totally and permanently disabled persons between 18 and 65, not covered by any other government assistance program. This legislation also was forecast in the election campaign.

The legislature would be called on to ratify the agreement reached with the federal government last December under which Ontario would undertake development of the Canadian half of the power resources in the international section of the St. Lawrence River, in conjunction with construction of an all-Canadian seaway canal.

Provincial grants for education had increased in the last year. Increasing population led to higher costs. The government feels "that the capacity of our people to meet these costs must be balanced most carefully with the real and essential needs" so that high standards could be preserved.

To Continue Research

The speech also forecast continuing agricultural research; legislation to improve and strengthen the Workmen's Compensation Act; a new and revised Companies Act, dealing with incorporation of companies; clarification and extension of mothers' allowances; consolidation and revision of laws concerning Crown timber; proposals aimed at control of taking fish and game by using aircraft; extension of facilities for treatment of alcoholism among prisoners, carried on as an experiment in a 30-bed clinic at Mimico Reformatory; substantial progress had been made in civil defence organization and work would be completed this year in standardization of fire fighting equipment.

Further measures would deal with treatment of cancer, including a bill to establish an institute of radiotherapy to manage and direct a cancer centre at Wellesley Hospital in Toronto and other outside clinics. Ontario had made great progress in cancer research and the speech mentioned particularly the use of the cobalt bomb at Victoria Hospital, London.

Man Arrested Confesses To Be Ex-Nazi Official

Bonn, Germany, Feb. 21 (Reuters) — Franz Richter, pro- - Nazi member of the West German parliament arrested yesterday, has confessed to being a senior ex - Nazi official in disguise, the Bonn public prosecutor said today.

Police said Richter confessed his real name was Fritz Roesler.

Franz Druegh, chief prosecutor here, alleged that he had been living under the assumed name of Richter since the war, had remarried his own wife and adopted his own children.

He was elected to parliament in 1949 and now belongs to the Nazi-style Socialist Reichs party under Otto Remer, the man who foiled the bomb-plot against Hitler.

He was seized in parliament while signing the list of deputies present in the name under which he had lived since the end of the war.

The public prosecutor said Roesler was chief of staff to the Nazi Gauleiter of Saxony, Martin Mutschmann.

Divorce Papers Come by Radiophoto, Liz Taylor Weds Michael Wilding

London, Feb. 21 (AP) —Movie stars Elizabeth Taylor and Michael Wilding were married shortly before noon today in the midst of a lively mob scene.

The 19-year-old bride and her 39-year-old groom, arriving separately slipped almost unnoticed into the Claxton registry hall through a side door but a crowd of hundreds descended upon them as they emerged after the 10-minute civil ceremony.

Elizabeth radiated happiness as she was jostled by hundreds of persons in the corridors of the hall and in Claxton Street outside. Seemingly the cooler of the two, she recognized friends in the milling crowd and shouted greetings to them.

The Hollywood beauty wore a grey woollen frock with a noticeable flare, and a stiff, pleated organdie collar. There was a single strand of pearls around her neck. A white Juliette hat set far back on her dark hair.

The crowd was friendly, but eager.

"Hya, Liz. Are you happy?" yelled a giddy feminine fan.

"Yes, yes, very happy," Liz managed to say.

Michael seemed to take fright at the size and enthusiasm of the crowd, but finally surged in to run interference for dainty Elizabeth. Other members of the wedding party, including British producer Herbert Wilcox and his actress wife, Anna Neagle, were simply lost in the melee.

Thme little office of registrar James D. Holliday was filled with flowers, many of them sent by Wilcox and Miss Neagle a few hours before the ceremony.

This was an unexpected delight to an obscure London couple married a half hour before the Taylor-Wilding ceremony.

Marriages are made in assembly line fashion in the registry office and the Londoners who came first had the benefit of all the decorations.

Only about a dozen persons saw the ceremony, which was the second marriage for both Liz and Wilding.

After their escape from the crowd, the couple headed off to a reception, with champagne financed by Wilcox.

Secret was the time and place of their departure on a short honeymoon in France and Switzerland, a wedding trip from which Wilding must return to work by March 3.

The wedding climaxed a last-minute whirl of ring buying and arrangements which followed the young movie queen's arrival here from the United States by plane Tuesday night.

It took radiophoto to make the wedding possible. Liz didn't have proof that she was properly divorced from her husband, hotel heir Nicky Hilton. Before her flying trip to London, she hastily stuffed her handbag, but left out the divorce papers.

The registrar insisted proof of divorce must be shown.

Then burst the dazzling thought—radiophoto! The photographed papers went crackling across the Atlantic and the registrar accepted them as authentic.

PAST RECORD BARS RUSSIA SAYS U.N. COMMAND

Claims Country Not Fit To Act as Neutral

Munsan, Korea, Feb. 21. (AP)—The U.N. Command told the communists today Russia's "record of past participation in Korea" bars the Soviet Union as a neutral fit to help police a Korean truce.

At Panmunjom, an Allied spokesman said U.N. reasons for rejecting Russia were "clear, cogent and irrefutable." He did not spell out the reasons.

Col. Don Darrow said the U.N. Command would reject the nomination of any nation "in close proximity to Korea" or any nation which had "a record of past participation in Korea."

A red staff officer said the U.N. reasons were not satisfactory.

Darrow refused to be drawn into an argument. He said:

"The United Nations does not propose to enter into endless discussion on this topic and recommends that your side give our statement serious consideration."

Darrow did not elaborate on his references to "close proximity" or "record of past participation."

The Russians occupied North Korea at the close of the Second World War. They trained, equipped and advised the North Korean Army.

Both the Chinese reds and the North Koreans are supplied with large quantities of Soviet-made equipment, including the deadly MIG-15 jet fighter, tough T-34 tanks and radar-controlled anti-aircraft batteries.

The border of Soviet Siberia joins Korea for a distance of about ten miles.

Demands Acceptance

The Chinese communist radio at Peiping Wednesday demanded U.N. acceptance of Russia as a neutral, declaring the Soviet always has opposed the Korean war.

Meanwhile, Allied headquarters in Tokyo warned that every step forward in truce talks "will be followed by a step backward until Moscow is convinced that the final decision for Korea must be made without further delay."

An information bulletin compiled from "voice of the U.N. Command broadcasts" said:

"It seems to be the ir plan to raise two additional disputes to take the place of every one that has been settled.

"Like the Nydra-headed monster of mythology, there will be new entanglements following every settlement just as long as the Kremlin thinks there is still something to gain by prolonging the talks."

Tanker Survivors Tell How They Forced Ailing Skipper To Jump, Breaks Old Tradition

Boston, Feb. 21. (AP)—A coast guard officer last night told how crewmen of the severed Fort Mercer threw tradition to the storms by forcing their ailing skipper to jump for safety despite his plea he be the last to leave the wreck.

The story was told in Portland, Me., by Cmdr. Joseph Naab, of the Coast Guard cutter Yakutat which plucked the skipper, F. C. C. Paetzel, 48, of Houston, Tex., and three other crew members from the Fort Mercer's bow.

Other developments in the disaster of the two tankers while broke in halves during a storm off Chatham, Mass., last Monday:

Two commercial tugs today were towing the stern half of the Fort Mercer with 13 seamen aboard toward Block Island at three knots—about the speed of a leisurely walk.

The Coast Guard cutter Eastwind was scheduled to dock this forenoon at Castle Island, South Boston, with the last three of 21 survivors from the stern of the Fort Mercer.

A Coast Guard inquiry into the Fort Mercer disaster was set to get under way in Boston at 10 a.m. E.S.T.

Crew members of the tanker Pendleton told an inquiry board yesterday that in several respects the vessel's equipment was in poor order. Both halves of the Pendleton are hard aground.

The bow of the Fort Mercer was sunk by Coast Guard gunfire last night to eliminate what was considered "a menace to navigation".

Forced to Break Tradition

Cmdr. Naab told how second mate Willard F. Fahrner, 28, of Winthrop, Mass., and third mate Vincent A. Galdon, 22, of Bayonne, N.J., forced Capt. Paetzel to break the age-old tradition that a master is the last to leave his ship.

"They forced him to jump," Naab said. "They knew he was suffering from pneumonia and frost-bitten feet and wouldn't make it later. If the skipper hadn't jumped when he did we wouldn't have gotten him."

Three hours later Galdon and Fahrner—tied to each other because they had only one life preserver between them—jumped into the water and were hauled aboard the Yakutat.

On the waters of Nantucket Sound, commercial tugs headed for the lee of land in pulling the stern half of the Fort Mercer on its slow and deliberate trip toward Block Island and eventually New York.

The Coast Guard reported the sea is still rough but added there were signs that it would begin to calm down.

The 13 aboard were the last of 84 men who were on the Mercer and the Pendleton when a north-easter cracked them both across the middle. Six are dead, eight are missing and presumed dead and 57 were rescued.

Churchill Denies He Did Wrong By Accepting Free Steamship And Train Rides During Tour

London, Feb. 21—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill stoutly denied yesterday he did wrong by accepting free rides on steamships and trains during his January visit to the United States and Canada.

He said in the House of Commons, "the gifts and services of the Cunard (Steamship) Company, as well as those of the United States and Canadian railways, were not to ministers but to the British taxpayers."

He was hitting back at opposition charges that he failed in his duty by "the accepting of gifts from commercial undertakings."

Labor member Col. G. E. C. Wigg had said that Churchill should have declined free trips. If the companies wished "to relieve the British taxpayers," he added, "there is nothing to prevent them making an anonymous contribution to the treasury."

The value of the boat rides given Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was £1,752. The train trips cost considerably less.

(In New York, spokesmen for the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railways said all their bills had—or would be— paid by the British delegation to the United Nations or reimbursed by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Giving free transportation, they said, violates interstate commerce commission regulations.)

Leaders of the Labor party made it clear that more questions are coming up about Churchill's transatlantic trip. They decided at a caucus last night to renew their cross-examination of the prime minister on his White House conferences.

Opposition leaders still are worried about secret commitments they feel Churchill may have made to extend the Korean War in case the Chinese reds make and then deliberately break any future Korean truce or spread conflict elsewhere. It is understood Labor will again press their motion of censure against Churchill when the foreign affairs debate, interrupted by the death of the King is resumed next week.

Churchill told the U.S. Congress that Britain would take "prompt, resolute and effective" action if the communists extend aggression in the Far East. Later he told Commons his words to Congress did "not represent any new decisions arrived at during our visit. . ."

SIX DIE IN FIRE

Gaudalajara, Mexico, Feb. 21—(AP) — Six persons died last night and nine were injured when fire broke out near the screen of the Alamedo movie theatre. Patrons in the orchestra escaped, but the one exit from the balcony became jammed with terrified fans trying to reach the streets. Six bodies were found near the door. Some were trampled. The movie being shown was, "When Words Collide."

Former Premier Suggested Who Should Succeed

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—Two brief yellowed documents which influenced the selection of an Ontario premier, will be presented to the Ontario archives in a few days by Premier Frost.

The documents are notes left by former Premier James P. Whitney, who died in 1914, to suggest possible successors to the post. He apparently passed over two men who had been in the government for many years to choose Sir William Hearst, a junior cabinet minister.

One of the notes mentioned two men, both of whom could be expected to decline for various reasons, and continued:

"If this cannot be brought about, then, in my opinion, Mr. Hearst or Mr. Lucas should be chosen. This is merely my opinion, which I give for what it is worth, but the reasons behind my opinion will at once occur to those who give consideration to the matter. Among them are the geographical position of Mr. Hearst (he represented Sault Ste. Marie) which gives him a great advantage over others."

The other note apparently reflected a fear by Mr. Whitney that he might be buried alive. It reads:

"Before my funeral, Dr. Pyne should take such steps as will put the fact of my death beyond all possibility of doubt."

Travel Restricted

Chicago, Feb. 21. (AP)—Sub-zero blasts hit the snow-covered and storm-battered areas of the upper midwest today as cold weather spread over wide parts of the mid-continent.

The icy weather extended over Montana, the Dakotas and parts of Minnesota. The fresh blast of cold air pushed across the central Mississippi and Ohio River Valleys.

Wind diminished and snow stopped over the Dakotas and Minnesota, but highway travel in many areas was slowed after a three-day storm of snow, rain and sleet.

Light snow fell today from New York northward and westward through the Great Lakes region.

WILL MAKE GIFT

London, Feb. 21 — (Reuters) — Britain will make a gift of military equipment worth £3,250,000 to Yugoslavia during the coming financial year, Foreign Under Secretary H. A. Nutting told the House of Commons yesterday.

STEEL INDUSTRY GAMBLING STRIKE WILL NOT START

Paralyzing Walkout Called for Saturday

Pittsburgh, Feb. 21—(AP)—Steel-hungry America should learn today whether the United Steelworkers Union (C. I. O.) will go through with a paralyzing strike set for midnight Saturday. The steel industry is gambling the walkout will be postponed.

Philip Murray, president of both the C. I. O. and the steelworkers, summoned his top strategy-makers here to make the union decision.

An executive board meeting was called for 10 a. m. EST and the wage policy committee was due to meet at 2 p. m. EST.

The industry roared full speed ahead while the union officials met. When a strike is threatened, the industry usually begins an orderly shutdown process. It requires from four days to a week to cool furnaces without damaging them.

Close observers felt the union would extend the strike deadline so the wage stabilization board would have more time to recommend a settlement in a controversy over a new contract that expired Jan. 1.

The W. S. B. stepped into the dispute after numerous negotiating sessions failed.

The federal agency will not participate in a labor dispute which has produced a strike. Consequently observers feel the union will move back its strike date in order to see what the W. S. B. recommends. A recommendation is not binding.

Only a few days ago the W. S. B. concluded hearings in the case. It heard the union say it is entitled to a wage increase and other benefits. The industry contended it can't increase wages without boosting prices.

The union wants an 18½ cent hourly pay increase. The average hourly wage is from $1.92 to $1.97.

The union also is asking a union shop, guaranteed annual wage, improved premium pay and other concessions. The industry says the total demands would add up to an hourly package of 60 cents a man.

Bandits Get $400

Ottawa, Feb. 21 — (CP)—Two masked bandits, one of them armed, held up the Green Valley restaurant on the Prescott highway a few miles from Ottawa early today and escaped with close to $400 in cash.

The robbery was carried out within a few feet of some 15 restaurant customers and 10 staff members who were unaware of the holdup until the men had fled.

One of the bandits wore a silk stocking mask and the other had his face half-covered with a handkerchief.

RETURNS SAFELY TO FIELD

New York, Feb. 21 — (AP) — A National Airlines DC-6 plane returned to Idlewild airport with motor trouble early today only 12 minutes after it took off for Miami with 62 persons aboard. The pilot reported the cowling on No. 1 engine had opened.

Two New Wonder Drugs Proving Big Help in Fighting Tuberculosis

New York, Feb. 21—(AP)—Two new wonder pills have saved people hopelessly sick with tuberculosis, their lungs riddled with holes, too weak to get out of bed.

Within a few weeks, many were up and about, had gained up to 20 pounds, felt far better.

It is too early to say whether the two new drugs have actually curbed TB. But they look "better than anything so far" in treating it, Dr. Marcus D. Kogel, commissioner of New York City hospitals, announced.

He said they had been tried on 150 "desperately sick" patients. Within two weeks, they had done wonders for persons who had not been expected to recover.

The drugs, taken as pills, are closely related. They apparently kill TB germs. Several pharmaceutical firms are making or experimenting with them, and several institutions are testing them. The drugs can later be made cheaply in quantity.

Dr. Kogel said it would take more experiments before it is known just how good and effective and safe the drugs are.

There still are unanswered questions, one is how long the good effects may last. Another is whether the TB germ may become able to resist the new drugs. This kind of resistance appears with streptomycin, up to now at least the best single chemical bullet against TB.

It isn't known either whether the drugs will work in all cases, or how well they may work against TB of the larynx or other organs.

The drugs sometimes cause adverse effects, dizziness, nausea

How often they do this, or how such effects might be controlled, must also be learned.

Sea View Hospital here has used the two drugs for six months. The drugs were supplied by one pharmaceutical firm, Hoffman-La Roche, Nutley, N.J., under the names of marsilon and rimifon.

British Rearming Halted by Lack Of Labor, Material

Industry Cannot Meet Schedule of Production

London, Feb. 21 —(Reuters) — Shortages of skilled labor and key materials will prevent Britain's defence program from being completed within the originally-scheduled three years, a government white paper said today.

The £4,700,000,000 rearmament program will have to be spread over a somewhat longer period, the document said.

Britain's economic situation has deteriorated seriously since the program was drawn up by the Labor government in 1950.

The cuts would reduce the immediate burden of Britain's metal-using industries. These industries have been severely strained by the double need of producing for the rearmament program and the export trade. They produce about 40 percent of the country's exports, vital in earning overseas money, and also bear about 80 percent of the defence burden.

The white paper said it was made clear at the time the Labor government undertook the defence program that it could be achieved only if the labor, raw materials, machine tools and other manufacturing capacity were available.

"It is now clear that these conditions cannot be fully satisfied" the report said. "It has been necessary to adjust the defence program."

Main Items

Main items of expenditure during 1952-53 would be the following (with the previous year's total in brackets):

Army: £491,500,000 (£428,-800,000).

Navy: £332,300,000 (£278,-500,000).

Supply Ministry: £98,500,000 (£81,500,000).

Air Force: £437,600,000 (£330,500,000).

Defence Ministry: £17,300,000 (£6,000,000).

The white paper said the most serious limitation has been the scarcity of skilled labor for the initial stage. The aircraft industry, in particular, needs 50,000 more workers by March, 1953.

Chief raw material needed is steel — more than 1,000,000 tons for 1952-53. An allocation system will, it is hoped, direct steel to the most essential purposes.

Also needed are such scarce materials as sulphur, non-ferrous metals, and special steels, such as stainless steel and alloys for jet engines.

Much For Aircraft

The White Paper said more than 20 per cent of 1952-53 spending would go on aircraft. Tanks and other vehicles would account for a further 20 per cent.

Under the U.S. Mutual Security Act of 1951, military equipment earmarked by the United States for Britain included aircraft, anti-tank rocket launchers, medium self-propelled guns, anti-submarine helicopters, and "a substantial number" of F-86 Sabre jet fighters, to be built by Canada with engines and equipment supplied by the United States.

The Royal Navy's program provided for completion of about 40 minesweepers, and speeding up the building of 18 anti-submarine frigates and five aircraft carriers.

Manslaughter Plea Accepted By Judge, Jury

Kingston, Feb. 21 — (CP) — Counsel for Allan Lyons, charged with murder in the knife-slaying of his wife, today entered a plea of guilty of manslaughter.

Arthur Martin of Toronto entered his client's plea, which was accepted by Crown Attorney T.J. Rigney.

Mr. Justice J. M. King said a verdict of not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter should be returned by the jury.

The jury agreed and Mr. Justice King remanded Lyons for sentence at a later date.

The evidence of Cecil Wood, a former neighbor of Lyons, closed the Crown case yesterday. Wood testified that Lyons came to his door to ask him to call a doctor. His eyes were very glassy. He seemed to be looking directly beyond me, not at me. . . he didn't seem like Lyons I had known before," he said.

Corporal Roger Andrew testified that Lyons told him he became involved in a row between his wife and his step-son, Howard 12. "He picked up a knife and made a swipe to scare her."

Cpl. Andrew said Lyons told him he did not have his glasses on and could not see too well.

Earlier in the trial, Howard testified that Lyons struck his 31-year-old wife in the face and left the room. Shortly afterwards, Howard said, Lyons returned, grabbed a butcher knife and said to his wife:

"If this is what you want, you're going to get it."

Howard said he didn't see a blow struck because things happened too quickly.

Dr. William Hay, pathologist at Queen's University, said a knife wound that killed Mrs. Lyons pierced six inches into her body and brought death within 10 minutes.

Other witnesses said Mr. and Mrs. Lyons had been drinking beer in a downtown hotel on the night of the slaying.

Wife Forgot To Leave Note For Husband

A telegram intended to be left at home was the cause for considerable uneasiness on the part of a local husband and father yesterday, when he arrived home to find that his wife and children were not in the house.

Mrs. Albert Shortt, Moira St., received a telegram from an ill sister in Peterborough asking the Belleville woman to come and see her.

While her husband was still at work, Mrs. Shortt bundled up her two children and left for the Liftlock city. Not bothering to write her husband a note, she thought the telegram would be self explanatory.

It would have been just that had it been left at home. After Mrs. Shortt had been in Peterborough for some hours she opened her purse and found she brought the telegram along with her.

Four Youths Will Face Cattle Theft Charges

Four Hungerford Township youths will appear in magistrate's court in Tweed on Thursday, Feb. 28th, to face cattle rustling charges.

The four men, Lawrence DeRusha, and three brothers, Stafford, Francis and Joseph Quinlan, appeared in magistrate's court before Magistrate C. A. Thoburn today at Belleville and were remanded until next Thursday at Tweed. Stafford and Francis Quinlan are on bail while the other two men are in custody.

The men were arrested by provincial police a week ago following a complaint from Leo Fleming of Hungerford Township that six young cattle had disappeared from his stable.

Fleming had chanced to visit the livestock auction sale at Belleville and had spotted one of his own young cattle in the sale ring. He drove home and found that six yearlings were missing.

Alan Sprague, Red Cross Campaign Chairman, Plans 1952 Blitz Drive

ALAN SPRAGUE

To be invested with authority to serve mankind is a glorious privilege. But what may one individual do, not especially endowed, say, like that Swiss banker on a holiday to Italy, who, wearing a white suit, one hot, sunny morning, went to view the battle of Solferino? He went as a casual observer, a neutral, remote from the heat and passion of fighting men. Surely, the last man to dream of contributing anything toward this history-making event.

But the sight of wounded men, of both camps, dying untended, moved him to the extent that he not only attempted to care for the men himself, because there was no one else to do it, but he devoted all his fortune, his health, his life, to an ideal inspired by mercy, to devise a plan to protect men from their own inhumanities. He gave generously indeed. His name is Henri Dunant. He founded The Red Cross.

Sponsers Whitney Project

One of the sixty-nine nations that carry on his ideal is Canada, whose million members from 1,400 branches that sprang from one, organized 60 years ago. The society is supported entirely by gratuitous contributions by Canadians everywhere who realize that "if mercy is to serve the world it must also work at home."

One of these instances is the isolated communities that extend from one end of Canada to the other. These outposts in the throes of severe climate and rough country need hospitals and nursing care for the pioneers, and there are now 75 Red Cross Outpost Hospital services. In Ontario certain branches were asked to sponsor an adoption scheme.

Belleville was so honored and thus has "adopted" Whitney, a lumber village near Algonquin Park, which is a thriving industrious community. With Belleville's assistance its four bed, coal-lighted white frame hospital with one nurse now has several nurses' assistants, a Delco system, an electric washing machine and refrigerator, along with other medical and nursing equipment. The Red Cross plans to build a new hospital, for which Whitney held its annual Garden Party last September, gathering a thousand dollars. Once a community is well on its way to supporting its own hospital, the Red Cross moves elsewhere, where the need is greater; and the need grows as the frontiers of Canada widen.

Enthusiastic Response

A warm, enthusiastic response toward this 1952 appeal prevailed at the first meeting of the new executive Red Cross branch of Belleville with Judge J. C. Anderson presiding, when a "one-night blitz" was again planned for the annual fund-raising campaign, with Mr. Alan Sprague named general chairman of the campaign committee. The date is set for March 11th. Headquarters are at Trudeau Motors, 125 Front Street. Volunteers are needed for typing and canvassing, etc. Phone 5097. It will be greatly appreciated.

CAMPBELLFORD

Geologist Gives Outline Of Search for Iron in Areas Between Two Northern Towns

Campbellford— The Campbellford Kinsmen Club had an exceptionally large turnout of members at their meeting in the Trent House on Monday evening, when the guest speaker was Mr. Irvine Beckwith of Iron City, Michigan. Mr. Beckwith is a geologist and geophysicist, and spoke to the club about the search for iron in certain sections of the country between Campbellford and Marmora, notably in the vicinity of Allan's Mills. The subject was vitally interesting to Campbellford folk as they were told of the prospects of certain farm lands in Seymour West township, north-west of this town.

Mr. Beckwith explained there are two types of iron deposits, sedimentary deposits and contact metamorphic deposits, the latter being explored locally. 'Limestone country,' he said, 'was generally considered to favor mineral deposits of this nature.'

Much of the preliminary investigation concerning locations of iron underground is done by an airborne magnetometer, which in this section of the country, was flown at an altitude of about 500 feet. The use of this led to diamond drilling on Seymour west properties to find the true worth of the deposits there. Here the mineral-low grade black iron ore has been reached at a depth of approximately 500 feet, whereas in the Marmora area, the deposits were found at a much shallower mark of 100 feet below the surface.

Operations have been suspended for the present on Seymour West farms until the expected reports from the U.S. on samples taken are received.

Ore is Low Grade

The speaker further stated that as the ore from this part is a low grade, and should any company decide to proceed with mining here it would be necessary to build a factory to process the raw product on the spot before a single ton could be shipped to larger centres. Also, if after all considerations, the company believed the situation justified the sinking of a mine shaft, the geologists estimated that it would take a full 30 months after the breaking of the top soil until the first iron ore was brought to the surface.

Mr. Beckwith stated that he hopes such a step would be warranted, as it would be a boon to Campbellford, but he warned however, that mining interests must be convinced at the outset that the proposition would prove a paying one before embarking on a new mine, and also that mining concerns had no hesitation in closing a mine immediately the day its output failed to net a financial gain for its promoters.

Kinsman Murray Campbell extended the thanks of the club to the speaker, after which Eddie Collins and Denny Hopping sang several duets accompanied by Kinsmen pianist Bruce Barnum.

Kinsmen John Hill gave a first hand report on the condition of President Gordon Walroth, who underwent a serious operation in Kingston General Hospital last Friday.

Founder's Night was officially observed by the club. Kinsman John Hill read a communique from Founder Hal Rogers and later they drank a toast in his honor.

Final plans for Millionaires Night at Edgewater Park were laid before the close of the meeting.

Past President Forrest Dennis was in charge of the meeting and guest for the evening included Kinsmen Doug Gibson of Kingston and Art Dollack, who recently became associated with the Aron Theatre here.

Italian Woman Meets Sister After 37 Years

Rome, Feb. 21 (Reuters) —An Italian woman was reunited today with the sister she lost when as children 37 years ago they were buried alive by an earthquake that killed their widowed mother.

When the quake struck Avezzano central Italy, in 1915, the lost sister was just a month old. Dug out from under the piles of debris, the two children were taken to different hospitals.

In the confusion their identities were lost and both were adopted—by different people. One was given the name Rosa Giammarco, and brought to Rome The other became Celeste Barile, and was taken to Lecce, near Avezzano.

A week ago Rosa, now aged 39, launched a press and radio appeal for information about the sister for whom she had searched for many years.

Police and newspaper men took up the hunt and, with the aid of old police records, faded family photographs and old, forgotten friends, Celeste was found.

Hesitantly they walked towards each other at their first meeting last night. Then, spontaneously, they flung their arms around one another.

Watchers noted the striking resemblance between the two women. They also saw a striking difference —Rosa's expensive fur coat and Celeste's drab peasant - woman's smock.

Only Half of Land Suitable For Housing Council Told

Trenton (Special) — Central Mortgage reporting on the Hendrick's farm under option by the town as a building site for a government housing project considered half of the land (42 acres) suitable for the purpose. Tests on the other half showed that bed rock exists between two and two feet six inches below the surface. For commercial development the report pointed out the land south of highway No. 2 could not compare with the property north of the main road. Clerk-treasurer O. W. Larry read the Central Mortgage letter at the Monday night council meeting. The mortgage company advised against acquiring the Hendrick's land at the present.

Mayor Couch suggested talking about the Hendrick's farm when the area north of the road was filled up.

Objects to Auditor

Council was told that the Armstrong Bus Line objects to a town auditor checking company books. In the December election the voters of Trenton authorized a franchise whereby the bus company could operate a bus line within the limits of the municipality. The bus company has been operating under council terms which had not been approved by the people. The by-law called for the bus company to pay $100 a year and embodied in the contract was a clause authorizing a town audit of the company books. The bus line owner feels that his books should not be subject to a check when other businesses in town do not come under annual surveillance.

Although Mr. Armstrong agreed to the terms of the by-law Mayor Couch felt that council shouldn't stick to examining his books. "It's a service we can't do without," commented the mayor.

The clause was included in the by-law at the time when the bus company was finding difficulty in making ends meet. When the company first started operating the town received annually five per cent of the gross revenue which was changed to a yearly tax of $100 a year when it was found that the bus company couldn't stand the pressure. It was decided that a council representation sit down with Mr. Armstrong and iron out the difficulty.

No Definite Decision

Council listened to three proposals from town engineer Riga concerning sewage facilities to the new English industry locating in the vicinity of Central Bridge on the east bank of the Trent River. One would cost $14,000, the second $28,000 and the third $29,000. There was no definite decision made and this business will be discussed after consultant engineers Gore and Storrie make a survey of the area.

Council agreed that the town was justified in asking the Trenton Country Club $50 a year for a public dance hall licence.

NAMED TO POST

Trenton (Special) — At a board of directors meeting of the Chamber of Commerce on Monday night Fred Parker was elected vice-president to replace Art Cheeseman who has been transferred to Ottawa. Mr. Parker was formerly a director and chairman of the industrial commission of the chamber.

HEAT BACK ON

Trenton (Special) — The heat is back on in the Trent Theatre Building and the six companies with offices in the block are again doing business in comfortable surroundings. The Trent Theatre, closed on account of unbearable cold opened Tuesday night.

A week ago Wednesday the theatre's cold-stoked boiler ran dry of water and when discovered by manager Harry Dunk glowed cherry red and was crumpling from the excess heat. Former manager Gibb Martin braving the scorching temperatures of the overheated furnace room switched off the stoker in the nick of time.

One of America's Most Wanted Criminals Held

New York, Feb. 21 (AP) —Police held one of America's 10 most wanted criminals today and tagged him as an old prison pal of master bank robber Willie Sutton and a cohort of Willie in a $64,000 stickup.

Three detectives surprised 45-year-old Thomas Kling yesterday as he walked out of a Manhattan rooming house bathroom clad in a robe. Quickly he reached for a pistol in his robe.

The detectives subdued the short tattooed desperado and led him to his room. There they found two more guns, 19 pairs of handcuffs and material for forging auto registrations.

They snapped a pair of his own manacles on him and took him away for questioning.

At a police line-up, three officials of the Manufacturers Trust Company pointed Kling out as one of the five men who robbed their Long Island branch of $64,000 in 1950.

He was booked on charges of assault and robbery in connection with this stickup. He also was charged with possessing pistols illegally.

Sutton, who also was one of the 10 most wanted criminals before his capture in Brooklyn Monday, already has been indicted in the Long Island robbery.

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan said Sutton and Kling had been in touch with each other recently and were all set "to pull a real big bank job."

May Have Had Use

Police theororized that the handcuffs were to be used to bind bank employees.

It was an exultant Monaghan who announced Kling's capture and gave swift promotions to detectives William Dunnof, Victor Shanley Jr., and Thomas Walsh.

Only a few hours before, his quick promotions of Sutton's three captors had partially backfired when it was disclosed that the three officers had been guided to Willie by a young clothing salesman, who had not been mentioned.

The original police version of Sutton's capture neglected to mention that 24-year-old Arnold Schuster had tipped police when he recognized Willie on a subway train from a "wanted" poster in his father's clothing store.

Schuster said he followed Willie off the train and then tipped the officers. Then he drifted away. He decided to show up, with a lawyer, after he thought about a reward.

Monaghan promised to help him get it.

But, although it had been reported that $70,000 was offered for Willie's capture, the FBI, police and American Bankers Association said they didn't know anything about it.

SMALL BOY DARTS IN FRONT OF CAR

Darting in front of a passing car while playing on Station Street, Charles McCormick, 11, of 16 Reid Street, yesterday suffered slight concussion and abrasions to the head.

Oliver Plane, 64 Murney Street, said he was driving on Station St., when the lad suddenly darted out in front of his car giving him no opportunity to stop in time. The boy had been playing on the north side of the street when he suddenly ran to the other side of the roadway.

SUFFERS POSSIBLE FRACTURE OF SHOULDER

Clarence Wilson, 83 St. Charles Street, suffered a possible fracture of the left shoulder early this morning when he is believed to have fallen on his lunch pail as he was walking on College Street.

Harry Stoliker, R.R. 6, Belleville, was driving on College Street when he saw Wilson walking at the side of the road. As he passed the pedestrian he thought he felt a bump on his car and on investigating found Wilson lying in the roadway. He was uncertain if his car actually struck the man.

Both men are employees of the CNR and were on their way home after getting off from the midnight shift. The accident was investigated by Police Constable Chas. Lockwood.

Retroactive Pay For Ford Workers Is $1,200,000

Windsor, Feb. 21 — (CP) — Ford of Canada's hourly-rated workers in Windsor will receive about $1,200,000 in retroactive pay under the collective bargaining agreement signed Tuesday, a company spokesman said today.

He said that under the agreement — it provided for a 15-cent increase on an hourly basic of $1.35 with some elements retroactive to June 1 — each of approximately 11,500 men will receive approximately $150 before taxes, $130 after.

The 11,500 included approximately 2,700 men laid off at the plant in the slack-period months following June 1. Extension to these men of the retroactive parts of the 15-cent increase was one of the points at issue during Ford-union contract negotiations.

Negotiations on the Tuesday agreement began 11 months ago and lack of agreement during the contract talks brought this week's 54-hour Ford strike and was a basic cause of the 12-day December strike.

Yesterday, Ford officials announced that by March 3, approximately 10,000 production men would be in employment at the Ford plant. January factory payroll was 8,702.

Two MIGs Blown Out of The Air By Sabre Jets

Seoul, Korea, Feb. 21 — (AP)— American Sabre jet pilots shot down two more red jets today bringing their toll this week to 10.

The two MIG-15s eliminated today were blown out of the air during a 20-minute battle in cloudy North Korean skies between 27 Sabre jets and 20 MIGs.

American losses, if any, were not announced. The air force discloses U. S. plane losses only once a week.

On the ground a red ambush pinned down an allied patrol and its rescue force for more than an hour on the frozen eastern front.

A second United Nations rescue group broke the trap and freed both Allied units in sharp fighting. The action occurred northwest of Kansong, on the east coast.

Elsewhere the 155 - mile front quieted after a slashing day in which the Eighth Army sent three raiding parties on sorties through communist lines.

FIVE KILLED

Lagos, Nigeria, Feb. 21 (Reuters) — Five persons were killed and 15 were injured when a false fire alarm caused a stampede in a crowded movie house here last night.

Burly Wrestler Stabbed, Clubbed By Angry Fans

London, Ont., Feb. 21. (CP)—A burly wrestler was stabbed and clubbed by fans last night as six policemen struggled to snatch him from an angry crowd at London arena.

As Hans Robert Hermann of Toronto, fought his way to a dressing room, assailants got close enough to inflict kidney, nose and arm injuries.

Police who took Hermann to Victoria Hospital, said either a knife or a broken bottle was used to stab the wrestler.

Hermann was teamed with Bob (Strangler) Wagner in a "tag" match against Whipper Billy Watson and Bobo Brazil. Referee Al Dunlop's decision to disqualify Watson and Brazil and to award the match to Hermonn and Wagner touched off the trouble.

Spectators stormed around the ring and among other things tore referee Dunlop's trousers to shreds.

The mob also sought to tear down a wooden ramp leading from the ring to the dressing room.

NOT WORKING VERY WELL

In New Zealand, the farmers are required to sell their wheat to the government at a fixed price. The government then resells the wheat to the millers. This scheme was probably instituted by the socialist government which was in power in New Zealand during the war years. Whether it is a residue of the socialist government or not, this buying and selling of wheat by the government is socialistic in nature and it is every bit as successful as such schemes are when operated anywhere else.

New Zealand needs about 12,000,000 bushels of wheat a year, but last year produced only about 5,500,000 bushels. The area sown this year is down from 100,000 acres to about 55,000 acres. The New Zealand farmers claim that the price offered them by the government for their wheat, $1.58 a bushel, is too low; they point out that the world price is $2.38.

Ordinarily, the New Zealanders could buy wheat from Australia, but Australia had a drought during the last growing season and has insufficient wheat for home consumption. New Zealand cannot buy wheat from Canada because New Zealand, like Britain, is a sterling country and has agreed to curtail purchases in dollar countries.

Those people who are usually referred to by newspaper writers as "government experts" have told the farmers that the growing of wheat fits in well with crop-rotation programs, but the farmers have retorted, in effect: "So what? If you want wheat at $1.58 a bushel, grow it yourselves."

Thus, because of a socialist experiment in government buying and selling, the country which has the largest surplus of butter in the world has insufficient bread upon which to spread its butter.

SCREENING AGENCY NEEDED

Evidence is accumulating that there is need for some screening agency to investigate and pass judgment on organizations which make appeals to the public for funds. It is apparent also that something should be done to reduce the number of these appeals, because the public is becoming wearied of a succession of "drives" and "campaigns" which never seems to end.

Between January 1 and June 30, 1951, there were 13 separate campaigns in Toronto alone, according to Trevor Moore, president of the Toronto Community Chest and a director of Imperial Oil. At one time, five of the fund-raising campaigns were operating simultaneously. Mr. Moore said his company dealt with more than 500 appeals for money every year. Last fall, George Black, Jr., president of Canadian Breweries, said that his firm, during the year, had made 1,411 separate donations to charitable organizations.

What applies to Toronto applies to the smaller communities. There is nothing to suggest that the people are unwilling to make donations to worthy institutions. But there are reasons for believing that the number of these campaigns should be reduced and prevented from overlapping. If no one else feels equal to tackling this problem, charitable institutions should do it themselves, in their own interest.

MONTREAL IS LEARNING

The city of Montreal is learning, belatedly, that the socialization" of a transportation system is not all that it is cracked up to be by the proponents of such ventures.

Despite the rosy promises made by those who advocated and succeeded in effecting the "socialization" of Montreal Tramways, which is now the Montreal equivalent of the Toronto Transportation Commission, five and a half months of city ownership and operation have achieved only a surplus of $42,000.

In the meantime, Montreal has lost about $1,500,000 which Montreal Tramways, if still under private ownership, would have paid the city in municipal taxes, street rental and street cleaning.

Further, only last Wednesday, J. O. Asselin, chairman of the city executive committee, announced that Montreal Tramways is going to be forced to increase fares. In addition to the financial loss and the likelihood of increased fares, citizen groups are complaining about a deterioration in service.

Eventually, not only the people of Montreal, but the people of all Canada, may get enough of what is called "public ownership."

JUST FOLKS

THE BOOK GOLFER

Beside the fire on winter nights
The ninety golfer stays
And reads a book some teacher writes
Describing shots he plays.
Though from the north or west a storm
Outside may howl and rage,
He sees what's known as golfing form
On many a picture page.

The proper use of wrists and hips
The illustrations show.
The text provides a score of tips
All golfers ought to know.
He looks at arms and hands and knees,
The shoulder turn complete,
And that wide difference he sees
'Twixt victory and defeat.

And when the robins have returned
Once more to herald spring,
I know he'll boast that he has learned
At last the perfect swing.
I'll smile to hear him say to me:
"I'm done with slice and hook.
A better golfer soon I'll be,
I've read the latest book."

Such dreamers I do not wake up.
Asleep I let them stay.
But who would win one silver cup
Out on the course must play.
For all the books men ever penned
But little aid can be Without the time good golfers spend
Upon the practice tee.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Feb. 21st., 1932

Merchants report that they have sold more umbrellas this winter than they have for a very long time; the mild winter is the reason. The young people don't buy them, but the older people do.

Through the kindness of the Board of Management of the Corby Public Library thirty-three books of fiction have been donated to the city's lodge for the use of transients who spend the night there. The men, who put up at the lodge, which is in the basement of the War Veterans' Memorial Hall on the east side of Front Street just south of Bridge Street, are very glad to have something to read during the early part of the evening.

Belleville Market Prices: — Butter 22 cents to 25 cents per pound; eggs 25 cents per dozen; chickens 75 cents per pair and up according to size and quality; potatoes 50 cents per bag. More wood than has been on the market for a long time was offered for sale in stove length at $8. per load.

30 YEARS AGO

Feb. 21st., 1922

Belleville Intermediate Tigers trounced the Midland team on their own ice last evening, the score being 5 to 4. Arnott was responsible for three goals and Goyer and Whalen for one each. The game was clean throughout, only three penalties being handed out, Midland getting two and Belleville 1. When Midland went down one of the cleanest teams Belleville has played against this year lost out. The following composed the teams: Belleville,— Boland, Green, Holway, Arnott, Weir, Whalen, Goyer and Hagerman; Midland, — MacDonald, Simpell, Simpson, Burgie, R. Simpell, C. Day, McMillan and Chase.

The members of the Bell Telephone Club of this city were at home to their friends at a most enjoyable affair in Bennett's Academy last evening. About 125 couples were present. The officers of the club are: — President, J. Marshall; Secretary, H. E. Doolittle; Treasurer, M. E. Hick. The Stewards were J. A. Cokers, E. I. Mooney, W. A. G. Spriggs, H. Soames, W. B. Doolittle, F. A. Wright, M. McMurray, L. E. Turner, W. Rothwell and F. E. White.

40 YEARS AGO

Feb. 21st., 1912

Mr. John F. Everson, a student at Albert College, was recommended last evening to the district meeting by the Official Board of Holloway Street Methodist Church, as a candidate for the Methodist ministry.

Last evening the Quarterly Official Boards of Bridge Street and Holloway Street Methodist Churches took a vote on church union. The vote at Bridge St. Church was 23 for and 1 against and at Holloway Street Church the vote was 14 for and 2 against union.

The new Y.M.C.A. building on Campbell Street is now open for inspection by the public.

Messrs. T. H. Thompson, Reeve of Madoc Village, and J. Farrell, Reeve Madoc township, were visiting in town today.

Mr. Richard Greatrix, Pinnacle Street, celebrated the 77th. anniversary of his birth yesterday. Many friends extend congratulations and good wishes.

50 YEARS AGO

Feb. 21st., 1902

The Belleville high school hockey team defeated the Capitals of Kingston here yesterday afternoon, the score being 10 to 0. The following composed the Belleville team: W. Hamilton, Campbell, Holton, Weller, R. Hamilton, Alford and Spangenberg. The referee was G. Lockett, and the goal umpires were J. Rathbun and W. Robinson.

Isn't it about time that Front Street was levelled off a bit? The pitch holes and ruts are 'fierce'.

Mr. A. F. Wood of Madoc was in town today.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Holden of Detroit, Mich., are the guests of Mrs. L. W. Yeomans.

WHAT DO YOU SAY?

If you are turning over in your mind the question, "To marry or not to marry?" the following from "Rasselas" by Samuel Johnson may interest you.

"I have met," said the princess, "with many who live single. . . but I have never found that their prudence ought to raise envy. They dream away their time without friendship, without fondness, and are driven to rid themselves of the day, for which they have no use, by childish amusements or vicious delights. They act as beings under the rancor; and their tongues with censure. They are peevish at home, and malevolent abroad; and, as the outlaws of human nature, make it their business and their pleasure to disturb that society which debars them from its privileges. To live without feeling or exciting sympathy, to be fortunate without adding to the felicity of others, or afflicted without tasting the balm of pity, is a state more gloomy than solitude; it is not retreat, but exclusion from mankind. Marriage has many pains, but celibacy has no pleasures."

Some will vote for these sentiments and some against them. Personally, I take my stand with the good old Doctor.

44 Stranded In Gaspe Village Due to Blizzard

Ste. Therese, Que., Feb. 21—(CP) — Forty-four persons are stranded near this lonely Gaspe peninsula village because their Canadian National Railways train was virtually snowed under in a blizzard Monday night. All, including four women and two children, are safe.

About half, all men, including the six crew members, are still on the train, crowded in the baggage and express cars heated by the slowly-puffing locomotive.

The women and children were taken in homes near the stranded train while more than 15 men stumbled 1¼ miles through the storm to a hotel near here.

The train, which left Matapedia, Que., Monday morning, is stalled 45 miles from Gaspe, the end of its 200-mile run. Ste. Therese is on the southeastern coast of Gaspe Peninsula.

A rotary plow on rail, sent from Chandler to free the seven-car train, last night was reported at Grande Riviere, about eight miles from here. It is making slow progress.

A C.N.R. official at Campbellton, N.B., said a snowplow is moving in the opposite direction from Gaspe. He said the train should be able to move late tonight.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

WOODSHED COURT

I once acted as ghost-writer for a sharply intelligent young man who'd had a rather spectacular career in crime and who, having honestly gone straight, had consented to tell all in a magazine article.

He theorized at length about what makes a criminal, particularly about the all-important influence of environment. But he said one specific thing that's remained in my mind.

"Most kids never become professionals until they've been in court for the first time," he said. "It's like getting a college degree. I've seen some of these ratty little hoodlums who run in gangs. They get up there on trial. All of a sudden they're important, they're big shots.

"The court proceedings— and the sentence itself—gives the kid a sense of drama about himself. It dignifies him, gives him a new stature in the eyes of the gang and in his own estimation. He's the centre of attraction, which he's never been in his life before. He's given all the protection of the law and he figures he's getting away with something."

I had found myself thinking about the hundreds of court cases I'd covered and how so many of the younger men on trial remained arrogant, sometimes glancing up into the spectators' gallery at their friends, intent on their own heroic performance, and the fool swagger still in them as they walked to the wagon for the ride out to the prison farm.

* * *

I've been reminded of this by the action last week of a magistrate in Nanaimo named Lionel Beevor-Potts who was faced with some junior-type bums and reacted rather magnificently

One of the youths, who affected long, greasy Victor Mature-type hair locks, was promptly sent out to a barber shop to have his hair cut before the magistrate would proceed with his case.

Another, in black shirt and "draped" pants, convicted of carrying knuckle-dusters, got a little talking to. "Anyone carrying these things," said the magistrate, with commendable bluntness, "is a punk and a coward." He slapped on the maximum fine of $100.

It's my hunch that Magistrate Beevor-Potts will be a vastly respected gentleman in Nanaimo's juvenile delinquency set and that some of the swagger of at least two of its members will be looking just a little silly.

* * *

I hasten to interject at this point my conviction that criminals are made, not born, and that no attention by a court, in itself, is any kind of solution.

These "punks", in Beevor-Potts' apt language, are objects not only of scorn, but of some sympathy, too. They're the products of the slums and of the inequalities of our system. ("We wanted to show the rich kids that we were as good as they were," my informant had said in describing the motive behind so many car thefts by youngsters.) They come from broken families. They run in the gangs or cluster at the pool room because there's no meaning to their home life.

I fancy that Magistrate Beever-Potts might agree, as most men on the bench agree, that, like preventive medicine, crime can be tackled effectively only at the roots.

But that's a dream for the future Meantime, the hoodlums, junior grade, are getting into plenty of trouble and being processed daily in the machinery of the courts.

* * *

The effectiveness of the Nanaimo magistrate's attitude, it seems to me, is that it is playing the game by the only rules these sad young people recognize.

They're a curious breed. The hair-style and the clothes, themselves, are merely a ludicrous attempt to bolster an immature ego. They strive to appear tough, self-reliant, worldly-wise and never realize that it's no more than a horrible comic effect.

The proceedings of a court case and being treated as men, either by a fine or a prison sentence, merely contributes another facet to the role they play.

A trip to the woodshed with a razor strap on a bare bottom would be far more suitable than the glamor of a prison cell.

Beevor-Potts' technique is the best substitute for that trip in my opinion. It cuts Junior Punk down to size by humiliation, which is about all that he or his pals can recognize. Without the hair down to the nape of the neck the boy has lost some of his armor. Take away the knuckle dusters and the snap-open shivs and you take away the bravery.

It's too bad it can't be done in the usual dignity of the court, but when you're dealing with neurotics of any age you must be something more than merely firm.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Opinion is one of the forms of possession we all feel we can efford. Many of us who have failed to lay hold of much else in this world get a feeling of some security and even affluence from our wealth of opinions. The beauty of them is, unlike clothes, houses, cars, they are as good as anybody else's.

They are cheap, too. You can get them for nothing. You don't have to work for them. You can pick up an opinoon without moving from your chair. You can acquire them lying in bed at ten a. m. All you have to do is crook the finger of your mind at them, and they fly to you.

Other people are always trying to give them to you, free, gratis and for nothing. If you are too lazy to gather a few of your own, don't worry. The world of opinion is inspired by a generosity unknown in the rest of the universe. It is filled with people eager to supply you.

So touched will you be by this spirit of generosity all about you, you will find it difficult not to respond. For every opinion offered, you will be impelled to offer one in return. In due time, unless you are very nimble and fast on your feet, you will find you have no more room on you for opinions other than your own; and you will have to decline all offers, while, of course, endeavoring, in the most generous fashion, to give yours away.

But, in time, the load becomes a little heavy on you. It begins to show. Your jaw sets in a curious fashion. Your eyes take on a strained expression, and are inclined to roll a little. Your voice grows hoarse.

In the generous world of opinion, these are the hallmarks of generosity, and everybody will begin to avoid you, for your own good. They don't want to see you beggar yourself.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

GOODWILL

There is something we are setting aside and storing away each day that few people around us may even suspect. But the process keeps going on. It's that thing we all look upon as Goodwill. It's a quality of character that never loses its value but keeps getting richer.

Goodwill is something like the money that we bank, upon which we draw in emergencies. But Goodwill, though constantly being banked each day, once deposited, never runs out, no matter how much you may draw on it and no matter how many times. It remains solidly established.

Marshall Field, founder of the great Chicago store, and the Field fortune, once said: "Goodwill is the one and only asset that competition cannot undersell nor destroy." Many a business could lose all its visible assets, yet remain a valuable property merely because of its Goodwill value, enriched and accumulated over the years. Take trade names like "Uneeda" and "Kodak". It would take millions to buy them if all other assets of the concerns owning them should be wiped out! The Goodwill behind them is like gold.

Recently a Midwestern newspaper paid $6,000,000 for the name and Goodwill of an evening competitor, so that it might have the field to itself. Because of its fine name and history, and the readers who had supported it, however, the most was paid. Goodwill is a living thing!

The most valuable possession any of us leaves behind when we retire from this world is our Goodwill. It's the one possession of which we are most proud and the only one on which Heaven itself can place an appraisement! How greatly we should strive to make this one thing enriched with kindness and quality during every day we live, that its inheritence by those whom we have loved may prize its gift.

ROYAL VISIT URGED

London, Feb. 20 — (Reuters)— Alfred Robens, Labor minister in the last labor government, yesterday suggested that Queen Elizabeth and her family spend two months of every year in the Dominions and colonies. He told reporters it would not be proper for him to raise the matter in the House of Commons, but he intends to launch the idea in a speech at Manchester.

Personal Health Talks

MOTH PATCHES, MOLES AND LIVER SPOTS

I am thirteen and I have moles on my body. What causes them and how can I get rid of them? (R. C.)

Please tell me the cause of the brown moth or liver spots that have come on my face. (Mrs. H. G. K.)

As for the cause or causes of moles, moth patches, liver spots, you may search me. We do know that the condition of the blood and/or liver has nothing to do with these minor skin blemishes.

So-called moth patches, liver spots and freckles are varieties of chloasma, as we doctors call it if yours is an expensive car. Chloasma means nothing but brownish spots in the skin.

Some individuals inherit the tendency to chloasma. But these irregularties of pigmentation cannot be attributed to "marking" in any instance.

Treatment of pigmented moles, port wine stains or moles containing coarse hairs, warty masses or masses of fat demands the skill of the surgeon. Whichever method the surgeon may choose —electro - desiccation, electrocoagulation, X-ray, electrolysis, carbon dioxide, skin grafting trichloracetic acid—the objects of treatment are (1) to improve cosmetic appearance and (2) to overcome inferiority complex.

Application three times a day to pigmented spots only, not to the surrounding normal skin, of a strong solution of mercury bichloride and zinc sulfate on a wisp of cotton wound on the point of a toothpick, as described in the booklet will produce desquamation, fine feeling of the edipermis after several days and remove the spots.

In the booklet Cosmetic Blemishes, for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope, tells about the best methods for removing moth patches, moles, liver spots, "birthmarks," freckles and similar skin blemishes.

I dare not give instructions in print—afraid of typographical errors. Of course the booklet is printed, but I make sure it is printed as I wrote it.

QUESTION AND ANSWERS

Whites of Eyes Look Blue

Grand-daughter, two months old, has the rare disease called Blue Sclera. She already has a broken bone in her leg and the bluish color to the whites of her eyes. Can you tell me anything about this disease or the treatment for it? (O.. B.))

Answer—Sclera is the tough white coating of the eyeball. Jan. 9 (or soon after, if the article was printed) the subject of this column was Blue Sclera, Deafness and Fragile Bones. Further than that all three conditions seem to be inherited and two or more of them may be associated in the individual, medical authorities know very little.

But I'm no authority, so I offer this one suggestion: See to it that your grand-daughter gets an optimal daily ration of calcium and vitamin D, that is, two or three times as much of each as nutritional authorities agree is required to prevent rickets.

This is particularly important in the winter and spring months when, thanks to ignorance of parents and doctors, infants generally are vouchsafed little opportunity to manufacture vitamin D—which they can do only if naked skin is exposed daily to sunshine or skyshine or a comparatively weak substitute, ultraviolet lamp.

One of the richest sources of both calcium and vitamin D is egg yolk. An infant at any age may advantageously take the yolks of two eggs daily. The type of deafness referred to is otosclerisis (more properly called spongeosis), slowly progressive deafness developing in early adult life, as a rule.

Three Canadians Killed in Car Crash in Michigan

New Buffalo, Mich., Feb. 21—(AP)—Three men in a car bearing British Columbia plates were killed Tuesday night in a head-on collision with a truck on a highway near Harbert, about 20 miles north of the Michigan-Indiana line.

The dead were tentatively identified as John F. McCran, 18, and Leonard R. Bennett, both of Toronto, and Theodore Dugan, 22. Leave papers indicated Dugan was a member of the air patrol at Selfridge Field, headed for Melrose Park, Ill.

Police said the three were pinned in the car when it collided with the truck driven by 35-year-old Everett Lung, of Beulah, Mich. Lung was only slightly injured.

Bennett and Dugan were killed in the car and McCran died in St. Anthony Hospital in Michigan City.

Officers theorized that Dugan was hitch-hiking to the Illinois address and was picked up by the two Canadians, who were possibly heading for British Columbia.

URGE MEDICAL AID

Glace Bay, N.S.—(CP)—Some form of medical assistance for old age pensioners should be established by the federal government, it was urged at a meeting of the Glace Bay Old Age Pensioners Union. Limited medical aid was suspended when the new Universal Old-Age Pension plan went into effect at the start of the year.

Federal Plans to Aid Health Get New Study

By D'Arcy O'Donnell
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Feb. 21—(CP)—A joint Senate-Commons committee likely will be established at the new session of parliament to study possible extension of 'free' health services to Canadians.

The Speech from the Throne to be read at the opening of the session Feb. 28 is expected to forecast establishment of such a committee. It may become known as the National Health Insurance Committee although the thinking of some members of the federal government has swung away from an insurance plan that would provide all types of medical and health services.

At a federal-provincial conference in 1945 the Canadian government offered to pay most of the cost of a multi-million-dollar health insurance program that would provide "free" medical, dental and hospital care.

The "free" services would have been financed out of taxation, with some taxes being especially earmarked for social-security expenditures.

Experience in other countries and a study of Canada's particular needs have led to a change in views since 1945.

Bolster Provincial Aid

One federal official recently explained the situation this way:

"We now are thinking in terms of what we can do to help the provinces expand their free health services to the people. We are not thinking in terms of a plan that would provide 'cradle to grave' protection for everyone.

"We are thinking particularly of ways to help the man suddenly confronted with a huge hospital or medical bill that could keep him on the verge of bankruptcy for years. Another gap in our program is the lack of any provision for cases where men are thrown out of employment as a result of illness."

While the federal government has certain thoughts on the question of health services, the official added, it has no firm plans. It is prepared to place the problem in the hands of a committee and to listen to its recommendations.

The committee is expected to be similar to a joint Senate-Commons committee established in 1949 to study old-age security programs. That committee recommended that pensions of $40 a month be paid to all 70 and-over regardless of means. The recommendation was accepted and the plan was put into operation this year.

Study Other Countries

The health committee probably will be asked to make a thorough study of health-insurance plans now in operation in other countries. The directorate of health-insurance studies will be able to provide full information on the plans.

The results of "sickness surveys" in the provinces also will be available this year. The surveys, undertaken to determine the prevalence of sickness in Canada, covered 10,000 families and probably some 40,000 individuals.

Work of the committee conceivably could spread through at least two sessions.

In Canada, health and welfare matters that fall within the jurisdiction of the provinces. The federal government, for instance, could not inaugurate a national health insurance plan without all provinces agreeing to a constitutional amendment.

The federal government considers its role as one of providing assistance to the provinces to improve their health and welfare services.

In 1948, the federal government launched what then was described as the foundation for a health insurance program. The program provided for a series of grants to the provinces to assist them with hospital construction, health surveys, and the treatment of crippled children, mental cases, tuberculosis, cancer and other ailments.

Present Aid Costs

The grants now amount to more than $35,000,000 a year.

The program provided for hospital grants of approximately $13,000,000 a year for five years from 1948. The government will decide next year whether to continue the hospital-construction grants.

Some of the provinces, notably British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Newfoundland, already have different programs of medical and hospital insurance in operation. Some of the other provinces also supply certain medical and health services free.

The federal plan could be aimed at an extension of such services.

Senior Diplomat

Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, British High Commissioner to Canada, will become dean of the diplomatic corps at Ottawa with the return to Brazil early in March of the Brazilian Ambassador, Dr. Acyr do Nasciment Paes. Sir Alexander has the next longest service in Canada of diplomats from other countries. He arrived here in May, 1946. —(CP Photo.)

Council Discusses Provocative Film On Mental Health

At a recent meeting of the Belleville and District Film Council, Mrs. D. I. MacKinnon, ably conducted a particularly interesting and informative discussion on the rather provocative film "Feeling of Hostility." This is one of the several N.F.B. films on mental health produced with the object of making the public more keenly aware of the fact that neglect of parental responsibility leads definitely, if imperceptibly, to severe maladjustment in their children.

Mrs. MacKinnon introduced the screening with the challenging remark that the child in this film at first appears over-dependent on its parents and when it is later deprived of such satisfying affection and understanding, it later turns to re-discover it in an insatiable desire for excelling first its classmates and thereafter its business associates. Although this problem is commonly considered to occur only in a minority of cases, why then are there so many individuals who freely raise chaos through their excessive craving for satisfaction and attention? Is anything being done about it? A lively discussion followed and drew some excellent ideas from the younger members. It was thought that more counselling of children is urgent; more inculcating the true values of life in order to temper and control the more powerful attraction of materialistic standards

Refreshments Served

During the discussion period refreshments were served by Miss Olive Delaney. An increase in attendance at this meeting contributed greatly to the success both of the program and the business session but greatly reduced the refreshments.

The members were sorry to hear the news of the death of Mr. Lawrence Ketcheson, president of the South Hastings Film Council. Mr. Ketcheson did wonderful work in advancing the use of films in South Hastings and his active part in the recent Film Workshop was greatly appreciated by all. Upon the suggestion of Mr. R. H. Macklem the meeting paid its respects to the passing of a valued member with a minute's silence and its sympathy goes out to his family in their loss.

New Members Welcomed

The president, Mr. E. J. Chard, welcomed two new members, Mr. C. Hewson, representing the Belleville Public School Board and Mr. C. F. Leggat of the Canadian Legion. Those present for the first time were urged to participate in the discussions and voting. This is a principle stressed by the local Film Council.

Mr. Ron Ward, National Film Board representative, reported a most encouraging increase in audience and film showings for the month of January in this part of Ontario. The seventy films in the local Corby Library also have been used extensively. Mr. Ward indicated the keen interest in film festivals in neighboring cities in which the latest and best releases of films in a varied field of subjects are brought before the public for a free pre-viewing. It was decided to hold the annual two-day film festival at the last weekend in March. Mr M. M. Hackett will arrange for the location, and Mr. Frink and Mr. Ward for the printed programs.

The Council was sorry to hear of the serious illness of a chartered and prominent member, Mr. Wm. Lockyer, and was anxious to send its best wishes for a speedy recovery, on the motion of Mr. Plunkett.

Since the radio program is now in progress "Your Council Reports" on Friday evenings at 8:30 p.m., attention was drawn to the forthcoming one to be produced by Gord Leggat. The last broadcast by Mr. H. R. Frink was widely enjoyed and appreciated.

Murder Suspect is Committed to Mental Hospital

Mrs. William McCullough of Winnipeg, held since Jan. 25 in the bludgeon-strangulation slaying of her seven-year-old foster daughter, Martha Louise, has been committed to a mental hospital at Selkirk. Officials believe the charge against the 52-year-old woman, who is said to have killed her foster daughter because she refused to pray with her, will be dropped. Her husband, however, charged jointly in murder, has been committed to jury trial for the summer assizes following a recent preliminary hearing in police court in Winnipeg.—Central Press Canadian.

Jobs for Young Women Scarce In Toronto Area

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—Jobs for young women are scarce in the Toronto area for the first time in years, the 79th annual meeting of the Metropolitan Area Young Women's Christian Association was told last night.

Eva Coon, executive director, said in her annual report:

"Jobs for young women in our age group are no longer so plentiful or so quickly obtainable as they were a year ago. Now the demand is for skilled workers with good educational background. Girls and women who are not fully qualified who left school early and who have personality problems which make it difficult for them to adjust in the average job setting are not finding employment with anything like the ease with which they did a few years ago."

The organization continued to be concerned about scarcity of suitable living accommodation at prices within girls' reach.

Premier Frost Pays Tribute To J. W. Curran

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—Premier Frost yesterday paid tribute to J. W. Curran, publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Star, who died yesterday, as "one of the senior press men of this province" and a contributor to the development of Northern Ontario.

Mr. Frost said he was "greatly grieved" at the news of Mr. Curran's death.

The publisher was "not only a very colorful figure" but one who had contributed greatly to the development of Northern Ontario.

"His faith in the possibilities of development of Northern Ontario went back to the first days of the century."

The premier said he felt a personal sorrow because Mr. Curran was a former resident of Orillia, where Mr. Frost was born. The premier's father and Mr. Curran "were brought up together and played together in Orillia over 80 years ago."

"I express the regrets of our people in the passing of such a well-known Canadian," Mr. Frost said.

PETERBOROUGH MANHUNT

Luckek and Lloyd MacLean of this district among the 14 bus passengers, were slightly injured and the others in the bus were shaken up.

Club Activities

CONTACT CLUB

The last two meetings of the Contact Club of Christ Church have been business and work meetings with forty or more members present at each.

Two quilts have been tied, and sufficient afghan squares knit to enable a start to be made on crocheting them together. Work has been done on the woollens for the layettes, and on the Christmas card boxes for the Pediatric Ward of the Belleville General Hospital. The prizes were wrapped for the annual Contact Club bridge and euchre.

Plans For Future

As for the business, various plans for the future were discussed and approved. It was decided that the Contact Club would give the reception as usual after the coming confirmation service.

The Club agreed in the future to send a personal gift to a new mother instead of a gift to the baby.

All plans for the Contact Club annual bridge and euchre were completed to ensure a successful evening. Lorraine Knudsen is in charge of advertising. It was decided to send gift tickets to the bridge and euchre to all those who had donated prizes for this event.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Barbara Clark, Marjorie Scott, Dorothy Halbert, Allison Brunton, Leila Beers and June Mills.

Alcohol Insidious in Attack States University President

The February meeting of the Women's Christian Temperance Union opened with a short memorial service to the late beloved King George VI. "Abide With Me" was sung followed by all repeating the 23rd Psalm.

A tribute was given to his beautiful life of service, in which he entered into the lives of his people, as no other King had done. He numbered his subjects in the hundreds of millions, but he said often, that he was a subject himself of Almighty God. Extracts of his messages given during the war and at Christmas time, were reviewed.

Insidious Alcohol

This being National Health Week, reference was made to statements of two prominent men. George B. Cullen, president of Colgate University, said: "The discontinuance of the use of alcohol as a beverage would be the greatest advance in public health since the application of the bacteriological origin of disease. The insidiousness of its attack, makes alcohol the more dangerous, and when 30 per cent of the drinkers become addicts, we cannot afford to trifle with it."

Dr. Nathan Adler, social worker in the San Quentin State Prison says: "Alcoholism is our greatest single public health problem, and is not receiving systematic consideration. Prevention and treatment are the two edges of the same sword. As citizens, in our civic activities, we must awaken the community to use both edges of the weapon with which we fight for a happy and healthy world."

Frances Willard

A study in the life of Frances Willard was taken by Miss Clazie in the form of a "quiz". Parts were taken by Mrs F. O. Bennett, Miss C. Anderson, Mrs. M. Weese and Mrs. C. Mills. Frances Willard advocated many reforms in housing; slum clearance; workmen's compensation; capital and labor; social security; old age assistance; postal saving banks; Mother's Day and ethical culture in public schools. She was the first to dare to propose an eight-hour day and court of arbitration. She waged a campaign for the franchise for women and the right of women to hold property.

First Woman President

She was also the first woman president of a university and the first woman professor in a co-educational college. Her greatest achievement was the work she accomplished in the W.C.T.U.. She said, "Its scope is the broadest; its aim are the kindest, and its history, the most heroic of any society ever founded in this latter day civilization.

"Are not the temperance activities of the church and W.M.S. sufficient without a W.C.T.U.?

"The church and W.M.S. may study temperance but their funds are trust funds and cannot be used for temperance work, and the education of youth in the ethics and chemistry of total abstinence.

"Does not the Sunday School teach temperance? Not in an organized way. The W.C.T.U. was an important factor in obtaining temperance lessons in the International series and the observance of the World's Temperance Sunday each year.

"When her statue was placed in the Statuary Hall of the United States, she was declared to be "the foremost woman of the nineteenth century".

Holloway St. Young People Tour Telephone Plant

Holloway Street Young People's Union held its regular meeting on Monday evening in the form of a pot luck supper with 35 members present. The Fellowship Group was in charge of the meeting.

Following the supper, president Cameron Hitchon, presided over a brief business session and the group went to the Bell Telephone Company building for an interesting tour of their new Bridge Street plant.

Appreciation was expressed by the president to Mr. Grant Proctor, Bell Telephone manager, for the privilege of inspecting the new plant.

Good Companions Hold 'Bug' Meeting

Many and varied were the "Bugs' which dominated the Good Companions' meeting in the Sunday School room of Tabernacle United Church on Tuesday evening.

No one as yet, has been able to trace the ancestry of these 'bugs' which swarm all over the room each year at the annual 'bug' party. Their life span is short —some never reach maturity—but they certainly cause a lot of excitement during their brief hour of splendor.

An experienced player, Pearl Johnston walked off with first prize for the ladies, while Norm Howard captured the men's first. The ladies' consolation prize was the subject of a fight to the bitter end. Muriel Andrews and Gwen May had to play an additional game, Muriel finally winning by losing, while, on the men's side, the Rev. Ray Rowley had no opposition at all when he claimed the honors for the men's consolation.

Delicious and abundant sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by the refreshment committee under the convenership of Deb Smith.

ELDORADO MISSION BAND

Eldorado Mission Band met recently at the home of Joanne Chidley with 21 members present.

Following a business discussion a worship period was held, opening with a story told by Mrs. Lois Blackburn; and one, "The Man Who Ran a Race", by Marlene Blackburn, and also one by Marjorie Hamilton.

These were followed by a temperance play, after which a portion of the study book was given by Mrs. Margaret Blackburn.

Refreshments brought the evening to a close.

After the meeting closed Valentine refreshments were served by the committee.

Bridge St. Young People's Union Guests Of Trenton Group

On Monday evening, the Young People's Union of King St. United Church, Trenton, entertained the Young People of Bridge Street Church at a Valentine party, held at King St. Church.

The rooms were gaily decorated for the occasion and the evening consisted mostly of interesting games and contests pertaining to Valentine's Day. These were conducted by Mr. Mac Cameron, president of the King St. group and chief master of ceremonies for the evening. Assisting with the music was Miss Mary Morgan.

Bridge Street Y.P.U. then conducted a short worship service, after which Mr. Cameron led a lively sing-song.

The hosts of the evening served refreshments, during which Mr. Cameron graciously welcomed the visitors. This was responded to by the president of the Bridge Street group, Jim Bailey.

An evening of splendid fun and fellowship came to a close with the singing of "Taps".

Women's Institute

STIRLING W.I.

Stirling—The February meeting of Stirling Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. H. Cooke with 11 members and seven visitors in attendance. The president, Mrs. P. Bronson took the chair and opened the meeting in the usual manner then asked all to bow their heads in a two minute silent prayer in memory of the beloved King George VI.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Carl Clancy, was introduced and gave an interesting talk entitled, If you have a hill to climb, don't waste time looking at it, climb it. Face facts and cultivate an observant mind, know what's going on around you and do what you can to help each other. It only takes a moment to do a kindness and when you have a task to do don't sit down and feel sorry for yourself, but go right ahead and do it, stated the speaker.

A reading was given by Mrs. L. Rodgers, "Letters Received by the Mail Order Department."

The debate, "Resolved that the old time husband makes the best fireside companion," with Mrs. S. McMurray taking the affirmative and Mrs. P. Bronson the negative caused a lot of merriment.

Mrs. Lake gave a reading "Women Visit Machinery", and Mrs. McMurray put on a contest. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting and a social time enjoyed.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Please. . .no family-ridicule

All families have "family jokes'," and most members of most families take it with a good grace and good nature when a certain amount of fun is poked at them. But this joking shouldn't be allowed to get out of hand and become ridicule. A joke's a joke. . . but ridicule is no joke. It stabs . . . .it hurts. . it wounds, deeply wounds. And the bitterness of the ridicule may leave a tragic scar, may have a disastrous effect all during the person's life. Fathers and mothers, and brothers and sisters, please note. . .and please "have a heart"!

Certainly there should be a toast to the bride's mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been in several wedding parties lately, and at the receptions there were the usual toasts, to the bride, to the bride and groom, to the bridesmaids. But in no case was there a toast proposed to "the mother of the bride". I wonder about this, for I should think this would be, should be, a most important toast, since she is the hostess! Now I'm planning my wedding, I'm to combine the bride's table and the parents' table, and I want to make sure that there is to be a toast to my mother. Who should propose this toast?—Betty U.

Good for you! You're so right about this, and I admire your loving thoughtfulness Talk this over with your bridegroom. . .it is he who should propose this toast. And a courtly bridegroom can make this toast a pretty wonderful and memorable gesture! For example, he may say, "I would like to propose a toast, a standing toast, as tribute to the charming and gracious and dearly-loved mother of the bride. . . and to thank her, as hostess, and the bride's father, as host, for planning this truly wonderful occasion." (And it is the bride's father who responds to this toast.)

Groom's mother made the perfect gesture to fiancee's mother

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

During the Christmas holidays, my son became engaged to a girl who lives in a town about four hundred miles from where we live. She spent the New Year holidays with us, and after she went home, I wrote to her mother, telling her how happy we were to welcome her daughter into our family, and explaining that, because of distance, it was impossible for us to call on her at once, but that we hoped to be able to do so at an early date. Since that time I have had no reply from her in any way. Now what do I do? Should I travel this distance to call on her unexpectedly, or do I write again asking when it would be convenient for her to see us? Also do I arrange with her to make overnight reservations for us, as I know there is no hotel in the town? Please advise me.—F. F.

You did just the right thing . . .to write the girl's mother, at once, and saying just what you did say. So now don't worry. . . I'm sure you'll either have a reply from the girl's mother soon, or find there is some reason for a delayed reply. It is not at all necessary for you to make any plans to travel to call on the girl's mother personally . . .your gracious welcoming-the-daughter-into-your-family letter takes the place of the welcoming-into-the-family call, when the call is not convenient, because of distance or other reason. However, if too much time goes by with no reply to your letter, you might ask your son's fiancee (or ask your son to ask her) if your letter did arrive, adding that you and your family are looking forward to a meeting-of-the-families. Or perhaps telephone for a chat with the girl's mother. . . this is often done, and is delightfully proper —very sensible, too.

I'm a Brady fan. Doc Brady that is—not Jim (I'm not that old).

Doc Brady believes in eating things in their natural state as far as possible.

Now I know you don't expect me to tell you how to use boxed and ready-made desserts. It says that on the package—"Mix and Stir". This is a "Homemade Ice Cream Column".

My self-appointed business is to teach you how to get the best out of the food you eat. For, my pets, it's better for you to eat fresh foods while they are fresh—not when they are dried and packaged. We should do what the animals do—forage for our food. Ever see the baker's horse reach up to an overhanging tree branch and nibble off some of the succulent leaves? His two forefeet up on the sidewalk always amuse me.

We can't go to quite such lengths, but we can remember that packaged mixes may be a help in time of stress, but when you really want your cooking to express yourself you want to start from the beginning.

Make your own ice cream. Not having a mechanical refrigerator will not stop you. In dear old February in dear old Canada everybody can have ice cream. I have two bee-yew-tiful recipes that will make more ice cream than you pay 45 or 47 cents for at the store, and that will inflate your ego.

STRAWBERRY FLUFF FREEZE

Into a large bowl put 1 package of fresh frozen strawberries (or raspberries) and 1-2 cup sugar. (If fresh strawberries are used for this in June use 1 1-4 cups sugar.) Add 1 unbeaten egg white and 1-8 teaspoon salt. Beat 10 minutes or until stiff.

Fold into this mixture 1 cup of whipping cream which has been beaten until fairly stiff. Add a little bright red coloring. Freeze in large freezer tray, or pack into a container for which you have an overlapping cover—filling it only three-quarters full to allow for freezing expansion—and bury in the snow outside. It will freeze in freezing tray in 5 or 6 hours. Do not stir.

PEANUT BRITTLE ICE CREAM

One cup rich milk, 1-2 cup sugar, 1-8 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 1 cup crushed peanut brittle or 1 cup toasted and chopped nuts. Scald the milk and stir into it the sugar, salt and flour thoroughly mixed together dry. Stir over low heat until it boils, then let boil 1 minute, stirring. Cool. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until it is a soft mush. Whip until barely stiff the whipping cream and add vanilla to it. Scrape the partially frozen mixture into a large bowl and beat with rotary beater until smooth. Fold in whipped cream. Return to freezer tray and freeze until firm, stirring 3 times during first hour of freezing. This may be made by freezing buried in the snow but must be dug out to be stirred at least once.

Dear Mary Moore: Was wondering if you could help me . . my cakes are always flat as pancakes. . . .I follow recipes carefully but no success. One lady told me to double the baking powder but still no luck. . .my arm gets tired beating. . . my husband beat the batter for me but still no luck. My pies seem to turn out very well, so I don't think it is my oven. . .Mrs. A. J. V.

ANSWER:

It must be old baking powder that is your trouble. Buy fresh baking powder—in a small can—from a large store where turnover is constant. If this does not correct your cake trouble I will give you a recipe giving specific details for mixing by folding—to incorporate as much air in the batter as possible. Excessive beating does not always mean a light cake. I'd like to know how you make out.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

What girls should know about make-up

Surveying feminine faces, it would seem as if slap-dash glamor methods are all too popular. Unless make-up flatters one, makes the skin look fresher, a girl might better chuck the make-up kit out of the window. clean, undecorated face is more attractive than a messy one If you make it a practice to use a few swishes of the powder pad, creating a patchy effect, if you form round circles with the rouge compact and give your lips a lick and a promise with the ruby pencil, you must go to the foot of the beauty class.

Let us consider the methods used by professionals who have had training in the art of making up for nature's lapses.

The skin is conditioned by careful manipulations with a foundation cosmetic. A little patting spreads it on evenly. It will serve as a base for the other items, will make them last for hours instead of blowing away on the breezes.

Slap-dash glamor methods are all too popular.

The purpose of the cream is to make the skin slightly moist. It does a disappearing act—unless it is of the heavy pancake variety, which is rather difficult for the novice to apply properly.

The expert doesn't use powder lavishly. Just a little at a time. Addition is better than substraction. No grinding in with the pad to force powder into the pores. Powdering starts at the base of the neck; the nose gets its portion last. The ears are given a soft, velvety finish and the back of the neck receives a light film.

When rouge is applied, the features are taken into careful consideration. It never should form a circle in the centre of the cheek. Nature doesn't follow that design. More often the flush comes close to the eyes, extends toward the temples, and dips slightly on the cheeks, forming a triangle. Placing rouge high calls attention to the eyes, adds to the starshine. It is seldom wise to place the synthetic blush low; it gives the face a dragged-down appearance. A touch on the eyelids is effective.

A second powder pad is used for blending powder and rouge. There should be no definite border lines between these cosmetics.

Eyebrows are groomed with the small brush, the bristles of which carry a little brilliantine. The little shafts march in order, carry an intriguing lustre. If the crayon must be used to darken the growth, there should be no evidence of it. Make-up is going natural these days.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Should he write to his wife's girl friend?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My wife's girl friend whom she had known for 25 years has left our town and moved to another place.

I am always asking my wife to write to this girl, but she does not like to write letters or even go often to visit. I am very fond of the young lady as she has always seemed like a sister to us. She is 37 years old and single. My wife is 39 and I am 48.

I would like to write to this girl just to keep up our friendship, since my wife does not like to write letters. Do you think I would be doing any harm if I write without my wife knowing? When this girl comes to visit us, I always ask her if she would tell on me for writing to her without my wife knowing, and she has promised me she would not. I do not mean any harm. It is just that I would like to write letters to keep up with our old friend. I have not written any letters yet as I will wait for your advice.—J. W.

Dear J. W.:

I don't think it would be very nice for you to write to this girl secretly, do you? If, as your letter indicates, you feel your wife wouldn't like you to do it, then it certainly wouldn't be right. More than that, if she found out later that you were writing to her friend without her knowledge, it would certainly make trouble and no doubt end up by breaking off the friendship entirely. Do you want to run the risk of having that happen?

If you feel that one of you should write to the girl, then my advice would be that you suggest to your wife that since she does not like to write letters you would be willing to drop a note to her friend once in awhile just to keep in touch. Or you could ask her if now and then the two of you couldn't sit down together talk over the news you would like the friend to have, and then you write the letter and both of you sign it. This should keep the friendship alive without any danger of killing it.

Sister has cared for her child—should she claim him?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am a young woman 23 years old and planning to be married to a man who is divorced. He has a seven-year-old girl who is cared for by his brother and sister-in-law. I myself have a seven-month-old child born out of wedlock, who is cared for by my sister and her husband.

The problem is that this man is plannig to have his child with us after we are married, but if I did the same with my child it would hurt my sister very much to have me take my son away from her because she has come to love him very much.

What is your opinion as to what I should do about this?—Miss J. R.

Dear J. R.:

My opinion is that if your sister came to your help when you were in trouble and has always taken your place as a mother to this child, it would be a tragic thing indeed to take the baby away from her now.

Why don't you allow her to adopt the child legally, and be satisfied to mother the little daughter of the man you expect to marry? It seems to me this would be a very sensible and logical solution to the problem, especially as you no doubt would soon have other children of your own.

Fashion Flashes

THE DELICATE AIR pervades many of the most beautiful resort-dress collections. Pinkish beige linen is used for a charming late-day dress made with a full, flaring skirt. A band of cut-out Swiss embroidery curves around the deep scoop neck and forms the sleeves. Two graduated bands below the waist introduce five graduated bands that make the lower part of the skirt.

A NICE DIVIDEND is the matching skirt with a full-length fitted coat, making for a good costume suit and separates. Nicely interpreted in a fine line black and white striped tweed, the princess coat is outlined at all edges with black braid, and has slanting flap pockets and three-button closing that is above the waist. Slim skirt has a high waistband.

DOING BETTER than ever is linen, now treated to new and improved finishes. A silky surface marks a pale blue linen suit, softly tailored along classical lines and worn with a pale pink chiffon blouse.

ACCEPTED as an integral part of the wardrobe is the fashion for separates. Charming early Spring designs include a full-sleeved, deep V-necked shirtblouse of light gray silk shantung, paired off with a darker gray, heavier-slubbed silk shantung skirt that is taffeta lined for flaring fullness. Skirt has slit pockets.

REFRESHING designs marks suits readied for Spring. Brown and white worsted knit is used for the jacket of a pretty suit with white linen underlays for the high club collar and turn-back cuffs. The skirt is of brown flannel with all-around accordion pleating.

FAVORED for Spring success in the millinery field is the sailor silhouette, curved up, front and back, in a sort of rocker effect. Nice in fine navy straw with a cluster of small, red velvet tulips posed to point up the high-curved back, and to match the softly tucked crown band.

Provincial Legislatures In Session to Number Six With Opening of Ont., Alberta

(By The Canadian Press)

British Columbia, whose coalition government collapsed Jan. 18, is to have a general election soon—probably early in June.

Premier Byron Johnson said yesterday he will call for dissolution of the legislature as soon as the budget is passed at the current session and call a general election. He made the announcement in a policy address in which he opened debate on the throne speech, read Tuesday at the opening of the session.

"I feel that the coalition government of this province, as it now is constituted, has no mandate from the people to carry on since the main partnership was broken," he said.

The coalition of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives, in power since 1941, broke up when the premier demanded the resignation of Herbert Anscomb, then finance minister and co-chief in coalition and leader of the Progressive Conservatives. Mr. Anscomb resigned and took his 10 Progressive Conservative colleagues with him into opposition.

The legislatures of Ontario and Alberta start their 1952 sittings today, bringing to seven the number of provincial parliaments in session.

Talk of another provincial election this year is heard in Alberta. The Edmonton Journal said yesterday in a newspage story that political observers forecast an election in mid-August. The last Alberta election, in which the social credit administration was returned, was in 1948.

Topic Comes Up

In Nova Scotia, where teachers are on strike in two counties, the topic of teachers' salaries came up yesterday at the opening of throne speech debate. Robert L. Stanfield, Progressive Conservative opposition leader, told the house:

"This province is fully as able financially as the municipalities to participate in a solution of the teaching problem. This problem will not be solved satisfactorily unless the province does participate."

Hugh Mackay, Conservative member for the New Brunswick riding of King's, charged in throne speech debate that the Liberal "machine" he said controls provincial affairs is more ruthless and more efficent than any other organization ever seen in his province. He said it has brought on the heaviest burden of debt and taxation borne by any section of Canada.

Attorney-General C. Rhodes Smith of Manitoba called for a united front in his legislature to battle against new freight rate provisions which he said "discriminate" against the province. He said it is "very important" that all Manitoba be united on the freight rate situation.

Education Minister W. S. Lloyd of Saskatchewan announced that his department is considering decentralizing its visual aid work.

Also at Regina, opposition leader Walter Tucker told the legislature that a number of old-age pensioners are being victimized by persons, posing as government agents, who obtain lists of pensioners and charge them "exorbitant" amounts for doing such jobs as checking chimneys.

SINGER OF THE DAWN

(In memoriam of the Mohawk-Indian poetess, Mrs. Henry A. Brant, of Deseronto, Ont., "Kejeje Yohsta" her Indian name meaning, "Garlanding the Flowers.)

The way is brighter that you passed along—
The flowers and trees awoke to your kind eyes
As vibrant minstrels to the Greater Song
Ascending clear and stately to the skies!

The way you passed, will never be the same;
Each nook and cranny, flower or woodland dell,
Will softly share the beauty of your name
And make of these your perfumed Immortelle.

"Kejeje Yohsta," singer in the dawn,
And of the dawn of better things to be,
Your song, well sung, is ended—and you've gone
To leave the world your priceless legacy.

Of faithful love, performed at length and well;
A sacred trust, inspiring without cease,
And calling sweetly like the Poets' Bell
Upon the hill where grows the Tree of Peace.

Foxboro, Ont.

Charles Andrew Tupper.

Muncey Reserve Indian Freed On Murder Count

Kitchener, Feb, 21 (CP)—Albert Deleary, 45, of the Muncey Reserve is a free man today. An assize court jury brought in a directed verdict of acquittal on a charge of murder in the rifle slaying of Donald Fowler, 21, of Stratford.

"It feels pretty fine," he said yesterday as he stepped out of the prisoner's box.

Alvin Lebold, 32, of Wellesley, jointly charged with Deleary, today will hear Crown and defence counsel address the jury. As he was led back to his cell yesterday, Lebold waved to Deleary and said: "Goodbye, Ab."

Fowler died Nov. 21 of a gunshot wound in the neck at a small trailer in which the three men lived in the bush of nearby Wilmot township.

Lebold, in a statement to police admitted in evidence, said he had a scuffle with Fowler in which a gun went off and a bullet struck Fowler.

On the witness stand yesterday, he testified he remembered little or nothing after leaving a hotel in nearby Baden the night before Fowler was found dead. He said he and his two companions were on a drinking spree.

He said he did not remember telling police: "Would it make you feel any better if I told you I shot him."

Judge is Victim of Fatal Heart Attack at Murder Hearing

Mr. Justice Bienvenue

Rheal Leo Bertrand

While addressing a murder trial jury at Hull, Que., Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue died of a heart attack. The 57-year-old judge, in a mild- almost fatherly tone, had been delivering his charge to the jury trying 37-year-old Rheal Leo Bertrand of Ottawa for murder of his 52-year-old bride of two months in a lonely hunting cabin at Lac Ste. Marie, Que., last November, when attack struck suddenly and apparently without warning. The spectacular case, expected to end very soon, may be reopened in a new trial in a different locale as a result of sudden death of the judge. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

Congregational Meetings

FOXBORO UNITED CHURCH

Foxboro — Foxboro Church held its congregational meeting on February 5th in conjunction with a pot luck supper. All reports were most favorable. Mr. Stillman Gay in his M. and M. report stated that over $732 had been received from the three appointments.

Newly elected officers to the board of elders were: W. E. Tummon and I. F. Eggleton. Newly elected officers to the board of stewards, Messrs. M. C. Reynolds, I. F. Eggleton, J. McCabe, C. Bamber, J. Reynolds, G. D. McCullough and C. Arthurs. Mr. Walter Wickett was made an honorary life member of the board. The ushers, Messrs. Joseph Daniels and Frank Eggleton were appointed for a three year term. Mrs. George Hicks was re-elected envelope steward and Mr. and Mrs. Stillman Gay as M. and M. treasurers. Mr. Joseph Daniels was re-appointed church treasurer for 1952.

The Sunday School department was again favored in having the re-election of Mr. Ernest Tummon as teacher of the Adult Bible Class and Mr. Clifford Wilson as Sunday School superintendent.

A warm vote of thanks was extended to Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stewart for excellent caretaking service.

Marsh Hill

On February 6th, Marsh Hill held its meeting at the school house also in conjunction with a pot luck supper. The large crowd presented a warm atmosphere of friendliness and fellowship.

Allyn Finkle was appointed secretary of the congregation. The officers composing the board of elders and board of stewards were re-elected to office for 1952. The new committee of the missionary and maintenance department composed of Messrs. David Hollinger and Farley Lindenfield, and the parsonage committee, Mr. and Mrs. William Slater, Mrs. John Brown and David Hollinger. The church treasurer was Mr. Leslie Finkle. Three young men were chosen as offertory stewards, Ralph Park, Ralph Parks, and Douglas Detlor. The Sunday School department was again favored with the re-election of David Hollinger as its superintendent.

Alternate delegate to Presbytery was Mr. Walter Lindenfield and the W.M.S. president Mrs. Grace Bartindale. The building committee reported an improved outside church landscaping and a new church roof.

Halleway Church

On February 7th the Halloway Church held its congregational meeting and pot luck supper. The meeting was held in the new church basement, now serviceable for use although considerable finishing remains.

A large group of animated neighbors attended and were heartened by the advance the church is making. The same slate of officers was re-elected to the board of elders and stewards for 1952. Mrs. Don Rose was re-elected as secretary of the congregation and Mr. Coleman Townsend as church treasurer.

Mr. Kenneth Denyes was elected superintendent of the Sunday School. Alternate delegate to the Presbytery was Mrs. H. Giffin. The parsonage committee for 1952 composed of Mrs. Ed. Emerson and Mrs. E. Hough. Plans for inside and outside church improvement were outlined and discussed.

At the three meetings, the minister, the Rev. H. Giffin gave a ministerial field report. The over-all picture of the charge, he pointed out, was healthy. But there was room in every department for spiritual growth and deepened church interest.

It is a distinct privilege to cooperate with God and feel His gracious benefits. Those who fail to participate are the great losers. To many, throughout the communities, Christ is a wonderful Saviour; for others He is nothing. Our supreme task is making Him meaningful to such a group. The foremost objective for each of our various groups is not necessarily fellowship or the raising of money. It is a drive for the souls of men and women, boys and girls for Jesus Christ. These other things will follow in their natural course."

Other highlights of the minister's report included a "School of Religion," held recently where an average attendance of over 40 was maintained for five nights. He appealed to groups and individuals for continued cooperation in prayer and service for future advancement. The report was climaxed by the announcement that four schools were benefited by religious education each week.

The usual song service preceded the meeting with Rev. Mr. Poynter of the Holiness Movement Church in charge.

Mrs. Earl Armstrong sang a lovely solo "I'd Rather Have Jesus" followed by the Bible lesson, 3rd chapter Ephesians, and read by the guest speaker, Miss Daphne Dymond, whose work is with the W.M.S. at Huntsville, Ont. Mr. Poynter and Miss Trumbull sang a duet "How Can I Help But Love Him."

Miss Dymond gave a wonderful message, her text being "The wages of sin is death, but the Gift of God is Eternal Life," pointing out, plainly, that human beings were all "I" specialists in the middle letter of "sin". Miss Dymond deserves credit for the way she is using her youthful life for others to follow. The service was closed by Rev. M. W. Heslip of the Presbyterian Church.

Junior Hawks Drop 7-5 Thriller To Peterborough Links To Even Series

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Six Belleville squads went into hockey action last night and the best the boys could do was come up with two wins. The juveniles pulled out with a 6-5 victory over the Kingston Vics while the bantams and midgets were being nosed out. Up in Peterborough a fighting senior Hawks squad nearly pulled out with a win but bowed to the Petes 7-5 and here the junior Hawks after grabbing an early-game lead faded sufficiently in the third period to allow the Peterborough Links to edge them for the nod and square their semi-finals series.

The only other victory for our side came at Norwood where Don McNevin's Glen Roys staged a hot third period rally to thump the village crew 9-5 to take over second place in the southern division of the Trent Valley League.

The junior Hawks and Peterborough staged one of the best games seen in junior circles here this season. It was wide open hockey and particularly clean with only four penalties being handed out by the officials, one of which proved costly to the Hawks. It came in the third when Bob Wilson got the thumb for tripping and Buzz Jensen starry four-goal forward grabbed the puck and scored the winning goal. "Red" Wasson turned in a sensational game for the Links especially in the first period when the Hawks swarmed all over him but could beat him but three times. Henry Therrien staged a spectacular rinklength rush through the entire Links team only to have the cool Wasson quigness him.

Barclay, too, was good and pulled off some spectacular stops, while up front Bill Strahan, Hec Lalande, Ross Mason and Munro turned in good efforts. The game was delayed for several minutes at the end of the second when the Links management protested against the condition of the ice and demanded it be flooded or protest. However the condition of the surface didn't have any adverse effects on the Links, judging from the game-winning exhibition they staged.

Meanwhile up in Peterborough the shorthanded seniors put up a hard fight against the league-leading Petes. They led 2-2 going into the second period, faded somewhat while the Petes fired home four goals, but outplayed and outscored the winners 2-1 in the final period. Red Doran did not make the trip. He stayed here to master-mind the juniors.

Down Kingston way the minor laddies put up good battles and tonight when the return triple-header will be played in Memorial Arena it might be a different story. The series are goals-to-count affairs and the margins are not so great that the local moppets, having the advantage of their own ice could very easily turn the tables and take the series.

Speaking of minor hockey the columnar orchids go to Wilbur Fox of the Walker Hardware who has generously donated 20 hockey sticks to the all-star bantam squad which is representing the city in the OMHA playdowns. "Speedy" St. Louis is giving the boys a free "skate-sharp". Stan Hagerman is coaching the team, and is confident his youngsters will come out on top tonight.

OFF TO UTICA

The senior Hawks pay their second annual visit to Clinton N.Y. over the weekend where they will play an exhibition series with the Comets of that village. The Hawks leave Saturday morning and play that night with the second game tabbed for Sunday afternoon. The Comets are members of the New York-Ontario League with Gananoque, Breckville, Cornwall, etc and boast a fairly powerful squad. The "Redmen" of a year ago won both games from the Comets, the first team to turn the trick in some time. Clinton is some ten miles outside of Utica.

Juveniles Win, Bantams, Midgets Lose First Games Minor Playdowns

Kingston won two out of three games against Belleville last night at the Community Centre in the first round of the OMHA playoffs. These series are a two game, total points to count affair with the second and final game of each to be played at the Memorial Arena in Belleville tonight.

The midgets and bantams each went down to defeat but the juveniles, a fast skating, evenly-balanced squad, pulled the surprise of the night by upsetting the homesters.

The bantams were defeated in the first game by a score of 5-3 while the midgets lost a 4 to 1 verdict to their Kingston rivals. The juveniles pulled out a 6 to 5 win in a game in which they were never headed.

Belleville Mercurys scored a 6-5 win over the Kingston Vics juvenile team, in the third and final game of the evening.

It was a very fast and extraordinarily rough match with the Belleville squad leading from start to finish. Each team drew five penalties, no indication of the roughness, as elbowing and tripping went unheeded in many cases.

The Mercurys clicked for three fast counters in the first five minutes of play and made the lead stick throughout the entire game. They carried the play by a wide margin during the first two periods but tired before an onrushing Kingston squad in the third and were backed into their own end during most of the last period.

The winners showed a fine balance of power with every line accounting for two of the scores. Goyer tallied twice, assisted by Bovay, with Cook, Myers and Philp each netting one and assisting on another. Atkins fired the other marker and Stolliker assisted on one.

Napier, with three third-period goals, topped both teams in point getting. Ullman scored once and drew an assist while Patterson assisted on a pair.

The outstanding star of either team however, was Russell, Mercury goalkeeper, who thrust aside many dangerous rushes, particularly in the third period when the Vics had Belleville bottled up in their own end for minutes at a time.

The Teams

Kingston: Goal Lalonde; defence Blake, Shaw; centre Ullman; wings Loftus, Burnside; subs, McNeil, Patterson, Burns, Napier, Carscallen, Cherry, Perrin, Tinkess, Sears (alternate goalie).

Belleville: Goal Russell; defence, Thompson, Baker; centre, Goyer; wings, Brooks, Bovay; subs, Cook, Barber, Stolliker, Atkins, W. Fox, Philp, Myers, Casey, Ashley (alternate goalie).

Bantams

Although outplayed, Kingston Bantams scored a 5-3 win over the Belleville Black Hawk Bantams in the first game of the evening.

The Hawks carried the margin of play in the first period, although outscored, and even more so in the final frame while the homesters held a slight edge in the middle stanza.

Kingston outscored Belleville by two to one in each of the first two periods with each team tallying once in the third. The score gives no indication of the play as the Hawks pressed Kingston into their own end continually but found O'Neil, Kingston netminder, very hard to beat.

Turner was top pointman for the winners, scoring two goals and assisting on a like number. Hegarty tallied once and assisted on one while single scores were made by J. Lowe and St. Remy, top defenceman for the Kingston squad.

Cruji fired a pair of goals for Belleville with Hagerman notching the other. Hull, first-string centreman, assisted on a pair. Culloden played a good game on the defence.

The Teams:

Belleville—Goal, Elmy, Wardle; defence, Culloden, Grandame; centre, Hull; wings, Ferguson, Hagerman. Alternates, Wannamaker, McCann, Ryan, St. Louis, Cruji, Bishop, Asseltine, Foster.

Kingston — Goal, O'Neil; defence, Thurlby, St. Remy; centre, Walton; wings, B. Lowe, J. Lowe. Alternates, Frawley, Hegarty, Turner, Martin, Cook, Naish, Card, Stephenson.

Midgets

Scoring three goals in the first period without a reply, Kingston Midgets won a 4-1 victory over the Belleville Midgets in the second encounter of the night.

The homesters carried the margin of the play throughout the first period to gain full measure for their three goal advantage.

Bodding fired a pair of counters for the home squad, one each in the first and second periods, to open and close the scoring. Roy and Brown scored singletons while Vesterfelt, one of the hardest working players on the ice, received credit for the lone Belleville tally.

Kingston drew four penalties to two for Belleville, three of them coming in the scoreless third period.

The Teams:

Kingston: Goal, Downey, defence, Frayn, Muller; centre, Bodding; wings, Sanderson, Snelgrove. Alternates, Walton, Hampton, McIntosh, Wheeler, Brown, Delph, Howland, Roy Belleville: Goal, Kingston; defence, Little, Lynch; centre, Buskard; wings, Gault, Vesterfelt. Alternates, Parks, Bovay, St. Denis, Yull, White, McKay, Hughes, Calberry, Charlton.

Visitors Roar from Behind To Snatch Third-Period Win In Speedy Wide-Open Battle

Staging a desperate third-period offensive that netted them four goals, the Peterborough Triple Links reared from behind here last night to defeat the Belleville Hawks 7-5 in a rip-roaring junior "B" semi-finals playoff battle.

The victory evened the three-of-five series between the teams with one game each. The third game is scheduled for Peterborough Friday with the fourth there on Monday. The fifth, if necessary, will be played in Memorial Arena here next Wednesday night.

It was one of the best junior battles staged here this season. Wide-open and clean the play saw the Hawks take a decided edge in the first period, battle on more or less even terms in the second and give way to the desperate Links in a slam-bang third session that turned the tide of victory.

The Hawks, robbed of a half dozen goals in the first period by "Red" Wasson, starry Petes netminder, grabbed a three-one lead, were outscored two to one in the second and bowed before the powerful offensive of the Links in the third by a four to one count.

Costly Penalty

Referees Bill Reason and Art Casterton of Kingston had little trouble with offenders. Only four penalties were handed out with the teams splitting the sentences. Bob Wilson, Hawks defenceman, got both his team's charges and the third period offense proved costly.

With the score tied at five-all Wilson drew a tripping sentence and Jensen, starry Links forward, fired home the winning goal while Wilson was in the hoosegow. The seventh goal was scored with three seconds to go when Coach Red Doran pulled Don Barclay from the nets and Armstrong of the Links drifted a loose puck that went rink length into the Hawks net.

Buzz Jensen sparked the Links offensive with four goals which offset his only penalty of the game. Stewart came through with three assists and McCracken got a goal and a helper. Coyle and Armstrong scored the remaining pair.

Billy Strahan and Hector Lalande paced the Hawk attack with the fleet left-winger scoring three goals and being credited with an assist. Lalande got four assists with Peter Green and Ted DeGray scoring singles. George Jacklin got an assist. Ross Mason turned in another brilliant performance while Munro and Duke Doran also stood out for the Hawks. Don Barclay in a battle of the goalies came up with some remarkable stops while "Red" Wasson at the other end fairly scintillated all night especially in the first period when he threw back at least six Hawk counters.

It was fast clean typical playoff hockey with the issue undecided until midway through the third period when Jensen fired home his fourth goal. All the goals except two were well-earned. One Hawk counter was a screened shot from the blue line and the last Links goal coming with an empty Hawk net.

Jensen Won It

The teams battled scorless for 13 minutes in the first period with both goalies tested hard especially Wasson. The Links broke the scoring ice when Jensen fired home Stewart's pass at 13.50 but the goal apparently was what the Hawks needed. They flashed back to the offensive and in 13 seconds flung home two goals from Strahan and Peter Green. Strahan added his second goal of the period with four minutes to go on a pass-out from Lalande.

Jensen cut the lead to 3-2 early in the second. Buckton tossed Henry Therrien for a loop and drew a penalty. The Hawks powered their plays and Ted DeGray got the goal back on a flip shot from well out. Coyle took Twist's pass near the period end to cut the margin to 4-3.

The Links tied the score for the first time in the game when Jensen took Stewart's pass for his third goal and a minute later McCracken banged home the disc after Barclay had kicked out three shots on a Links ganging attack.

Bill Strahan with Lalande and Jacklin staged a pretty passing play at the eight minute mark and the winger slung home his third goal to even the count.

Wilson drew his tripping penalty and Jensen won the game on a neat solo effort with nine minutes to go. The Hawks battled desperately in the closing minutes in an effort to tie the count but the Links defence hung on and aided and abetted by the brilliant Wasson held off the Hawks attacks. Barclay was taken from the nets and you know the rest.

The Teams

Peterborough: Goal, Wasson; defence Armstrong, Bigford; centre Robinson; wings Buckton, Floyd; subs, Sullivan, Coyle, Twist, Kimball, Heffernan, Clapper, Jensen, McCracken, Ferguson, Bailey.

Hawks: Goal Barclay; defence, Wilson, Munro; centre, Lalande; wings, Strahan, Jacklin; subs Gilmour, Therrien, Doran, Mason, Green.

Roth Fronts Senior Scorers Despite Injury

Toronto, Feb. 21 — (CP) Mickey Roth of Stratford Indians increased his margin as the leading scorer in the Ontario Hockey Association senior A series by one point last week before a fractured hand put him out of action.

Official statistics released by the league yesterday showed that Roth picked up one assist to send his scoring total up to 111 points — 50 goals and 61 assists, both tops in each department.

The statistics, as of games Feb. 18, disclosed that veteran Tommy Burlington of Owen Sound Mercurys moved ahead of Dinny Flanagan, a linemate of Roth's, into second place. Burlington snared 3 points to boost his total to 87 from 33 goals and 54 assists. Flanagan, who only picked up one point, has 27 goals and 58 assists for 85 points.

The best average among goalkeepers is Boat Hurley of Kitchener - Waterloo, still in front with a mark of 3.25. He is tied with Keith Woodall of Brantford Redmen in the number of shutouts—both with three. Bruce Dale of Stratford has two shutouts and the second best average — 3.41.

'Heartbreaker' Goal Robs 'Cat' Of Shutout Over Red Wings

(By The Canadian Press)

New York Ranger supporters went about shaking their heads last weekend when they learned that goalkeeper Chuck Rayner would be sidelined for the rest of the season. They almost gave up all hope of ever seeing the Blueshirts in the four-team National Hockey League playoffs.

They shook them again when they heard Emile (The Cat) Francis was being brought up from Cincinnati of the American Hockey League. After all, hadn't he been up five times and failed to stay?

However, his fine showing Sunday night as the Rangers edged Montreal 3-2 and the equally successful play Tuesday at Toronto in staving off the second-place Maple Leafs 3-3 was at least some criterion that the little guy had improved enough to call the big time his own.

Minutes to Go

Last night, the five-foot-seven Francis almost pulled off his first shutout for the Rangers, but failed with less than two minutes to go. He held off the league-leading Detroit Red Wings' vaunted attack for 58 minutes and 13 seconds before Gordie Howe drifted a long floater past him to give the Wings a 1-1 deadlock.

Ed Slowinski had given the Blueshirts their 1-0 lead midway through the final period when he combined with Gaye Stewart and Don Raleigh to beat Terry Sawchuk in the Detroit nets.

Both goaltenders were superb with the exception of Francis' one lapse. The Rangers tested Sawchuk 35 times while Francis handled 25 shots.

The deadlock boosted Detroit's first-place lead over Toronto to 15 points and enabled the Rangers to move a full game into fourth place ahead of Boston Bruins.

Two games are scheduled tonight in the N. H. L. Boston plays at Montreal while Toronto visits Chicago.

Petes Strengthen Group Lead With 7-5 Victory Over Hawks In Hard-Fought Senior Tilt

Peterborough, Ont., Feb. 20 — Taking a 7-5 OHA senior victory over Belleville Hawks here last night, the Petes lengthened their lead in the Central Ontario hockey group to a game and a half over Eagles, leaving Hawks in the third slot. In the cleanest contest of the season, but one penalty was drawn, a minor to Trumble in the first frame. Play was fast throughout, with the Petes having a good margin in the second period, the other two heats being fairly even on scoring, though goalie Lefort was much busier each stanza than Ray Harding.

Striking fast and early, Belleville racked up a 3-0 lead in the first half of the initial inning, though the Petes came back later that period with two. The homesters peppered Lefort through the second chukker and rapped in three goals without a return. Each side tallied twice in the third, Belleville battling back in the last half of it to press hard. Though fast the game was scrambly in spots. Gene Sheedy handled the winners with Jim Ellis away, and Red Doran was a Quinte absentee.

Floyd Get Three

Starring on the home attack was the line of Garvey, Floyd and Collins. Don Floyd scored three of the Petes goals, Fred Garvey had three assists, and Ted Collins a pair. Gus Leonard and Curly Mason each had a goal and an assist, Junior West and Jake Wade notching a marker each. Single assists went to Jack Mortimer, and George Steele, while Arn Dugan was in on two. Ray Harding stopped a lot of hot thrusts, especially in the first and final frames.

Goal scorers for the losers were Peter Jones, Doug Day, Keith MacDonald, Don Barrett and Vern Goyer, the latter being dangerous at all times. Two assists apiece went to MacDonald, Day and Barrett all having a good evening on the attack, as Jack Wardhaugh and Bud Semark each had one assist. Lefort had plenty to do in the visitors net and made many fine saves.

Jones scored early on in-close combination with Wardhaugh and Semark. Day came back to slap in a passout on a play with MacDonald and Barrett, and MacDonald added one more on a rebound with Day and Barrett starting the play. Harding was down after one save when the puck was rifled into the hemp. West got one back shortly after from the side of the crease on a fast play with Steele and Gus Leonard. It was fast clean and pretty even at this time, and later Floyd fluked one from Garvey when it went in off a Belleville skate. Trumble drew a high sticking penalty just before the bell.

He was back in the second when Floyd tipped in a forward pass on a play with Collins and Garvey to tie it up. Late in the stanza, Wade blasted home a hot shot from outside defence, partly screened, with Mason and Dugan drawing assists. Just a split second before the bell, as the Petes kept pouring in hard, Mason cuffed home another in a ganging attack with Dugan and Mortimer on the goalies doorstep.

The Petes started strong again in the third with a quickie by Don Floyd, who back handed home a honey on a forward pass from Garvey and Collins. Gus Leonard made it 7-3 then on a rebound in a crease scramble. Hawks finally whittled the count some on Barrett's close in slap shot of a passout on a bit of work engineered by MacDonald and Day in the Petes corner. They tore in harder then and got one more with a minute and a half to go on nifty, fast stick-handling down the ice by Goyer.

Glen Roys Drub Norwood 9-4 In Valley League

A five-goal splurge in the third period after the game was tied up gave the Belleville Glen Roys a 9-4 victory over Norwood last night in a scheduled Trent Valley Hockey League game played on the village ice. The win gives the Glens sole possession of second place in the southern division standing.

Brian Mulvihill and Earl Cousins provided the scoring punch for the Glens with Mulvihill pacing the pack with three goals and three assists and Cousins coming through with two goals and three helpers. Leo Goyer snared a pair of counters with Frank Mulvihill and Timmy Williams scoring singles. Hatfield was credited with a pair of assists.

Brydges led the Norwood squad with a pair of goals with "Honey" Tompkins getting two assists. Thorpe and Payne accounted for the remaining village goals.

Ten penalties were handed out in a game that threatened at times to break out. The Glens drew eight of the sentences with Hurst getting two misconducts and a minor, Doug Bone sat it out for two minors.

Glens grabbed a 3-1 lead in the first period off goals by Cousins and Mulvihill but were outscored 2-1 in the second. Norwood tied the score at four-all early in the third and then the Glens broke out in a five - goal scoring rash that tucked the game away.

The teams:—

Norwood: goal, Jones; defence, Rogers, Kelly; centre, Whitnell; wings, Ferguson, Robinson; subs, Tompkins, McGee, Thorpe, Payne, Brydges, Griffin, Thompson, Aldred.

Glen Roys — goal, Plumley; defence, Hurst, Yorke; centre, Cousins; wings, B. Mulvihill, F. Mulvihill; subs, Williams, Hatfield, Adams, Bone, Whalen, Goyer, DeRushie.

Brundage Mooted Olympics Prexy

Oslo, Feb. 21 — (AP) — International politics are boiling at the sixth Winter Olympic Games.

The big question today is: Will Avery Brundage succeed J. Sigfrid Edstrom of Sweden as president of the International Olympic Committee, amateur sport's most honored job?

There are many Europeans who do not want to see the Olympic presidency go across the Atlantic, but chances are good Brundage will win.

"I have never campaigned for any office," said Brundage, wealthy Chicago hotel owner. Friends acknowledge he is available.

Brundage now is first vice-president of the Olympic organization. Probably his chief rival for the high post is Lord Burghley of Britain, former Olympic champion in the 400-metre hurdles, and also a vice-president.

Observers believe the Commonwealth probably will vote as a bloc in support of Lord Burghley.

Election of a new president probably will take place at the summer games at Helsinki. Edstrom, who is over 80, has said he will resign then.

Brundage probably will get most of his support from Latin American countries who believe Europe has had too much say in the Olympic organization.

British Girl Wins Skate Title, Suzanne Morrow Finishes 6th

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Oslo, Feb. 21 (CP) —In much the same way as Jeannette Altwegg's twinkling skates won her a championship for Britain, the skating fraternity will most likely be Canada's only point-winners at the current Olympic winter games.

Last night Miss Altwegg, who already holds the world title, became the queen among Olympic figure skaters. That meant 10 points—the only ones so far—for Britain in the unofficial standings.

Suzanne Morrow of Toronto placed sixth, and the single point for that creditable performance gave Canada a total of 4 1-2.

The skating prowess of Gordon Audley of Winnipeg meant 3 1-2 points when he placed in a tie for third place last Saturday in the 500-metre speed skating race.

Skaters in the aggregate —Canada's hockey players—so far are doing all right, atop the standing of the nine countries in the Olympic championship tournament.

Tonight Peter Firstbrook, 18-year-old Toronto figure skater goes into the last half of the men's competition for that title with a fourth-place ranking.

Button Favorite

The winner, like Miss Altwegg was 24 hours ago, is a foregone conclusion — Dick Button, world champion and 1948 Olympic champion.

Button is so far ahead on points accumulated in the compulsory figure phase that the free-skating windup means the Englewood, N.J. star is a shoo-in unless some unpredictable disaster overtakes him.

Young Firstbrook, however, is reckoned to do as well in the free-skating as he did in the school figures. At worst, the experts here in Oslo think he should be among the top six who collect points for their teams.

Yesterday turned out to be ladies' day for brilliancy of achievement. A few hours before Miss Altwegg, 22, received her gold medal, Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence was handed her second.

The 19-year-old skiing sensation from Rutland, Vt., won the women's slalom with a remarkable recovery and winning the hard way.

Lorne Main Meets Talbert In U.S. Tennis

New York, Feb. 21 — (CP)—Lorne Main, Canadian Davis Cupper tackles Billy Talbert, the defending champion and seeded No. 1, in the quarter-finals of the United States indoor tennis singles championships tonight.

Main, from Vancouver and seeded No. 4 among the foreign group, advanced to the round of eight with a pair of easy victories Tuesday night and then had to wait for the rest of the field to catch up.

Wimbledon champion Dick Savitt was among those who won their matches last night to enter the quarter-finals.

Bilts Defeat Barrie 7-3; Gain on Marlies

(By The Canadian Press)

The surging Guelph Biltmores picked up an important win in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League last night, trouncing the seventh-place Barrie Flyers 7-3 and moving to within three points of the league-leading Toronto Marlboros.

From the opening face-off Guelph set out to gain on the idle Marlies.

In other junior A games, Toronto St. Michael's climbed back into a fourth-place tie with St. Catharines by downing Teepees 8-3 and the ninth-place Windsor Spitfires edge the tail-end Oshawa Generals 5-4 in overtime. The victory hoisted Spits three points out of the league cellar.

Hamilton Tigers, in fifth place in the OHA Senior A race, last night held on to their slim chances of making the playoffs by edging the runner-up Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 3-2. In the only other senior A game, the tail-end Sarnia Sailors upset the league-leading Stratford Indians 5-3 in a game that meant little to the big six standings. Stratford is assured of first place, Sarnia is bogged deep in the cellar.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Jeannette Altwegg, 22-year-old English girl who prefers the study of child psychology to skating, won the Olympic figure skating championship last night in Oslo and then announced her retirement.

"I've always dreamed of winning the Olympic title and now I am satisfied," said Miss Altwegg, who also holds the world title.

"This is my last skating except for exhibitions in England and Scotland. Now I would like to study child psychology in Switzerland."

A rink skipped by Mrs. K. M. McLaren of Hamilton Thistles yesterday carried off the Edwards' Trophy in the main event of the Midland Curling Club bonspiel in Midland. The Hamilton rink defeated Mrs. Andy Grant of Toronto Royal Canadians 15-5 to climax a series of five straight wins in the three-day competition.

Phil Marchildon, former star righthander for Philadelphia Athletics will try a pitching comeback with the West Palm Beach (Fla.) Indians of the class-B Florida International League. Bruce Henry, the Indians' general manager, said yesterday in West Palm Beach that Marchildon had accepted terms and will be here for the start of spring training March 20. He pitched last summer in the Intercounty Baseball League.

Larry MacPhail and his partners agreed yesterday in Baltimore to buy controlling stock in Bowie Race Track for $1,997,000. Stockholders of the Southern Maryland Race Track began signing over the stock just as MacPhail's option to buy the plant expired at 3 p. m.

Charles Numez, European welterweight champion, said last night in Lille, France, that he had decided not to meet Kid Gavilan of Cuba in a proposed March 28 bout for the world title because he can't make the weight in his class. The action of the Frenchman leaves Gavilan the undisputed champion.

Trotting races at Toronto's Dufferin Park today were cancelled because of a heavy snowstorm which started early yesterday afternoon.

Middleweight champion Ray Robinson will engage in a ten round non-title fight in Israel this summer, Barney Ross said yesterday in New York. The former welterweight champion who left by plane for Los Angeles, said he was going to stage a major show called "Life for Israel" on June 14, in the 25,000 seat Ramat Gan Stadium, near Tel Aviv, Israel.

AT THE BELLE — Hard as it may be to believe it's "Elopement" time at the Belle Theatre, and William Lundigan and newcomer Anne Francis pictured above are the principals. The sequence aside, it's a love match, with Clifton Webb, playing an engineering part in it. A funny Leon Errol comedy and Color Cartoon precede the feature offering continuing until Saturday.

Hornets Score Six in Third

(By The Canadian Press)

The high-flying Pittsburgh Hornets exploded for six straight goals in a wild third period last night to trounce Hershey Bears 9-3 in the American Hockey League.

The victory widened the Hornets' western division lead over second-place Cleveland to 10 points. Hershey leads the eastern division with 61 points.

The scoring splurge came after Hershey's Red Gariepy became involved in an argument with an unidentified spectator. The spectator finally was ejected by policemen but shortly afterwards Gariepy argued with another fan and was handed a match misconduct penalty.

At Cincinnati, the Mohawks broke a three-game losing streak as they defeated Syracuse Warriors 4-2.

At Buffalo, Providence Reds scored a 6-5 victory over Buffalo Bisons.

Royals Thump Seattle 11-0

(By The Canadian Press)

Seattle Ironmen learned with humility last night why New Westminster Royals are currently leading the Pacific Coast Hockey League by seven points. They bowed to the host Royals 11-0 in the most decisive shutout victory in the history of the league.

Ironically, Tacoma Rockets, who set the previous record by walloping Victoria Cougars 9-0 in December, 1949, were being whipped 5-4 at the same time by the Quakers in Saskatoon.

Eighty-Eight Minutes In Penalties

Grand Rapids, Mich., Feb. 21—(AP)— Eighty-eight minutes of penalties, 74 of them in the second period, were called by referees Ron Hudson and Gordon Parsons as Grand Rapids Rockets and Toledo Mercurys battled to a 4-4 International Hockey League tie last night.

AT THE McCARTHY — Frank Fontaine is the client who has mistaken Jeanne Crain for Marriage Broker Thelma Ritter in the new 20th Century-Fox comedy, "The Model and the Marriage Broker," now at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Miss Crain, of course, could be nobody but the model. Also involved: Scott Brady.

AT THE CAPITOL — Gary Cooper makes strong talk with the Seminole Indian chief as Mari Aldon looks on, in "Distant Drums," produced by United States Pictures and presented by Warner Bros. The Technicolor outdoor epic will be shown for two days more, Friday and Saturday, February 22 – 23. Continuous shows Saturday from 1.00 p.m. Tonight Curtain at 8.30 presents "Henry V", in Technicolor.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, February 22

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Very stimulating, splendid rays from general planetary indications. Have no fear trying sound [illegible] as well familiar, projects, business or work problems. Be fair, reasonable, and achieve.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Encouraging influences. Hard work, financial interests, delicate and artistic professions can benefit with your skilled attention. Domestic and most private affairs top gainers.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Excellent day for mental alertness, original ideas, promotional stunts; for the more prosaic and practical matters, too. Finish incompleted tasks, venture new interests.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—You should be inspired to top previous good records, to strive to increase your assets, at least to do a finished job on whatever you work. Your position can be improved by you.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—New tasks, going after new customers, clients, seeking and [illegible]ing favors all honored now. Favorable, too, for you working with or handling tools, machinery, vehicles, metals, lumber.

August 23 to September 22—(Virgo)—Promising for your special interests, for family and other pleasant relationships. Authors, journalists, critics, playwrights, teachers, students, decorators among the very favored.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra) — Your specific work, whether profession, trade religious or just home-maker has splendid indications and you should make the most of every worthy advantage. Work and pray to achieve.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Matters that require determination, perhaps fresh aggressiveness, those that need the delicate and artistic touch, labor with the hands and mind all among the sponsored. Strengthen hope.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius—As with most of us today, sound investments, saving, worth-while business and money transactions are under friendly rays. Good management, well done work will bring reward.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn) — Student, teacher, employee, manager or executive are under fine aspects this most benefic Friday. A day for accomplishment, finishing projects hanging fire; for starting new things, too.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— Day holds promise, encouragement. Your planet Uranus adds a little advice against hasty judgment, unpremeditated changes in plans or methods unless they are real improvements.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)— Feel assured, and be ambitious, aim to make things hum. Most planets in highly favored aspects. Whatever day's duties, if honorable, you can make them beneficial to all.

YOU BORN TODAY have skill for leadership and management, can do artistic work at what you like or have talent for. Usually ambitious but not always as energetic and active as should be to keep pace with events and to rise as rapidly as you can and should. Don't be overly cautious nor skeptical but do match your ability and talents with the best. Keep studying improving every way you can. Pray always when troubled or confused; pray in gratitude, too. Good months for action ahead.

FRANKFORD

Scout Members Receive Badges

Frankford — The Frankford Boy Scouts held their regular weekly meeting in the community hall Friday evening with a good turnout. The meeting opened with a period of silence, in tribute to the late King. The Scout promise was affirmed to the Queen.

Arrangements were discussed for the collection of paper on Saturday. The boys are not holding a regular paper drive, since it has to be stored for some time before being taken to the dealer. Any person who has paper to give to the Scouts is asked to telephone Scoutmaster Gene Lohnes at 156 and arrangements will be made to pick it up. The Scouts are grateful to Mr. and Mrs. Earl Baker, who have granted the Scouts the use of the upstairs of their barn for the storage of paper. They are also grateful to Mr. W. Love for the use of a horse and wagon for paper collection.

Proficiency Badges

Proficiency badges were distributed, with the musician and artist badges going to Ian Finnigan, campers badges to Earl Rogers, Gary Walker, Eldon Sine, Francis Stickle, John Pshebnicky, Dean Kemp, Harold Baker and Doug Consul, with the leather workers badge going to Hugh Lyons.

Most of the evening was spent in hobby work, with several of the boys being given individual instruction in semaphore.

At the close of the meeting, Scouts were informed that next week, they would have Captain Ed Loucks of the H. & P.R. Reserve Army to give them instruction in typographical map reading. The Scouts are most grateful to Captain Loucks for giving his time in aid of the boys.

Special services were held in the Batawa United and Roman Catholic Churches in tribute to the late Sovereign, King George VI, on Friday.

The Frankford Branch of the Canadian Legion held a special memorial service in the Memorial Park on Friday morning at 11:00 a.m. The veterans paraded from the Legion Hall on King Street to the Cenotaph in the park. Comrade President Madill welcomed the veterans present, and spoke briefly in respect to his late Majesty. Comrade Gene Lohnes read the 23rd Psalm, and the Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison. Comrade Everett Hall placed a wreath at the Cenotaph. Last Post was sounded by bugler Charles Butcher, and a period of silence was observed. Reveille was sounded. The veterans returned to the hall for dismissal.

ROSLIN

Mrs. O. Rollins Addresses W.I.

Roslin—The February meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. Fargey with 16 ladies present.

The president Mrs. Slingerland opened the meeting in the usual way.

A short business period followed. The district service, when the departmental speaker, Miss Kidd will be present to discuss, "Fabrics we buy and use," will be held on April 1st in the Anglican Church Hall, Roslin, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. The five northern branches of the East Hastings district will attend this meeting. While the southern branches will attend a meeting at Cannifton on April 2nd.

It was decided to give the institute grant to the school to be used as the teacher saw fit.

The conveners of standing committees reporting were Mrs. W. White on "Agriculture and Canadian Industries," with a paper "Two Better Blades of Grass." The speaker stressed run down soil would only produce poor quality crops. Consult the agricultural representative for assistance in improving the soil. White with a paper "Welfare For All," as for example, old age pensions.

The guest speaker Mrs. O. Rollins, of Plainfield, gave an interesting and informative talk on the conveners conference she had attended at Guelph O.A.C. as convener of "Historical Research."

She spoke of the importance of having a Tweedsmuir book to record the local history. Each branch should have a museum. Today is tomorrow's past. Local history should be taught in the schools.

In the absence of the leader Mrs. W. Chisholm, a paper on the motto "Never Put off Until Tomorrow What You Can do Today" was given by Miss Alice Wilson.

A paper "The Women's Institute as a Community Builder" was given by Mrs. H. Sills, district president. The speaker said the Institute was a physical, moral and intellectual builder, she stressed co-operation with the school board. "Do we neglect our co-operative program? The underlying W.I. principle is service for others." Mrs. Sills displayed a cushion top and explained how it was made; several quilt blocks were shown.

Farm Forum Notes

On the question of marketing and commodity groups all forums found this a difficult question. Many suggestions were made such as: improving quality, stronger farm organizations, more advertising and more efficient management, reducing the spread between producer and consumer. One forum stated that hog growers should at least receive cost of production. Also it might be a help in the marketing of cheese if it could be available to consumers as required in new, medium and old grades and packaged to meet public demand.

All agreed that the members of the commodity group should be more loyal paying the proper fees and attending all meetings. Education as to their responsibility towards their groups should be stressed. An increase of storage facilities for eggs and fruit might tend to keep an equalized price. It might be good policy to make it compulsory for packing houses to drop retail price immediately each day as reflected by the live stock market.

Four forums, River Valley, Foxboro, Hazzards and Brookdale reported, showing an aggregate attendance of 74 at the Feb. 11th meeting.

Back Hurt, Limbs Ached, Felt Sick, Weak, Rundown

"At Times I Could Hardly Walk," Says This Woman. Troubled with Stomach, Dizzy Spells, Headaches. "Nerves All On Edge." Happy Over Relief She Got by Taking Syntona.

"For nearly a year I was a very sick woman, my system was all rundown. I couldn't sleep, and at times felt so weak I could hardly walk," said Mrs. S. P. Carruthers, Grand Bend, Ontario, in a recent report.

"I used to get dizzy spells, awful sick headaches and my nerves were all on edge. Although I had a very poor appetite what little food I did eat always gave me large quantities of gas, heartburn, and belching up of hot, sour liquids. My back hurt, limbs and joints ached with rheumatic pain and my work was a burden to me.

"After I had used everything I knew of without benefit, a friend told me about Syntona. She recommended it so highly that I decided to get some and this medicine has really been wonderful for me. It is only a few weeks since I've been using Syntona, but already I am so much better that I can hardly realize the change that has come about. I have gained in strength, am able to sleep well at night and am not nervous as I was before.

"Also, the headaches, backache, and other pains are practically all cleared up, I am not troubled with dizzy spells now and I not only have a much better appetite but my food digests well without trouble afterwards."

Thousands of men and women like Mrs. Carruthers have found relief from similar troubles by taking Syntona. Why not give this Pure Herbal medicine a chance to help you too? It is pleasant to take and the results are quickly felt.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at DOLAN THE DRUGGIST.

More Precious Than Rubies

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

Mr. Muncie did not show how deeply he was touched by the little ceremony, for emotional display had no place in his conception of permissable behavior, and he had concealed his interest in the youngster.

"She is far too young to be any good!" Mr. Muncie had declared "and we don't take any apprentices any more, Mr. Victor."

"Ah! Mais non, she is not an apprentice!" Old Victor's voice had been gentle but stubborn. "She is a workman of high skill. I have trained her myself. As for being too young, why! I was only 16 when my father first brought me to Mr. Trumbull at the old lower Broadway establishment, and I too, was already a skilled journeyman. Jules, my son, came to us at Union Square when he had just 19 years. I stake my reputation that you will not regret taking this young woman."

The head, Mr. Muncie, had then hemmed and hawed and protested on the grounds of Alma's sex. There had never been a woman at the workbench. Such a thing was unheard of! A boy—well, perhaps they would have given him a chance. But a girl!

"I stood by you alone, through the great jeweler's strike," Victor said. "I have given to you and to The House but I have never asked a return." Mr. Muncie's head was bent, remembering, while Alma waited, wide-eyed and breathless. Then the Head had looked at Old Victor with the ghost of a smile.

"You do right to remind me," he said. "Loyal people are more precious than rubies. Let the young girl show us her skill."

Ever since she had worked beside Old Victor who hovered over her like a guardian angel even when he was free between his increasingly rare assignments.

Still handsome and erect, he considered himself at 76, to be as able as ever, and came to The House every day. He had lived and breathed Trumbull's for so long that its honor was his honor, its reputation, his reputation; its success had been success enough for him. He had lived alone, a caliph by day in the reflected light of the great jewelry establishment, a hermit by night in the brown-stone rooming house where he seldom admitted visitors.

Old Victor, Alma decided, should be told who had given her the furs. Her grandfather had been impatient with her tolerance of Tommy, impatient with Tommy's apparent inability to share in that vicarious pride which bound most of the Trumbull employees together, and Alma for once, wanted Old Victor to stand corrected.

When she crossed the street and went into the bright and dignified employee's entrance, Joe Denton came toward her, his fine even teeth showing in an impulsive smile.

"Hiya, Jewels?" he said "Where's Tommy?"

"He had to go out of town." She hoped Joe wouldn't question her further. Joe knew all about Tommy's occupations and none of them up to now, had involved his being away. But Joe merely nodded vaguely. There was something else on his mind. He came nearer and lowered his voice.

"Say! Have you heard the latest?"

"Latest what?"

"Robbery!" said Joe. "There's been another. Inside job again, and as usual the stuff has apparently vanished into thin air."

"Small stones again?" Alma said it in the affirmative but with a furtive shudder. Everybody at The House had felt exquisitely uncomfortable since the first of these thefts had occurred. Not that there had been any embarrassing questioning, for The Head had a policy of trust.

It was this very attitude of Mr. Muncie's which made the situation so difficult, Alma thought. If only he'd have everybody examined and a big blow-up, it would clear the atmosphere and probably stop the pilfering. But the existing system of inspection and check-up of the personnel was so perfect that it was practically impossible for a thief to take anything off the premises without detection, a fact which Mr. Muncie relied on.

There had, so far, been no publicity about the robberies though the police had been working in vain for some time. No trace of the missing jewels had been found anywhere.

"They say it's the first time in 50 years anything like it has happened here," said Joe.

For a moment Alma sensed that he was actually more concerned with her than with what he was saying. It was as though the mere fact of being with her ignited some highly inflammable spark in him. Then he closed off the betraying expression in his eyes quickly, deliberately. It was as if he had slammed the door to some private room and he hastily resumed his usual dry, quizzical manner.

"There goes my step-mother!" he said with an inclination of his head. "I'll catch a bigger bawling out from her than from the floor manager if I'm late! So long, see you later, Jewels!"

Joe opened the sliding door which led to the main floor of the store and Alma caught a fleeting glimpse of old Mrs. Denton in her wheelchair propelling herself along rapidly in the direction of the appraisal department in which she worked. The elderly woman, for many years a helpless cripple, turned her sour-sweet smile on her step-son and said something which Alma could not hear.

Joe replied with his usual unfailing courtesy but did not stop. The door closed upon the little incident and Alma turned away wondering for the thousandth time, how Joe managed to endure the strange woman whom his father's death had saddled him with.

Mrs. Denton had hated Joe since he was a boy, because at first she had regarded him as an obstacle in the way of her complete monopolization of his father. Then when the elder Denton had died, leaving his widow unprovided for, her hatred had increased, for Joe had been driving the car when the accident in which she was injured had occurred.

U.S. Gives France $570,000,000More To Fulfill Program

Atlantic Allies Take Up European Army Plan

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 22 (AP)—The United States agreed in principle today to give France an additional $570,000,000 in aid to help fulfill her rearmament program.

In French money the sum is 200,000,000,000 francs.

The figure is not final but is the one tentatively agreed upon,. said an authoritative American source.

He disclosed the decision just before the full North Atlantic Treaty organization council met to give its blessing to the European army plan to bring 12 German divisions into a unified force.

France, in turn, will raise an additional sum estimated at 100,000,000,000 francs to close the gap between what her rearmament plans will cost and what her inflation-stricken economy can afford.

No Direct Dollar Aid

A spokesman said most of the new U.S. assistance will be in the form of procurement contracts outside the U.S., arms, contributions to the infrastructure (supporting network of air bases and communications) and similar measures.

It will not be in the form of direct dollar aid because that would require special congressional authorization.

French sources said inflation has cost the proposed European army the equivalent of four divisions. Originally the French pledged 14 divisions to the one-uniform six-nation force.

At present, French prices which would have paid for 14 divisions last year will pay for only 10 today.. But the French said they would undertake to contribute 12 divisions anyway to make up half the divisional loss caused by the inflation.

Substantial Progress

Meanwhile, finance and defence ministers made "substantial progress" in splitting up among the Allies the estimated $450,000,000 cost of building the infrastructure across western Europe.

In announcing that progress, a NATO spokesman said one representative from each of the 10 countries involved will meet later today to finally sort out the difficult problem.

The formality of approving the proposed European army—an estimated 2,000,000 man force of Germans, French, Netherlands, Belgians, Italians and Luxembourgers—would come about 5 p.m. (noon EST), council sources said.

They also believe NATO endorsement will greatly ease the path for congressional approval of the $7,900,000,000 President Truman is asking for foreign military aid.

American leaders here had been fearful that without quick endorsement for the European army, Congress might slash appropriations and stall plans for an Allied defence system big enough to warn off any communist assault.

CUT WAY OUT

Toronto, Feb. 22 —(CP) Thieves Wednesday night cut their way through a ceiling to escape with $6,000 in furs from the Joel Fur Shop in central Toronto. Police were told the loot included 3,120 pelts and five coats.

Dieppe Veteran Will be Hanged For 3 Killings

Vallzyfield, Que., Feb. 22. (CP)—A 31-year-old veteran of the 1942 Dieppe raid is under sentence of death today for kicking and slashing his aged grandmother to death last July.

Alcide Martin, a resident of St. Henri de Maschouche, Que., did not flinch yesterday when he heard Mr. Justice Edouard Tellier sentence him to be hanged May 2 for the slaying of Mrs. Anthime Allan, 66, at her home near Ormstown, Que.

Martin also was charged with the slayings of Mrs. Allan's second husband, 76, and a neighbor, Narcisse Cusson, 72.

Defence lawyer Paul Aubut has not yet announced whether he will appeal the verdict and sentence.

The triple slaying first came to light when Martin gave himself up to police saying: "A terrible thing has happened. I quarrelled with my grandmother. There is a dead person. Don't ask me more."

Investigating officers discovered the bruised and battered bodies of the three elderly persons in a shed at the rear of the Allan home.

The jury was out two hours and 15 minutes before reaching a verdict. Asked if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced, Martin answered steadily:

'I have nothing to say sir."

Martin, according to evidence at the trial, had a number of beers the day he visited his grandparents.

He became engaged in an argument with his grandfather and struck him. Mrs. Allan, rushing to her husband's aid, was brutally stabbed and beaten as was Cusson, the neighbor, who came to the aged couple's assistance.

38 Passengers Will Continue Journey Soon

Ste. Therese, Que., Feb. 22—(CP)— Thirty-eight passengers, stranded three days near their snowbound train and only a short distance from their destination, are expected to continue their journey tonight.

Canadian National Railways officials said today the line between Campbellton, N.B., and Gaspe, Que., would be reopened by noon today.

Two rotary plows, coming from either end of the line, and 50 snow-shovellers dug the train out last night and, after making sure it could roll, moved it back to Chandler, Que., 15 miles west of here. The train was to return to Campbellton during the day.

The passengers were put up in two hotels in the area and at farmhouses. Nine men chose to remain in the baggage and express cars with the six-man crew. They joined the other stranded passengers when the train left.

Safe and sound, the passengers thought it was a lot of fun for the first two days. But some were getting anxious to continue their trip. They have only 45 miles to cover to Gaspe, centre of the Gaspe Peninsula. There was no travel on the highways, under drifts of 10 to 12 feet.

The lower St. Lawrence region has been plagued by snowstorms and blizzards for a week.

SEVENTY DEAD AS ALLIES SMASH RIOT IN COMPOUND

Civilian Uprising Led by Communists

Punsan, Korea, Feb. 22—Combat-hardened troops of the United States 27th Wolfhound regiment smashed a communist-led riot in a Korean civilian prison compound Monday. The fight left 70 dead and 165 injured.

American authorities said today 750 U.S. troops and 1,500 interned Koreans were involved. The fight lasted three hours.

Announced American casualties were one killed, one wounded and 22 injured slightly.

The other 69 dead and 142 injured were interned Korean civilians.

News of the riot in the Koje Island stockade off South Korea was withheld for four days.

U.S. authorities said the rioters attacked with a vicious array of homemade weapons—steel pickets, blackjacks, iron pipe, metal tent pole spikes, barbed wire flails, wooden clubs, rocks and knives.

About 1,500 of the 5,000 Korean civilians in compound No. 62 on Koje stormed in a screaming mob against the U.S. guards. Authorities said no communist prisoners-of-war took part in the outbreak.

The Eighth Army said the riot was communist planned and led.

A South Korean staff officer who accompanied Defence Minister Lee Ki Poong to Koje after the outbreak gave this account:

A Bitter Quarrel

The riot began with a bitter quarrel between communist sympathizers in one compound and South Korean loyalists in another compound 100 yards away. The compounds were separated by two barbed-wire fences.

The red sympathizers began shouting when South Korean personnel went into the second compound at 6 a.m. to screen internes for possible release.

The red sympathizers attacked when American guards tried to quiet them. The U.S. soldiers fired in self-defence.

The interned Korean civilians on Koje rioted against the screening process separating communists from prisoners with South Korean leanings.

Koje, 25 miles long and 15 miles wide, is southwest of Pusan. An estimated 116,000 Korean and Chinese prisoners of war and 54,000 Korean civilians are held here in compounds.

Had Change of Heart

Toronto, Feb. 21 (CP)—A husband who last night charged that his wife failed to deposit $6,000 he gave her to bank had a change of heart today.

Steve Hnatuik, 43-year-old packinghouse employee, had his wife, 26, arrested on a charge of stealing the money but today in court he said he didn't wish to proceed with the charge.

"I will straighten things out,' he told the magistrate.

Mrs. Hnatuik was arrested after her husband told police he went to make a withdrawal at the bank and discovered the money was not in his account.

'Gravy Train' Comes to Halt for U.S. Soldiers in Canada's Northland

Edmonton, Feb. 22 (CP) — The gravy train has come to a halt for U. S. soldiers stationed in Canada's northland.

For many years U. S. soldiers in Canada have drawn their wages in American dollars and benefitted up to 20 per cent through the dollar exchange paid. Now with the Canadian dollar fluctuating at par with, or higher than the American dollar, the U. S. soldiers are taking a loss.

Apparently the American men in northern Alberta, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territories are the only ones being hit by the exchange rates up to now.

Reports reaching here from the Yukon Territories where about 350 U. S. Army engineers are taking part in Exercise Eager Beaver, say the American men are most unhappy about the situation. Now they want to be paid in Canadian funds.

"This will reach the Congress," one of the Americans was reported to have said.

But even that may do little good for the men. An informed army officer in Edmonton said the United States Army has a ruling that the soldiers stationed in Canada must be paid in American funds.

The officer said the complaints were voiced among the Americans taking part in the joint U. S. - Canadian Eager Beaver exercise in the Yukon. About 150 Canadians along with the 350 Americans are taking part in the far-north manoeuvre, near Kluane Lake, 1,400 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The exercise began in the middle of January and is expected to last about six months. It is designed to test equipment and personel sonnel under winter conditions and spring thaw.

The officer here said banks in Whitehorse and surrounding towns in the Kluane Lake area keep close tab on the market exchange rates but private business establishments are charging a flat rate of about five cents on the dollar.

For the Americans it marks the end of more than 10 years of being on the receiving end of a favorable exchange rate — the Canadian "gravy train" has chugged to a halt.

Two Children Slip Away From Parents, Run Back Into Burning Home and Perish

North Bay, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Two children were burned to death when fire destroyed their home early today at the Cooks Mills Settlement, four miles north of North Bay.

The two, Alcide Sauve, four years old today, and his sister Lillian, 9, slipped away from their parents and ran back into their burning home. They were trapped when a can of coal oil exploded.

Their mother, Mrs. Aime Sauve, suffered burns to her face, neck and arms when she tried to brave the flames in an effort to rescue them. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

The fire broke out about 4:30 a.m. when Mr. and Mrs. Sauve and their nine children were in bed in the upper storey of their six-room frame house. The parents roused the children and herded them through the front door.

On his way out, Mr. Sauve, 41, a day laborer, grabbed an armful of blankets. He placed them on the snow and sat the children upon them.

Lillian complained to her mother of cold feet and apparently tried to go back to her upstairs bedroom to get her shoes.

She slipped away from her mother and dashed into the house.

Alcide apparently followed her. He was believed to be trying to rescue a toy truck, a birthday present he had taken to bed with him.

A can of coal oil exploded, cutting off their escape.

The fire started in an unused summer kitchen at the rear of the house.

The surviving children are Leonard, 13; Reginald, 12; Rosa, 10; Francholse, 8; Marcel, 6; Evelyn, 2; and Jeanette, nine months.

Communist Battalion Invades Allied-Held Island, Marines Sink 13 of 20 Invasion Boats

Seoul, Korea, Feb. 22 (AP) — South Korean Marines beat off a communist amphibious invasion of an Allied held island off the northeast coast of Korea in a 33-hour battle, the Allies announced today.

The Korean army said its marines sank 13 of the 20 invasion boats.

Seventy invaders were reported killed and six captured. Prisoners included the commander of the amphibious attack.

Nine South Korean Marines were killed and six wounded the navy said.

The assault was made by a red battalion—about 800 or 1,000 men. It was not indicated whether they were Chinese or North Koreans.

The battle began about one a.m. Wednesday and lasted until 10 a.m. Thursday when the attackers fled back to the red mainland in their remaining boats.

The assault was directed against Yang Island, about 16 air miles from the communist east coast of Songjin.

Yang is believed to be the northernmost island held by the Allies. It lies midway between the 40th and 41st parallel and serves as a lookout post off the red coast. The island presumably is one that the Allies would give back to the communists if an armistice is signed.

Republic of Korea Marines have occupied the island since last summer.

Heaviest fighting in recent days has been in the valleys between eastern mountains. Thursday Allied troops called on helicopters to pull them out of a red trap in the east. North Koreans who had pinned down the Allies, withdrew over the snow covered ground under the hammering of Allied artillery and reinforcements.

The U.S. Eighth Army reported no fighting Friday except brief clashes between small groups ranging from a squad to a platoon in size.

Snow-filled skies restricted air operation.

Area-By-Area Plan for Senior Schools Passed

Toronto, Feb. 22 —(CP) —The Board of Education last night directed board officials to prepare a new area-by-area plan for establishing senior schools in Toronto.

The vote was 16-2. Parents attending the meeting in opposition to the senior school plan applauded the two trustees who voted against the move.

Senior schools, established in some Ontario centres, take in grades 7 and 8.

Toronto's board didn't actually commit itself to three-level pre-university education. Preparation of the plan may take some time and then it has to be considered again.

Trustee Percy Might, a public school principal for 40 years, said he opposed the idea even on educational grounds. The cost would be three times the estimate and the curriculum would be overspecialized.

Trustee Albert Cranham said he visited Hamilton to see how senior schools were working out. They have become so popular there that a seventh is under construction.

Abbott Tells Manufacturers To Go Slow

Montreal, Feb. 22. (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott hinted last night that tobacco manufacturers were curtailing production to reduce sales and make a case against the government's tobacco taxes.

In an address to a district political club, he said retailers have written him complaining that they cannot get enough tobacco supplies. These complaints said the manufacturers told the retailers a quota system had been set up.

The minister said that when a delegation of tobacco growers visited him recently to protest the tax on tobacco, he warned them "not to oversell their case."

U.S. Will Escape Strike Saturday, May Come Mar. 23

Pittsburgh, Feb. 22—(AP)—The United States will escape a steel strike Saturday but a walkout may come March 23 unless a bitter contract controversy is settled.

Top strategy-makers of the C. I. O. United Steelworkers did as expected yesterday in postponing their strike. They issued this warning:

"We hope that a strike may be averted but the patience of our members is running out."

The union decided to cancel its weekend strike threat in order to give the wage stabilization board more time to recommend a settlement.

The union, headed by Philip Murray, also president of the C. I. O., has been working without a contract since Jan. 1.

The union and the steel companies recently concluded presenting their cases to a W. S. B. panel. The panel is not expected to give its findings to the full W. S. B. for a week or 10 days.

The W. S. B. entered the dispute after the union and industry reached a deadlock on the union's request for an 18½ cent hourly pay boost and other demands for the men who now average from $1.92 to $1.97 an hour.

Among other things, Murray is insisting on a guaranteed annual wage, union shop, improved premium pay and other benefits.

Some industry spokesmen have contended the demands would mean an increase in the price of steel.

Murray told a press conference that although the wage policy committee voted unanimously to cancel the strike the proposal "met with considerable opposition."

MURDER CHARGE LAID AGAINST SEMI-RECLUSE

Man Shot While Young Son Watches

Sturgeon Falls, Ont., Feb. 22 — (CP)—Wilfred Laycock, 66-year-old semi-recluse, is scheduled to appear in court today at North Bay, 24 miles east of here, on a charge of murder in the rifle slaying of Arthur Kierstead, 42.

He is accused of shooting Kierstead as the latter drove past Laycock's tarpaper shack on the way to a woodlot. Kierstead died in the snow after telling his 10-year-old son, Lloyd, to go for the police.

Some residents of the district surrounding this Northern Ontario pulp town described Kierstead as a genius. Others called him a trouble maker. Police said there had been "bad blood" between Laycock and Kierstead for some time.

Kierstead was, at various times, a printer, a publisher, a cattle and sheep breeder and a some-time preacher. He had been in this district about nine years. He and his wife and six of their nine children lived in a ramshackle house at the west end of the town.

In that house, Mrs. Kierstead last night told reporters her husband was a God-fearing man who "always kept the Sabbath."

On a wall in the house was a certificate saying that Kierstead had won prizes for his cattle at Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Against another wall were stacked copies of linotype journals and other associated publications. On a desk were a Bible and hymnals.

Made Threat to Shoot

Persons who knew Kierstead said that at one time he published weekly tabloid newspapers here and at nearby Cache Bay and at Mattawa, Ont., and still published a weekly with a New Brunswick dateline. They also said he had a college education and could carry on an intelligent conversation but often displayed a persecution complex.

Police Chief John Lafleche of Sturgeon Falls said Laycock had once said he would shoot Kierstead the next time Kierstead set foot on the Laycock property.

Laycock the old man offered no resistance. One officer said Laycock made a remark about being at peace now that Kierstead is dead..

Young Lloyd Kierstead said he and his father were going to get a load of wood, when the shooting occurred. His father was driving the team along a winter road. Immediately behind the 12-by-12 foot shack in which Laycock lived alone and from which he occasionally came into town to buy provisions. A fence separated the shack from the rest of the property.

The boy said Laycock suddenly appeared on the little porch of the shack, said something to Kierstead then swung up his rifle and fired. He said the slug smashed into Kierstead's hand near the wrist, shattering it and spraying bone fragments across the snow.

My dad told me to run for the police the boy said. I started to run along the fence to the road and I heard another shot. I looked back and my father said to run that he had been hit in the body (the second slug hit Kierstead at the base of the neck).

North Bay, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Mark Holman, a veteran Canadian National Railways policeman, lost both feet when run over last night by a tank car in the C. N R. yards here. A passerby heard the constable's shouts following the accident. Both feet were amputated at the ankles by the car's wheels.

3 'Monkey-Sized' Men Loot Bank, Take $30,000

Five Employees Forced To Cellar and Tied Up

Toronto, Feb. 22—(CP)—Three "monkey-sized" men, so small they were able to crawl through a foot-square window, held up a suburban bank today and escaped with more than $30,000 after waiting patiently for the time-lock on the vault to open.

The bank was the St. Clair East and O'Connor Drive branch of the Bank of Montreal in East York. The gunmen, each dressed in blue jeans, blue shirts and blue ski caps, apparently waited most of the night for the staff to arrive.

As each of the five employees entered he was held up, taken to the basement and tied with black tape. Their mouths were also taped.

When the staff were trussed up, the bandits ordered the manager and accountant to open the vault. Told that a time lock was on which did not unlock until 9:45 a.m., they waited until that time then cleaned out the cash.

The men, described by a witness as "monkey-sized," worked quietly and efficiently. They took $25 from the bag of a woman employee another woman put her engagement ring in her mouth in fear that the bandits would take it off her finger.

Police said no full-grown man could have crawled through the unbarred window by which the bandits entered the bank.

Each Said 'No'

Munsan, Korea, Feb. 22. (AP)—Allied and communist truce negotiators offered each other compromise package deals on troop rotation and ports of entry today.

Each side said "no!"

But their differences were narrowed to only one port of entry and 5,000 men in the monthly rotation ceiling. Originally the difference was nine ports of entry and 70,000 men.

One again the U.N. rejected the reds' nomination of Russia as a member of the neutral inspection commission.

Company Makes Claim

Ottawa, Feb. 22. (CP)—British-American Oil Company, whose truck crashed into the south-end branch of the Bank of Toronto and killed the manager last week, has lodged a claim against the city for damages to its truck.

The manager, E J. Fitzgerald, was sitting in his office when the 20-ton oil tanker crashed through the building.

The driver of the truck, Wilfred Conlin of Hull, was charged with dangerous driving.

The oil company, seeking an undisclosed amount of damages, claims the street at the place the accident occurred was not in proper condition.

Manslaughter Plea Brings Lyons 5 Years

Kingston, Feb. 22. (CP)—Allan Vernon Lyons, on trial for the butcher-knife slaying of his wife, was sentenced yesterday to five years in jail on a manslaughter charge.

The 33-year-old Lyons brought his trial to an unexpected halt Thursday by pleading innocent of murder but guilty of manslaughter in the November death of his 31-year-old wife.

His counsel, Arthur Martin, entered the plea and Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney did not object. Mr. Justice J. M. King then advised the jury to return a manslaughter verdict which they did without even leaving the box.

The stolid calm that Lyons had shown throughout the three-day trial failed him as his counsel pleaded for leniency. He burst into tears and wept silently.

The courtroom was jammed Thursday. Spectators stood three and four deep along the walls.

The crown completed its case yesterday and no defence witnesses were called. Lyons' counsel submitted that the prosecution's case had established "provocation" for the Nov. 10 attack. He said Lyons had acted "without too much thought" after his wife had bitten his thumb during an argument.

Martin said "it was a misfortune" that the knife had struck a fatal spot when he swung in at his wife.

Police Corporal Roger Andre had testified Wednesday that Lyons had "picked up the knife and made a swipe to scare her" during the argument.

Canberra, Feb. 22 — (Reuters) — External Affairs Minister Richard Casey said today "N.A.T.O. is undoubtedly the most important bulwark of resistance against world communism but countries like Australia must take care to ensure their interests are not inadvertently overlooked." He added "There is some risk of a state of affairs in which some members of the Commonwealth may be in closer and quicker touch with N.A.T.O. members than with other members of the Commonwealth."

Costs of Treating TB With New Drug May be Reduced $100 a Patient

New York, Feb. 22 (AP) —The most promising anti-tuberculosis drug yet discovered is expected to be on the market by May or June at 25 to 50 cents per daily pill.

It was estimated that costs of treating the disease, if the drug lives up to its early promise, might be reduced to less than $100 a patient. The average cost for treating a case of TB now is about $3,500 a patient.

Tests so far, as one doctor put it, indicated the drug virtually stops TB in its tracks. But doctors emphasized the tests still are in early stages.

At press conferences yesterday, experts told how 190 patients, hopelessly ill with TB, made amazing improvements within a few weeks under the treatment.

Fever of 100 to 105 fell to normal. Within a week, the patients—all of whom were emaciated and had refused food—developed ravenous appetites, eating up to 11 eggs for breakfast.

Men and women gained an average of 20 pounds in nine weeks. Some gained up to 95 pounds in that period, then levelled off at normal weight. Coughs got better. In some, TB germs disappeared from the sputum.

None of the patients had responded to present general methods of treatment or drugs, such as streptomycin.

The drug, a chemical related to a B-vitamin with coal tars supplying the raw materials, is called rimifon by one of its developers, Hoffman La Roche, Inc., of Nutley, N.J., and called nydrazid by the other, E. R. Squibb and Sons, of New Brunskick, N.J.

The chemical name is isonictonic acid compound.

Member of Staff Helps Motorist Get Car Started

At least one resident of the province of Quebec is happier today that members of the editorial staff of the Ontario Intelligencer work into the wee sma' hours of the morning.

The Quebecker driving a late model auto, became stuck on Market street early this morning as he was about to proceed on his way west. He stood on the corner by the City Hall for several moments, looking up and down a deserted thoroughfare but no help appeared to be forthcoming.

Then, just after two o'clock, he espied someone leaving the office of the Ontario Intelligencer and immediately approached him for help.

The two pushed and pulled, tugged and shoved, and finally, after several anxious moments, were able to dislodge the vehicle from the spot where it had become stuck.

With a happy sigh of relief, the traveller jumped into the car, said "Good night and thank you very much", and continued his interrupted journey while the staff member wearily trudged his way home, feeling much better for the good deed which he had done.

Al J. Davis Again Elected As Secretary

Al J. Davis was re-elected secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Y.M.C.A. General Secretaries' Association for a third term at the meeting held in Hamilton over the weekend. A large delegation of general secretaries was in attendance including the representatives from the Vancouver and Halifax associations, Edmonton, Winnipeg and Montreal. Other officers elected were A. W. Kemball of Montreal, president and J. J. Lunn, Quebec, vice-president.

In the two-day session which was held in connection with the Y.M.C.A. National Council meetings, commissions were authorized to make a study of Y.M.C.A. staff training conferences; staff recruiting, and staff social and economic security.

John J. Pritchard, president, McColl Frontenac Oil Company, Montreal, was elected president of the Y.M.C.A. National Council. A report was presented by Dr. James Gibson of Ottawa reaffirming the belief of the Y.M.C.A. in a program of Christian emphasis in all Y.M.C.A. activities in which youth could be exposed to Christian democratic value in its recreational, social, physical and educational activities. The religious approach which makes the association unique should be free of dogmas and creeds but contain the principles of spiritual life so frequently forgotten in the materialistic developments of modern recreation.

Concern Felt

Concern was felt for the inroads of professionalism even in the ranks of teams of teenagers in such games as hockey and baseball and football. It was easily understood that well-meaning business and industrial firms and service clubs who sponsored teams by financial inducements were frequently undermining the amateurism which was the only incentive Canadian boys and young men could use in competition with imports who placed them at a serious disadvantage.

Another report presented by Major E. G. Moogk, recognized the needs for service by the Y.M.C.A. to enlisted men and women in the Armed Services. Free Y.M.C.A. membership is recommended for a period of three months to men returning from a theatre of war. Each association should seek to provide friendly counsel and opportunities for social and recreational activities for service personnel.

At the annual dinner Professor Marcus Long, Toronto, spoke of the impacts of world events on society, creating tensions.

W T. C. Hackett, economic advisor to the Bank of Monreal spoke on the subject "Economic and Financial Trends in Canada" in which he predicted a continuation of the present inflationary period during the year 1952.

Gordon L. McCleary of Edmonton the president of Y's Men's International embracing clubs in all parts of the world spoke briefly of service by Y'sdom to the Y.M.C.A.

Prentice took the attendance of parents and grandparents, the honors going to Mr. T. J. Trombley's class by a good margin.

A reading on Founder's Day was given by Mrs. Frost, following which a playlet emphasizing the values of the Home and School Association was put on by Mrs. H. Vanstone, Mrs. W. McInroy and James Sproul.

Mrs. H. Mawer was encored for a delightful pianoforte solo.

Rev. G. D. Young showed a large number of slides on "Bulb Growing in Holland," and gave a talk in that connection.

A vote of thanks to all contributing to the program was extended by W. J. Cottrell. After the meeting closed refreshments were served.

Private Members' Bill to Lift Margarine Color Ban Meets Rising Opposition in House

(By The Canadian Press)

A private member's bill to lift the ban on coloring of margarine has run into tough sledding in the Manitoba legislature.

So far, 17 members have spoken against it and only nine in favor. Members have been deluged with telegrams asking them not to vote for the bill. Debate on its second reading has been adjourned.

Measures to stimulate the building of houses were promised in the Throne Speech read yesterday at the opening of the first session of Ontario's 24th legislature. The House was told that a Crown company will be set up to make loans to would-be home builders in villages, hamlets and on farms—areas in which private lending institutions have been least willing to take mortgages.

Other legislation forecast includes that providing for pensions of $40 a month with a means test for persons between 18 and 65 years who are totally and permanently disabled and are not otherwise pensioned.

Echoes of the breakup of British Columbia's coalition government continue to be heard at Victoria. Opposition leader Herbert Anscomb contended in the legislature yesterday that Premier Johnson broke the coalition because "he had a very extensive row in his own party." The coalition broke up Jan. 18 when the premier demanded the resignation of Mr. Anscomb, then finance minister, co-chief in coalition and Progressive Conservative leader.

Russell Cunningham (CCF-Cape Breton East) complained in the legislature at Halifax that the west is collecting money that rightfully belongs to the east. In a plea for more federal aid to education, he said Canada's four original provinces—Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick—put up the money when the land including Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia was brought from the Hudson's Bay Company.

Under the Dominion Lands Act of 1872, portions of federal land were allocated for public schools in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Later the lands were sold and the proceeds invested in government security, Mr. Cunningham said the interest was divided among the three western provinces, leaving the original purchasers out in the cold. He said the payments the western provinces constituted federal aid to education.

Britain Recruits Quarter Million Air Raid Wardens

By ROBERT WIGHTON

London, Feb. 22. (Reuters)—Nearly 250,000 British men and women have joined civil-defence forces since the recruiting call two years ago, and the number is increasing by nearly 7,000 a month.

To them may be added the 11,200 members of the auxiliary fire service, 23,353 special constables, 19,060 members of the national hospital service reserve and 17,092 highly-trained aircraft observers and plotters of the Royal Observer corps.

Not included in the total of 242,943 in the civil-defence forces are the "last-ditch" soldiers of the Home Guard, now being formed again, or the permanent forces of the Red Cross and the St. John Ambulance Brigade which will also play their part if a Third World War comes.

Many believe that in a Third World War Britain would become a giant "aircraft carrier", uninhabitable under a rain of atom bombs.

So concerned with this despondent view is the London Borough of Holborn that its councillors plan to distribute leaflets in taverns warning against "careless atomic talk".

A civil-defence staff college and training schools have been established to become the model for more, including some to be set up in the United States.

Canada, which last spring made a formal agreement to pool her civil-defence resources as well as her military means with those of the United States, also has made arrangements to exchange students of civil-defence with Britain.

The problem of shelter from atomic attacks may be one of the most difficult. London, for example, has hundreds of shelters specially built in the last war, which, though adequate then would not protect people from atomic blast.

Another main problem is emergency feeding. Forty Canadian and United States scientists, service officials and administrators recently returned from Britain after observing her method on the food aspects of civil defence.

Tiny Village Has Prospects Of Hidden Wealth

Reston, Man., Feb. 22—(CP)—Oilmen have started to pour into this tiny village, 55 miles southwest of Brandon, with the announcement yesterday of a new oil well near here.

The exploratory well was drilled for the California Standard Oil Company five miles west of here on the farm of George Walker. Mines Minister J. S. McDiarmid said in the provincial legislature yesterday that 250 barrels a day was produced in a test.

Mr. McDiarmid said the test—five days—was short compared with conventional 30-day tests, but the well was the "most promising drilling for oil in Manitoba to date."

The well is 15 miles southwest of the Virden oilfield where discovery a year ago touched off a scramble for oil rights in the southwestern section of the province. If it continues to flow, it will be the province's first flowing well and the municipality of Reston stands a chance of becoming suddenly wealthy.

During the depression, the municipality got possession of land in tax sales and on re-sale retained mineral rights to 49 quarter-sections of 160 acres each. Many are close to the Walker strike.

Walker said he leased rights on his 480-acre farm to the California Standard Company for a consideration and a 12½ per cent royalty on production.

A company official said casing was set and the hole plugged back to about 3,000 feet. The casing was perforated yesterday to pemit entry of oil.

The well is the latest of a series in a huge sedimentary tract known as the Williston Basin straddling the international boundary.

Only two other wells in Manitoba are producing oil. Both are a short distance from Virden. Another pair of wells in the same area were shut down about a months ago when production dropped.

Pledges Canada to U.N. Assistance

Jean Lesage, Canadian president of the Technical Assistance Conference of the United Nations in Paris, signs a pledge for $850,000 of Canadian funds to the U.N. technical program. The pledge was made in anticipation of $20,000,000 being raised by the U.N. If the objective is not reached, Canadian participation will be less. — Central Press Canadian.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) Base metals climbed slowly today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections made little headway.

Trading opened briskly and continued steadily until about noon when activity eased. Leading industrials traded slowly but a growing list of penny golds, oils and metals attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,683,000 shares.

Papers, utilities and liquors formed industrials' strongest section. Agricultures, steels, refining oils and textiles held gains and losses in balance but foods, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues weakened.

In base metals, Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Noranda, Normetal, Steep Rock and United Keno Hill posted gains ranging to $1. East Rim, Eureka, Quebec Copper and Yale Lead added pennies.

Western Oil advances ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Williston, Central Explorers, General Petroleum A, Gridoil, Model Oil and Trans Empire were among the strongest gainers.

Senior golds were mixed but secondary issues posted a majority of penny gains.

Veterinarians Complete First Series of Tests

Ottawa, Feb. 22—(CP)—Veterinarians today completed the first series of tests on an infectous animal disease uncovered in the Regina area, but were still doubtful whether the infection was the dreaded foot-and-mouth scourge of the animal world.

A second series of tests were immediately started and it was indicated that a final diagnosis of what was first presumed to be a severe case of infectious stomatitis may not be completed before Monday.

Laboratory technicians at the nearby Hull, Que., agriculture department research institute were awaiting the arrival of Dr. C. A. Mitchell, head of the institute, to assist in the tests. Dr. Mitchell is expected to arrive later today from a scientific conference at Quebec City.

Meanwhile, the south Saskatchewan quarantine and animal movement out of stockyards at Regina, Moose Jaw, Saskatoon, Prince Albert and Winnipeg continued.

Mexico Turns Down U.S. Offers Of Military Aid

Mexico City, Feb. 22—(AP)—Mexico has turned down U.S. offers of military aid, and both sides have agreed to end discussions on the touchy subject. Observers blamed communist pressure for Mexico's action.

A U.S. mission, which came a month ago and held five sessions with local officials, returned to Washington. It sought a strong Mexican anti-red declaration in return for aid in building coastal defences and a fast-striking land force.

A foreign office announcement said the talks probably would resume "when the two governments believe it advisable." Political observers took this to mean after the general elections in July, when internal political considerations are less critical.

It was the first refusal of American arms from any Latin American country. Brazil and Ecuador accepted U.S. help.

ARRIVE IN PORT

Newport, R.I., Feb. 22. (AP)—The broken stern of the storm-wrecked tanker Fort Mercer came into Newport harbor today in tow of two ocean-going tugs.

Aboard the hulk were the 13 survivors who remained when 21 others of the crew of 43 were rescued from it.

The stern was towed more than 100 miles from outside Nantucket lightship. Coast Guard craft accompanied the towing procession.

Berlin Observers Speculate Cominform Now Discarded As Instrument of Red Policy

By VINCENT BUIST

Berlin, Feb. 22 — (Reuters) — After more than two years of apparent inactivity by the cominform, many Berlin observers are ready to speculate that this once powerful organization has been discarded as a major instrument of Soviet policy.

Its last official meeting took place in Hungary in November, 1949.

Since then a large headquarters in Bucharest has continued to operate. But there have been no meetings similar to previous ones which got big headlines all over the world. If meetings have taken place, they have not been disclosed, contrary to cominform custom.

From being Stalin's mouthpiece, the cominform has lapsed into an office headquarters where propaganda is prepared and minor officials are trained, according to East European press reports reaching Berlin.

The creator and first chief of the cominform, short for communist information bureau, was Zhdanov. His death not only robbed the Soviet Union of a leader but also seemed to leave the cominform without its former aim and skill.

Even if Zhdanov had not died, the general opinion among students of East European affairs here is that the cominform had begun to outlive its usefulness in 1949.

Failed in Two Tasks

It failed in its two main postwar tasks—to wreck the Marshall plan and eradicate nationalism from communist countries in East Europe.

Its lack of success against East Europe nationalism can be estimated from the number of East European purges and trials since 1947.

The resounding propaganda defeat for Moscow in the defection of Premier Tito of Yugoslavia, it is believed, led to Russian doubts about the usefulness of the cominform.

Since then many leading members of the cominform have lapsed into the communist twilight and in recent months first Vladyslav Gomulka, of Poland, and then Rudolf Slansky, of Czechoslovakia—both cominform-founder members—have been arraigned in their countries for treason.

Gomulka and Slansky, who sat at table together when the cominform was born, epitomize the failures which have dogged the organization since Tito broke away.

The central office of the cominform moved from Belgrade to Bucharest after the Tito break. Seven hundred officials work in its five-storey headquarters.

Closely Guarded

Journalists who have visited the building say it is closely-guarded by conspicuous police patrols. They say, too, that the cominform's chief purpose now is to amass world statistics and prepare material for delegates in the Soviet group of countries.

The more important policy-forming functions of the cominform now are probably being exercised by the new "global" institutions which, Allied and German experts believe, have risen to supplant it.

Chief among these is the World Peace Council, which is said to draw heavily on the resources of cominform headquarters to supply its delegates' meetings with translators and material. Others are the World Federation of Democratic Youth and the International Federation of Democratic Women.

Mercurys Trim Swiss by 11-2 Score While Sweden Thumps US Team 4-2

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Oslo, Feb. 22 — (CP) — The 1952 Olympic Winter Games are moving toward their close and today those countries with a slight hope of approaching or overhauling Norway for team honors found themselves running short not only of points but events in which to score them.

In the unofficial standing Norway was on top with 101 points. The United States was second with 73½ and Austria third with 56. There are only six more events on the program.

Canada was never expected to cut in for a big share of points. Two were picked up last night when Peter Firstbrook placed 5th in the men's figure skating competition, won by the United States' Dick Button to the surprise of nobody.

That made Canada's total 6 ½, which is bound to be increased Sunday when the hockey tournament ends. If Canada doesn't take the 10 points accruing unofficially to the winners there'll be a lot of disappointed Canadians here in Oslo — and at home too.

The draw in the round - robin series sent Canada against Sweden tonight— the team that showed both hockey brains and brawn in polishing off the United States 4-2 last night.

The Canadians — the Mercurys from Edmonton — had an easy time, easier than many here thought — in defeating Switzerland 11-2.

No Body Checks?

The Swiss had lost only one game in four starts — and that to the United States — before they went into the lead and hardly tossed a body - check all night. They led 9-0 after two periods and then eased up. Playing - manager Frank Sullivan had three goals and Billy Gibson and Engelbert Miller two each.

Against the United States, the Swedes soon showed they know their hockey. They had team play up front and a sturdy defence. They took a 1-0 lead late in the first period and that's where the score remained until they ran in two more goals in the third before the Americans got going and counted on Ken Yackel's goal. But the Swedes popped in another and Cliff Harrison's goal later for the Americans didn't worry the Swedes.

Army Doctor Says Not Possible To Operate

Halifax, Feb. 22 — (CP) — A small girl with a ruptured appendix fought for her life in a snowbound fishing village today and an army doctor who parachuted to the scene said he could do little to help.

Capt. James Gilbert of the army medical corps said eight-year-old Marie Mazerolle was still in serious conditions although her condition had improved slightly.

The doctor sat throughout the night at the girl's bedside in Port Sapin, 30 miles southeast of Chatham, N.B., and said an operation was impossible because of her condition.

He and two assistants dropped from an air force plane last night The doctor was taken from a train at Chatham.

Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prudent Mazerolle, suffered a ruptured appendix when one of the most severe February snow storms to hit the Maritimes in recent years clogged roads and prevented medical aid from reaching her.

Capt. Gilbert said he used penicillin to try to localize the infection. He will stay with the girl until Monday or Tuesday. He said it would not be helpful to attempt airlifting the girl to a hospital.

The air force search and rescue centre here organized the medical drop after hearing that Capt. Gilbert, with the British parachute division during the Second World War, had left Halifax by train for Camp Borden, Ont.

Will Likely Redistribute Seats According to Census of 1951

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa, Feb. 22 (CP) —A committee likely will be established at the forthcoming session of parliament to study redistribution of representation in the Commons on the basis of the 1951 census.

Formation of the committee may be forecast in the Speech from the Throne to be read at the opening of the session Feb. 28.

If the redistribution is undertaken at this session it probably will mean that no general election will be held before 1953 or early 1954. Life of the present parliament expires Aug. 25, 1954.

Unless the basis of allocating seats is changed, Saskatchewan will lose five of its 20 seats in the Commons. Manitoba will lose two seats and Nova Scotia one. British Columbia will gain four, and Ontario and Quebec two each. Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Alberta and the Yukon will remain unchanged.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader and John Diefenbaker, are among Saskatchewan representatives who may have to seek new seats.

On the basis of the 1951 census figures this is how the 262 seats in the Commons will be divided in the new parliament, with existing representation in brackets:

Newfoundland seven (seven); Prince Edward Island four (four); Nova Scotia 12 (13); New Brunswick 10 (10); Quebec 75 (73); Ontario 85 (83); Manitoba 14 (16); Saskatchewan 15 (20); Alberta 17 (17); British Columbia 22 (18); Yukon one (one).

Commons Standing

This is the present standing in the commons:

Liberals 184; Progressive Conservatives 45; C. C. F. 13; Social Credit 10; Independent four; Independent Liberal two; vacant four; total 262.

Representation in the senate is fixed by the British North America Act and will not be affected by the redistribution. Seats in the 102-member upper chamber are divided as follows:

Newfoundland six; Prince Edward Island four; Nova Scotia 10; New Brunswick 10; Quebec 24; Ontario 24; Manitoba six; Saskatchewan six; Alberta six and British Columbia six. The Liberals hold 77 of the seats and the Progressive Conservatives eight. There are 17 vacancies—six in Quebec, four in Ontario, four in New Brunswick and one each in British Columbia, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba.

The formula for distribution of seats in the commons is set out in the British North America Act. It requires that a redistribution be made after each decennial census. The last redistribution, delayed because of the war, was made in 1947 and took effect in the general election of 1949.

The population of most of the country is used to find the appropriate representation for each province. Yukon is guaranteed a seat although it has a small population. The formula also states that no province may have fewer members in the commons than it has senators.

Prince Edward Island, on the basis of population, would be entitled to two members in the Commons. However, since the island has four Senate seats, it retains four seats in the Commons as well.

For purposes of fixing representation in the other provinces, the population of Prince Edward Island, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories and the number of their seats in the Commons are subtracted from the figures for the country as a whole.

Over 14,000,000

The census figure for the total population was 14,009,429. With the populations of Prince Edward Island, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories subtracted from the total, the remainder is 13,885,900. That figure divided by 257 seats — 262 less four for P.E.I. and one for the Yukon-Northwest Territories — gi the number of seats to wh each province is entitled in Commons.

A straight division shows t Ontario is entitled to 85 se Quebec 75, Nova Scotia 11, N Brunswick nine, Manitoba Saskatchewan 15, Alberta British Columbia 21 and Ne foundland six. These seats a ed to four for P.E.I. and one the Yukon-N.W.T. would bri representation in the Commo to 258.

In order to bring the rep sentation up to the required 2 additional seats are given provinces with the highest mainders following the divisi

For instance, the quotient 54,031 divides 11 times in No Scotia's population of 642,584 a leaves a remainder of 48,2 That remainder is large enou to give the province another se British Columbia, Newfoundla and New Brunswick also quali for a seat each on the basis their remainders.

Just what do you people do?..

Recently one of the members of our firm was rather surprised when a business acquaintance said to him: "I know you are in the financial business but, tell me, just what do you people do?" That set us to thinking that perhaps many of our friends and even our good clients might like to ask a similar question. Well . . . it is something that can't be answered in a single sentence. There are many sides to our business. For example . . .

We are underwriters . . .

This means that we puchase new issues of securities from Governments or well-managed business corporations, providing them immediately with the funds they require. In our underwritings, we are often called upon to act in an advisory capacity and to assist in the creation of the securities we ultimately buy.

We are distributors . . .

This means that, having due regard to the individual needs of our clients, we place with them the securities we have underwritten.

We are traders . . .

We buy and sell the securities . . . mainly bonds and debentures . . . of issues already outstanding. This assists in maintaining ready markets for outstanding issues.

We are brokers . . .

A. E. Ames & Co. are members of the Toronto and Montreal Stock Exchanges. As brokers, we execute buying and selling orders for listed stocks on a brokerage basis.

We are consultants . . .

Many of our clients lean on us for investment advice. For them we provide regular investment checks, valuations and advisory service.

Our head office is in Toronto, where Mr. Ames started this business in 1889. There are now 16 Ames offices in Canada, the United States and London, England, staffed by several hundred people.

All this adds up to a pretty comprehensive investment service . . . a service which is available to you. We are experienced in our business and believe you will find us the type of people you like to do business with.

HORSE MEAT COMING CLOSER

Dr. J. P. Wells, medical health officer for Prince Edward County, has been quoted in the press as having uncovered proof that horse meat has been sold for human consumption in both Picton and Trenton. Dr. E. A. McQuade, medical health officer for Trenton, has been investigating the sale of horse meat in his community, but is said thus far to have failed to find proof that such sale was taking place.

Dr. Wells stated that he had traced the horse meat to a Dutch immigrant who claimed he had bought the horses in Belleville, slaughtered and dressed them on his own property, and then sold the meat to other persons who had come to this country from Holland and who were now living in or near Trenton.

Both Dr. Wells and Dr. McQuade have admitted that there is no law specifically forbidding the sale of horsemeat in either Trenton or Prince Edward County, but both have also pointed out that there are regulations governing the conditions in which animals intended for human consumption may be slaughtered. These regulations, both have hinted, may be invoked.

Those who are in favor of permitting the sale of horsemeat for human consumption — and it is admitted there are such people — will advance the argument that horses can be purchased more cheaply than steers, and that horsemeat can therefore be placed on the market at prices lower than those prevailing for beef.

The statement that horsemeat can at present be sold more cheaply than beef is true, but it is only part of the truth. The rest of the truth is that it costs far more to raise a horse than it does to raise a cow or a steer. A horse will eat more than a cow or a steer; also, he is more choosy about what he eats. Further, a colt or a filly needs more attention than a calf, especially during the winter.

If horsemeat sells more cheaply than beef, one of the reasons is that there is a surplus of horses at the moment. Another reason, one that the vendors and would-be vendors of horsemeat will not mention, is that the horses being slaughtered for human consumption are unable to work, either because of age or poor health. Horses are susceptible to many diseases.

If the sale of horsemeat is once authorized, it will not be long before all the young, healthy horses available for slaughter will be consumed. What will happen then? If the traffic is allowed to continue, the only horses that will be available for slaughter will be those that are suffering from such diseases as tuberculosis. Few farmers will sell their prized Percherons or Clydesdales for slaughter. Similarly, anyone who would like to sink his teeth into a juicy steak cut off a Thoroughbred or Standard Bred will have to wait a long time, unless he is prepared to pay a fantastic price. The people who raise either running horses or harness horses usually place an extremely high value on them.

It is true that there is both a religious and a social prejudice in this country against the sale of horsemeat for human consumption. But, as we have tried to point out, there are other and more practical reasons for banning the practice. Devouring horsemeat may be an old European custom, but it is one old European custom which we do not need to tolerate in this country.

A COMMENDABLE DECISION

During an address at the annual convention of the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities in Toronto last Monday, Hon. Walter Harris, the minister of citizenship and immigration, issued an assurance that the federal government was going to give the municipalities assistance in providing social and welfare service to immigrants.

Mr. Harris and the government of which he is a member deserve to be commended for this decision. It is obviously unfair to the municipalities for the federal government to bring large numbers of immigrants into the country and then abandon them to become charges on the municipalities.

The municipalities of Ontario, as well as those of the remainder of Canada, have plenty of obligations already, without being called upon to provide the necessities of life for the federal government's immigrants and displaced persons.

JUST FOLKS

THAT LITTLE HATCHET

Who gave George that hatchet small when he was just a boy,
I'm certain must have been aware that something he'd destroy.
Who gives a lad a horn to toot assuredly must know
At moments most inopportune that horn the boy will blow.

I think I know the ways of boys. Time was when one was I.
There was destruction in my hands and mischief in my eye.
Had I been given a hatchet small, I'd thought it understood
No matter what I might cut down I'd use when I could.

They say 'tis just a pretty tale some parson chose to tell,
That George chopped down a cherry tree and stayed right where it fell.
And whether that be false or true, to me it's all the same,
Who gave that little hatchet to the boy should share the blame.

When: "Who did that?" his father asked, we're told George answered: "I.
I did it with my hatchet, sir. I cannot tell a lie."
That may be false, but knowing boys, since one I used to be,
Who gives a little hatchet to a lad may lose a tree.

Sordid Story Told in Court

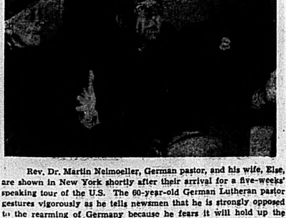
Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP)—The story of a youth who sought in vain to marry his pregnant girl friend while he was in reformatory, then found upon his release that the girl by then had married someone else was told in court yesterday.

George Kelly, 21, was committed for trial on charges of murder and wounding in connection with the death of 21-year-old John Nichols, who married the girl. Evidence was that Nichols was stabbed Dec. 23 and died in hospital a month later.

The girl's father, Ernest Waller, testified that Kelly had gone out with his daughter for three years before getting into trouble with the police and being sent to Brampton reformatory. Kelly learned the girl was going to have a baby but he was refused permission to marry her.

By the time Kelly was released, the girl was Nichols' wife.

Neimoeller to Lecture in U.S.



Rev. Dr. Martin Neimoeller, German pastor, and his wife, Else, are shown in New York shortly after their arrival for a five-weeks' speaking tour of the U.S. The 60-year-old German Lutheran pastor gestures vigorously as he tells newsmen that he is strongly opposed to the rearming of Germany because he fears it will hold up the "peaceful unification" of the country. He said he was speaking as a clergyman, not as a "politician." He was recently a guest of Russian church leaders in Moscow. — Central Press Canadian.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

FROM THE MAIL

Have you ever seen the torn half of a five dollar bill? Nothing looks so utterly useless. It's a musical comedy with a dead sound-track, a rose without a smell, moonlight without a girl.

Fellow up in Oliver, B.C., name of M. Bauder, prop. of Orchard Billiard Parlor, has sent me this half a fin. Says a friends of his found it on Granville Street in Vancouver a week or so ago and thought if I could find the other half we could do business, like giving it to the March of Dimes.

Well? Anybody found half a five dollar bill to make this sad one come to life?

* * *

A most pleasant note from a woman in Penticton who modestly asks that I keep her name to myself. So I'll just call her Mrs. M.

It is 40 years since Mrs. M. taught school in Ontario, yet the other day she got a letter from one of her former pupils.

He was 13 then, discouraged and planning to leave school when he joined Mrs. M.'s class. Her kindness to him, he wrote, had changed his outlook and his whole life. Now, over the long span of years, he was writing her to express his appreciation.

"You can guess how I felt," Mrs. M. writes. "Then it occurred to me that a hint some time in your column might induce other expupils to remember a teacher who helped them in their early years. The stamps would not be wasted."

Got me to thinking of teachers I remembered myself and if I weren't so lazy I'd drop a line right tonight to Messers. Sanford, Parfitt, Houston, Spragg, and a few others. . . and I wish I could remember the name of that Latin teacher I was in love with. Was it Miss Craig? Or Cairns? I must have been a fickle boy.

* * *

Quite a few letters of comment on my view of the Paul Robeson story, most of them abusive.

Here's a funny thing about these letters. Almost without exception the writers who support my stand (that Robeson should be allowed to speak out) either adopt a pen-name or ask that I respect their anonymity.

One in particular is a brilliantly written letter in defence of freedom of speech, yet there's a P.S. to the letter which says: "Paradoxically and ironically, if you should feel inclined to quote me, my name is Miss Smith or Brown or Jones."

Yet those letters disagreeing like L. H. Stewart who says "your columns stink to high heaven" or J. K. Redfern who says "You better start writing for Pravda" are all signed.

Myself, I don't think an anonymous opinion is worth the powder to blow it to hell. Lady, if you start hiding behind a Miss Smith or Brown or Jones you are doing a disservice to free speech whatever your words may be.

* * *

Two readers who have met Robeson personally speak of his intense sincerity. George Dodds, of Parksville, points out that the late Alexander Woolcott, in "While Rome Burns" wrote of Robeson in these terms:

"Of all the countless people I have known in my wanderings over the world, he (Robeson) is one of the few of whom I would say that they have greatness. I do mean greatness as a football player or as an actor or as a singer. I am not, I think, confusing his personal quality with his heroic stature. I do not even have in mind what is, I suppose, the indisputable fact, that he is the finest musical instrument wrought by nature in our time. I mean greatness as a person."

* * *

Several readers, criticizing my stand on the Robeson case, speak of my apparent "hostility" to the United States. "Hostility" is the wrong word. The word is "alarm".

I'm alarmed at a lot of things that are happening there such as Robeson's 'house arrest'. What we have to face is that there is clearly a semi-hysteria in many quarters

Consider, for example, a clipping someone's sent me from the Pittsburgh Press of January 13. The news item reads as follows:

"Some 50 candy machines have been seized by Wheeling police for allegedly omitting communist propaganda. . .

"The trinkets are pasteboard pennants about half the size of a postage stamp. On one side is a yellow hammer and sickle on a red background and on the other side is printed: USSR. Population 211,000,000. Capital Moscow. Largest country in the world.

"Trinkets bearing the names of other countries were mixed in with the 'chewing gum balls and jawbreakers.'

"'That's a terrible thing to expose the children of this city to', said Mr. (Wheeling city manager) Plummer. 'I have demanded a complete investigation.'

"The names of the store owners to whom the machines were licensed have been turned over to the FBI."

Aren't you alarmed?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Few people are completely ambidextrous. One of my friends belongs to this rare and gifted few. And for a hobby, what do you suppose he took up? Piano playing? No, signing dollar bills for the government? No. He took up amateur carpentry, and has one of those wonderful cellars filled with work benches, lathes and small machine tools. To watch him at work gives you the sort of vertigo you get looking over the parapet at Niagara Falls.

He picks up a hammer with either hand, or a saw or a fine chisel, and uses it with equal ease and dexterity. Around a spinning saw blade or a humming drill, either hand moves with precision and assurance to grip the material or to adjust the machine. It gives you the willies, in a weird and indescribable fashion. Most of us being right-handed invariably experience a slight jolt upon seeing a left-handed person pick up a pen and casually dash off a notation with it. The shock of seeing a person using both hands with complete facility strikes deep into our sensibilities. We are a one-handed creature, and some basic sort of fellowship and understanding of one another lies in that fact.

It may be in our limitations and shortcomings that human beings are most likely to be rallied together. The power of religion over mankind, since the dawn of time, has been due to the thorough sense of unworthiness common to us all.

Recent writings on communism bring out the fact that the fundamental evil of communism is its vain glorious project to substitute the intelligence of man for God. Our shortcomings and limitations are to be overcome and all sense of unworthiness eliminated. But the chances are we will still remain a one-handed creature that shivers at the sight of ambidextrous perfection.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUTLETS

Maritime nations have a great advantage over those with no outlets. They have an open door to the entire world. This western world is the envy of nations all over the rest of the world, because of its remarkable progress over a comparatively short time, as history is reckoned. The reason for this progress is that the people over here have free outlets. They can think, express themselves at will, engage in any work they may choose, and aspire as high as they are able.

People on this continent are not slaves, designated to a set way of life. Every individual may have a dozen or more outlets for his wellbeing, and most do. If he does not like the way things go he can protest and he isn't shot for it! He can vote his preferences and his vote is counted. He has a free outlet for all his talents.

If we had no outlets for our energies and natural gifts we would soon wither as the plant does when its nourishment is gone. We are simulated and inspired by our outlets. A wholesome hobby becomes an outlet that gives zest and pleasure beyond the duty and privilege of earning a livelihood.

Our poets and writers glory in the outlook that is theirs in expressing themselves in books so that others may gain the benefit of their talents. My library is filled with the outlet expressions of those who have housed themselves in books. Free people can choose any outlet they may desire.

One of the most interesting features in any newspaper is that of "Letters from the People." Readers let off steam, as the saying goes, in this manner, whether anyone else agrees with them or not. Free government nears its end when free expression dies. Our great public libraries, museums, art galleries, and other public institutions are for all the people to enjoy, for they become outlets for the enjoyent of all. Each deserves our applause and our support. How proud and happy we should be to live in a free land!

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

EAT TOO MUCH YET ALWAYS HUNGRY

Aside from hackneyed advice about eating "nourishing" food and getting plenty of rest and sleep the only helpful suggestion in a full page of "institutional advertising" about prevention of heart disease, as I see it, is this:

Keep weight at normal or below normal. Several persons with heart disease came to the same conclusion without foreknowledge of my view, when they read the ad.

It is notable that a full page ad in the same magazine gave readers this advice:

Don't ever let headache interfere!

The nostrum which solves the headache problem so that headache will never interfere, not even with your funeral, consisted, at last analysis in my files essentially of acetanilid. This coal tar derivative kills amost any ache or pain in jig time and many a poor geek who assumes it is harmless because the government permits indiscriminate sale of the poison—just so the quantity of it in the nostrum is mentioned on the label.

The juxtaposition of these two ads, one urging you to eat "nourishing" food and keep your weight down, the other urging you to use dope which is poisonous, habit forming, destructive to blood corpuscles and sometimes responsible for heart failure and sudden death from slight overexertion, is a commentary on the health ignorance and gullibility of the public and the peculiar machinations of the government whereby household remedies like iodine must be labelled poison but a dangerous drug like acetanilid is available everywhere without restriction. And remember, suckers, you pay for both ads, like taxes. Yes, you and I, dammit.

The acetanilid habit is the subject of a chapter in the booklet C V D (dealing with heart troubles—for copy send 25c and stamped self addressed envelope.) In this chapter I offer a safety precaution, namely, that if you ever do take a dose of such medicine—even a dose of aspirin—you should lie down for not less than an hour. Thus you get the full deadening effect on pain with the smallest dose of the poison. And when I say poison I mean poison.

As any trick specialist or clinic racketeer will tell you—if he doesn't become speechless with rage when you ask — many of the things I believe and teach are "unscientific"—that is, they don't jibe with the beliefs and teachings of the old timers or, as the old timers themselves say, the "authorities." One of my beliefs is that the indiscriminate and unrestricted use of coal tar analgesics particularly acetanilid, antipyrin, phenacetin, aminopyrin and aspirin, usually disguised under some pleasant trade name, is a common contributing cause of heart disease in Yankeeland.

From the free and easy way many physicians prescribe or advise patients to take these dangerous pain-killers and even to give them to ailing children one might infer that a fatality here and there doesn't matter. But if you believe in safety first, this is a good rule: Never take a dose of aspirin or acetanilid as such or disguised under another name, unless you can remain at rest for at least an hour afterward.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

What! Medical Approval?

We have derived much benefit from your common sense health teachings. My son, a practising physician here, says "Stick with them, Dad. That Dr. Brady is a fearless . . ." (R. J. LaG.)

Answer—Thank you, sir. That is encouraging. I'm not giving up—some day, somewhere, somehow a medical colleague is going to come right out and pat me, furtively, on the shoulder.

Give the Baby a Break

Baby a year old. Ever since she was born I have had trouble with her bowels. She is constipated all the time. I hate to give her medicine every night . . . (Mrs. L. B. E.)

Answer — Even if you had enough sense to give the baby a break the neighbors and bystanders wouldn't let you do it. Your constant interference has probably got the works snafu by this time, but there is still hope—send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for The New Brady Baby Book.

The Lighter Side

You are fine company over my morning coffee. If a good laugh is medicine I have received a great deal of medicine from you. Thought you might enjoy knowing that at least one of your readers reads your column just for the pleasure of it . . . (P. C.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. I try to exclude the more serious, perhaps depressing subjects and play up—perhaps in unseemly fashion, the lighter side for the general reader.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

WAS WASHINGTON RELIGIOUS

There has always been a great argument whether or not George Washington was a religious man. Because he had certain religious peculiarities characteristic of his age, he is supposed not to have been religiously orthodox. He did not, for instance, partake of communion during the latter part of his life. Some of his beliefs were influenced by the Deism of the 18th century. But he was a vestryman in the Episcopal Church and had thereby given his approval to the Thirty-nine Articles. It would be hard, under such circumstances, to prove Washington a heretic.

But much more important than any of these things in estimating Washington's religion, is a survey of the continuous utterances which he made throughout his whole life, expressing a complete faith in Providence and his willingness to follow the guidance of God in all things. Few men in human history have ever spoken more often about matters of this sort or related them to public affairs as continuously as did Washington. He was a man of prayer. Heresy hunters might discover certain departures from orthodoxy in Washington which would alarm them, but every sensible person must be filled with admiration as he examines Washington's religion.

Washington's religion was the kind that can be used every day—and he used it.

Mrs. Roy Finlayson Speaks On 'Biological Control of Insects'

The University Women's Club of Belleville and district met recently at the home of Mrs. A. E. May, Cherry Gardens, with Mrs. D. C. Burr presiding.

Mrs. D. C. Burr in a short address to the members pledged allegiance to our Queen Elizabeth II.

Following a short business meeting, the guest speaker of the evening, Mrs. Roy Finlayson, was introduced by Mrs. W. L. Langlois. Mrs. Finlayson spoke on "The Biological Control of Insects." "All living creatures exist on the earth in what biologists term, the "Balance of Nature," said Mrs. Finlayson. "When this balance is upset by some force or forces, the result is an over-abundance of a certain species." The abundance of a species depends upon its ability to multiply and live in spite of various destructive forces in the environment.

Two Opposing Factors

Thus there exists two opposing factors known as biotic potential, or struggle for existence, and environmental resistance, or the force of destruction. "Organisms which encounter a great deal of resistance from the environment must have a high biotic potential in order that there may be survivors to replace the parents. "If the biotic potential is high with reference to the environmental resistance, there would be an over abundance of the species." Similarly, if the biotic potential were low, the species would soon die out.

The presence of fauna on the earth today proves a balance has been maintained between biotic potential and environmental resistance. The factors of environmental resistance are either physical such as light, temperature and moisture, or biotic such as competitors, predators and parasites.

The competition for food and the subsequent exhaustion of the food supply has reduced greatly their numbers. Parasites and predators are believed to be more important than all other factors combined. No stage in the development of an insect is free from attacks of parasites and predators.

Biological Control

Mrs. Finlayson went on to explain the main steps in biological control work using examples of work done in the Belleville laboratory to illustrate her remarks. The propagation of insect parasites and the use of insect diseases are common methods of control of serious insect pests.

"Half the entomologists at the laboratory are engaged in research problems," and in this regard the speaker mentioned many of the peculiar difficulties faced by those experimenting with living organisms.

In closing this enlightening address, Mrs. Finlayson pointed out that the entomologists work is an attempt "to correct a balance in nature which has been upset by some external force i.e. man, weather, or both. It is a long term project, but once established is lasting and self-perpetuating."

Miss Ruth Silvester graciously thanked the speaker and a lively discussion perid followed showing the keen interest of the members.

"The unit is the family and related families group together to form a little settlement and move hither and thither across the Arctic snows, settling wherever hunting is best. Their food, clothing and fuel all came from animals killed.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Washington, at 16, wrote his "110 Rules for Decent Behavior"

George Washington, when he was 16 years old, wrote his own book of etiquette! At that ripe young age, he had determined that he was going to be a gentleman, a man of good quality. And to guide him in the development of his high ideal of character and personality, he collected for himself what he sagely and straightforwardly called "110 Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior in Company and Conversation." Civility. . .decent behavior. . .proud, homespun words these, of good, strong texture.

The young Washington's "110 Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior in Company and Conversation" are to be found in a volume in the Library of Congress, written in his interesting, engraving-like handwriting. Every one of the rules is an ideal of mannerliness. . .sound, practical, thought-compelling. And the entire collection of rules reveals that the essential nature of George Washington, boy and man, was kindness, courtesy, an abidingly thoughtful consideration for others, a noble respect for human relationships, a high and deep reverence for God.

Inspiring Collection

This inspiring collection of "Rules of Decent Behavior" shows that, fundamentally . . .then and now and always. . .for young and old. . .good manners are good manners. It shows that there is a standard of good manners and morals that is enduring because it is good, because inevitably it is right.

For example, let's look at Rule I: Every action done in company ought to be with some sign of respect for those who are present." In one sentence an essay on Manners in Public!

To give honor where honor is due. . .it was natural that the young Washington determined to be a gentleman of special consideration-for-others, should be interested in Precedence. His Rule 39 is a classic that is still quoted in military regulations: "In writing or speaking, give to every person his due according to his degree and the custom of the place." Also Rule 30: "The highest place in most countries is on the right side. Therefore place yourself on the left of him whom you desire to honor." And Rule 28: "When you present seats, let it be to everyone according to his degree." (Hosts and hostesses. . . are you listening?)

What one says inevitably shows what one is. . .the wise George Washington, even at 16, realized this, and many of his best rules of behavior have to do with Conversation. Rule 59 is a gem: "Never express anything unbecoming." And Rule 74, for listening: "When another speaks, be attentive yourself." Advice to the dogmatic: "Be not obstinate in your opinions." Listen too, to this ideal: "Be not forward, but friendly and courteous." A manners-shove for the self-conscious: "Be not pensive when it's time to converse." And these so-very-wise precepts: "Let your countenance be pleasant". . ."Let your conversation be without malice or envy, for 'tis a sign of a tractable and commendable nature" . . . "Speak not evil of the absent, for it is unjust."

Table Manners

Concerning table manners, too! What parent wouldn't be mighty proud of a 16-year-old son who had these how-to-behave-at-table ideal: "Feed not with greediness" . . ."Drink not nor talk with your mouth full" . . ."Keep your fingers clean" . . ."Put not another bit into your mouth till the former be swallowed. Let not your morsels be too big for the jowls" . . ."Be not angry at table whatever happens, and if you have reason to do so, show it not. Put on a cheerful countenance especially if there be strangers. For good humor makes one dish a treat." . . ."Lean not on the table. Lay not your arms, but only your hand, upon the table" . . . " "It's unbecoming to stoop much to one's meat."

And listen to these great rules, standards to the young Washington who was to have such a powerful influence among men: Rule 108, "When you speak of God or His attributes, let it be seriously and with reverence" . . ."Honor and Obey your parents" . . .and Rule 109 "Let your recreations be manful, not sinful."

And Rule 110, the last rule and indeed a masterpiece: "Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of celestial fire called conscience."

Many, many times, in his "110 Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior in Company and Conversation,"' the young George Washington speaks of a "man of quality." At 16 he had already decided, very definitely decided, what "quality" of man he was to be!

Readers' Friday Column

QUESTION:

I wonder if you have a recipe . . . .for Crumpets?—A. M. B.

ANSWER:

Sure do.

CRUMPETS (yeast)

One-quarter cup grated cooked potato, 2 cups boiling water, 2 yeast cakes, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups bread flour. In measuring the potato pack it in the cup. Let water cool to lukewarm, add yeast and potato and stir to dissolve yeast, add flour and salt and beat 2 minutes. Let rise 3 times for 30 minutes each at about normal room temperature—70 deg. F. After each rising beat 3 or 4 minutes. The beating makes the large holes characteristic of the crumpet. After last beating bake at once on hot griddle with rings on (3 1-2-inch rings are used and can only be bought at large hardware stores). A good substitute is jar rings. Griddle must be well seasoned; if not it must be lightly greased. Pour batter into rings 1-3 inch deep. A crumpet should not be thick Bake about 20 minutes. This is called baking because it is on top of the stove and the theory is no fat is used. Do not turn. Let Cool. To use, toast and serve hot with butter.

QUESTION:

These recipes were in your column in December I think. . (1) was a drop cookie. It had walnuts, cocoanut, egg and sugar. It made 2 dozen and you advised making a double batch. (2) had bottom part of flour, butter and sugar worked together and filling on top. . . of dates and nuts; (3) had breadcrumbs in it. . .(4) was pecan squares. . . I know that is a lot to ask. . .but the recipes all turned out well.—Mrs. W. R. M.

ANSWER:

I made, ate, drank and slept cookies all during November so I hope I am guessing right with the following:

NUT DROP COOKIES

One cup soft shortening, 2 cups, well-packed, brown sugar, 2 eggs, 1-2 cup buttermilk, or sour milk, 3 1-2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon each soda and salt, 1 cup moist shredded cocoanut, walnut or pecan halves. Cream together shortening and sugar and beat in the eggs. Stir in sour milk. Sift together flour, soda and salt, and stir in. Stir in cocoanut. Chill dough. Drop by teaspoonfuls, 2 inches apart, on greased cookie sheet, peaking up each cookie, then on this peak lightly press half nut. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 8 or 10 minutes.

PECAN SQUARES

(These have a shortening, flour and sugar base. These could fit your description of Nos. 2 and 4 cookies.)

One-half cup shortening at room temperature, 1-4 cup icing sugar, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 2 eggs, 1 1-2 cups brown sugar, well-packed, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, 1-2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup chopped pecans (or walnuts or almonds), 1-2 cup moist shredded cocoanut. Cream shortening until creamy, then stir into it the icing sugar and cake flour. Spread in 2 greased pans 8x8x2 inches. Spread with a batter made with remaining ingredients: Beat eggs light and gradually beat in brown sugar. Sift together the flour and baking powder and add. Mix until smooth and stir in nuts and cocoanut. Spread this over first mixture in pans. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 30 or 35 minutes. Cut in squares in pan, while still warm.

Here is the crumb cookie but do not remember giving it to you at Christmas time.

CRUMB COOKIES

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup sugar; 1 beaten egg, 1 cup cold water, 2 1-2 cups flour, sifted, 1 teaspoon each soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, 2 1-2 cups dry cake, cookie or bread crumbs, 1 cup raisins. Combine dry ingredients except crumbs. Cream shortening, then cream in the sugar, and beaten egg. Add dry ingredients alternately with the water. Add crumbs and raisins last. Drop and bake on greased cookie sheet at 375 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes. Three-quarters or 1 cup margarine or butter may be used if shorter cookies are desired; reduce water if more shortening is used, to 1-2 or 3-4 cup.

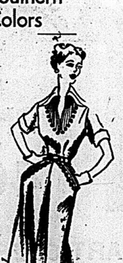
QUESTION:

I read your column every day and find it very interesting. I read the letter on turnips yesterday. If one is not fond of the strong flavor of turnips I will tell how we do it. Put a piece of stewing beef on to boil (but do not add as much water as you would if you were making soup). When it is half done add turnips, potatoes—about 50 per cent potatoes, and 25 per cent turnip. Boil all together. When done take out meat, pour off excess liquid, save it, mash turnips and potatoes, keep adding liquid, as you would milk. If you think it is too thin, brown butter in pan with 1 or 2 tablespoons flour and add more of the meat liquid, then pour back into the potato and turnip mixture. If any is left it can be warmed up in a pan with a little added butter. We also boil beef with our sauerkraut as some of family found pork hard to digest. We are not English—this recipe comes from one grandmother who came from Germany.—Mrs. F. R.

ANSWER:

It is good. I tried it and I like turnips. I have another idea which is new to me. If you ever splurge and have beefsteak (or any other thing like meat cakes or lamb chops) broil them—but under them to catch the drippings spread the pan full of cooked turnip dice .Wonderful. Thanks for sharing your recipe.

Southern Colors



Attractive resort dress

By VERA WINSTON

AQUA or lime green are the two pretty colors chosen for a useful and attractive resort dress, the fabric a linen-like rayon. There is interesting flanged shoulder treatment above a nicely tucked yoke, which, like the hip-pockets, is outlined with bone buttons. It has the crisp, band-box-look that is seen far more frequently at southern resorts than some of the more highly touted fashions.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Perhaps these two married too hastily

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 19 and married to a serviceman who is 21. It was love at first sight with us and two months after we first met we were married.

At first we were very happy, but I soon found out that he was very jealous. He even seems to be jealous of my going out with my girl friends.

He has been gone for four months now, and his parents wrote and told him that I was having dates with other men. He believed it, although I have been true to him. It is true that I talk to my men friends sometimes on the phone or when I meet them on the street, and perhaps have a soda at the drug store with them, but I love my husband and he is all I want. He wants me to ask for a divorce, but why should I when I love him and have not done anything wrong?—A. S. W.

Dear A. S. W.:

Are you quite certain you have never done anything to give your husband's parents grounds for suspecting your loyalty to him? It is perfectly true, of course, that some in-laws are so unfriendly, and some husbands so jealous that their suspicions are aroused with little or no reason. At the same time, however, it seems a little strange that his parents should deliberately make up stories about you out of thin air It sounds to me as though you married pretty impulsively, and perhaps not knowing each other very well, which often creates regrets and restlessness.

Your husband can't force you to divorce him, and he would have to prove that you had been unfaithful to him in order to get a divorce for himself If he is stationed any place where you could be near him, why don't you suggest that you come there awhile, so he will know you really want to be with him. If he has gone overseas, or if it would be impossible to put this plane into effect for any other reason, then what you should do is to write him frequent loving letters, telling him about activities back home that would interest him and letting him see that you are much too busy and too devoted to him to have any time or thought for disloyalty. I suggest, too, that you be extra careful in all your behavior, to avoid anyone getting the impression that you might be doing anything out of the way.

Trouble over the family phone

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My father used to work nights but recently switched to another job where he works days.

I realize he finds it hard to adjust himself to spending his evenings with his family, but it is very hard for me, because if I get a telephone call he gets very angry. I am nearly 16 and in high school, so naturally my friends often call me, but as soon as I get a phone call, my father immediately thinks up tasks for me to do and yells at me even when I am talking on the phone. When I hang up, he hollers and says I spend an hour on the phone, which is not so, as I never talk more than fifteen minutes at the longest. It is very embarrassing for me, as I am sure my friends often hear him over the phone shouting at me.—R. B.

Dear R.B.:

My suggestion is that you be quiet frank with your friends and tell them that your father comes home from work tired and it disturbs him to hear you having long phone calls. Even though you say the longest are no more than fifteen minutes, don't forget that when a weary adult, who may be trying to read or listen to the radio, has his ears assaulted by trivial chatter and giggling over the phone, fifteen minutes can seem an awfully long time.

You must see the boys and girls who call you in school everyday, so it shouldn't be too difficult for them to keep whatever they have to say over night If it is something that can't possible wait, then be as brief about it as you can. When your father sees you are trying not to annoy him, he will probably be more patient about the whole business.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Hats and faces.

A woman may wear a frock that has neither style nor distinction and nobody will notice it particularly. It is just one of those unfortunate selections But let her top her hairdo with an ugly, austere hat that should have gone into retirement, and she places herself in the dowdy bracket. As far as appearance is concerned, the chapeau is just about the most important item. It is not something to be purchased casually. It need not be expensive, but it should possess the correct design and color for the individual who wears it.

Unless a hat is flattering, it is a failure. The wrong mode will accent features that do not have a high beauty rating. When making a selection, regard the hat from all sides, especially the profile. Does it make friends with your hairdo? Of course, the hairdo comes first because it is on show all the time.

Brims are back again and, no doubt about it, brims make young women look younger and more striking, often make older women look younger. But they must be the right width, have the right tilt.

The hat can do much to alter the contour of your face. It is the background for your portrait. An interesting, becoming hat exerts a powerful influence in centering the attention on the face. Lacking sufficient size to form a frame —that happens when the lady with plump cheeks and large features wears a little beanie—it accents poor features. A hat should never be so elaborate, so intricate in detail or so attention-compelling that it, rather than the face, becomes the centre of interest.

Even a girl with regular, delicate features may find that a tiny hat, one that is narrower than her face, is out of order; it makes the top of her face seem unduly narrow, the cheek bones over-prominent. A close-fitting hat should be slightly wider than the widest part of the face, making the face and head seem pleasingly proportioned .

The sailor, now coming back in style, is becoming to few women because the straight across line is trying. The halo, that has been with us so long, is one of the loveliest of modes because it exposes the hair and has a youthful effect. It can be worn happily by girls and women of all ages.

The hat with a crown that is too small for the head is freakish millinery. It makes the wearer appear awkward. The crown should logically fit the head; that is the purpose for which it was designed.

"The Vision of a Nation" was found in Micah 4:1-5, read by Mrs. L. Hall. "Jesus Teaching" in Luke 4:10-22, and Matthew 6:9-11 were read by Mrs. R. Hart. Two minutes silence in remembrance of the late King George VI was observed. Mrs. Hancock led in prayer for Queen Elizabeth II followed by singing "God Save the Queen."

Imaginary Plane Trip

An imaginary plane trip across Canada was taken where three mission centres were visited; in Halifax, the Brunswick St. Church; in Toronto the Fred Victor Mission, and in Vancouver the 1st United Church.

There are a half million people not on church records but who label themselves "United Church" to census takers. The church must press forward to help all areas meet the needs of the people across Canada.

A letter from Foxboro W.M.S. transferring the membership of Mrs. S. Hubble to the Centenary society was read. Mrs. A. Christopher and Mrs. R. Thrasher were added to the Community Friendship Committee. The World's Day of Prayer will be held at the church on February 29 at 2.30 p.m.

Mrs. Edmondson informed the society that Miss Eleanor Burwell had resigned from W.M.S. work and that the new missionary for prayer is Lillian B. Johnson of Central India, whose home is at Stellarton, N.S.

The supply secretary stated some of the needs of the various hospitals. It was decided to leave this until next meeting.

Mr. McCallum closed the meeting, after which Mrs. Sutherland and her helpers served refreshments and a social half hour spent.

Female Bluebeard, Accused of Poisoning 11, Goes on Trial

Poitiers, France, Feb. 21. (AP) —Mme. Marie Besnard, a 54-year-old widow accused of dispatching 11 victims with poison in the last 25 years, went on trial today for murder.

Her court session had advance billing as one of the most sensational in France since "Bluebeard" Henri Desire Landru was convicted in 1921 of taking an equal toll of lady loves.

The state charges that the stout, bespectacled Mme. Besnard counted her parents and two husbands among her victims. She has denied all murder charges and has six lawyers to defend her.

The trial, in the Justice Palace where Joan of Arc was questioned five centuries ago by a committee of Bishops, is expected to last a week. Some 100 witnesses are to be heard.

In a preview appearance yesterday, to answer a forgery charge, Mme. Besnard pouted when the judge insisted she give straight answers.

"Some people call you vicious and a liar. Other testimony shows you were a decent, well-behaved woman without blame. What hav you to say?" he asked.
The widow replied: "I'm not

She was found guilty of forg

Illegal Fishing With Airplanes Will be Curbed

Toronto, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Measures to cut down on the use of aircraft for illegal fishing and hunting coupled with a control on the safety standards in the use of aircraft by sportsmen will be considered by the Ontario Legislature, yesterday's speech from the throne indicated.

The Ontario Lands Department is of the opinion that many Canadians and Americans are making illegal and unwise use of planes in hunting wild game.

Details of the legislation have not yet been worked out.

While air travel comes under the jurisdiction of the Federal Transport Department, officials of the Lands Department are reported to hold the view that some provincial control must be exercised over aircraft going to Ontario's northern lakes.

A few years ago a plane overloaded with what were said to be illegal fish crashed during a takeoff. More recently, hockey player Bill Barilko vanished on a flying fishing trip to the James Bay area.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

The Conversions of Failure

By ROY L. SMITH

Very few young men have ever gotten off to a worse start than did Jacob, the Hebrew patriarch.

The younger of the pair of twins, he had been slated as a second by his father, according to the law of the ancient east. His brother Esau, having actually been born first was was destined to inherit the family fortune which was considerable.

As a result of a deception planned by his mother, executed by the young man with no little skill, the blind old father was hood-winked into making Jacob his heir, thus Esau an enemy for life. Very few things make more trouble inside a family than does an inheritance.

Fleeing for his life to escape the outraged Esau, Jacob has a dream in which he is assured that all will come out well, and that he will carry on the family line.

Even Seconds Useful

In comparison with Isaac his father, or Abraham his grandfather, Jacob appears very shoddy. True, toward the close of his career he approaches nobility, but for the most part his life is a grubby one.

But in the long run, and with many illustrations from history, it can be said that God has made remarkable use of second raters on a great many occasions. If it were not for that fact, most of us would have good reason for becoming greatly discouraged

Peter denied his Lord, Thomas doubted, and at least two others in the little band of disciples tried to use their mother's influence to assist them in securing favored places in Jesus' new kingdom. But in spite of all contemptible traits with which they may have begun their discipleship, they closed their lives crowned with honor and glory.

The Measure of Life

The true measure of life, and of success, is not to be found in the station at which we have arrived, but in the distance we have come.

Many a youngster, born into poverty and apparent hopelessness has contrived to achieve mediocre success while many another youth who has come out of a home of privilege has ended up farther down the scale than when he began.

Jacob's start was disgraceful. But as the years wore on he was first penitent and then generous. By the time he closed his career he had established a place for himself in the triumvirate of patriarchs—Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. In the actual distance travelled he achieved even greater fame than Isaac his father. But he did not need to start so far down. That was his own fault. He lost too much ground during his youth.

Uninterrupted Succession

There is something impressive about the fact that the will of God survives the generations that fail.

Humanity emerged from the dark ages chastened and impoverished. The race has suffered a thousand wars, but it has survived.

In every generation we have been provided with leaders. Some of them have followed, and some of them we have martyred. But we have always had those who have gone on ahead of the crowd.

It is as if God had never given us up. In working out his purposes He has used the best material available, even though it often failed to measure up to his standards. There has been an uninterrupted succession of those who have carried the torch of righteousness and justice through the generations.

God is Not Through

In the midst of the chaos and strife of our day— the unhappy state of affairs against which we thought we were making war—we may be sure of one major fact. Our God is not through. The law of gravity has not been repealed; neither has the moral law. The Almighty will find some way to use seconds.

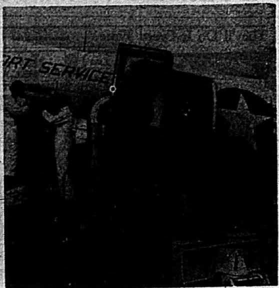
Korean Casualties Get Service



This creation of bits and pieces was made by U.S. air force mechanics to solve a medical problem created by the Korean weather. Doctors found that Korean casualties often developed colds and wound complications when their evacuation planes stopped and the wounded were being evacuated. So the mechanics, out of material found around an air base, built this portable furnace which shoots a blast of hot ~~air into~~ the window of flying ambulances as soon as they arrive. — Central Press Canadian.

Citizens Assoc. Told Problems Of Community

Campbellford—A public meeting of the Campbellford Citizens' Association was held in Edgewater Park Pavilion on Tuesday evening with a large turnout.

H. S. Staples, president of the association, was chairman of the meeting. He thanked the citizens present for showing an active interest in the town affairs, saying their presence indicated their interest. "True democracy is only true democracy in so far as the citizens take an active interest in their community," he said. Mr. Staples read a letter from Mayor Wilbert A. Kingston of Campbellford, in which the mayor expressed his regrets at not being able to attend the meeting, but conveying his best wishes and personal support in any worthwhile activity for the good of the community as a whole, in which the association might indulge.

Isobel C. Tatham, first and only lady to sit on the Campbellford council, spoke to the gathering, and outlined the need for community spirit and to learn the art of living and working together. "Democracy is the hardest system of government in which to achieve any measure of perfection," she said. She urged each citizen to accept a share of their responsibility in striving for this perfection. The association is at present a fact finding group, wanting to know all about the facts before taking much action.

Relief Last Resort

Mr. Staples told a little of the activities of Mrs. Tatham, and said the town was fortunate to have a woman of her ability in charge of welfare on the town council. "Welfare work is preventive work—relief is a last resort," said Mr. Staples.

David Ness, another new member of the town council, spoke briefly to the group. He is a member of the industrial committee and held to the belief that a new councillor can serve best by listening first and acting later, when he had all the facts.

W. C. Tatham, chairman of the committee in charge of industrial expansion spoke on the subject. The committee has held four meetings totalling more than 16 hours. "There is nothing yet to report, but the committee is going into the question thoroughly," he said. Mr. Tatham believes that Campbellford should have a number of small industries, rather than one of two small ones. "Campbellford's greatest export is its young people," he said. He deplored the fact that young people who are raised in the town, must go to the larger centres to seek employment. The prime objective of the committee is to secure some small industries that can grow with the town, and also to take stock of what industry is already in the town, and if possible, to see what can be done to improve or expand them.

A. J. Meyers, chairman of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital Board gave the meeting a word story of the activities of the board to date, and stressed the need of money to finish the hospital building. The original estimated cost of the hospital was $150,000, but with increased building costs and eight extra beds added to the building, this figure now is about $250,000. About $25,000 is still needed to complete the building, and work is being held up on this account. He challenged the citizens' association to raise $16,300, the amount necessary in public subscriptions to complete the hospital.

Activities of Auxiliary

Mrs. Robert Fox told of the activities of the Hospital Auxiliary. It is through the efforts of this auxiliary that the present hospital was able to stay out of the red last year. The auxiliary supplies dishes, cooking utensils, tables, chairs curtains and other necessities to the hospital, and does a great deal of mending and sewing. Two representatives of the auxiliary sit on the hospital board, which looks after the operation of the present hospital.

H. S. Staples gave a report on the Emergency Relief Fund, showing the fund had received from various sources a total of $5,093.92. It had spent, in the rehabilitation of seven families burned out in the fire in the business section of the town on the west side of the river, and in building a home for another family in Seymour, a total of $3.849.13. Of this figure, $1,000 was collected on an insurance policy, reducing the actual expenditure on the "house in a day" project the committee accomplished, to $480.25. Mr. Staples paid tribute to the members of the committee who worked untiringly to aid the fund.

The Campbellford Citizens' Band was in attendance and played a number of selections for the group. Bandmaster Donald D. Bennett gave a brief history of the band, saying it was first formed as a military band of the Midland Regiment. He told of the growth of the band and of its need for new instruments. He thanked the Campbellford council for increasing the grant to the band, and said he hoped there was some way in which the band could get more engagements to augment its funds.

In closing, Mr. Staples said that the citizens must help and support their town council and must take an active interest in civic affairs. 'More people should attend council, school board, public utilities and other meetings," he said. He stressed the fact that the association was not out to do anyone else's work, or to tell them how the work should be done, but to help in any way possible to make Campbellford a better place in which to live, work and play.

A lunch was served at the close of the meeting, at which time those present got acquainted with each other, and discussed ideas on how to tackle various problems.

Black Hawks Thump Wilting Leafs 5-1 While Bruins Draw With Habs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

TOUGH NIGHT TONIGHT!

With some of the sick and injured trying to get their hockey legs back into some kind of shape the senior Hawks face the high-flying Peterborough Petes in their final scheduled game of the season in Memorial Arena tonight. Doug Bastedo, Trumble and Gerry Desjardins are back in action again but they are not in the best of shape due to enforced layoff through injury and illness.

The Hawks will be gunning for their first win in nine starts and retention of third place in the league standing. With Kingston clashing with Peterborough Eagles tonight in Kingston, a victory for the Sacs coupled with a Hawks loss would send the Doran crew into the cellar.

The Hawks with some of the help back put up a spirited fight against the high-flying Petes on Wednesday night and had "Red" Doran been on the line-up and the injured in somewhat better condition, the game might have put on a different face. They tossed a scare into the McGillis crew at that and tonight will see them go all out in an effort to hit the win column and get straightened away for the strenuous playoff grind that looms ahead.

Meantime the junior Hawks face a tough two-game away test with the Peterborough Links. They meet tonight in Peterborough for the third game of the best-of-five series and the Links will be tough nuts to crack in their own backyard. The Hawks passed up a golden opportunity to hang "two strikes" on the Links Wednesday night when they faltered in the third period and bowed out on the short end of a 7-5 score. As matters stand now it is a new "ballgame" and anybody's battle, with the Links having an edge inasmuch as they have two games at home. It will be dog-eat-dog from here in and the Hawks will have to be on their best behavior if they want to pull the series out of the victory hat.

MINOR HOCKEY

The surprising juveniles of the BHA will be the lone Belleville standard-bearers into the Ontario Minor Hockey Association playdowns after last night's tripleheader at Memorial Arena The Mercurys whipped the Kingston crew in a convincing manner and are worthy banner carriers for the Old Lady of the Moira. The bantams and midgets passed out of the picture but this department believes the banties were deserving of a better fate. And the officiating especially in the bantam game was not of the best, by any stretch of the imagination. We have always stood out for neutral referees, regardless of cost for these minor playdowns and last night's games proved ice-lane substantiation of the claim.

Hockey is a serious matter for these moppets and anything smacking of dubious officiating hurts the youngsters far more than it does their big brothers. We understand what it would mean to get neutral referees but the least the OMHA can do is to see that local officials have some degree of efficiency and are not selected willy-nilly.

However the bantams and midgets were not disgraced by any stretch of the imagination. They played good hockey and had a good season. The juveniles came up with a fine brand of the pastime and meet either Peterborough or Oshawa in the second round. More power to 'em.

And speaking of officials, it is too much to ask two gentlemen to work for three games in a row. Ninety minutes of hockey is too much and referees get tired too. Of course triple headers are a rarity in minor league hockey we understand, but after all there is just as much at stake as in a single game. We are still of the opinion that the better team was eliminated in the bantam series. And we can hear Maxie Jackson yakking 'Sour Grapes'. It aint so, pal. And you probably know it.

WHAT TEAMS ARE SHUTOUT THE MOST

Boston Bruins, Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens have been shut out more times this season than any other clubs in the National Hockey League. In games played up to the morning of February 14, the Bruins were kept off the score sheet in nine different games; the Hawks went scoreless in seven struggles; while the Canadiens were blanked by the opposition in six different games.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit has enjoyed a field day against the Bruins, whitewashing the Beantown six on five different occasions. Toronto has shutout the Bruins three times and Chicago has done it once. Boston has blanked the Black Hawks three times, Detroit has done it twice and Montreal and Toronto once. Four of the six shutouts incurred by the Canadiens have been by the League-leading Detroit Red Wings, Toronto and Boston are the other teams to keep the Habs scoreless.

Detroit has been horse-collared three times, twice by the Rangers and once by Boston. New York and Toronto have been shutout the least times this season. The Rangers and Leafs have only failed to score in a single game they've played this season. Canadiens stymied the Broadwayites while Chicago stopped the Leafs.

MATINEE GAMES DRAW WELL

Sunday afternoon hockey in Chicago has gone over very well. In four Sunday matinee tilts the Chicago Black Hawks have played to 49,468 specタators. This is an average of 12,117 per game. About 25 per cent of these fans have been youngsters at half-price.

Assume Role of Spoil-Sports For Third Time in a Row; Bruins Ditto to Canadiens

By CRAIG SWAYZE
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Way back when it counted, Chicago Black Hawks couldn't seem to come up with a win no matter how hard they tried. Stumbling along the bottom of the National Hockey League standings, they sank deeper and deeper into the cellar.

Attendance—not strong to begin with—began falling off worse than ever. The front office was worried and coach Ebbie Goodfellow vainly shifted his bruised and apathetic lines in an effort to come up with a winning combination.

The club lost rookie Fred Hucul with a mysterious leg ailment. Then star centreman Doug Bentley announced his retirement and returned to his Saskatchewan farm. Next, the Hawks' best defenceman, big Jack Stewart, told manager Bill Tobin he was through. Sunday afternoon games were scheduled in an effort to combat the lure of evening television shows which were exposing empty tiers in the 20,000-fan Chicago Stadium.

Farmhands Click

Then, just as mysteriously as they had failed to win, the Hawks began to show some life. Some of their junior farmhands were given a tryout. Hucul returned, his strange illness gone. The team began winning games. Clubs that had found the Hawks easy pickings earlier in the season, became embarrassed losers.

Chicago, 41 points off the pace set by the league-leading Detroit Red Wings, were assuming the role of spoilers.

Last night, the Hawks did it again. For the third time in as many games, Toronto Maple Leafs failed to click against the tail-end club. Chicago clubbed them 5-1 before 9,614 delighted fans.

The loss cost Leafs sole possession of second place as the Montreal Canadiens scored twice in the third period to gain a 3-3 tie with Boston Bruins. The win moved the Habs into a deadlock with the Leafs, 15 points behind the Red Wings.

Chicago took little time to warm up to their task, holding an unprecedented 3-0 first-period lead before going on to hold a 4-1 edge at the finish of the middle session. Another goal in the final stanza heaped added insult on the discouraged Leafs.

Bill Mosienko tallied twice for the winners, once in the first period and once in the final. Pete Horeck, Fred Hucul and Al Dewsbury scored the other Chicago goals while Tod Sloan spoiled Harry Lumley's shutout with the Leafs' lone marker near the end of the second period.

Twelve penalties were handed out by referee Red Storey, four of them majors and two misconduct sentences. Hugh Bolton and Bill Juzda of the Leafs and Fred Hucul and Lee Fogolin of the Hawks drew five minutes each for fighting. The misconducts went to Juzda and Clare Raglan for a penalty box set-to.

In Montreal, the Bruins took a 2-1 first-period lead and lengthened it to 3-1 by the finish of the second. Final period goals by Paul Meger and Dickie Moore gave Canadiens their 3-3 deadlock.

Rookie Real Chevrefils gave Boston their lead after only 36 seconds of play and Dunc Fisher made it 2-0. Moore scored an earlier goal for the Habs' first marker just before the period ended.

Ed Kryzanowski put the Bruins into their 3-1 middle session lead before the Montrealers rallied in the final stanza to gain the tie.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

The Liberty Broadcasting System announced yesterday it had filed a $12,000,000 anti-trust suit against 13 major league baseball clubs and the presidents of the American and National Leagues.

Gordon McLendon, president said that Liberty was being forced to discontinue its game-of-the-day radio broadcasts for 1952 because it had been denied access to the parks of the 13 clubs despite a higher offer for broadcast rights than any other broadcaster.

Liberty, he said, has sustained losses of profits and suffered damages in excess of $4,000,000 and is asking treble damages in accordance with provisions of anti-trust laws. Liberty claims to be the second largest radio network in number of stations served.

Geordie Campbell, 68, one of Canada's all-time soccer greats, died yesterday at Toronto. After starring as a junior for Renfrew Victorias in Scotland, he came to Canada in his late teens and played for Toronto Thistles from 1906 to 1911. He captained the Toronto Scottish when they won the Dominion championship in 1921.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers yesterday announced the signing of import tackle Dick Huffman for the 1952 Western Inter-Provincial football union season.

With fresh snow reported in most centres, the outlook for improved skiing this weekend is bright. Haileybury, Huntsville and Orangeville are listed as excellent while Cobourg is very good. Dagmar, Flesherton and Sundridge are good with Collingwood from fair to good.

The New York Giants announced yesterday that pitcher Sal Maglie, one of the club's most obstinate holdouts in several years, had come to terms for a reported pay boost to $36,000. Maglie piled up 23 victories against six losses as the Giants surged to the 1951 National League flag.

If the horses run true to form, Saturday's $50,000 added Widener Handicap at Hialeah race course will go to Spartan Valor, Mass O'Gold or Alerted. They finished in that order in the McLennan Handicap Feb. 9.

The Santa Anita Derby may go down as the richest in its 15 editions, with a gross purse of $142,000 and a net of $94,900 to the winner. That was the prospect today as a checkup of eligibles for the Saturday feature listed 15 more or less certain to start.

Soviet newspapers yesterday charged Canadian and United States Olympic hockey teams with scandalous conduct. Articles in major papers claimed the Americans turned their game against Switzerland at Oslo Wednesday into a free-for-all fight.

The stories said the Americans beat up their opponents, tripped them and made fun of them whenever the Americans scored a goal.

CHARGE DISMISSED

Hamilton, Feb. 22 CP—A manslaughter charge against Maurice MacArthur of St. Thomas, driver of a truck involved in an accident in which four people were killed here Feb. 1, was dismissed yesterday after a preliminary hearing.

A charge of dangerous driving against MacArthur was also dismissed.

He pleaded guilty to a charge of careless driving and was remanded on $1,000 bail for sentence March 5.

Business Girls, OSD Teams Win

Two games were played in the Y.M.C.A. Ladies Basketball League Wednesday night, the O. S. D. Girls nosing out the Northern Electric A. team 16-15 and the "Y" Business Girls taking the measure of the Nurses 37-20. The surprise was the play of the Northern team. As had previously been predicted, as soon as they found themselves they would be heard from. It is certain in this second series no team can afford to discount them.

Top scorers for O. S. D. were Helen McCammon with 4 points and Dot Wiltse with 3 points. Marie Toban scored 2 points and sister Bernice Toban 1 point. For Northern B. Young scored four points and H. Reeves, M. Garrow and D. Taylor 2 points each.

In the second contest Doris McLean led the "Y" Business Girls with 13 points, Shirley MacLeod scored 9 points, Marg Cousins scored 6 points, Marie Marinoff 4, Betty Gibson and D. Poulos 2 each and Betty Rees 1.

L. Fraser scored 9 points for the Nurses while J. Crocker and Helen Aston scored 7 and 4 respectively.

The games were handled by Bill Spafford and Doug Soule with Doris McLean and George Garrow as scorers.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Feb. 22 (AP) — A year ago at this time the Yankees just had succeeded in persuading a kid shortstop named Mickey Mantle to give up his $35-a-week winter job in a mine at Commerce, Okla., and report to their tryout camp at Phoenix.

Now we see in a dispatch from Lake Wales, Fla., that a seasoned big leaguer, named Mickey Mantle has been asked to report a week earlier than the other Yankee outfielders for a little special instruction preparatory to taking over Joe DiMaggio's old post in centrefield.

It is doubtful if baseball ever will produce a more improbable story than that of the Oklahoma Flyer, and those of us who chanced to be around to watch manager Casey Stengel's eyes pop the first time he saw the kid run from first to third will treasure the memory.

"He's going to run some infielders crazy," Casey prophesied. "Some umpires, too."

Millions who watched the big playoff on television last fall will recall vividly the bizarre scene when Mantle suddenly fell headlong while racing for a fly ball and lay so alarmingly still that the heart skipped a couple of beats. The knee which snapped under him apparently has healed completely. Recent X-rays found nothing wrong and Mickey says the member feels as strong as ever.

The "pheenom" should be in better mental condition than he was last season. The osteomylitis which makes him unfit for military service now is known to be a permanent affliction and there should be no more of the vicious letters which harassed him and his draft board from the time his name first appeared in the Yank line-up.

The odds are, of course, that Mickey never will quite fill the great Clipper's shoes. DiMaggio's come along only rarely, but the kid has the potential to make it close if his knee remains sound and the osteomylitis continues dormant.

BUT WHEN I CALLED YOU THIS AFTERNOON YOU DIDN'T SAY YOU LOVED ME, BEFORE I HUNG UP— THAT'S WHY I'M CALLING YOU NOW—WHOSE LITTLE PETTY LAMB ARE YOU? SAY IT AGAIN, DEAREST—GEE—I CAN'T WAIT TILL I SEE YOU—I'LL BE BACK SATURDAY—NO! I WON'T HANG UP! THE HECK WITH THE MONEY—I COULD TALK TO YOU FOREVER—
BUT, ENOCH— YOU'VE BEEN ON THE PHONE FOR AN HOUR—
NOW THEY'RE MARRIED AND— WELL, YOU KNOW THE REST!
YOU WORM! OUT ALL NIGHT! WHY DIDN'T YOU HAVE THE DECENCY TO CALL UP SO I WOULDN'T WORRY?
AW! KEEP YOUR MACKINAW ON— I WAS WORKING LATE! DIDN'T HAVE TIME!

Talbot Loves That 'Sugar'

By GAYLE TALBOT

New York, Feb. 22 (AP) — No matter what anybody says, we feel that Sugar Ray Robinson, the middleweight champion, eventually will go through with that twice-postponed fight against Carl (Bobo) Olson in San Francisco. Maybe not March 13, the date now set, but one of these days.

Also, we think there is a strong possibility that the Harlemite will in time get around to giving Rocky Graziano a belated title shot in Chicago. That one, which necessarily has been set forward, too, as Sugar Ray continued to experience terrible back trouble, now is tentatively scheduled April 16.

This powerful vote of confidence in the 31-year-old Negro fighter is based partly on the knowledge, almost certainly shared by Robinson, that he still is man enough to whip both Olson and Graziano on the same evening, and partly on the fact that Sugar, himself, says he's going to fight 'em.

That however, is as far as even this staunch admirer of the once-great pugilist is prepared to go with Robby's future. When he and his manager, George Gainford, talk about fighting Joey Maxim for the light-heavyweight crown and matching Henry Armstrong's feat of winning titles in three weight divisions, that's when we have to reach for our hat.

There might have been a time when Sugar could have given Maxim or any other 175-pounder a whale of a scrap.

However, the time is not now.

May Toss Out ORFU Playoff At Annual Conclave of CRU

By WILFRED GRUSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Toronto, Feb. 22—(CP)—The Ontario Rugby Football Union, once a power in senior football and always a staunch supporter of the Canadian Rugby Union, today faced a new attempt to rob it of its last bit of prestige.

At the annual meeting of the C. R. U., some delegates are expected to urge elimination of the eastern Canada final between the O. R. F. U. champions and the Big Four winner.

In the post-war years the once-potent O. R. F. U., which has been content not to become out-and-out professional, has been forced to take a back seat to the wealthy Big Four and western Canada leagues.

The eastern Canada final, with the O. R. F. U. no longer a match for the Big Four champions, has gradually lost its appeal and Myer Insky of Montreal, retiring C. R. U. president, said last night it no longer should be held.

Discuss Two-Game Final

He said the O. R. F. U. only went through with the game for the money it obtains from it. He understood this attitude and because of the large part of the O. R. F. U. had taken in promoting football for so many years he would suggest to the C. R. U. that some method be found to pay a grant to the league providing it could forgo the final Insky admitted that strong opposition could be expected from the O. R. F. U., which had always been proud of the fact that it has won an impressive number of Grey Cups in the past and still has a chance, however remote, that one of its teams can do it again.

The subject of the eastern Canada final will come up at a closed meeting of the C. R. U. executive today and before an open general meeting tomorrow. The sessions began last night when the rules committee met to draw up rule changes, which will not be released until presented to the general meeting.

A proposal by the Big Four Union for a two-game Grey Cup final will get a full airing at Saturday's session. It has little chance of being passed since the Western Canada Conference is opposed to any change.

A. U. Chipman of Winnipeg, who will succeed Insky as president, said the west's major league will vote against it because it is convinced that a two-game series will make the final a less attractive spectacle.

The Western Canada and Big Four leagues are in agreement on a recommendation to boost the number of imports from seven to eight. Chipman said the proposal has a good chance of being accepted and most teams will probably sign a second import quarterback as insurance in case their first-string signal caller is injured.

Insky said in an interview he intends to propose that the C. R. U. run a school for high school and minor league team coaches, holding it one year in the east and the following year in the west.

Germany Wins Bobsled Title

Oslo, Feb. 22—(CP)— Germany's Andreas Ostler, a skilled and daring driver, completed an Olympic double today by capturing the four-man bobsled championship with four dazzling runs down the icy, 1,500 metre Frognerseteren chute.

The nerveless, 22 - year - old Garmisch innkeeper, whizzed his heavily-weighted sled through a snowfall in two sensational clockings of 1:16:55 and 1:16:85 for a total time of 5:07.83. Both of his runs today were faster than his two trips of yesterday which were good enough to give him a .79 of a lead over the American No. 1 sled, piloted by veteran Stan Benham of Lake Placid.

Winner of the two-man bobsled title earlier in the games, the husky German, rated the world's foremost sledder, threw caution to the winds today.

Benham captured second place but he trailed badly, being clocked in 5:10.48.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

DICKIE MOORE, Montreal, whose 2 goals enabled the Canadiens to play to a 3-3 tie with Boston Bruins.

BILL MOSIENKO, Chicago, who scored twice and picked up an assist as the Black Hawks routed Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1.

Juveniles Defeat Kingston Vics 5-2 Bantams, Midgets Are Eliminated

Scoring two goals in each of the second and third periods, Belleville Meteors, juvenile representatives in the OMHA, scored a 5-2 win over Kingston Juvenile Vics in the second game of a home and home, total points to count series.

The win, added to their 6-5 win on the previous night in Kingston, gave the homesters the round by a total of 11-7. They now advance into the next round of the playoffs, against either Peterborough or Oshawa.

Kingston scored the first goal of the game and drew temporarily on even terms with the locals on the round but Goyer notched one before the end of the period to tie the game score.

Brooks and Philp tallied for Belleville in the second period with assists going to Thompson and Stoliker without Vics hitting the score sheet.

Burnside scored Kingston's second goal in the third period after Napier had carried the puck in from centre ice but Bovay and Myers clinched the verdict with two more goals, Baker, Goyer, Cook and Casey assisting.

Once again, as on the previous night, the Juveniles turned in a fine team effort, no one in particular being outstanding. They skated hard and fast and played very clean hockey.

Only five penalties were handed out, three to the visitors, four of them coming in the third period.

The Teams

Kingston: Goal, Lalonde; defence Burns, Blake; centre Cherry; wings MacNeil, Napier; subs, Patterson, Ullman, Loftus, Sears, Perrin, Carscallen, Tinkess, Burnside.

Belleville: Goal, Russell; defence Barber, Baker; centre, Brooks; wings, Bovay, Goyer; subs, Thompson, Fox, Philp, Atkins, Cook, Casey, Stoliker, Myers, Ashley (alternate goalie).

Bantams

Belleville Bantam Black Hawks took a 6-5 decision from the visiting Kingston Bantams at the Memorial Arena last night. It was the second game of a two game, total points to count series with visitors winning the round, 10-9, by virtue of their 5-3 win in Kingston on Wednesday night.

Belleville swept into a 3-1 lead in the first period but the visitors roared back to knot the score at four apiece by the end of the second period. The homesters outscored Kingston, two goals to one, in the final stanza but remained one goal down on the round.

The Black Hawks outplayed Kingston by a wide margin throughout the tilt and deserved a better fate. But for the very poor officiating by the Kingston referee, who called five offences against Belleville in the last seven minutes of play, all of them on the cheap side, the verdict could have been quite easily reversed.

Bobby Hull netted three goals for Belleville as well as helping on another to top the point getters of both teams. McCann fired a pair while Hagerman notched the other marker. Bishop, Cruji, and Culloden assisted on one each.

Hegarty scored a goal and one assist for Kingston with Thurlby St. Remy, Frawley and Martin lighting the lamp as well.

The Teams:

Kingston: Goal, O'Neil; defence, Thurlby, St. Remy; centre, Hegarty; wings, Turner, Frawley. Alternates, Walton, Martin, J. Lowe, B. Lowe, Stephenson, O'Reilly, Card, Cooke.

Belleville: Goal, Wardle, Elmy; defence, Culloden, Grandame; centre, Hull; wings, Hagerman, Asseltine. Alternates, McCann, Wannamaker, Bishop, St. Louis, Cruji, Ryan, Wright, Foster.

Scoring a goal in each of the first two periods and a pair in the third, Kingston Midgets defeated Belleville Midgets by a score of 4-1 in the second game of the night at Belleville Memorial Arena last night.

In losing, the homesters bowed out of O.M.H.A. playoffs with the winners continuing on, probably against Peterborough.

The first two periods were exceptionally clean, only one penalty each being handed out. But in the third, play roughened considerably, Kingston drawing four and Belleville three penalties.

Botting notched a pair of goals for the winners, the first on a solo effort and the second assisted by Snelgrove. Howland tallied once and assisted on Brown's goal, just before the end of the game.

White scored the lone Belleville score on a pass from Parks. Vesterfelt and Little also turned in creditable performances for the home squad.

The teams:

Kingston — Goal, Downey; defence, Frayn, Muller; centre, McIntosh; wings, Roy, Howland. Alternates: Walton, Botting, Snelgrove, Wheeler, Brown, Delph, Hampton, Sanderson.

Belleville — Goal, Kingston; defence, Lynch, Little; centre, Buskard; wings, Grant, Vesterfelt. Alternates: Parks, St. Denis, White, Farnsworth, McKay, Bovay, Hughes, Culberry.

Kingston Vics Tie Lindsay 6-6

Maxie Jackson's last - second strategy paid off last night in Kingston when he yanked his goalie and the Vics fired home the tying goal with three seconds to go in overtime in a six-all thriller in the second game of the teams' junior "B" semi-finals playoffs with the Lindsay Kinsmen.

Vics blasted the Kinsmen for a 4-1 lead going into the third period but the Kinsmen came to life and scored three goals in two minutes to tie the score. Lindsay scored early in the overtime period and Jackson pulled his goalie in the successful last-second effort.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Here is an argument. Not being a private fight, anybody can enter it. The subject is: When west opens with a club, state the first defensive bid with the north hand shown here:

♠A K Q J 10
9 8 4 3 2
♥None
♦5
♣K 3

Opinions expressed include: Pass, four spades, three spades, double, four no-trump, two clubs, two spades. Each has something to be said in its favor and something that is objectionable.

Pass: Might be a clever ruse. But, except for the thrill one gets out of such fireworks, there is no real advantage. It has the disadvantage of keeping partner guessing.

Four spades or three spades: Game in spades is absolutely sure. But four spades discourages a slam. And three spades shows length with lack of strength that partner is asked to pass.

Double: It asks partner to bid if no bid intervenes. But partner could pass if he held enough clubs to defeat one club. And the result would not be profitable. Furthermore, it gives the wrong picture.

Four no-trump: It asks partner to show his number of aces and kings. If partner has three aces, the grand slam is a cinch. But it is not likely that he has them.

Two clubs: It is an overcall in opponent suit that guarantees a game in something else. But it also promises no losers in clubs. Which is not true, and might reach a grand slam that loses a club trick.

Two spades: A jump overcall that promises a rebiddable suit in a hand containing at least eight tricks. Partner may pass it. But with such a freak holding, others may bid again.

I would probably make the jump overcall of two spades. Why? With a choice of two or more bids to make in any one case, I prefer the bid that tells the least lies to partner.

Wanna make something of it?

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 22 —(AP)— It could be Lana Turner's hangnail or the sprained ankle of a janitor. All patients are the same to Dr. Helen Jones.

Dr. Jones is the studio physician at MGM and she is perhaps the only person on the lot who doesn't observe the star system.

"Each patient gets the same kind of care from me," she remarked. "When I took the job, I didn't expect to last six weeks. I liked to go to the movies sometimes, but show business and its stars meant nothing to me. I saw no reason why I should treat any patient differently, just because he was a movie star."

Worked Fine

Dr. Jones has surprised herself by lasting 15 years at the studio, she recalled her first "name" patient—a well-known comedian who had scratched his shoulder in a bathing scene.

"He was admiring himself in the hospital mirror," she remembered. "I had to remind him that I was the one to do the examining, not him. I have since had to have that mirror painted over, because of the actor patients."

Dr. Jones recently performed a dual function, adding to her regular duties the technical advising on "The Girl in White." In the picture June Allyson plays the role of Dr. Emily Dunning Barringer, New York ambulance surgeon.

One of Hollywood's most eligible males offers this advice on how to elude designing females in this Leap Year: Run!

Handing out this advice is Rock Hudson, tall, dark-haired actor. He is the latest to cause a big noise among the bobbysoxers. In his two years in Hollywood, he has squired a good number of the glamor girls and he would like to continue his single ways.

"I'm 26," he said. "I don't think I'd like to get married until I'm 30."

Leap year or not, there are girls who would like to thwart his long-range planning, he said.

"I can always feel it coming on," he said. "I have several dates with a girl and then she starts wanting to get serious. She starts to work me into a corner. That's when I use my strategy. I run.

Hudson came close to marriage once during his Hollywood career. He and Vera-Ellen decided they would wed and even set the date for the event. It was cancelled by mutual agreement.

"Now I don't believe I would marry an actress," he declared. "It places too much strain on a marriage. For one thing, I want to be the breadwinner in the family. I wouldn't want my wife footing any of the bills.

"That was one of the reasons Vera and I broke it up. She was making 10 times the salary I was."

He further illustrated with one of his current dates, Marilyn Maxwell: "She's just finishing up a picture and I'm just starting one. She'll be going out on a tour next, and as soon as she gets back, I'll be going out on one. We seldom have the time to see each other."

Hudson is currently the fair-haired boy at Universal-International. He gets his first star billing in "Bend of the River," but it was the premier of that picture that put him in solid with his studio bosses. He spent a week touring Oregon for the film, and he got the cheers of the younger set wherever he went.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Saturday, February 23

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Conscientious effort can bring desirable returns. Indications favorable for sound business and personal affairs. Whatever you try or do, make it good, worth while.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Try to see beyond the immediate; read between the lines for helpful clues, leads. Take advantage of our many privileges; be wide-awake, appreciative, keen not too forceful.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Be aware that you will have to work hard, have competition, may be some setbacks. Not all easy today; be on your mark, set increase or decrease tempo. Enjoy recreation.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Some influences uncertain for money and business matters. To relax would give competitors a lead and set you back too. Keep steady pace with duties, alert to others' doings.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Outlook needs serious thought but never pessimism. Always a chance of bettering. Work for and feel success, it will come sooner. Gentleness in domestic matters urged.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Auspicious day mostly for the observing one, you ready to work, and to smile. Fine period contacts with sound foundation. Enjoy some recreation.

September 24 to October 23—Libra—Don't get off on the wrong foot or put yourself on the defensive unwittingly. A.M. may furnish new means for P.M. gains. Study outlook's offers minutely. Improve a hobby, get rest.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)— Your very best will get very encouraging returns. Excellent configurations for most worthy efforts. Take sensible rest periods, devote some free time to those close to you.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Work and healthy recreation go hand in hand. Each in its turn will bring better returns all round. Don't push ahead of sane schedule. Keep steady; enjoy relaxation.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn) — May have to be more specific about things. Concentrate on important issues. Chances or guessing unwise; search out facts. Steer clear of unsavory propositions, tangles.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— Not all stimulating now for exacting or critical problems, but be careful and you will do all right. Be diplomatic but co-operate only with those of worthy purpose.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—May be dull for every-day and money matters that require advance planning. But good motives and good work never fail to reward. Enjoy some relaxation. Be hopeful always.

YOU BORN TODAY have Neptune as ruling planet. You are sympathetic, affectionate, innately studious and talented. Usually use method, system in what you do. Capable of sound deductions and conclusions. Will work hard, but not always with enough confidence. Kind to animals as well as to humans. Make excellent doctors, teachers, lawyers, nurses. Have host of friends, as you seldom hurt or dispute others needlessly. Don't anticipate trouble, or worry before crossing the bridge. Birthdate of Charles V. historic head of Holy Roman Empire and king of Spain.

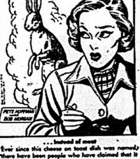
Why We Say--



...Instead of meat

Ever since this cheese on toast dish was named, there have been people who have claimed that it really means Welsh "rarebit." This is not true, because the name started in Wales when there was a shortage of meat. The Welsh named the dish "rabbit" as a joke.

WILL HEAR RESULTS

Sarnia, Feb. 22 — (CP) — A supreme court jury today will hear the results of an eye examination of Jerome Meneray, 17, of nearby Lion's Head who has been charged with manslaughter.

Meneray was charged in connection with the deaths of two soldiers, passengers in his car Dec. 6 when it collided with a truck 20 miles east of Sarnia.

The soldiers, Privates C. Helm of Hathaway, Ont., and Robert A. Plumb of Binscartin, Man., were members of the Third Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, stationed at Camp Ipperwash.

ACQUITTED ON CHARGE

Toronto, Feb. 22 (CP) — Mrs. Grace Martin, 36, yesterday was acquitted by an assize court jury on a charge of manslaughter in the death last December of a 26-year-old Port Credit mother. Mr. Justice A.M. LeBel told Mrs. Martin: "You should consider yourself indeed lucky. You might have had a different verdict with another jury." Evidence during the trial

RAWDON

Fifty Relatives Honor Two Sisters With Birthday Party

Rawdon—On Saturday evening last Mr. and Mrs. Archie Bailey entertained about 50 relatives in honor of the double birthday of the former's mother, Mrs. Frank Bailey and aunt, Mrs. Hector Whitton. These two highly esteemed ladies were born on the same date four years apart. Mrs. Bailey is 71 and Mrs. Whitton 67 years of age.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. I. Roblin and children of Toronto.

The evening was spent reminiscing and enjoying television.

Two Birthday Cakes

The highlight of the refreshment time was two lighted birthday cakes. Mrs. Bailey's granddaughter, Miss Joyce Bailey, carried in cake No. 1 while Mrs. Whitton's granddaughter, Mrs. Don Petherick was in charge of cake No. 2. "Happy Birthday" was sung to each lady.

Several younger members of the clan assisted the hostess and her husband in serving refreshments.

Rawdon friends extended birthday felicitations to both Mrs. Bailey and Mrs. Whitton.

ROSLIN

Roslin—The adult showing of the films was held at the school on Wednesday evening.

A memorial service for his majesty King George VI was held in St. Paul's Anglican Church on Friday morning. Members of the Loyal Orange Lodge attended in a body.

The Rector, Rev. R. F. Gardam chose as his text "Defender of the Faith" one of the titles given our late King and which he never gave anyone cause to doubt.

On Monday evening the A.Y.P.A. was reorganized in the Roslin parish at a meeting held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Slingerland.

The following slate of officers were elected: president, Miss Norma Bates; 1st vice president, Mr. Clare Grills; 2nd vice president, Miss Joan Vance; secretary, Miss Marilyn Carleton; treasurer, Mr. Franklin Coulter.

Meetings are to be held twice a month with the next meeting to be at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hart.

More Precious Than Rubies

By Nina Wilcox Putnam

"Poor Joe!" thought Alma, but it was actually more admiration than pity which she felt. Joe took everything calmly.

By now he would be meeting the Lock Sergeant at the counter and counter-checking the contents of the Sergeant's steel lock-box as the latter laid under glass the flaming jewelled pins and clips. Then Joe would use the little key which hung so unobtrusively on his watch chain and the Lock Sergeant would move on to another show case, and Joe's daily guardianship would begin.

Joe was a good salesman. Women liked to buy from him. Women! And Joe had never looked at a woman other than herself! Poor Joe, thought Alma once again.

The service elevator stopped to let clerks out at Silverware, at China-and-Glass, at Special Wedding Gifts. Minor executives left at the fifth floor. At the sixth, Alma stepped out into the lobby of the workshop. Most jewelers had their jewelry manufacturing done outside the premises, but Trumbull's had, even in the new building stuck by the tradition of having it done under their own roof. Alma nodded to the uniformed guard who was always slumped in his chair by the door.

"Morning, Pete!"

He grunted, but with a smile in his eyes.

She left her things in the locker room, slipped into her dark blue working smock and went to the check-away counter. Behind its chromium grille bright-eyed little Mr. Youmans looked like a moth-eaten gray squirrel in a cage. Alma slipped her last night's receipt under the grille and presently he brought her flat steel work-tray and unlocked it, raising the grille and slipping it out to her, smiling.

"Don't drop any diamonds on the floor today!" he admonished playfully. It was his standard joke. Alma smiled back.

"You bet I'll be careful!" she said. "The floor's about due to be sold, isn't it?"

The floor of the workroom at Trumbull's was the dread of all its jewel makers. It was covered by a shallow super structure of finely knit slatwork, and despite every precaution on the journeyman's part, a certain amount of gold and platinum dust and shavings from the trays seeped through to the concrete floor beneath.

Once a year this dust was auctioned off blind to salvage dealers, the highest bidder undertaking to remove the old wooden floor and replace it with a new one. The smallest winning bid in the history of The House had been $3,000.

Anything other than dust slipping through the slat work was considered the property of the salvage firm and for a journeyman to lose even the smallest stone in this manner was looked upon as a disgrace. When Mr. Youmans made his little joke, his audience stepped carefully.

Alma found herself holding her tray grimly as she took it to her place at the bench where her grandfather already sat. Old Victor watched her affectionately as she laid out her work, his eyes anxious.

"All is well, cherie?"

"Yes, Papa Victor. Well enough. What are you making?"

"A horrible modernistic clip." He held it up, shuddering exaggeratedly. "However, one must live!" He leaned toward her confidentially. "But I have a new design—a five pointed star. Wait until The Head sees that. They think I am through eh? I who originated the flexible diamond bracelet the diamond sunburst! Alors! They are wrong; Regarde toi, Cherie!"

He shoved his meticulous drawing toward her. Even before she looked at it Alma felt sure that it, like most of the old man's dated work was doomed to rejection. But she smiled and said, "very lovely, dear Papa Victer!"

Then she concentrated on her own commission, her pliers busy with the soft gold wires of the trial set up. And presently she had forgotten everything except the beauty which was flowering under her hands. The otmosphere swept her up into the Aladdin's lamp magic with which the place never failed to inspire her, for Trumbull's was no mere factory, no cold, detached series of unrelated luxury shops, but a gigantic entity which extended far beyond the stolid white marble of its walls.

The House owned pearl fisheries off Godhelpus Island in the Pacific; had their own ruby and sapphire mines in Ceylon and Burma where, before the war, white-robed merchants and yellow robed priests aided the American bagmen in the selection of the best gems. There was the interest held by Trumbull's in African diamond fields, and in gold and silver mines as well. The House of Trumbull had roots reaching out all over the world—strong roots of its own through which flowed the precious sap which supported The House as the main trunk of a tree is supported by the rich earth.

And the heart of this giant, golden tree was this workroom in which she labored with such energetic pleasure.

At noon she showed Old Victor the furs and when they had been duly admired they went to lunch.

When Alma Conroy and Old Victor Blanchard arrived at the restaurant, Joe Denton was already there. He sprang to his feet and pulled out the chair next to him while her grandfather sank into his accustomed place beside the white-haired, beautiful Madame Leshinka, head appraiser of jewels.

Her fine eyes, still dark and sparkling, lit up at the sight of Victor. She had been in love with him for half a century and Alma often wondered why these two had never married. The wife old Victor had lost had been nothing like so beautiful as White Marie, as the store called her. But Gran' Bijou had possessed a quality that men never forget.

The restaurant was one of those highly respectable, but moderate-priced places. It was located across the street from The House of Trumbull and groups from the different departments had their special luncheon tables there.

This noon there was an unusual excitement evident in the group. Mr. Smith, from Silverware, was holding the floor.

"It's true!" he was saying with low emphasis. "The Head's son—Brighton Muncie!"

Old Victor caught the name with strained eagerness.

"What of young Bright?" he asked. "Something good?"

"I wish it were!" White Marie's rich voice was full of regret. "But perhaps it is only gossip."

"Where there's smoke there's fire!" Mr. Smith insisted piously. "That young good for nothing isn't running around with Mysti Marchand to reform her!"

The name of the well-known playgirl interested Alma. Mysti's was a name to conjure with—to conjure up mink coats and jewels, hectic divorces and the hot breath of scandal generally: a high-priced, greedy, dangerous woman. But so far, to Alma, Mysti Marchand had been just a colorful, rather interesting name.

"So Bright Muncie has been hooked by the golden Mysti," she commented. "That will come high, from what I've heard!"

"Well at least he can buy her jewels wholesale!" said a voice.

There was a gust of laughter and someone else added, "he'll have to go easy, even so. I hear that young Mr. Bright didn't get the raise he asked his daddy for!"

"As assistant manager of the store, Bright should rate the right salary."

"Oh you know the Head! Muncie would think that holding Bright down on money would discipline him. Probably wants Bright to feel that the honor of a position of trust to The House is reward enough!"

"Wonder if Mysti will see it that way?" There was more laughter.

Old Victor's distress was increasing steadily. "I fear that I am the one who put Bright where you all seem to feel he should not be," said the old man. "Look you, after those little mistakes about money which this boy made years ago, it was I who persuaded Mr. Muncie that his son might become more serious if given real responsibility. It would be dreadful—mais oui—formidable! If Mr. Muncie were to learn about his son and this woman."

"Well, it's a sure thing nobody here is going to tell him!" Alma looked about her challengingly as she said this and a moment of awkward silence followed.

"Don't worry yourself, Alma." Mr. Smith from Silverware spoke out with dour kindliness. "I can't help thinking though, it's a strange thing that the only discreditable person at The House should be the president's son!"

"His father believes in Bright," said Alma with slow deliberation. "Bright means everything to Mr. Muncie. There isn't any other personal interest in Mr. Muncie's life—so let's stop guessing at things we don't really know about."

Old Victor, his distress still undisguised, slowly nodded his head. It was true. Brighton Muncie did mean everything to the Head that a son should mean to a father.

The talk drifted around to other matters after that. But there was no discussion of the recent robberies at Trumbull's. The employees had been asked not to speak of them in public and they respected the request as if it had been a military command.

At closing time that afternoon Alma found herself dreading to go home to the empty apartment. She quit a few minutes early, telling herself that it had been a long time since she'd had a look around the ground floor shop.

But that basically honest voice which was the core of her kept whispering that this was merely an excuse to see Joe Denton. She wanted to see Joe alone, to tell him about Tommy's good fortune—and, well, to be with Joe!

But she did not have to go into the shop to find him, after all. When she reached the foyer of the employee's entrance, Joe was coming in from the street.

He hastened to join her, a trifle out of breath, as though he had been running.

"Caught you!" he said with his wonderful smile.

Joe Denton motioned toward the door as he spoke to Alma Conroy. "I just took mother home and came rushing back to see if you'd like to have dinner?"

"You're taking the very food off my stove!" Alma declared. "I'd love it."

"Come on then, let's go! We'll stop at the Blue Cat Bar for a drink first."

"Gee! I'm afraid I don't look swanky enough!"

"What? With those gorgeous new furs? Who's keeping you these days Jewels?"

She looked up at him her face glowing with pride. "Believe it or not, Tommy is!" she said, triumph in her voice. "He gave me the foxes, Joe, and they're paid for! He's got a swell position. I hate to disappoint everybody, but my husband's making good, just as I've always known he would." Joe gave a long whistle.

"What kind of a job—where?"

"I'd rather he'd tell you himself. I know he will when he gets back to town."

"Is it an out-of-town job?"

"Part of the time."

"The old so-and-so! Landing a job on the big time and never raising his lip about it to me. Is he with some important firm?"

Alma laughed aloud. "Yes, he is. Trumbull & Co."

"What?"

"He's had an important promotion. But I mean important! It's a confidential matter, Joe. He won't tell the details even to me."

"Then it isn't the photography spot?"

"No. Apparently it's something much better. But he'll still be with us at The House except when he's away on trips, like tonight. Isn't it wonderful?"

"Wonderful? It's positively uncanny."

"I knew you'd be pleased. That's why I told you, even though please remember that it's a secret for the moment. I'm so happy and proud I'm ready to burst!"

"Dear Alma, you must be," said Joe softly, "after all these years of standing up for him."

"I knew it would come," she said simply, and was not ashamed that there were tears of happiness in her eyes.

The bar at the Blue Cat Club was one of those chic and expensive places of which Alma had often read, but to which she had never been. It was not the sort of restaurant that people like Tommy and she could afford to frequent. But tonight she felt expansive and glowing and in the mood to celebrate. The long, low room was dim and intimate-looking as they stood waiting for a place and Alma was already enjoying its unfamiliar luxury when she was startled by Joe's voice.

"Let's get out of here," he said, it's stuffy as the devil!"

He took her by the arm to steer her away but by then it was too late. She had already seen what Joe was trying to keep from her. Tommy was there and Tommy was not alone.

Seated at a table for two halfway down the dim alley of the room he was talking absorbedly to one of the most exotic young women Alma had ever seen: like a tropical fruit just ripe for eating, she thought with a sort of sickening detachment.

The long oval face beneath the dark, sleek hair was slashed by a soft, wide mouth of startling color; the low-cut dress clung over her full, pointed breasts as though part of her skin was satiny black below the long white throat. There was that eternally naked look about her which certain women flaunt at all times, and the thing Alma recognized behind it, brought forth the fear, the utter helplessness with which all good women are filled by the mere presence of such a rival.

Joe Denton was tugging at her arm, but Alma continued to stare, unable to tear her eyes away from the woman.

"Come away," said Joe very softly. "Come away before they see us." And this time Alma allowed herself to be taken out into the street, scarcely knowing what she was doing, her blood beating thickly in her ears, a faint nausea swaying her.

Joe led her down the block, holding her hand tucked closely under his arm. But she scarcely knew he was there. The new world she had built up for herself had collapsed, and she was still stunned by the concussion of its falling. But she must not go to pieces, she told herself—not in front of Joe!

She began a tremendous effort at making the situation less embarrassing.

"There is probably some explanation," she said with difficulty falling back into her old habit of finding an excuse for everything Tommy did. "Perhaps we should have gone up to them and spoken."

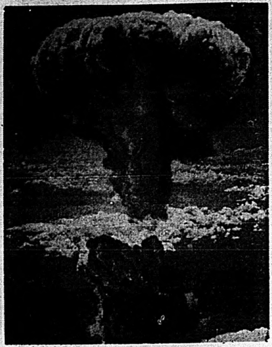
"Alma, don't be a fool!"

"I feel like a fool. So don't let's discuss it."

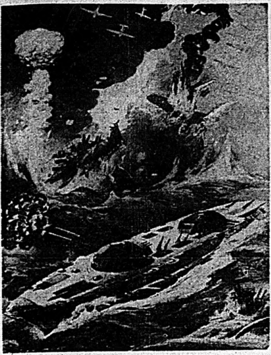
"I wouldn't dare. Right this minute I couldn't. I'm so furious. And I won't let him spoil our evening—he's spoiled too many of them already! Come on, we'll go to the Italian place."

(To be continued)

Believe Smaller A-Bomb Likely



This familiar A-bomb mushroom may be one of the marks of the primitive type and may not be the trademark in future explosions. This suggestion is contained in the announcement by both Britain and the U.S. that A-bomb tests will be made this summer in Australia and on Eniwetok Island in the Pacific. Military men have been trying to make the bomb not larger but smaller so that it can be used in shells by artillery and in small bombs by lighter, faster planes. The fact that further tests are being held suggests that progress has been made in adapting atomic fission to smaller packages, according to military observers here and abroad. — Central Press Canadian.



This artist's conception of a sea battle in the atomic age is predicted on the assumption that A-bombs will be made small enough to be carried by light planes. Ships with elevated superstructure, vulnerable to A-bomb blasts, will have no place in sea warfare, according to experts. — Central Press Canadian.

"The lad and I have been seeing each other for months now and we would like to finish it out together."

The father, Pte. John J. Wheeler, 46, and son, Pte. John, Jr., are serving with the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry. They are from West Selkirk, Man.

Ontario Govt. Plans to Attack Housing Shortage

Problem Will be Viewed From Many Different Angles

Toronto, Feb. 23—(CP)— The Ontario government plans to make a many-sided attack on the housing shortage.

Members of the Ontario legislature were told on the opening day of the session, Thursday, that the government intends to act "in several ways" to stimulate house-building. Premier Frost yesterday met reporters who sought a definite outline of what the government proposes to do.

Mr. Frost gave no concrete plan, but said he is in favor of a buy-as-you-rent scheme, under which tenants could gain eventual ownership of their dwellings. He also indicated that several other plans have been discussed at recent meetings of federal and provincial housing officials.

The chief aim of every plan should be to encourage more house-building. "The more housing that can be built, the less pressure there will be on rents," the premier said.

He took the occasion for further criticism of federal credit restrictions which, he said, were chiefly responsible for high down payments above the reach of many prospective home-buyers and consequently responsible for a falling-off in new building.

The session's second day yesterday saw the house business get under way with the introduction of 11 minor bills by the government, amending or re-drafting present statutes.

More government bills will be introduced Monday and the throne speech debate will begin Tuesday when a new Progressive Conservative member, John Robarts of London, will make the formal motion for an address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. He will be seconded by John Root (PC-Wellington North).

Will Form Committees

A striking committee to organize the session's standing committees was set up and the standing committees, which examine the operation of government departments, will likely be formed early next week. Premier Frost announced two additions to the usual list of committees. These will be devoted to health and to travel and publicity.

Nine of yesterday's 11 government bills were introduced by Attorney-General Porter.

Among other things they will establish a five-day work week in division and surrogate courts and registry offices, increase certain registry office fees and put a ceiling on the income of justices of peace who receive a salary for duties in magistrates' courts in addition to fees as justices of the peace.

Education Minister Dunlop, named to the cabinet before last November's election, introduced a bill under which school boards will have power to send slow-learning children from auxiliary classes to industrial schools, if they are capable of advancing. The bill is an amendment to the vocational education act.

Reform Institutions Minister Foote introduced a bill amending the parole act to enlarge the Ontario parole board from six to nine members and give the chief parole officer control over rehabilitation as well.

Hamilton Woman Beaten, Robbed By Two Thugs

Hamilton, Feb. 23 — (CP) — A 49-year-old woman was brutally beaten last night by two young thugs who took her purse containing $48.

Mrs. L. M. Taylor was grabbed from behind by two teen-agers. One seized her arm and spun her to the ground. She suffered a fractured shoulder and bruises on her legs.

Just before she was attacked, she heard one of them say: "Let's make another snatch."

The purse was found empty later in an alley.

Mr. Taylor, general manager of drive-in theatres in this area, is on tour as advance publicity agent for a British variety show. Police believe he now is in Vancouver.

Indonesian Govt. Resigns Office

Jakarta, Indonesia, Feb. 23 — (AP)—Premier Soekiman's 10-month-old coalition government resigned to President Soekarno today.

The resignation of the young republic's third government in its 26 months of independence became inevitable after Soekiman's own party, the Moslem Masjumi, decided last night to withdraw its support over the burning issue of accepting American aid.

An executive of the Masjumi, the country's strongest political faction, said the party wanted a parliamentary decision on the question of taking American dollars under the Mutuel Security Act.

On his own hook, Foreign Minister Achmad Soebardjo signed an agreement with American officials in January to keep on taking U. S. help under M. S. A. and go along with the anti-communist pledges the act requires. A storm of protest from parliament and other cabinet members followed.

Opponents said that Indonesia is being steered from her avowed neutral position in the world struggle between communism and the western powers.

NEW FOSTER SON

Hollywood, Feb. 22 (AP)—Screen actress Bette Davis and her actor husband, Gary Merrill, have a new foster son—blonde Michael Woodman Merrill, one month old. The couple married in 1950. They have been searching for a son for more than a year, they said. They have two other children.

Stranded Since Mon. in Snow-Bound Train 38 Passengers Ready to Travel

Ste. Therese, Que., Feb. 23—(CP)— Thirty-eight passengers stranded in a snow-bound train since Monday night near this Gaspe Peninsula town, will probably be able to continue their journey today.

Last night, the seven-car train backed up to Chandler, 15 miles west of here, bringing with it half the original passengers, mostly travelling salemen who handled their business by phone from hotels here.

The remainder, originally headed for Gaspe, 45 miles east of here, remained in hotels and farmhouses for a day train.

A Canadian National Railways spokesman said the snow-bound train will be cleaned up and take on fuel before it is decided whether it will start again for Gaspe or return to its starting point of Campbellton, N.B.

The official said the 200-mile stretch of one-mile track between the two points has been cleared of snow by rotary plows which are standing by in the event they are needed again.

All highways in the district, however, remain blocked by huge snowdrifts.

Meanwhile, two deaths were indirectly attributed to the storm.

The 10-month-old son of Elmer McGregor was burned to death Wednesday night when fire destroyed a housing centre in the snowbound village of Douglas West. Firemen from Gaspe were unable to get to the fire because of snow-blocked roads.

Four families, including 13 children, were forced from their homes by the blaze that caused damage estimated at $42,000.

A mother, on the way to hospital by snowmobile to give birth to a child, lost her baby as the vehicle became stuck in the snow. The baby died shortly after being born. The woman was not further identified.

Some 150 men worked around the clock for several days to get the train cleared of snow.

The six-man crew and a number of male passengers remained in the train while it was stalled. The heating system on the diesel engine kept them warm and there was no lack of food.

MARMORA MAN WINS HOUSE, CAR AT NIAGARA FALLS

Furnished Home Valued at $40,000

"I am completely stunned and do not know what to say", said Frank Leal of Marmora, when the Ontario Intelligencer called him up to tell him that he had won a "Dream House" completely furnished as well as a new automobile, when his ticket was drawn at Niagara Falls, last night, at the Army, Navy and Air Force carnival. The estimated winnings are $40,000.

"I have been feeling under the weather for the past two days but this news certainly has perked me up and the wife is happier than I am", he stated to the reporter. "I had no idea of winning but I bought a ticket from "Solly" Jones, the barber, here, away last summer and I thought it was lucky so I wrapped a $2 American bill around it and put it away.

Are you going up to see the house?, the reporter asked. "Yes. It is many years since I was at the Falls and I suppose there are many changes." The reporter informed him that he had seen the house this summer and after giving a description of the place, Mr. Leal was undecided whether he would go to the new home or stay in Marmora. "You know", said Mr. Leal, "the wife and I were thinking of building a new home and then this happens to change all our plans."

Mr. Leal was born in Tweed and has lived in that community all his life. He enlisted with the 21st battalion in the First World War and served overseas until 1919, when he was discharged. At present Mr. Leal is a member of Branch No. 237 of the Canadian Legion. When told that the veterans did well enough with their draw to build a new Memorial Hall in Niagara Falls, Mr. Leal stated he was glad the boys did so well.

You know you could get a tidy cash sum for your holdings, said the reporter, and Mr. Leal stated that he had not received official notice from the A.N.A.F. unit in Niagara Falls and until this came through he was still living in a "Dream". In closing the long distance conversation the reporter wished for him and his wife every success with their new "Dream Home".

NEED MORE EQUIPMENT

Washington, Feb. 23—(AP) — United States railroads may spend $2,180,000,000 in the next two years for freight cars and locomotives if earnings permit and materials are available, William T. Faricy, president of the association of American Railroads, told the interstate commerce commission yesterday. Some 200,000 new freight cars and 3,465 new locomotives will be needed.

Reds Says United Nations Barbarously Slew Prisoners During Koje Island Riotings

Munsan, Korea, Feb. 23 (AP) — The communists today accused the United Nations of "barbarously massacring large numbers" of prisoners in the U.N. prison camp on Koje Island.

"The latest massacre fully testifies to the brutal inhumanity with which your side treats our personnel captured by your side," said Col. Tsai Chen-Wen.

The reds had been expected to inject into the truce conference the Monday riot in which 69 Korean civilian internees were killed and 142 wounded.

In an adjoining tent at Panmunjom the reds accepted the U.N.-proposed monthly troop-rotation ceiling of 35,000. Previously the communists had insisted 30,000 men was sufficient.

Cling to Demand

However, the reds clung to their demand that only five ports of entry on each side be opened to inspection by neutral teams during an armistice. The U.N. Allies insist on inspection at six entry ports.

Col. Don Darrow said that after an agreement is reached on ports of entry "there still are quite a number of minor items. But they should not present much difficulty unless the communists become obstinate."

The staff officers, however, are not even discussing the biggest issue of all in the truce-supervision controversy—whether the reds may build and repair military airfields during an armistice.

Communist staff officers again demanded that the U. N. accept Russia as a Communist representative on the neutral inspection commission.

Refuse to Debate

U. N. negotiators again refused to be drawn into debate, but accused the Reds of violating an oral agreement that members of the commission be acceptable to both sides.

Despite the Red protest over the Koje Island riot, staff officers working on prisoner - exchange plans made some progress Saturday.

They now have reached virtual agreement on all but the key question — whether prisoners should be forcibly repatriated or given a choice.

The Communist protests obviously was aimed at United Nations command insistence on voluntary repatriation.

Both groups of staff officers will meet again Sunday in Panmunjom.

Atlantic Allies Plan Spending Three Hundred Billion Dollars In Defences Against Reds

By ARTHUR GAVSHON

Lisbon, Feb. 23. (AP)—The Atlantic Allies lay down today a carefully drawn plan to tap western taxpayers for $300,000,000,000 for anti-communist arms —a sum they believe can be scraped up without bringing economic ruin.

The cost will be spread over the three years ending with 1954 and is equal to $750 apiece for each of the 400,000,000 people in the 12 original Atlantic Pact countries.

The council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, under chairmanship of Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, is expected to give final endorsement to the plan today.

Months of intense study by economic experts—the so-called 12 wise men—went into its preparation. All the governments involved were consulted repeatedly.

Economic Tightrope

The plan forms an economic tightrope for many of the hard-up European countries. Many had to increase their arms spending, and the 1954 armament goals were reduced slightly, to make ends meet under the plan.

It set down ways and means to finance an army that is meant to include 30-front-line divisions and 20 in immediate reserve by the end of 1952, with planned expansion to some 88 divisions by the end of 1954.

Included in the plan is a network of airbases reaching from the Arctic to the equator, communications, ships tanks, guns, ammunition, uniforms, barracks and the like.

Other Provisions

The plan also provides:

N.A.T.O. governments must put airfield construction ahead of many other budgetary items to make sure the nearly 200 air bases in west Europe are finished on time.

Arms production is to be speeded.

National resources—men, machines, metals and materials—need to be used more efficiently to stretch thin supplies. Coal, steel and metal production need to be boosted, and the Allies are urged to avoid scrambling with each other for scarce raw materials.

The entire plan underlines the idea that a substantial German contribution in men and materials is needed to reach the arms goals the Allies have set.

The N.A.T.O. council yesterday took a big step in this direction by approving the French-sponsored plan for an European army under which German divisions would be used.

AGA KHAN NOT SERIOUS

Calcutta, Feb. 23 — (AP)—The aging Aga Khan, one of the world's richest men, flew off to New Delhi today in apparent good health. He suffered a mild heart attack while flying here from Dacca Wednesday. A spokesman at Government House said the Heart attack was not serious. The Aga Khan is 74.

Pearson Likely To be Chosen NATO Secretary

Lisbon, Feb. 23 — (CP). — The Associated Press said today there is not much doubt that Canada's affairs minister, L. B. Pearson, will be chosen as permanent secretary - general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Informed sources said again today that the 54-year-old Pearson has agreed to accept the job.

Early this week when Reuters news agency reported that Pearson was understood to be willing to take the post, Pearson himself merely parried reporters' direct questions about it.

Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said at that time that Pearson had not been in touch with him about the possibility of his quitting the external affairs portfolio and moving to the permanent N.A.T.O. job.

Sir Oliver Franks, Britain's ambassador to the United States, has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the N.A.T.O. post but he is understood to wish to return to academic life.

N.A.T.O. is about to agree, probably Monday, to streamline its overlapping bosses.

The United States wants all N. A. T. O. rebuilt and bodily moved to Paris so it will be near both Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's supreme Allied headquarters in Europe and William J. Draper's European office of the mutual security agency.

Britain wants it to stay in London. Prime Minister Churchill is convinced that if all N. A. T. O. offices are on the continent, the whole concept will lose some of its "Atlantic" appearance.

The problem is likely to come up for decision in the N. A. T. O. council just before the ministers are scheduled to adjourn.

Little opposition is expected to the idea of abolishing the present overlapping boards and councils and creating one secretariat on the lines of the United Nations.

This would be headed by a secretary-general whose powers would be about the same as U. N. Secretary - general Trygve Lie's. There is some debate about the extent of these powers. Britain wants to limit them and the U.S. wants them fairly liberal.

A GOOD SCHEME

Syracuse, N.Y., Feb. 23. (AP) —A federal court jury last night convicted a leading Syracuse real estate broker and a former bank book-keeper on charges of conspiring in a $1,600,000 overdraft scheme and misapplying bank funds. Jackson M Potter, 52, the broker, and Bernard E. Klock, 37, ousted by the Syracuse Trust Company last April, were accused of having an arrangement whereby $1,600,000 in cheques drawn by Potter against inadequate balances were paid by the bank, but not recorded in its books.

CORONATION MAY BE HELD IN AUG. REPORTS STATE

May Decide on Date Within Three Weeks

London, Feb. 23 (CP) —Plans for a mid-summer coronation ceremony were reported under consideration today.

Reuters news agency quoted reliable sources as saying that Aug. 7 will be suggested to the Queen by court officials.

The Daily Express, while less positive about the exact date said the Queen is expected to decide on a date within three weeks. The newspaper said plans are to hold the ceremony in late August or early September.

If the Queen approves a date this summer, it will be the first time in 225 years that a British sovereign has been crowned within the year of succession to the throne.

The Reuters report noted that Aug. 7 is a Thursday and that Thursdays have been popular for coronations in eapst ETAOIN AOI coronations in the past. Queen Victoria, William IV and George IV chose that day. Edward VII also picked a Thursday but his illness caused a postponement.

Although holding the coronation ceremony on a Thursday is not based on tradition, there are some good reasons for choosing that date. Thursday is almost a general half-holiday throughout Britain and consequently there would be no interference with Britain's production drive.

Mourning Period Shortened

Speculation on an early coronation began last week with two official announcements. First the Queen declared that the mourning period for the late King would be only four months instead of the customary nine to 12.

Then church officials announced that Westminster Abbey would be closed soon after Easter to prepare it for the coronation ceremony.

There were some signs that the coronation was discussed yesterday when the Queen held the second Privy Council of her reign.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, who as primate of all England places the crown on the head of the sovereign, was among those present.

The Daily Express noted that a mid-summer coronation would lure thousands of tourists to the British Isles to see the glittering pageantry.

Britain, Egypt Will Negotiate Over Canal Zone

Cairo, Egypt, Feb. 23 (Reuters) —Prime Minister Aly Maher Pasha told reporters today that negotiations with Britain are expected to start in Cairo next week, to settle the long dispute over control of the Suez Canal and the Sudan.

Negotiations collapsed soon after Egypt scrapped her treaty with Britain last October signalling the start of the smouldering friction between British troops and Egyptian guerrillas in the canal zone.

There have been rising hopes of early truce talks ever since the bloody Cairo riots of Jan. 26 prompted King Farouk to dismiss the government of Nahas Pasha and place Maher's administration in power.

Telegrapher Who Transmitted Story Of North Pole Discovery Retiring

Halifax, Feb. 23—(CP)—One of the few living men who relayed the news of the discovery of the North Pole and two of the world's worst sea disasters retires here Feb. 29.

He is Alexander George Wright, plant chief for Canadian National Telegraphs, whose career dates back to 1899.

Admiral Robert E. Peary discovered the North Pole April 6, 1909, and five months later —on Sept. 6—word of his achievement was excitedly tapped out at Indian Harbor, Labrador. Wright picked up the message at his lonely Anticosti post and relayed it to other stations from where it was sent on land lines around the world.

Wright intercepted the first messages of the Titanic and Empress of Ireland sinkings. He was stationed at Cape Sable when the White Star liner Titanic went down on her maiden trip from Southampton after striking an iceberg off Newfoundland April 14, 1912, with a loss of 1,517 lives.

He was at Cape Ray when the C.P.R. liner Empress of Ireland was sunk May 29, 1914, off Father Point, Que., in collision with the Norwegian collier, Storstad. Lives lost in the sinking totalled 1,024.

"In those days there was a greater thrill in being a telegraph operator," he says. "While perhaps your place wasn't even as important as it is today you had to handle each message yourself and you knew everything that was going on."

Wireless has come a long way in the past half-century, mused the old telegrapher, who probably has worked longer at his job than any other Canadian.

Montreal Police Arrest Suspect With Stolen Tot

Parents Were Asked For $50,000 Ransom

Montreal, Feb. 23 (CP) —Three-year-old Barbara Nemeroff, kidnapped from her home for $50,000 ransom last night, was recovered by police today.

Police said they discovered the tot walking along the street with a man on St. Catheerine St.

The girl was unharmed.

Police arrested the man.

Police said the suspect was in his early 20s. They did not identify him but said they believed he had worked for the child's father, Morris Nemeroff, well-to-do-leather goods manufacturer.

The man and the child were in the midst of the hustle and bustle of the busy main street of Montreal, crowded with Saturday morning shoppers.

Police said they received a telephone tip that the man was in front of Eaton's department store with the child at the time.

The tip came from a woman who had seen the girl with the man and recognized them from a broadcast description.

Fifteen Killed, Twenty Injured In Plane Crash

Pusan, Korea, Feb. 23 (AP) — A United States F-84 Thunder Jet today crashed into a power plant, a hospital and four Korean homes, killing 15 persons and injuring 20.

Col. T. C. Green, who visited the crash scene, said the dead included the American pilot and 14 Korean civilians.

The crash was at Sadukni, near Kumhae, about 12 miles northwest of this southeast Korea port city.

The plane hit the power plant first, knifed through the hospital then catapulted 90 yards and hit the four dwellings. All the structures were destroyed.

Women's Ski Race to Finland

Oslo, Feb. 23 — (AP) — Little Finland swept its second and third championships of the winter Olympics today by capturing the women's 10-kilometre cross-country ski race and the men's 40-kilometre cross-country ski-relay contest.

Lydia Videman, a 28-year-old typist who plans to get married soon and give up competitive racing, carried the hardy nation's colors to victory in the individual race in decisive fashion. Four crack hill and dalers brought Finland another 10 points in the four-leg relay.

There were no Canadians in either event.

GUIDED TO SAFETY

Prestwick, Scotland, Feb. 23 — (AP)—A U.S. military transport plane carrying 40 passengers — families of American servicemen in Germany— was guided to safety last night after running into engine trouble over the Atlantic. A Dutch KLM air liner rode in with the plane after picking up a distress signal 150 miles from here.

Fabian Society Seeks to Change Divorce Laws

London, Feb. 23—(AP)— The Fabian Society said today a single lapse into adultery "should only be considered on its merits" as a reason for divorce and should not be an automatic ground for breaking a marriage.

The socialist intellecual society presented its views to a royal commission studying proposals to improve Britain's laws on marriage and divorce.

"Misconduct should only be considered on its merits in conjunction with other evidence showing the marriage has failed," the society said. "Many marriages have survived a single act of infidelity."

The Fabians advocate a more business-like basis for marriage.

It said, for example, that a wife should be able to seek court decisions on the amount of housekeeping money allowed her and should be empowered to find out from income tax authorities how much money her husband really earns.

The society helped found the Labor party half a century ago. Among its early members were the late George Bernard Shaw and Sidney and Beatrice Webb.

Bell Will Have $14,339,000 Net Profit by Raise

Ottawa, Feb. 23 — (CP) — Telephone-rate increases authorized for Ontario and Quebec are designed to give the Bell Telephone Company new revenue of $14,339,000, the Board of Transport Commissioners said today.

The board issued its "reasons for judgment" on an order handed down earlier this week awarding increases in local rates in the two provinces.

It did not specify how much those increases would yield, but it said those rates along with increases granted in November should bring in $14,339,000. Of that amount, the company would get $6,512,000 after taxes.

Mustang Made Wheelsup Landing On Wellers Bay

Trenton (Special) — A third forced landing of a Mustang fighter aircraft within the past three weeks occurred yesterday as a plane from Trenton RCAF made a wheels-up landing on Weller's Bay after its motor conked out.

Pilot of the fighter plane F/O Wilfred Dobbin, of Trenton, was uninjured.

F/O Dobbin was acting as a spotter for dive bombers practising at the Nicholson Island range on Lake Ontario when his motor conked out. He made a wheels-up landing on Weller's Bay and skidded to a stop about 100 feet from shore.

Three days ago a Mustang fighter crash landed in a farmer's field a short distance of yesterday's crash, while three weeks ago a plane of the same type came down in a field west of Stirling and was destroyed by fire after the pilot got safely out of the aircraft.

Father and Son Banquet At Christ Church Hall Enjoyed

Members of the 2nd Belleville Scout group and Cubs got together with their fathers Friday evening at a father and son banquet held in Christ Church Parish Hall. The banquet was on the birthday of Lord Baden-Powell, originator of the Scout movement.

Approximately 90 persons enjoyed the banquet prepared and served by the mothers' auxiliary.

Speaker of the evening was C. N. Nicholson, past chairman of the local Scout association, the theme of his talk being "What Do You Get Out of Scouting?" He told his listeners that a Scout learned honesty in word and deed and also learned decency, the ability to 'play the game' and to win or lose gracefully. The third point learned by the Scouts was service, to be prepared always to do a good turn.

Mr. Nicholson went into detail on the origin of the Scout movement and its progress and added a bit of advice for fathers on bringing their sons up properly. He was introduced by Oliver Owen and thanked by Terrence Doherty members of the Scout committee.

JAMES EVERETT CHAMBERS

North Bay.—Many friends and relatives gathered in the chapel of the Martyn Funeral Home Wednesday night to pay last respectful tribute to a prominent North Bay resident, James Everett Chambers, who died early Tuesday morning in hospital. Europe as I See It

By Raymond R. Canon

(Article 58)

Germershein au Rhein — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — It has been the better part of a year since I last saw Germany, and since my stay this time promises to be much longer than the last one, it should afford me a better chance to observe the struggle that Germany is facing in attempting to regain an honorable place in the world of nations.

Perhaps the first thing that strikes one's eye is the amount of reconstruction that has been accomplished, and at the same time the amount of destruction that is still evident. There are new buildings everywhere and more going up, but one cannot walk a block in Frankfurt or in any large city for that matter without seeing destroyed buildings. I feel that the Germans, with their reputation for diligence, have been partly responsible for such a rapid reconstruction, for they, like other countries have had to contend with many shortages which has often held up progress. However, they should not be given all the credit, for foreign aid has helped tide Germany over, just as it has other countries, although Germany was on the losing side. It would be well for people to remember this before they start to quote facts and figures, which some people are wont to do here.

Stations Repaired

If it is one type of building which has not been repaired to any great extent, it is the railway stations. Almost any station of any size is still in a dismal looking condition, with twisted girders, shattered walls or missing panes of glass all very much in evidence. Fortunately the road beds are all in fairly decent shape, and the trains usually run on time, so that travelling is not too bad. When travelling along the Rhine one can see from time to time where bridges formerly stood, and which have either been replaced by a new span or completely neglected, due to lack of funds for rebuilding, or to lack of necessity.

The burning question today in Germany is whether the country will become united once again, for although technically there exists only one country, for all purposes there are two. Each has become practically independent of the other, with only a minimum of trade being carried on. In fact the iron curtain passes right down the centre of the country for one cannot travel from one part to the other without special permission. Several students whom I know here have their home in the eastern zone, but have come to live with relatives in the western part just because of these difficulties. The currency in the eastern zone is worth less than one-third as much as its counterpart in the western sector, so that it is virtually impossible for any such student to pay his way if he has to exchange his money at this rate. Conditions are so much worse in the Soviet sector that people here are urged to send food packages to friends or relatives there. Every German longs for the day when their country will once more be as one, but feel that they are unable to bring this about themselves for, as many of them say, the two parts are just pawns in a game of power politics between America and Russia. While I feel that it would be better if Germany were united, it is not hard to remember that Germany tried to forge her future once in the past for a thousand years, with the most disastrous consequences. Even today, it would not take much to start the cry once more for lebensraum.

Germany in Middle

After having spent some time in both Spain and Switzerland which represent both ends of the ladder of prosperity, I would place Germany in about the middle, but slowly climbing. Most of the people manage to make a living, and wear clothes which are a bit worn, but kept clean and neat. There is still a fair amount of unemployment, certainly much more than in Canada, and as well as acute shortage of housing, due partly to the large number of refugees, the occupation forces, and the destroyed homes which have not been replaced. Prices on the whole are a bit lower than in Canada, but considering the wage that a worker receive: here, they are quite a bit higher. The average worker here receives about 250-300 marks a month (about 65-70 dollars), which, you will admit, is not very much. Certainly a German worker with a family is never concerned whether he can afford a car or a television set.

Perhaps the most discouraged and disillusioned ones in Germany are the youth. Born at a time when the fatherland was ever increasing in power, taught that theirs was the master race, and designed to rule the world, they have experienced the downfall of this regime, and since then have lived in a state of high tension, not knowing what the next year would bring. They see the country right in the middle of a cold war, which, should it break out into a shooting war, would find them all in the front line, and powerless to avoid it. It is above all a fear of communism, for quite a few have told me, "If only we had been able to defeat Russia, so that she would not be able to menace us."

Policy Shortsighted

They go on to tell me that if we had granted peace earlier in the war to Germany, most of the German army would have followed us if we had then turned on Russia. Well, perhaps that is true, and I feel that our policy toward Russia, especially that of the Roosevelt administration, was woefully shortsighted, but still at that time I have to explain that our commitments made such a turn-about practically impossible, for we considered the menace from Germany could only be defeated by an unconditional surrender and occupation. I have to admit to the students that Germany did see the danger of Russia long before we did, but their own conduct made it difficult for us to do anything about it. Most of them admit that now, but were too young to realize it during the war. I further explain that they are not alone in feeling pessimistic for students throughout Europe, and to a lesser extent back home, are also afflicted with such a feeling.

By this time most of the people have become accustomed to seeing foreign soldiers in the streets, and have come to realize that so many are not needed solely for occupation purposes, and so the word "verteididungstruppen" ((defence troops) is being heard more and more. The fact that Britain and America alone have more than ten divisions on German soil has taught the Germans that this time the Allies mean business, and are not taking a half-hearted approach to the danger of Russian communism.

MEDIGO AND THE EMEK

Jerusalem — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — I have just completed a journey which took me through the most northern parts of Israel, right up to the borders of Syria and Lebanon.

As I travelled along, I was amazed to see how rapidly the terrain of the country changes. In one place you may see fertile farmland and within ten miles, you see barren, hilly country. A half hour later brings you into a swamp area.

The climate of the country is varied and also changes rapidly as you proceed on your journey. As I travelled along, I could see many interesting, and sometimes fascinating places. One of these places which we stopped at was Medigo.

The ruins of Medigo stand on a high hill which is located at the southern approach to the valley of Jezreel. Medigo existed before the Israelites conquered "the promised land" in Biblical times.

Amazing Discovery

The archeological department of the University of Chicago carried on an excavation project at this site and their findings proved more amazing than they had expected, as they were able to dig down through 15 layers of civilization, meaning that at least 15 cities existed on this site.

Many battles have been fought at Medigo, including those by the Romans, the Crusaders, and one as recently as 1948 during the Israeli war of liberation. General Allenby's second great battle was fought there during World War I and as a result of this battle, he received the title of Viscount of Medigo.

Medigo held such an important position because of its control over the southern approaches to the fertile valley of Jezreel. Medigo's position was also strategic because the valley called "Vadi Mara" passes near the site where the city stood.

Was Main Road

Through this valley passed the road "Via Maris" which was the main road in ancient times and the shortest and best route connecting Egypt in the south to Damascus in the north. It was along the Via Maris that the mighty Pharaohs of Egypt travelled.

As you stand on the hill where the ruins of Medigo remain, and look to the north you can see Mount Tabor, snow - capped Mount Hermon which is located in Syria and from where the river Jordan originates, Mount Gilboa where King Saul died, and Mount Carmel where Elijah the prophet contested with and killed the prophets of Baal. Also to the north can be seen the valley of Jezreel which is often referred to in Hebrew as "The Emek."

The valley of Jezreel cuts through the mountains and is the only such valley from Asia Minor to the Red Sea. It is the smoothest and most fertile part of Israel and has always been populated since the time that the Israelites returned from the exodus from Egypt until the period when the Moslems conquered Palestine. During the Moslem period in the country, the Emek was neglected and left to degenerate with the result that many swamps developed in the valley.

Swamps Drained

With the beginning of the British mandate in Palestine and the settlement of Jewish communities in the valley in 1920, the swamps of Emek Jezreel were drained and the land irrigated and cultivated.

The rainy season has just ended in Israel and the planting season is beginning all over the country. As I travelled through the valley of Jezreel, I could see green fields, artificial fish ponds, trees covered with green leaves, herds of cattle, banana groves, fig trees and date palms.

Flourishing kibbutzim co-operative settlements may be seen in the valley and extensive irrigation work is being carried on all over the area. The entire Emek Jezreel presents a picture of prosperity and could well fit the Biblical description of "a land of milk and honey."

FOSTER HOMES NEEDED

St. Catharines, Ont. —(CP) — Need for foster homes for older children was stressed at a local meeting of the Children's Aid Society. Mrs. James Thompson reported the board has not placed a child older than pre-school age in a foster home for more than five years. An average of 40 to 50 younger children are placed each year.

BUSINESS "SECURITY"

New Liskeard, Ont. —(CP) — Business men in New Liskeard are not trusting their fellow men as much as they used to do. During January only three doors of business establishments were found unlocked in the regular police patrols, believed a low record.

RAPID DEVELOPMENT

More than 10,000 new post offices have been established in India since the republic achieved self-government in 1947.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

'Beautiful Saviour'

Beautiful Saviour!
King of creation!
Son of God and Son of Man!
Truly, I'd love Thee,
Truly I'd serve Thee,
Light of my soul, my joy, my crown!

Fair is the sunshine,
Fairer still the moonlight
And the sparkling stars on high;
Jesus shines brighter,
Jesus shines purer,
Than all the angels in the sky.

Beautiful Saviour!
Lord of the nations!
Son of God and Son of Man!
Glory and honor,
Praise, adoration,
Now and forevermore be Thine!

Again and again during the eleventh, twelfth and thirteenth centuries, Christian crusaders of Europe organized military expeditions to march against the Turks in Jerusalem in an effort to wrest the Holy Land from the Moslems.

Sometimes these campaigns brought temporary gains for the Christians, but most of them were unsuccessful.

On their marches to Jerusalem, according to a pretty legend which is accepted by many hymnists, the crusaders used to sing the hymn. "Schonster Herr Jesu." Some translators who found it in a German song book, gave it the title, "Fairest Lord Jesus." Others offered the name "Beautiful Saviour" which is most popular today.

In many twentieth century church song books, its verses and title are supplemented by the label, "Crusaders Hymn."

Some students of hymnology believe the song has been misnamed. There is no evidence, they say, to show that its words were used earlier than 1677 and its tune cannot be definitely traced back further than to 1842. A German version of the hymn as it appears above was discovered in 1677 in the Munster Hymn Book where it was listed as one of the "three beautiful selected new hymns." The identity of its author and the name of composer of its beautiful tune probably never will be known. The English translation, "Beautiful Saviour," was made by a Lutheran pastor of Philadelphia, the Rev. Joseph A. Seiss. The familiar translation of "Fairest Lord Jesus" was first published in 1850 by Richard S. Willis, American journalist and musician. His father was the founder of the Youth's Companion.

TIMES A CENTURY OLD

The New York Times has just finished celebrating its one hundredth birthday. It does not circulate widely in Canada, but most Canadians have at least seen copies of it. Certainly every literate person in the English-speaking world and a good many elsewhere have heard of the far-famed newspaper which boasts that it publishes "all the news that's fit to print."

The New York Times is not a mass-circulation newspaper. Only about 500,000 copies daily are printed — large by Canadian standards, but small in relation to many American and British newspapers. But the Times publishes an average of 125,000 words of news every day, exclusive of its weekly edition. The article from which we draw our information does not attempt to estimate its revenues, but they are probably much greater than those of any other newspaper in the world. The Times also derives a vast income from selling to other newspapers the coverage provided by its own around-the-world, around-the-clock news service. Some of the larger and wealthier Canadian dailies are subscribers of the New York Times News Service.

Some idea of the scale on which the New York Times operates is provided by its weekly payroll, which exceeds $400,000. Even if the average wage were as high as $100 per week, this would mean that the New York Times must have at least 4,000 employees.

The New York Times was made what it is by a man named Adolph S. Ochs, who began as a printer's devil in a small town in Tennessee. Curiously, Mr. Ochs began his New York Times on borrowed money, which he was unable to repay for many years. Mr. Ochs died years ago, but he lived long enough to see his newspaper rise to its present position, one of prestige and power unequalled in the publishing world.

ENOUGH TROUBLE HERE NOW

Twice within the last few weeks, there has been violence at the camp at St. Paul l'Ermite, P.Q., which the federal government's immigration department maintains to shelter the displaced persons it is importing. On one of these occasions, the rioters displayed a large banner bearing the inscription: "Long Live Stalin." There was property damage in both cases, and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police had to be summoned to restore order.

Also twice within the last few weeks, there has been violence at another immigration camp, located at Ajax, not far from Toronto. In the latest outbreaw at Ajax, two men were injured and three others were sent to jail. The trouble at Ajax, according to newspaper reports, was between rival gangs of Poles and Maltese.

The Maltese must have been the aggressors, because the three who were jailed were Maltese. In referring to the violence at Ajax, the magistrate who tried the cases said: "This is a situation which cannot be tolerated in this country, where so much is being done for these people." The crown attorney who prosecuted spoke of deporting some of the troublemakers.

Several times, it has been suggested in these columns that the immigration department is not exercising sufficient care in choosing the people it is bringing into this country.

A $100,000 BIOGRAPHY

From Lawrence, Massachusetts, comes word that Ferdinand Waldo Demara, Jr., who served in the Royal Canadian Navy for several years as a surgeon although he had no medical training whatever, has signed a contract through which he will receive $100,000 from one of the moving picture companies for his life story.

It is no wonder that today many peoples, especially among the younger generation, have a distorted sense of values. How much, we wonder, would Hollywood pay for the life story of some such medical man as Sir William Osler?

THE KOREAN CAP

A recent photograph of Canadian troops on parade in Korea showed men in one platoon wearing four different kinds of caps. How many other varieties were exhibited in the following platoons we can only guess. On view in the one rank were: 1. a tank corps beret, 2, a balmoral, 3. the standard infantry beret of the last war, 4. the new American-Chinese military cap which looks like a railway engineer's work cap at best; at worst, the cap of a penitentiary inmate on an outdoor stone-breaking job. — (Peterborough Examiner.)

OVER-PLAY

Though work is wearisome, I'd say
A worse fatigue can follow play.
The weary toiler, home from town,
To rest awhile can settle down
And sleep the night away, and then
With strength renewed start out again.

But play a heavier toll demands
Than tired legs and arms and hands.
It takes the hours for sleep designed,
It dims the eyes and dulls the mind,
And for the burdens of the day,
It steals tomorrow's strength away.

Thoughover-work is bad, they say,
Man's greater foe is over-play.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BEGIN WITH US

There are many of us who believe that a religious revival has started in this country. But it has only started. The evidences of this revival are as follows: increased church attendance, the popularity of religious books, the utterances of national leaders in terms of religion, the rise of certain effective evangelists who appear to have shed some of the unpleasant attributes of the older evangelists. Most significant of all is the rise of groups — sometimes called cells — of praying, religious persons throughout the country.

All this is fine but it is not enough. When the revival really strikes us, it will be like a hurricane. The Spirit will descend, and the population, from one end of our country to the other, will know that something of a prodigious nature has taken place. There will be conversion of people in high station and in low. The Church will take on new vigor.

The trouble with the present stage of the process is that seekers after spiritual blessings are not, for the most part, willing to admit that the problem with which they have to deal is old-fashioned sin centered right in their own hearts.

We are not called upon to reform the world. We are to allow God to reform us; He will attend to the reformation of the world.

Commerce Chamber Paper Says Leftist Economic Theories Very Old

(The following article is reproduced from the News Letter, publication of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce).

One of the irritating things about some of the current left-wing economic theories is the assumption that their ideas of state intervention in economic activities is something startlingly new. Economically, the idea of state intervention is as old as history itself and as reactionary as any economic idea can be.

The Hammurabi Code, promulgated earlier than 2,000 B.C., imposed controls over wages, prices, production, consumption and all the rest of the economy, and resulted in the destruction of Babylonia. Governmental extravagance and a bloated bureaucracy killed individual initiative and led to the fall of ancient Greece. The welfare state of the Incas became so debilitated as to become easy prey for Pizarro and his "Conquistadores". In its turn, the great Spanish empire broke when the throne so regimented every activity that no one should earn a living except by being a public employee, a priest, or a sailor. All these examples were quoted by the Honorable Spruille Braden, in an address before the American Political Science Association, in New York City last October.

For our part, we came across the following quotation from Ancient History, published in 1900, written by the late George Rawlinson, M.A., F.R.G.S., who was then Canon of Canterbury and Cambridge professor of ancient history at the University of Oxford. The reference is to the Roman Empire under Diocletian, circa 300 A.D.

"Nor was suffering at this period confined to the Christians. The establishment of four courts instead of one, and the multiplication of officials and of armies, vastly augmented the expenditure; and a heavy increase of taxation was the necessary consequence. The provinces groaned under the burden of oppressive imposts; which were wrung from the reluctant tax-payer by violence and even by torture. Industry sank beneath a system which left it without reward; production diminished; and the price of all commodities rose. To meet this evil, a futile attempt was made to fix by a law a maximum of prices for all the necessaries, and most of the commodities, of life, for corn, wine and oil, salt, honey, butchers'-meat, vegetables, clothes, fish, fruit, laborers' wages, schoolmasters' and advocates' fees, boots and shoes, harness, timber and beer. Such an interference with the natural course of trade could only aggravate the evils which it was intended to allay."

Knights of Malta Involved In Quarrel With Papacy; World's Oldest Chivalry Order

Rome — (Reuters) — The Knights of Malta, the world's oldest order of chivalry and one of its most exclusive charitable organizations, are in trouble.

The Vatican wants to clip the wings of the Sovereign, Sacred and Military Order of St. John of Jerusalem, less ceremoniously known as the Knights of Malta.

A special tribunal of five cardinals has been set up by the Pope to consider "The nature of the qualities of the sovereign military and religious order."

And the knights have mobilized a group of eminent advocates to show cause why the order should not be subjected to greater control by the Congregation of Religious, the vatican body in charge of religious orders.

The pope has told the knights that pending the verdict of the tribunal they are not to choose a successor to their 76th Grand Master, Don Ludovico Chigildella Rovere-Albani, who died last November at the age of 85 after heading the order for 20 years.

As grand master his title was "Most Eminent Highness" and he ranked equal with the cardinals of the Roman Catholic Church.

The grand master, who keeps his office for life, must be one of the "Knights of Justice"—the 30-member nucleus of the order—at least 40 years old and have at least 10 years' service.

Fourteen of the present Knights of Justice are reported to have these qualifications, including Cardinal Nicola Canali, grand prior of the order and one of the five members of the cardinals' tribunal, Antonion Hercolani Fava Simonetti, acting head of the order, and Karl von Ludwigsdorf, the order's prior for Austria.

Founded 1902

The present order is the descendant of the Knights Hospitallers founded in Jerusalem in 1902, when they built a hospital for pilgrims. They took a prominent part in the Crusades and continued fighting the Mohammedans for centuries afterwards.

Today, the knights are occupied with charitable work. They run a number of hospitals, orphanages, refugee camps and tuberculosis homes. During both world wars, they helped thousands of wounded soldiers.

The order has groups in Italy, Austria, Germany, Britain, France, Spain, Portugal, Eire, The Netherlands, Belgium, Hungary, Poland and the United States.

Altogether the order is believed to have more than 4,000 members, all from noble families. In addition to the Knights of Justice, the highest class, the order has knights of honor and devotion and knights of magistral grace, who are not required to take monastic vows.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OTHERS

Little do we realize how our responsibility toward others reflects back as one of the greatest sources of our own personal happiness. If we thing of others, they will think of us. But if they do not think of us, whatever we contribute to their happiness enriches us anyway.

Every act of kindness or generosity has its own reward whether it is acknowledged or not. The happiest man I have ever known I met soon after graduating from college. I had gone to Chicago, for a friend of mine told me that anyone who could win anywhere could win in Chicago! There it was that I met this friend who gave me such cheer and hope. He was all alone in the world, and his only income was from marriage fees and occasional sermons, for he was a retired minister.

This man, however, was a regular rainbow of cheer and jollity. He had a wonderful mind and would quote Shakespeare by the yard! He had known great sorrows in his life, but he never passed them on to others. What he gave to others was something fine of himself, for he spent all that he earned one people who were unfortunate and who needed cheer and hope. No one, during those early days, did so much to give me faith and confidence. His joy and happiness were in doing little things, that always loomed, for others.

The more we think and do things to make others happy, the happier we become. It follows so naturally that way. And the more we think of the needs of others the less we dwell upon our own misfortunes. We can distribute ourselves and be one with our friends.

Love scatters its warm rays of hope and encouragement about that one who considers the feelings of others, saying nothing mean or unkind about them, but giving full credit for all the good things about them. You never meet an unhappy persons who keeps busy trying to make others happy. I know these thoughts sound commonplace, but only the great experience the thrill that results from little things magnificently performed.

QUAKERS TO MEET

London, Feb. 22—(Reuters) — The Quakers' first world conference in 15 years will open at Oxford July 28, it was announced today. This year is the 300th anniversary of the founding of the society by George Fox. Some 900 delegates, more than half of them from Canada and the United States, will attend the nine - day meeting.

RID SOLDIERS OF FEAR

Kidderminster, England, Feb. 22 — (Reuters) — Two West African pythons and a crocodile will join the British Army here. They are being brought back from Africa by Capt. Peter Mash, an education officer at nearby Wolverley camp, who intends to rid soldiers of the fear of snakes. He will give lectures and use the reptiles to illustrate them.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

WHAT WE CAN'T CURE WE SHOULD PREVENT

The other day I said here:

"In my opinion chronic rheumatiz or arthritis is a manifestation of physical degeneration due to nutritional deficiency."

In the next paragraph I said:

"In my opinion pyorrhea alveolaris or Riggs' disease . . . is a manifestation of physical degeneration due to nutritional deficiency."

If I were not afraid it would scare off too many readers I'd play the same record for what a lot of wiseacres call "mucous colitis," that is, colon derangement. Restriction of the diet to refined "purified," processed, demineralized, devitaminized, denaturalized food causes the derangement and , as described in booklet The Constipation Habit and Colon Hygiene, for which send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelope, unnatural interference with the function aggravates and perpetuates the derangement.

Curable or incurable, a substantial portion of all chronic disease is of the same character —the manifestation of physical degeneration, and physical degeneration is due mainly to nutritional deficiency.

This reminds me of father's bower on W. Gibson Street in Canandaigua, where we had many discussions on pathology when I was a sophomore medical student. Father's unshakable conviction was that all disease begins in the stomach. I'm sure the desire to show him the fallacy of his notion made me a better student. The "bower" was really a flag shanty—father was guard at the railroad crossing 12 to 14 hours a day 365 days in the year at $30 a month—but then, we kept a cow, raised chickens, pigs, potatoes, etc., on various pieces of otherwise unproductive land and on shares for various people of wealth. Recently an od neighbor kindly sent me a snapshot of father standing in front of his little hexagonal shelter. I wonder why it was never spirited away on Hallowe'en—say to someone's front yard or verandah, as so many small building were in the good old days.

If my opinion about chronic rheumatiz and pyorrhea is well-founded, correction of faults of diet and supplementation of the everyday diet with vitamins and minerals is of first importance, no matter what palliative treatment may be used. Not for six weeks or a year but from now on. This reasonable requirement makes even arrest of the degeneration, to say nothing of improvement of the patient's condition, extremely unlikely. Even intelligent people rebel against "taking" vitamins and minerals daily for life. And some doctor or dentor, asked about it, is likely to assure the patient the idea is fantastic, for if one follows a reasonably varied, well-balanced diet, one's food will supply all the vitamins and minerals the body needs.

Should any one discover a physician or dentist who will prescribe such a diet in written menus for seven days, I'll be happy to hear about it. Should one ever follow such a diet faithfully for as much as six weeks, I'd like to print the details here for the benefit of all our readers.

In these parlous days it is pretty difficult to find, for instance, fresh ground whole wheat flour from which nothing has been removed and to which nothing has been added, and when you have found it you've still have to find a domestic economist who can or will make bread of it.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Starch Eating Habit

I have a craving for laundry starch and have been eating a good deal of it for four years or more. I think I like it because it tastes like dirt. (Mrs. G. L.)

Answer—It is harmless in itself, although it won't do your health, vitality or looks any good. Try eating sliced raw carrots, potatoes, turnips or cabbage (cole slaw) instead. Still better, keep a peck or two or a few pounds of plain wheat on hand and chew come wheat when you feel the craving.

Four Square Meals Reducing Diet

Doctor, I hope you were not joking about that four square meals reducing diet? Man, if you are serious about that you'll make all us dowagers . . . (Mrs. M. R. H.)

Answer—I don't want to make you all. The four-square-meals-a-day reducing diet is described in the booklet Rules For Reducing, for which send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope. It is particularly for hypopituitary or "glandular" obesity — the type that distinguishes the dowager in cartoons.

Natural Childbirth

Having my first baby the natural way last May was a wonderful experience. My baby is being raised as a "Brady baby," to the consternation of her grandparents. They were sure she'd "catch cold" when they saw her comfrotably dressed, no shoes or stockings, and not perspiring like most babies . . . (J. S.)

Answer—Lucky baby. For the New Brady Baby Book send 25c and stamped self-addressed envelopes.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Four weeks from yesterday will be the first official day of spring, but in the greater part of Canada, that does not mean a thing. In Victoria and Vancouver, flowers will be in bloom, and at Long Point on Lake Erie, the first of the thousands of swans that winter in Chesapeake Bay and Currituck Sound on the Virginia and Carolina coast, will possibly have touched down on Canadian soil in the first leg of their flight to the Arctic, which is their true home. But for the most part, the calendar's optimism will find the lakes still solid with ice, the rivers grinding sullenly away at their burdens. Snow drifts now shaping in millions of Canada's two and a quarter billion acres will still be there in June.

The toughest season of the year for a very considerable number of human beings and for a huge section of the wild life of Canada is now approaching. A great many frontier communities in all parts of the Dominion whose people have been able to keep contact with the outside world through travelling on the ice of lake and river will soon be isolated while the ice decays and goes out. Countless miles of road that are good enough in summer and winter go to pieces in spring, and those who use them have to bide their time. An unguessable number of backwoodsmen, trappers, pioneers, Indians, are to be pinned down for a month or more while spring performs her violent entry.

Spring is conceived by poets as a fair young goddess in diaphanous blue veils. But to the wild creatures, weary and lean from winter, spring is an angry demon, with her floods and treacherous ice, her deep wet snow and tree-smashing sleet, her cave-ins, her gales. She is good when she gets here. But she kicks her way in.

British Airmen Planning Trip To Canada

Shawbury, Shropshire — (CP) —Four Lincoln aircraft of the R.A.F. Central Navigation and Control School will take off from their base here soon on a round-trip 10,750-mile training flight to Canada. Each of the machines will carry seven trainees as well as its own maintenance and servicing crews.

Object of the flight is to provide practical training in long-range flying for students completing the specialist navigation course at the school. Opportunity also will be taken to discuss current navigation techniques with officers of the R.C.A.F. Navigation School at Summerside, Prince Edward Island.

The westward flight will be made in easy stages with the first stop-over in the Azores. After a rest there for re-fuelling and servicing, the crews will take off for Bermuda and will remain there for three days before flying on to the R.C.A.F. Navigation School at Summerside.

The return flight, via Keflavik, Iceland, has been set for Feb. 27.

Flying as co-pilot on one of the aircraft will be Flt. Lt. F. R. Edmondson, D.F.C., a native of Oakville, Man. During the war he served with the R.C.A.F. on bomber operations and in 1947 accepted a permanent commission with the Royal Air Force.

Edmonton — (CP) —A sparsely-settled chunk of bush and muskeg country along the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary 175 miles northeast of Edmonton is being converted into a super-bombing and rocket range for the R.C.A.F.

The $14,000,000 project will provide a mammoth airport which will have an ultimate population of 5,000 Air Force personnel and their families. It will be the operating base for pilots training on the bombing zone.

A five-mile railway extension, concrete runways 1½ miles long and a big water and sewer system are planned for the airport area which is about 200 miles northwest of Saskatoon and about 80 miles north of Lloydminster, Sask.

Huge Area Needed

The great increase in speed and firing power of modern warplanes compared to Second World War models has made former training areas obsolete. It was necessary to find a huge area, comparatively unsettled but still having full communication facilities with settled areas. These conditions dictated choice of the Cold Lake- Primrose Lake site.

The Alberta section of range area now is not too productive except for furs. At present there is no mineral development in the area, which looks "Less promising" than most other parts of the province.

To depopulate the bombing zone, the Alberta lands department is not issuing new permits to trappers, fishermen and lumbermen as the air force makes the sub-marginal area into an aerial counterpart of the army's huge Suffield experimental area in southeastern Alberta.

A government official is arranging financial compensation for the 90 trappers, 35 lumber operators and the few fishermen and settlers now in the Alberta section. Similar steps are being taken in the Saskatchewan section.

Lumbermen May Stay

All trappers and fishermen must be off the range by Sept. 15 this year, but lumbermen will be allowed to continue operations next winter on the west side and in the southeast corner of the Alberta section.

For the short time remaining, regulations have been relaxed. Trappers, normally limited to a catch of 10 or 12 beaver, now can take as many as they can. Fishermen's quotas have been waived.

Some concern is felt about depletion of these natural resources. It is expected that ultimately the areas will be returned to the Alberta and Saskatchewan governments. Alberta officials don't know when that may be, but they say that by then, wildlife will have reproduced back to normal levels.

Fur-Producing Area

The bombing range area is one of sand, bush and muskeg. Between the water areas, there is timber on the ridges but it is not a high production zone for lumber. However, it is an excellent fur-producing region and the loss of these furs will be felt.

The 4,600-square-mile bombing range is 40 miles from north to south and 115 miles long—51 in Alberta and 64 in Saskatchewan. The airport, 10 miles southwest of Cold Lake, is set apart from the bombing range.

"The area won't be ruined," an Alberta officials said. "We visualize the air force setting up fire-protection guards. Bombing will be done in a confined area."

Canadian National Railways is building a five-mile spur line into the eight-square-mile airport area from Beaver River, Alta. A 12-inch water line will run about 10 miles from Cold Lake to the airport.

Ottawa Plans Making Changes In Labor Laws

By JOHN LEBLANC
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ottawa — (CP) — The heaviest program of labor legislation in several years is planned for the session of parliament opening Feb. 28.

Indications are the government will propose changes in two key measures administered by the labor government, those dealing with unemployment insurance and government annuities. Industrial relations machinery also may be overhauled.

Apart from a controversial change in government annuities legislation temporarily shelved at the last session, the main proposal likely will be one to cut the statutory waiting time required before jobless persons can collect unemployment insurance benefits.

Waiting Period Nine Days

At present, the waiting period for which no insurance is collectible is a minimum nine days in any given year. A proposal expected to go before cabinet from the labor department is that this time be cut to five days.

Reduction in the waiting time would be a large step towards meeting demands of labor unions, who have been insisting for some years that the period should be substantially sliced.

While the insurance act is opened up, there also will be some other changes made. It is expected these will deal largely with administrative procedures.

Major amendment to the annuities act will be to increase to $2,400 from $1,200 the amount of the annuity that can be bought under the government plan. This bill introduced at the fall session of parliament, ran into heavy opposition and was dropped temporarily when it appeared the controversy might stretch the late-year sitting into 1952.

Insurance Companies Oppose

Labor organizations have favored the larger amount, but it has been opposed by insurance companies. Another point of controversy in the government bill was a provision for cashing in annuity contracts, not now permissible. Some Progressive Conservative members took exception to one or another of the new sections.

There is some probability that the cash-surrender proviso will be dropped from the bill—for the coming session, at least — to smooth the way for passage of the higher maximum amount for annuities.

The Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act, kingpin of federal labor legislation, has not been changed since its passage in 1948 and has been under study for some time with a view to revision in the light of four years of operation. Labor organizations have been pressing for several changes, including extension of its scope to take in more industries.

The bill now applies only to certain inter - provincial industries such as railways and communications.

New Zealanders Trying to Hoist Wheat Crop

Wellington, N.Z. (Reuters) — New Zealand, one of the world's leading producers of butter and cheese, may be so shy of bread on which to put the butter by 1953 that she will have to resort to bread rationing.

That is the prospect the country faces unless its farmers start growing more wheat. About 12,000,000 bushels a year are needed instead of the 5,500,000 now produced.

This season's estimate of the area to be sown to wheat is 100,000 acres, or 46,000 acres less than last year and the lowest since 1875-76.

In the last year about 4,500,000 bushels were imported from Australia. But prospects are that New South Wales, Australia's biggest wheat-growing state, will have to get wheat from other states this year to meet its own requirements.

Will Not Import

Importation of wheat from Canada, even if available, is out because commonwealth countries such as New Zealand are trying to reduce imports from dollar countries like Canada as a step toward getting the sterling area on a sound financial footing.

New Zealand must rely on an increase in local production if the gap is to be filled.

Price of wheat for the 1952-53 crop was announced by the government as $1.58 a bushel, an increase of 14 cents a bushel over the previous season's price. Growers argue that the government will get more wheat only if it brings the price into line with world parity—$2.38 a bushel.

The government says that to do so will mean raising an extra $4,200,000 in taxes at a time when the government is trying to reduce taxation.

The 14-cent increase, the government says, takes care of the established increases in production costs on a generous scale.

Acreage Declines

Wheat is not a popular crop with the New Zealand farmer, and a steady decline in acreage sown in wheat has been shown in yearly crop production reports.

Recent high prices for wool have accentuated this trend as farmers have turned over more acres to pasturage for sheep.

One way in which the government hopes to talk the farmers into growing more wheat is by stressing the fact that wheat fits in well with crop-rotation plans aimed at providing better pastures for sheep.

Farm experts say the yield of wheat on plowed-under pasture land is high and the land, when it is returned to pasture, makes even better grazing land.

By such a rotation they say the total amount of meat, dairy products and wool for export could be maintained at present levels while increasing wheat production.

Pastor Martin Niemoeller Most Controversial Figure Known to Post-War Europe

By HANNS NEUERBOURG

Wiesbaden, Germany (AP) — The Kremlin praises him, Hitler jailed him — yet he brands Bolshevism as a 100 times more dangerous than Nazism.

He opposes West Germany's rearmament — but in the First World War, as a submarine officer, he helped sink 300,000 tons of Allied shipping.

He is a lean, furrowed thinker; a sharp-tongued debater. He never sits on the fence or minces words.

Dr. Martin Niemoeller is perhaps the world's most controversial pastor. Although some German politicians refer to him as a charlatan and his followers regard him as a prophet, a leading layman in the church, Dr. Christoph von Imhoff rejects both labels and says:

"He is a completely undogmatic individualist."

The Russian view has been summed up by Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky: "Niemoeller is a man who is important to Germany and can do much for peace."

Visited Moscow

A few weeks ago the tireless pastor, 60 years old, returned from a visit to Moscow, which stirred public argument in Germany. Next Monday he will fly to the United States for a lecture tour.

Chiefly because of his stand against West Germany's defence contribution, Niemoeller is praised as an "upright patriot" in Communist newspapers in East Germany and other countries of the Soviet sphere. The Red press never prints, however, remarks by Niemoeller like the following:

"The threat of Bolshevism is a hundred times more dangerous than that of Nazism; I would a thousand times rather live on this side of the Iron Curtain than the other. There, people are being stripped piece by piece of all that makes human living worthwhile."

Invited to Moscow by the Russian Orthodox Church when the Kremlin was anxious to disrupt West German defence preparations, Niemoeller found his statements to Soviet reporters carefully winnowed by the government censor.

"The church in Russia is a growing seed. It has arisen again in a silent but powerful kind of revolution. There will be no return to atheism."

Beyer is Associate

Niemoeller's close associate since 1945 is a former general of infantry, Dr. Franz Beyer. As his private secretary, Beyer wrote a biography of Niemoeller. His book relates that Niemoeller, before Hitler seized power, was regarded as a pro-Nazi clergyman because he helped Nazis who lost their jobs for their political beliefs.

Niemoeller was turned into a bitter anti-Nazi by Hitler's creation in 1933 of a new "Aryan" church, the Deutsche Christen (German Christians). The pastor consequently founded the Confessing Church, as a spearhead of Protestantism's fight for independence, and travelled from parish to parish denouncing Nazi rule.

Arrested in 1937, he served seven months in prison, and was transferred to a concentration camp just when his release was due. Not until 1945 did he draw a free breath again.

He came home with his spirit unbroken.

Charlie Chaplin Does Everything In Latest Movie

By JAMES BACON

Hollyowood — (AP) —If being a genius entails as much hard work as Charlie puts into it — who wants to be a genius?

Chaplin has been called everything in the book but no one could label him lazy. He works so hard at picture - making that it's tiring just to sit and watch him.

It's no understatement to say that Chaplin does the work of seven men. He has just wound up "Limelight," his first movie since "Monsieur Verdoux." Chaplin, of course, is the star. He also is the director, producer, writer, composer, choreographer and conductor of the orchestra.

Between shots, he somehow finds time to give one of his rare interviews.

What does he think of present day comics?

"What can I say?" he shrugs. "If I say I like them, I'm called condescending. If I say they're horrid, I'm called jealous."

Chaplin lives an ivory tower sort of existence away from work. He said it took him three years to put the original idea of "Limelight" into its simple form. He worked a year composing the score. He spent many months casting the girl and many months more staging the ballet sequences.

The movie, which Chaplin says contains all the bassic emotions of life itself, concerns the fading music hall artist, a young ballerina and a young composer. Chaplin's son, Sydney, plays the composer. Claire Bloom, an English actress, plays the ballerina.

Although Chaplin wears comic get-ups for the music hall routines in the movie, his part is essentially a straight character — "A new character for me."

"I do not wear the traditional tramp costume but that does not mean that I have abandoned it forever."

He says he has no plans following "Limelight" but adds that he is not contemplating retirement.

He shot this movie in six weeks which, for Chaplin, is breakneck speed.

Most students of comedy agree that Chaplin is the greatest of them all. What is the secret of Chaplin comedy? he says:

"During the First World War, a judge down south once told me: 'I admire you, Charlie, because your humor is so basic. When you go up behind a dignified society woman and kick her in the rear. Damn it! That's funny.' "

To Chaplin, that word picture of a forlorn tramp kicking dignity in the pants is the best definition of comedy he ever heard.

"Add a little rhythm and tempo and you have it. What else is there? Isn't it wonderful that we can do that? Else, man would be so insufferably proud."

Top London Model Puts Time Limit On Glamor Career

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, (CP)—Modelling is a glamorous profession but it's a "dead-end street" in the belief of a woman who has been one of Britain's leading mannequins for 20 years.

"Your days at this game are numbered," says smooth, Spanish-styled Dolores, top model for royal designer Norman Hartnell. "What comes after that? For myself, I'm too scraggy to start modelling middle-aged styles."

Dolores is a tall, slender model with an exotic Spanish look, although she was born in prosaically British Bromley, Kent and hasn't a drop of Latin blood in her veins. Admittedly a veteran—she'll soon appear in her 3,500th mannequin parade—she isn't really too worried about the future.

She has a distinctive style and a reputation acquired through 18 years as Hartnell's chief model. Her appearance recently drew favorable comment from Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Dolores has also modelled clothes for other members of the royal family, from Queen Mother Mary to 15-year-old Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent.

Before last autumn's Canadian tour she accompanied Hartnell to Clarence House to show special designs for the selection of Princess Elizabeth, now Elizabeth II.

Modelling No Sinecure

Of English parents, Dolores' real name is Dorothy Stephenson. Of her professional name, given her by Hartnell to point up her dark looks, Dolores says: "It's a hard name to live up to. People expect extra polish' And with 18 to 17 changes in a one-hour show, this is sometimes difficult to keep.

Dolores says Hartnell is wonderful to work with, and surprisingly even-tempered. But Hartnell is still an artist. Like many famous painters, he has one "masterpiece" he can not bring himself to sell.

This is a black, two-piece dinner suit composed entirely of hand-sewn jet sequins and called "blackmail". Designed originally in 1938 and still exhibited as the piece de resistance at certain shows, it has a skin-tight skirt and three-quarter jacket with flared peplum, cummerbund waist and long tight sleeves.

This one attracted the attention of film star Marlene Dietrich. She however, had to be satisfied with a copy. Hartnell still refuses to sell the original.

Lt. Gen. Tokarzewski To Address Women's Canadian Club

Liuetenant General Mihal Tokarzewski, who will address the Women's Canadian Club next Tuesday evening in Christ Church parish hall, on the topic "Middle Europe Still Between East and West," has a particularly interesting background, as well as a distinguished one.

General Tokarzewski is an exiled Polish general with a remarkable grasp of the English language which he has spoken for 25 year, having lived in Britain since 1945, but at the same time keeping in close touch with his native Poland through broadcasts over the B.B.C., and other countries behind the iron curtain. He believes that developments in Poland, Czechoslovakia, Yugoslavia and Hungary hold a great significance in the affairs of the world.

General Tokarzewski was born in Poland in 1893, receiving his education at officers' schools there and in Vienna, at Cracow University, the military academies of Metz, Versailles and Warsaw. His military career was one of brilliance, becoming a major general at the age of 31, and is well qualified to speak about Russia, its European satellite countries and their bearing on the problems of today.

Mr. and Mrs. James Sills, Thurlow Twp. Celebrate 60th Wedding Anniversary

School teachers' salaries have seen a great increase in the past 60 years, according to Mrs. James Sills, 4th. concession Thurlow township, who with her husband is observing their diamond wedding anniversary today.

A former public school teacher in Thurlow, Mrs. Sills, a spry little lady of 80, recalls that for her first year of teaching she received the sum of $150.

"And I had to pay my board and other expenses out of that," she laughs.

"But then," she continued, "everything else was cheap in proportion to wages."

"It was 60 years ago on February 23rd. that "Jim" Sills and Lilla Belle Snider, of Prince Edward County, were married at the Tabernacle parsonage in Belleville. After a brief wedding trip to the bride's parents' home, they returned to their Thurlow township farm, where except for a brief period they have since lived.

Tribute to Couple

Today the Sills farm, six miles east of Corbyville, stands tribute to the young couple, who made it their home 60 years ago. The buildings are neat and tidy, the dual family frame home glistening with its coat of fresh white paint and the barns painted in the traditional red.

At 84, Mr. Sills no longer takes an active part in the farm work but until a "couple of years ago" he assisted with the chores and helped to coil hay. The farm is now handled by their only son George, who with his wife and family, live in the other half of the Sills' farm home.

Mrs. Sills at 80 still does all her own house work "except the climbing". She leaves that to the young people, she says.

Has Much of Her Energy

Despite her advanced years, Mrs. Sills still has much of the energy which 63 years ago carried her through "model" school at Picton and launched her into the teaching profession as a girl of 17 years.

"Several of my pupils were older than I was," she recalls. "My husband's younger brother was one of them."

Regulations at that time allowed a teacher to teach for three years after passing through "model" school. Then further study was required to obtain a first class certificate.

"I fully intended to work for my certificate but I got married instead," Mrs. Sills went on.

Her three years of teaching were at S.S. No. 11, Thurlow, within a short distance of her present home. The original school still remains very little changed. A porch has been added and new desks were purchased a few years ago. Other than this the school is much the same as it was three score years ago.

Active in Church Work

But marriage was not to end Mrs. Sills' love of teaching. Her public school days were ended, but she threw herself into church and Sunday school work at the nearby Methodist church. Since that time she has been active as a Sunday school teacher and in the various women's church organizations. She loved her church work and it was with sad regret that she saw the Salem church closed some months ago. The couple now attend at Bethany church.

Never in Municipal Life

Of a quiet and retiring nature Mr. Sills never entered into municipal life, being content to remain on the farm which he loved.

The farm is much the same as it was in his father's time. An adjoining 100 acres was added to the homestead and he helped to clear the odd field. But most of the zig-zag cedar rail fences were in place when he was a boy. Since then he has "straightened them up a bit and added a few rails here and there."

He never became enthused over mechanized farming, although he was among the first farmers in the township to own and drive a car. It was the same with a farm tractor. Now the farm has a full line of mechanized equipment and the milking is done by machine.

Pride in Grandsons

The couple's pride are their two grandsons, Garnet, 16, and Earl 12, both attending school in Belleville. Their youngest grandson will become farmer, they say, but they are not sure about Garnet. "He has something else in mind," Mrs. Sills says.

Both are blessed with good eyesight, and Mr. Sills does not wear glasses. They do a great deal of reading and in this way and through the radio keep abreast of the times.

A family party is planned for today when the happy couple will be guests of their son and his wife "in the other side of the house." About 25 friends and relatives are expected to attend the anniversary dinner.

Legless Child Soon to Learn How to Walk

Montreal (CP) — If 2½-year-old Marie Claire Begin starts walking three years from now no one will be more surprised than Marie herself.

Little Marie Claire can't walk because she has no legs. She was born that way.

The child is a ward of the Province of Quebec Society for Crippled Children, and has been looked after by the society and the provincial government.

Both the society and the government are taking an interest in the youngster, and they have been told by medical authorities that in three years' time an operation may be possible.

With the aid of artificial limbs and braces little Marie Claire may then be able to start to learn the art of walking just like any normal person.

Until that time Marie has gone to live with a family whose six-year-old daughter, Guilberte LeBlanc, is also a cripple. Young Guilberte is delighted with the addition to the family.

Guilberte LeBlanc has acted as mascot of the crippled children's tag day for several years. One of her regular customers is the mayor of Montreal, who she says, is "one of my best friends."

Guilberte also met Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip during their tour of Canada last year. "I liked her very much. She was awfully nice to me," she says.

The Experts Say Cheese One Of Most Health Giving Foods

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Britain's shortage of dollars inevitably will mean a cut in her 1952 imports. It already has been hinted that her cheese contract with Canada may be the first to go.

Last year Ontario cheese producers sold the United Kingdom about 25,000,000 pounds of cheddar. Canada's total cheese production for the year was 258,000,000 pounds.

Undoubtedly cheese manufacturers would be unhappy about any loss of export markets, but housewives might benefit through lower prices. At present Canadian cheese sells for 50 cents and up, according to age and variety.

Canada, a cheese - producing land, never has been known as a country of cheese-eaters. Yet cheese is one of the most health-giving foods on the market.

Cheese Muffins

Cheese muffins: 1 3-4 cups sift-ads and desserts, is recommended by the Dominion Department of Agriculture in "Cheese Dishes," a booklet issued by the department's consumer section.

The pamphlet also lists the varieties of cheese manufactured in Canada. Did you know camembert, Edam, Gouda, Oka, Roquefort and Limburger are all manufactured in this country?

Cheese muffins: 1 3-4 cups sifted all-purpose flour; three teaspoons baking - powder; one - half teaspoon salt; two-thirds cup grated cheese; one egg; one cup milk or tomato juice; two tablespoons melted shortening.

Mix and sift flour, baking-powder and salt. Add cheese. Beat egg and milk. Make a depression in flour mixture, pour in egg and milk mixture; add melted shortening. Stir only enough to combine. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full. Sprinkle with additional grated cheese. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 20 to 25 minutes. Yield: one dozen medium-sized muffins.

Macaroni and cheese salad: Two cups cooked macaroni (three-quarter inch pieces); three-quarters cup grated cheese; three hard-cooked eggs (chopped); one cup diced celery; one chopped green pepper; one chopped red pepper; one tablespoon finely chopped onion; salt to taste; mayonnaise.

Combine ingredients and toss lightly with sufficient mayonnaise to moisten. Serve on crisp lettuce. Yield: six servings.

Also with Fruit

Fruit perfection: One teaspoon gelatine; one tablespoon cold water; one four - ounce package cream cheese; one - half cup salad dressing; dash of salt; one tablespoon sugar; one cup whipping cream; two cups diced fruit. — (Drained).

Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Mash cheese with fork and beat until smooth. Beat in salad dressing. Add dissolved gelatine, salt and sugar. Whip cream and fold into cheese mixture. Add fruit. Pour into moulds and chill or freeze until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce. Yield: six to eight servings.

Experts at Kitchener, Ont., situated in the heart of Canada's cheese - producing area, claim that decayed whey demaining in the curd is what puts the 'smell' in limburger. Nearly all the whey is pressed out of the cheddar. Only a small amount is removed from limburger.

T. Eaton Employees Enjoy Annual Party

One of the most enjoyable evenings of the current season was spent on Thursday night by the staff of the T. Eaton Company's local branch, when about 60 met in Christ Church parish hall for their annual staff party. Mr. Douglas Tufford acted as master of ceremonies and Mr. Bill Murdoch welcomed the guests.

The dinner table, which was formed in the shape of a "U", was prettily appointed with white damask cloth, centred with an attractive arrangement of spring flowers and flanked with red tapers in crystal holders, while shining silver services completed a charming picture.

Immediately following the dinner, the presentation of a three-piece pen and pencil set was made by Mr. Michael Tomaso to Mr. Sam Calles, of the appliance department, who is leaving the T. Eaton Company in near future.

Fine Program

Later, the party retired to the auditorium, which was gaily decorated with hearts, flowers and Sunshine Club shields, to enjoy a mixed and varied program by the staff talent, of songs, skits and music, consisting of the following numbers: piano solo, "3rd. Man Theme" by Mrs. P. Cummings; mail order skit, "Afternoon Bridge" by Mrs. Connie Wilkinson, Miss Dorothy Seams, Miss Teresa Lorrimer, Mrs. Andre Wilson and Mrs. Sylvia McNish; the main floor offering, "Nutts From Nuttingham," by Mrs. Phyllis Cummings, Miss Margaret Daniels, Miss Jean Dudley and Miss Maureen Neal — the 'Gaiety Girls',

Imported European talent, "Professor Shovakoalinsky", by Bill Murdoch, assisted by Michael Tomaso and Harold Amos; a boiler room quartet, known as the "Blackfaced Minstrels," included Paul Delaney, Ron Buskard, Charlie Crammer and Michael Tomaso, who rendered, most realistically, "Old Black Joe" and "Down by the Old Mill Stream."

Gleneaton Orchestra

Betty Bates and Ron Buskard, the Gleneaton orchestra, provided "Now is the Hour." This was followed by a humorous recitation by Miss Teresa Smith, entitled "A Letter from Cousin John," while a piano solo, "Whispering", by Miss Maureen Neal, and a vocal solo, "Loveliest Night in the Year", was rendered by Miss Betty Bates, accompanied on the piano by Miss Carol Ross. The evening was delightfully concluded by round, square, Congo and tango dances.

Mr. Harold Amos tendered appreciative thanks, on behalf of the staff, to the Ladies' Guild of Christ Church for a most delicious repast, and the entertainment committee for the hilarious program provided.

Is Boy Scout Though Crippled

Winnipeg (CP) — A 13-year-old polio victim paralyzed in all four limbs is one of the happiest patients in a children's hospital here.

Mike Szadlak of The Pas, Man., recently was sworn in a member of the 37th. troop of Boy Scouts at a special ceremony at the hospital. Before the ceremony, hospital nurses and internes presented him with a Boy Scout uniform.

Mike has been a patient at the hospital since September 22 when a Flin Flon service club made arrangements to have him flown from The Pas.

Boy Scouts began visiting him after the acute stages of the disease had passed. At least two Scouts went to see him each day. Instruction they gave him in operating a Morse code buzzer has helped him regain the use of his fingers.

Mrs. G. Black, Parliamentarian, 86 Tomorrow

Whitehorse, Y.T. (CP) — Mrs. George Black, only American-born woman to sit in Canada's House of Commons, will celebrate her 86th. birthday on February 24.

"It is always difficult for me to realize that my life has been in any way unusual," the snowy-haired first lady of the Yukon said in a recent interview. "Possibly or probably, because I was taught by parents, grandparents and the sisters of Notre Dame in Indiana (where I attended school for five years) and all taught me that our real duty was to meet each day to the best of our ability."

Life, said Chicago-born Mrs. Black, "has been a great experience." But she said she wouldn't like to live it over.

"I would probably make many more mistakes," she explained.

For 54 years the Yukon has been Martha Black's home. As the wife of George Black, former Conservative member of parliament for the Yukon, she became familiar with life in Ottawa.

When her husband became ill, Mrs. Black ran for election in his place and was elected to the House of Commons in 1935 where she remained until the general election of 1940.

In 1917 Mrs. Black was made a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, London, England, for her overseas war work and lectures on the Klondike gold fields.

She was awarded the Order of the British Empire in 1946 for her cultural and social contribution to the Yukon.

In 1912 she organized two chapters of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire and is a life member of the national chapter. Some years later a third chapter was formed at Dawson and named in her honor, the Martha Munger Black chapter.

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Those big, fat, loose knots some men wear in their neck ties are definitely taboo now. Thank heaven for that. The Men's Fashion Council of Canada, has declared the style out-of-date. Trend now is toward narrower ties with small, tight knots - - - It is good news to hear that flashy ties are no longer fashionable either. How any woman could go out with a man in a fat, flashy tie is more than we could ever understand. Yet they say most ties sold are bought by women - - - Well, from now on, milady will have to confine her flair for the noisey to her own spring bonnet.

We can agree with at least four of the Fashion Council's selections of the ten best dressed men in the country. The other six we've never actually met face to face, so we can't comment on them.

Canada's new Governor-General, Vincent Massey, is numbered among the top ten. While Mr. Massey is not the build to show off his clothes well, he has always dressed in keeping with the high dignity of the high offices he has held.

Lester B. Pearson is sited for his natty bow ties and his debonair appearance, despite heavy responsibilities. Mr. Pearson really deserves more applause because he once disclosed that he, like other members of the Canadian U.N. delegation in New York, found meagre expense allowances necessitated washing his own shirts and socks in his hotel bathroom.

Robert Rae, president of the Dominion Bank, has long been noticed for his excellence in dress. The Fashion Council refers to Mr. Rae's clothes as suited to the "quiet distinction of his appearance."

As for Senator W. Rupert Davies, he always appears as the dashing old gentleman with all the vibrancy of perennial youth. His brown tweeds and red ties are lively and sturdy.

Why Prime Minister St. Laurent is not mentioned again this year among the top ten is strange. The Prime Minister is the epitome of the immaculately dressed Canadian gentleman. If someone could only persuade Defence Minister Claxton to buy smaller hats and to stop sitting on them, he too, might rate top billing.

It's a pity Mitch Hepburn isn't in the style swim now that we have a Men's Fashion Council. For nobody before or since, could wear a crisp, grey suit with the manly sparkle that Mitch always achieved.

They say there are only two kinds of men — those who wear vests, and those who don't. About their clothes, nothing is as arresting as a man, quietly, immaculately dressed — except a well-dressed woman.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Disillusioned by a war bride

There are women so unselfish that they will gladly give up any desires of their own if the one they love can have whatever he wants to make him happy. And there are women so selfish that they care nothing whatver about anyone else so long as they themselves have every whim satisfied.

But the great trouble with the latter group is that such women never, actually, are satisfied. No matter how much is done for them, it is never enough. Always, they reach out for more.

To narrow these generalities down to one specific case, let's consider the story told by a disillusioned husband about a woman of the second type.

Both this man and his wife are only 28 years old. They have been married for five years and a half, and, he says, were very happy together until a little over a year ago.

The stranger factor in the situation is that this wife was a war bride from Yugoslavia. One would think that to anyone from Yugoslavia, or any other country where the freedom, the rights or the welfare of the individual receive no consideration whatever, the mere fact of having been rescued from such a life would be heaven enough. But having accepted all this, and having taken from her American husband everything she could get, she now wants more.

Here, in the husband's own words, is a description of the plight which her selfish ambitions have created for him:

"All of a sudden, my wife told me that she doesn't love me any more. She won't talk to me, won't kiss me, won't even let me put my arms around her any more. And she won't say why she has ceased to love me.

"I am a good man and a good husband. I don't drink. I go to work every day and I bring all my money home to my wife. I bring her gifts constantly, and I even get up in the morning and make my own breakfast so that she can sleep longer.

Treated Like a Dog

"Now she has taken to going out without me at least twice a week, coming home at all hours of the night. She goes and leaves me with our four-year-old son, and if I protest, she says she will go out any time she pleases. She has also taken a job, and I don't want her to work, because I earn enough money to support her. But she says I cannot stop her from working, either. Things have reached the point where she treats me like a dog. and I would have left home long ago if it weren't for my son. He means an awful lot to me, and I don't want him to grow up without his father. But I am so lonely and heart-broken."

Perhaps I am wrong, but the impression I get from this letter is that this husband may have been altogether too good to his wife. He has done so much for her, given her so much, and probably asked so little of her in return, that she has become very high-handed, believing he will stand for anything.

My own opinion is that it's about time he got a little tough with the lady. Oh, in a nice sort of way, of course. He needn't yell at her, or beat her, or be mean to her. But instead of gifts, gentle words and waiting on, let him give her a taste of her own medicine and see what a little indifference and neglect will do.

For example, he can say goodbye when he leaves for work in the morning if he wants to—but skip any attempt at a goodbye kiss. He can let her know, if he likes, when he's going to be "detained downtown" that evening and won't be home till late—but no word about where he's going or what he's going to do. He can lend a hand here and there with the child—but no baby-sitting night after night while Mommy goes out on the town.

Let him carry on a campaign like this steadily for awhile, without quarrels or arguments, and the idea may gradually seep into his wife's head that he doesn't intend to be her doormat. Not only that, but it's not at all impossible that she might begin to have some respect for him, something obviously missing at present. Once that is achieved, they may be well on their way toward recapturing their early happiness.

THE WHITE BIRCH

This is among the most popular trees for home planting. It is very graceful, grows to quite a large size and has a creamy white bark even in young trees. It is well adapted for landscape purposes. The species has many varieties, all of which are beautiful at any season.

Of birches, Coleridge writes: "Most beautiful of forest trees — The Lady of the Woods."

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION:

Recently I clipped out of the paper your recipe for whole wheat bread which makes 5 loaves. I am on a diet for my health, and have to eat whole wheat bread, but since I am the only one in the family who eats it 5 loaves are too many. Could you possibly give me a recipe for 1 or maybe 2 loaves—Mrs. H.

ANSWER:

There would be no harm at all in dividing that whole wheat recipe of mine by five—remembering that there are 3 teaspoons in a tablespoons and 16 tablespoons in a cup. That is the best recipe I have.

But—the following may be less confusing to you. If your doctor will permit no white flour at all substitute whole wheat flour for the small amount called for—but knead the dough longer.

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

(one loaf)

One cake compressed yeast, 1-4 cup lukewarm water, pinch of sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup scalded milk, 1 1-2 cups bread flour, 4 cups genuine whole wheat flour, 1-2 fresh wheat germ, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 2 tablespoons each molasses and melted but not hot shortening. Soften yeast in 1-4 cup lukewarm water to which pinch of sugar has been added. Add it to the mixed milk and water which have been cooled to lukewarm. Add bread flour, and 1 cup whole wheat flour, mix well. Cover and let rise in warm place. When the mixture is light and full of bubbles, add the salt, sugar, molasses, shortening, whole wheat flour and wheat germ. The dough should be soft but not sticky. Knead on board lightly sprinkled with whole wheat until dough is smooth and squeaky. Cover with cloth and let rise until doubled in bulk. Knead again and shape into 1 large or 2 small loaves. Place in greased loaf tin, cover and let rise until doubled in fairly warm place. Bake at 360 deg. Fahr. about 1 hour—do not underbake.

QUESTION:

I find your column very helpful—I follow it every day. I have one problem which I hope you can solve for me. My corn which I canned last fall has turned sour. As they are sealed properly I do not know what caused this. The corn was fresh and the jars sterilized. A few of the jars were all right.—Millie.

ANSWER:

I have had a great deal of experience in canning corn and think the trouble was insufficient sterilization time after the corn was sealed in jars or tin cans. If the corn is to be processed in boiling water it requires at least 3 hours, after it is sealed. If it is to be sterilized in pressure cooker it requires 65 minutes at 10 lbs. pressure. All corn should be canned and processed under pressure. Your trouble is called "flat sour" in the canning trade and is a very common trouble in home canned corn. If you want detailed instructions for canning corn write to me again and enclose stamped self-addressed envelopes—about one month before corn season rolls round—and repeat your question. Do not be discouraged about this—it happens in the best of corn-canning circles.

QUESTION:

I have a new electric stove (Gurney) and have not had success with the use of the oven. Would you please give me instructions as to cooking roasts, pies, etc.—Mrs. Joseph LeG.

ANSWER:

First of all write to Gurney Industries Ltd., at 1393 Davenport Road, Toronto 9. I have sent your letter to them, and from the experience I have had with range manufacturers they will be only too happy to help you solve your baking problems. I have forwarded your letter (to me) to them and they will be expecting to hear from you.

There are two methods of roasting meat. One is to sear the salted and peppered and floured roast at 475 deg. Fahr. for about 10 or 15 minutes.

Temperature is then reduced to 325 deg. Fahr. For "rare" done standing rib roast of beef allow 25 minutes to the pound for total roasting time; 30 minutes for medium done; 35 minutes for well-done.

For Fresh Pork rib or loin or shoulder roast bake at 325 deg. Fahr. throughout for 35 to 40 minutes per pound.

Another method of roasting beef is at 325 deg. Fahr. during entire roasting time, when for "rare" you give it 26 minutes per lb.; medium 30 or 32 min.; and 34 or 36 minutes per lb. for well-done.

For a two-crust apple pie bake at 425 deg. Fahr. throughout for about 45 or 50 minutes or at 475 deg. Fahr. for first 10 minutes, then at 400 deg. Fahr. for 35 minutes.

I will not go into more detail because Gurney's will send you instruction booklet and any other information you could possibly use. I sincerely hope that with this help your stove will give you complete satisfaction.

GOOD MANNERS

MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Groom's parents should not interfere with plans or bride's parents

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son is to be married soon. The bride's parents chose to give a "free for all" wedding dance in the evening, at which they are serving midnight refreshments. The bridal couple wished to have a small reception, after the ceremony, for the immediate families and a few friends about thirty-six in all. My husband and I offered to have the wedding dinner at our home, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. . . our son and we will be supplying everything for this dinner. In this circumstance, who sends the invitations to the guests?—C.

Since it is not at all correct for the groom's parents to give the wedding reception and/or dinner . . . particularly when the bride's parents are giving a post-ceremony party. . . it would be best taste for you and your husband not to go on with your plans, but instead to co-operate graciously with the plans of the bride's parents. However, if it is too late for your withdrawal from hosting the dinner, you might best ask the bride's parents to invite the guests. Or you might telephone to your relatives and friends who are to be invited, and ask the bride's mother to telephone to their relatives and friends. This would, I think, give the best possible 'expression' to a situation that is awkward because entirely out-of-order. If you and your husband can withdraw from giving this dinner, it would be an excellent plan, and in the best of taste, for you to give a reception and/or dinner at your house in honor of the couple, after they have returned from their wedding trip. At that time you and your husband would have every social right to be hosts.

Bride's mother divorced, remarried

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My mother, after her divorce, re-married. Should my wedding invitations be worded with her new-marriage name, or, as her first-marriage name is the same as mine, should she use her first-marriage name?—D.

Your mother must use her new-marriage name . . . her first-marriage name no longer belongs to her. If your wedding invitations are to be sent in the names of your mother and her husband, this is the form:

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alan Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of her daughter Doris Rowland
etc.

Bride's attendants join in giving shower

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am to be my sister's matron of honor, and I have heard that it is customary for the honor attendant to give a shower for the bride-to-be. I'd love to do this. But, as I have also heard that it very poor taste for a member of the immediate family to give a bridal shower, I would like to know if it would be proper for me to give this shower.—M.

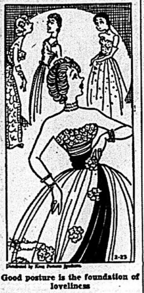
In this circumstance, which is quite usual, the bridesmaids and the honor attendant generally combine to give a bridal shower, at the home of one of the bridesmaids.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMIESON

Correct posture creates style

Sloppy Sallies who let their chests cave in, who throw their shoulders forward, and who don't keep their tummies flat are doing themselves an injustice. No matter how beautiful their clothes, they will lack style. The snappy figure that has an appearance of vibrancy is the foundation of loveliness, a pretty shape being as attractive as a pretty face. It seems senseless that the subject of posture should be of such slight interest to the grand army of beauty seekers.



Good posture is the foundation of loveliness

Muscles play the chief role in posture. If the waist hasn't the nea nip-in at the back, if shoulders are stooped, it is because the musculature is not functioning as it should. With no work to do, the fibres go slack, lost tone, and are perfect tenements for fat cells. When one extends the backbone full length, and carries the chest full and high, every muscle of the torso is on the job. They are giving perfect balance to the body. Symmetry of line is present.

The erect woman looks well in almost any frock. She gives it distinction. On Sloppy Sally the perfect lines of a dress disappear; it becomes merely so much dry goods.

Ungainly carriage brings a trail of good-looks ills, to say nothing of what it does to health. With chest muscles debilitated because shoulders have been thrown forward, the tissues of the breasts lose tone and flabbiness results. Shoulder blades become prominent. Collar bones that should be neatly hidden are revealed. Then comes that bulge abaft the waistline that gives the figure an ugly appearance. Straighten up, tuck in your hips and take a deep breath. The collar bones do a disappearing act.

Perfect posture should be a habit; it should be maintained all the time, not just when you are wearing your glad trappings and want to look like a lady of fashion. If you have not been mindful of this matter, make it a practice to spend at least fifteen minutes each day doing some simple exercises They will strengthen your muscles.

Stand tall. Lift the upper portion of your body, as if you were trying to pull yourself apart at the waistline. While doing this, extend your arms out at the shoulders and drop your head backward; keep lifting the hands, continuing to pull on the muscles of the torso. Back to first position and repeat.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED E. WILSON

FLIGHT CHARACTERISTICS

Mr. Citizen wonders how anybody can possibly know what kind of a bird he sees flying overhead unless it is making some noise or its colors are visible. However, there are flight characteristics — some quite simple to learn, others requiring a trained eye. To begin with, flapping, gliding, and soaring are the three main types of flying. Flapping, is, of course, the most used. As the wings move up and down the bird is supported in the air and pushed forward. Gliding comes in handy sometimes, the bird's wings remaining motionless while there is a loss of altitude. Soaring to us appears, perhaps, the most amazing, as with no apparent effort the bird gains height. And a few species are capable of hovering, or remaining as though suspended in mid-air.

Certain classes or groups of birds have a propensity for one particular type, and therefore may easily be roughly identified. We say it is "some kind of a buzzard," if a large bird with round, very board wings is seen flying high, circling round and round. Long, pointed wings with a bend at the wrist, like the terns, are designed for fast gliding. A tern can hover, also. The hummingbird is our live helicopter. This is the only land bird which is capable of flying backwards, and one of the few able to rise straight up in the air. When hovering over a blossom its body is more tilted than in normal flight. Its long, narrow wings are non-flexible, and its flight unique in the bird world.

Another unique flyer is the swift. The action of the bow-shaped wings is most peculiar, and has been carefully studied by scientists for a long time. The wing tips do most of the work. Continuous wing beats alternate with long, sweeping sails.

A good example of an easily recognizable flight is the undulating motion of the goldfinch. The bird looks as though it were on a scenic railway. Very characteristic, too, is the flight of our various kinds of woodpeckers by a series of quick wing-strokes, with slight pauses between. They seem to progress by jerks. Ducks may be spotted without trouble by their outstretched necks, short tails, and the rapid beats of their comparatively small wings. Their flight is very direct.

A bird now very well known in Canada, the starling, has pointed wings that look long because the tail is so short. Notice that its silhouette in flight is quite distinctive.

Combining a conventional exterior appearance with a new plan of interior layout which is gaining popularity in Canada, this handsome three-bedroom house features a large living-dining room comprising the rear half of the entire first floor. This arrangement, while adding to the privacy of the living and dining room, permits greater enjoyment of the grounds behind the house.

In designing the house, the architects have taken into consideration several important requirements for economical construction—a rectangular foundation, unbroken roof lines and concentration of plumbing by locating the kitchen and the bathroom almost directly above one another.

The kitchen, which is amply lighted by two windows, is entered from the side service entrance or the hall leading from the vestibule. The stairwell has been compactly arranged and has landings which, because of safety, are preferable to winding stairs.

The bedrooms which are of generous size are located on the second floor and have good window areas and adequate closet space.

This house is 26 feet 11 inches by 21 feet 3 inches and for estimating purposes, each floor area is 572 square feet with a total of 1,144 square feet. Cubic contents measure 16,016 cubic feet.

The Ottawa owner of the house illustrated changed the position of the chimney from the left side of the house to the right and, in an effort to reduce the apparent height of the house, has used two types of exterior siding, brick on the lower half and horizontal wood siding on the upper portion of the house.

Working drawings for this plan, known as Design 50-84 are available from HOUSTON'S at minimum cost.

'Einstein Shift' To be Checked By Scientists

By FRANK CAREY

Washington, Feb. 20 — (AP)— The question of the "Einstein shift"—which may prove to be as important to science as the Notre Dame shift to football—could be settled one way or another this month.

Scientists backed by the National Geographic Society expect to get their first real crack at checking up on the shift during the total eclipse of the sun in Africa, Feb. 25.

They say they expect "lush" conditions for their observations in contrast to what a society representative described as "Very lousy" ones during an eclipse in Brazil in 1947.

What they'll be looking for is an apparent shift of stars close to the sun during the eclipse.

Einstein's Prediction

Dr. Albert Einstein, whose famed theory of relativity is important in the study of the structure of the atom and of the universe, has predicted that one proof of his theory will lie in direct observation of the "bending" of starlight by the influence of the sun.

In other words, if Einstein is correct, stars near the sun would appear to shift.

Scientists through the world generally accept Einstein's theory of relativity, but they are constantly searching for proofs of it by direct observation.

An eclipse of the sun offers a possibility for checking on the star shift business because the sun is blacked out and nearby stars are visible.

So far eclipse expeditions haven't had much luck in spotting it, however.

National Geographic scientists took a major crack at the problem during the 1947 total eclipse in Brazil, but a society representative told a reporter:

In Bad Position

"Observations were made all right, but it was a very lousy star field as seen around the sun —not very many stars and all of them very remote.

"The sun was in a bad position at the time. But this year things look just about right. There will be a lush star field."

The society's expedition already has set up shop at Khartoum in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan, close to the centre of the 9,000-mile path of eclipse totality.

The eclipse will be visible as "partial" through most of the rest of Africa, Europe and western Asia.

All Troops Except Canadians Wear Korean Campaign Ribbons

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With the Canadians in Korea, Feb. 23 (CP) — All troops in the 1st. Commonwealth Division except the Canadians are wearing the two Korean campaign ribbons.

The ribbons are those of the commonwealth's own Korean medal and of the United Nations' Korean decoration.

Hold-up on issue to the Canadians is an application to the Crown by the Canadian government for authority to affix a Canadian maple leaf clasp to the commonwealth ribbon.

Soldiers here criticize the Canadian request as political rather than military. They also consider it inappropriate in view of their membership in the Commonwealth Division and feel that their commonwealth ribbon should speak for their place in the U.N.'s Eighth Army.

May Change Qualifications

There also is belief in official circles that Canada is considering changing the qualifications for the Commonwealth Medal.

The provision now is that it goes only to armed forces who actually served in Korea. There is thought that Canada wants to extend it to all her troops serving in the Far East, including Japan.

The fact that such soldiers are issued with the ribbons as they pass through Kure en route home has caused one inter-service beef.

Sailors of the Royal Canadian Navy returning to Canada are forbidden to wear them, even if they could obtain them, and there is no machinery here for issuing the ribbon to them.

Also tied up in the administration is the question of permission for individuals of the 1st. Battalion Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry to wear the decoration that goes with the United States presidential citation won by the unit at Kapyong last April.

Individuals on an American unit's posted strength at the time such decorations are won are entitled to wear a gold-framed black enamel badge on the right breast. This has found favor with Canadian army thinking here but so far has not been clarified by Ottawa.

Gloucesters Wear Award

The Gloucesters, who won their citation during the same Communist offensive, wear the award on their unit colors. The Australians wear theirs on the right sleeve just below the shoulder.

Canadian thinking is that the badge should be worn as the American intended.

Meanwhile Canadians here wear no Korean decorations of any kind.

At Ottawa a spokesman at army headquarters said the question of Canadians wearing the commonwealth or United Nations medals is "still up in the air," but has been receiving active consideration. Canada's policy is expected to be announced "shortly."

The idea of affixing a maple leaf clasp to the commonwealth ribbon has not been decided and is still in the "suggestion" stage.

Meanwhile, some Canadian repatriates have been wearing both sets of ribbons, neither of which is issued to Canadian soldiers. When a group of soldiers of the 1st. Battalion of the Princess Patricias came home on rotation leave with the ribbons up, the army at first ordered them to take them down.

However, Defence Minister Claxton later ruled that the soldiers who returned home wearing the ribbons should be allowed to continue wearing them, pending a decision on Canada's policy.

Thomson Buys The News-Herald Of Vancouver

Vancouver, Feb. 23—(CP)— Ownership of the News-Herald, Vancouver's morning newspaper, has been acquired by Roy H. Thomson, president of the Thomson Company Limited.

The following announcement will appear in this morning's edition:

"Ownership of The News-Herald has been acquired by Roy H. Thomson, president of the Thomson Company Limited, publishers of daily newspapers in eastern and western Canada.

"Editorial control and management of The News-Herald will remain with the resident executives of the newspaper in Vancouver. There will be no change in personnel. Political policies of the newspaper will not be affected.

"Mr. Thomson is past president of the Canadian Daily Newspapers Association and vice-president of the Canadian Press. The new company will inaugurate plans of improvement and expansion so that The News-Herald will increasingly serve Vancouver and British Columbia."

Purchase was made from the Vancouver Sun which bought controlling interest in the paper a year ago. The News-Herald has a daily circulation of 36,800.

The News-Herald was started as a co-operative effort in 1933, by employees of the Vancouver News which ceased publication after six months existence. D. A. Hamilton bought the News-Herald in 1938, but sold his stock in 1951.

C. E. Delbridge is the publisher and Kenneth C. Drury editor of the paper.

SUGGESTIONS PASSED ON

West Ferris, Feb. 23 — (CP) — This tourist-conscious community just south of North Bay may change its name. Reeve W. W. Quirt suggested to the local tourist association that the village needs a name more suggestive of its holiday potentialities. No ideas were immediately forthcoming and suggestion was passed on to the township council.

SUGGEST MORE CONTROL

Oakville, Feb. 23 — (CP) — A coroner's jury last night suggested more control over the sale of rifles and ammunition after investigating the death of Terrance Taylor, 3, who was shot through the eye with a .22-calibre rifle in the hands of his 15-year-old uncle. The verdict was accidental death.

Jittery Iran Eyes Gushing Kuwait Oil in British Dispute

By JOHN SCALI

Washington, Feb. 23 (AP) — The fabulous piece of desert-bound real estate called the Kuwait was moved into the Middle East oil picture as possibly Britain's trump card in its bitter dispute with Iran.

There are signs that Iran's prime minister, Mohammed Mossadegh, realizes this and is getting increasingly jittery over his prospects of victory.

Ever since Iran nationalized Britain's $1,000,000,000 oil properties, production in the Kuwait has been going up and up. This desert sheikdom, an Arabian port at the mouth of the Persian Gulf, is turning out 640,000 barrels of oil daily, replacing nearly half of Iran's output.

Added to stepped-up production in Saudi-Arabia, Iraq and the western hemisphere, the rich flow of oil from Kuwait has enabled the west to get by since last summer when oil stopped moving from Iran.

Mossadegh is faced with the bleak prospect that oil production in the Kuwait and Saudi-Arabia can be boosted even more in the next few months, if necessary. In the meantime, his government, without British oil royalties to count on, is heading straight for bankruptcy within the next six months unless something is done.

Cooked Goose

Some British and American oil experts think Mossadegh already has killed the goose that laid Iran's golden egg. Even if he were to reach a settlement with Britain tomorrow, they believe the west would continue to rely more heavily on trouble-free areas like Saudi-Arabia, the Kuwait and Iraq in the middle east rather than Iran.

Further, there are indications that the Sheik of Kuwait and King Abdullah of Saudi-Arabia would in effect insist that their stepped-up oil production be kept at the same level. These governments could argue cogently, some officials believe, that they helped out in a pinch and should not be tossed aside when things ease up.

Regardless of developments, Kuwait appears to have a gold-lined future. A new agreement with the British-American Oil Company which operates the fields there assures it of a 50-50 division of profits.

This is expected to amount to $150,000,000 in royalties alone during this year. Not bad for a desert waste inhabited by some 100,000 Arabs.

So much money is pouring into the Hseikhdom that Britain has sent half-a-dozen specialists there to figure out how the old sheikh can spend it. The 1,950-square-mile area he rules not only stands to be the richest in the middle east but perhaps the world. Statisticians estimate per capita income in the Kuwait this year, when added to the money earned by inhabitants working for the oil company, will average about $2,000 annually.

Mission Accomplished

Sheila Richards, age 11, travelled all the way from Alberta for a three-minute performance at the Kiwanis Music Festival in Toronto. En route she lost all her luggage except what to her was the most important item — her cornet. So she was still able to give her performance. — Central Press Canadian.

GLENS, TRENTON HERE TONIGHT! M

Glen Boys, Trent Valley League southern division entry meet the Trenton Jewellers in the first of a best-of-three semi-finals series in Memorial Arena tonight with the second game scheduled for Monday night in Trenton. Glens finished the schedule in the second spot of the three-team standing with RCAF Flyers topping the field and the Jewellers in the show position. Glens or Trenton will battle with the Flyers for the sectional title and the right to meet other sectional winners.

The game tonight should be productive of some speedy hockey as the Glens have shown amazing style in their last few times out. The stiffest battles they fought this season are against the Jewellers and with the chips down tonight the fans should see some hot action. The game gets under way at nine o'clock instead of the usual 8.30.

HAS YET TO SCORE AGAINST DETROIT!

Boom Boom Geoffrion, Montreal Canadiens' high-scoring rookie right winger, has yet to score a goal against Detroit this season. Although he is one of the League's top scorers with 19 counters up to the morning of February 14, Boom Boom has yet to deposit the puck behind Terry Sawchuk in the Detroit nets.

HOWE LIKES CANADIENS

Gordie Howe, the National Hockey League's goal scoring leader, enjoys playing against Montreal Canadiens. In games up to the morning of February 14, Howe had scored more goals against the Habitants than any other team with Chicago and Rangers following close behind. The big Detroit winger notched eight of his 29-goal output against Canadiens. He scored seven times against Chicago and seven times against New York. He notched three tallies against Toronto and the same number against Boston.

LOCAL BOYS MAKE GOOD FOR CANADIENS

Montreal Canadiens are finding out that they don't have to look any further than their own backyard to discover outstanding hockey players. Seven of the top players on Canadiens this season were born and developed right in Montreal, and three of the seven homebrews are rookies. Out of the five rookies with the Habs this season, three more hometown boys. Boom Boom Geoffrion, Dollard St. Laurent and Dickie Moore are all Montreal youths, while veterans Maurice Richard, Butch Bouchard, Ken Mosdell and Doug Harvey were all born and raised in the Canadian metropolis. All seven are graduates of the Quebec Junior Amateur Hockey Association.

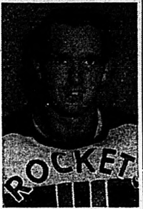
Junior Hawks Defeat Petes To Go One Game Up in Series; Degray, Doran Shine in 8-6 Win

By C. D. T.

The Belleville Hawklets are back in the front pew and with one more game they can be home free.

A determined local crew marched into Peterborough Friday night and spotted the opposition three goals, got a break and capitalized on it and went one game up in their semi-finals series in the junior B playoffs with the Triple Links, winning the game 8-6, the period scores being 1-3, 5-4.

There were a lot of stars out on the ice throughout the whole piece but the palm must be given to Ted DeGray and "Duke" Doran with Barclay rating the third star, while Jacklin with two goals and Munroe for the eventual winning marker rating honorable mention.



TED DeGRAY

. . . Penalty Killer

It was another typical joust between two evenly-matched teams with the Hawks having the slight edge in finishing off their plays and displaying a little more hustle than they exhibited at home last Wednesday evening. The boys were also shooting for the corners last night and "Red" Wasson did not look quite so good as he did down here. There were injuries aplenty, Armstrong being off for nearly all of the second period due to a bad cut on the forehead, while McCracken had to go to the dressing room twice for repairs during the tussle.

A Peculiar Call

There is always something new in hockey and last night, this writer saw for the first time a double penalty given on the same play. The two referee system showed for sure that one referee cannot see all that is going on. Walsh and Calhoun were the referees and Peterborough was having a tough time in the Belleville end when Walsh sent Bickford away for charging. At the same time Calhoun caught McCracken slashing and both were sent away. This was all the opportunity that the locals needed and they roared to the attack and Georgie Jacklin potted 2 within a minute to even the count and both the markers were set up by DeGray and these two tallies tied up the pastime. A faceoff in the Peterborough zone saw Lalande and Jacklin put Munroe in position and firing through a maze of legs and sticks, Wasson was beat cleanly on what proved to be the winning marker.

But there were more thrills to follow. In the third frame with the Hawks nursing a two-goal lead, a scramble occurred at the goal mouth and Walsh ruled that Jacklin fell on the puck intentionally within the crease and awarded a penalty shot. Robinson took the play and although Barclay got a piece of the rubber, he could not smother the drive and the Triple Links were again back in the ball game. Ted DeGray, who played an outstanding game all night, with the Hawks shorthanded due to a tripping penalty, went through alone, circled the net and took a shot at the twine. Wasson was just inches away from his goal line and in went the rubber off his skate.

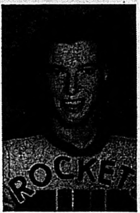
The losers came right back with Jensen getting a marker from Stewart. In the last minute of play, Johnny Godfrey pulled his goalie for a faceoff in the Belleville zone but "Duke" Doran, crossed up the opposition, got clear of the pack and in went the assurance marker. It was no trouble to hold off the opposition for the remaining time and when the bell went bedlam broke loose.

At times the penalties looked cheap but the referees were ruling with an iron hand and incidentally it was one of the best handled games in the group this year. DeGray and Doran were used exclusively by coach "Red" Doran to kill off the penalties and no two players could have done a better job. DeGray at times was positively brilliant, when surrounded by blueshirts, he stickhandled them dizzy, while Doran patrolled the wing like a major.

It was penalty killing at its best and even the Peterborough fans had to give the boys a hand. The first two goals that Peterborough secured were gifts from the Hawks' defence but no names will be mentioned. The third that put them away running was a hard drive that beat Barclay cleanly. The team was late in arriving in the Liftlock City, and had only a short warmup and did not start to ramble until the second period. Barclay played with his skates wired up and probably "Dick" Beare should get a star for his repair job. The goalie was almost sensational late in the second frame and all through the third, while up front every boy carried the mail.

Penalties on Cheap Side

As was said before there was a number of cheap penalties handed out with Belleville getting 10 of the 14 that were called. Houle and Green each got two in the third frame with Houle cashing one in the second. A scoring summary is appended showing Strahan with one marker, Carey with one, Doran with two, Gilmour with an assist, Therrien and Houle with an assist, Jacklin with two tallies and one assist, DeGray with a goal and two assists, Munroe with a marker and Lalande with two assists.



GEORGE JACKLIN

. . . Pays Off

The crowd was pegged at 692 paid but it being Father's Night, the kids were allowed in free and this brought the house up considerably. The ice was not the best, quite chippy, but flooding between the periods helped a lot and allowed the locals to show their speed. Peterborough was outskated outhustled and out-checked after the first frame and if the boys play back to that game again on Wednesday night in Peterborough, they should make the finals against Lindsay.

Rocket Richard Will be Out Next Two Weeks

(By The Canadian Press)

Maurice (Rocket) Richard will be lost to the National Hockey League Montreal Canadiens for at least two more weeks and possibly longer.

General manager Frank Selke said last night in Montreal that Richard out of action with a groin injury, will leave for Florida tonight with his wife for a complete rest.

"All I can say is that he will be gone for an indefinite period," Selke said. "He can stay as long as he wants, or until he feels he is ready to come home."

Richard said he believed he would remain in Florida for about 10 days. Club doctors said the only thing that can cure his injury is a complete rest.

The three-year-old division of thoroughbred racing launches its big money campaign today, with the favored Windy City II from Ireland and 13 rival American colts competing in the Santa Anita Derby for a $140,000 purse. The field of 14 was named yesterday in Arcadia, Calif., for the mile and one-eighth scramble which marks the 15th running of the Santa Anita event.

Vic Raschi, the New York Yankees' most consistent winning pitcher and reserve catcher Charley Silvera signed contracts yesterday in St. Petersburg, Fla., leaving four players who haven't come to terms with the world champions.

Ted Reeve, Toronto Telegram sports columnist, said yesterday in a story datelined Vancouver that football executive in the west coast city are considering a plan for a springtime big four league composed of Vancouver, Victoria, Edmonton and Calgary.

Promoter Herman Taylor of Philadelphia said last night in Miami that tentative arrangements have been made for champion Jersey Joe Walcott and Ezzard Charles to meet for the heavyweight title in Philadelphia Municipal Stadium about June 18.

Chuck Rayner, New York Ranger goalie injured a week ago, will undergo an operation today for torn ligaments in his left knee. Though the 31-year-old netminder obviously is out of action for the rest of the season, Ranger manager Frank Boucher yesterday in New York emphasized Chuck's career is far from over.

Busy little Robert Villemain of France last night staged a blistering rally in the last two rounds for a unanimous decision over wild-swinging Danny Nardico of Tampa, Fla., in a 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden in New York. Villemain weighed 167 1-4, Nardico 172.

Bantam Teams Are Defeated

Bancroft—Both Bancroft bantam teams went down to defeat when the Rovers lost a 6 to 1 game to Coe Hill and the Trappers tied Apsley Aces 9 to 9, but lost the semi-final round of the North Hastings Bantam League championship by a total of 14 to 15, in Bancroft Arena on Tuesday night.

In the first of the double-header Murray McCormack was a one-man scoring machine who practically won the series single-handed. During the first game at Apsley, Murray scored five of his team's six goals when they won from the Trappers by 6 to 5, and in this affair he scored eight of the nine Apsley goals.

With jet-propelled speed, Murray one of few kids who have skates, body and stick synchronized, went from end to end, drilled shoulder-high shots, both forehand and backhand, past Gallagher. With two minutes to go in the third frame he soloed to tie matters and repeated this act in the overtime period.

Harry Reynolds obtained Apsleys other goal while Bob Leedy with four Bob Delyea with three and Elwood Retty with two scored for the Trappers.

Coe Hill proved to be too strong for the Rovers. Murray Crosby notched four, Terry Sprackett one, and Gerald Parks one, while Bob Blatherwick picked up the lone counter for the Rovers.

Apsley Aces are now in the finals for the Wiggins trophy and Coe Hill and the Rovers have to play another game in their two game goals-to-count series.

Petes Lengthen Top Spot Lead With 9-7 Victory Over Hawks

The Peterborough Petes raced out in front of the senior "B" group race in Memorial Arena here last night when they edged the Hawks 9-7 in a hockey game that could have been a lot better.

The Hawks fielded a lot of the sick and injured and tossed out a team that was minus playing coach Red Doran but which by virtue of its partial return to form demonstrated that playoffs or no playoffs the Hawks are still strong contenders.

It was lackadaisical hockey for the first few minutes of the game. Both teams played cautiously. Then Trumble, Hawks' defenceman, blasted the first goal of the period that started a six-goal surge that saw the teams at a 3-all draw at the end.

The "fustest and mostest" hockey came in the hectic second. The Petes roared back with three goals in fifteen minutes before the Hawks caught stride and struck for two before the period ended to end the heat at 6-3 for the flaming Petes.

They made it 7-5 after eight minutes of play in the third period with a desperate Hawks crew racing back to score two goals from Wardhaugh and Moher to tie the score.

Dugan raced in with Wade a minute later to put the Petes out front by a goal and then came the break when Gus Leonard fired home Fryla's pass with seconds to go for the insurance marker.

The Teams

Peterborough: Goal Harding; defence, Jopling, E. Leonard; centre Dugan; wings, Mortimer, Mason; subs, Wade, E. Leonard, Collins, Garvey, Floyd, West, Steele, Fryia.

WILL ERECT STATUE

Nottingham, England, Feb. 22—(Reuters) — Nottingham will erect a statue of Robin Hood, the legendary 12th century outlaw of Sherwood Forest who robbed the rich to feed the poor. Two supporting groups of statuary will represent Robin's aides—Friar Tuck, Little John, Will Scarlet and Allan A'Dale.

Mickey Mantle Is 'Big If' Of World Champions

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 23 — (AP) — Mickey Mantle — billed as the new Joe DiMaggio — is the "big if" of the world champion New York Yankee camp.

For years the sports writers wrote about DiMaggio's operations. He was the annual spring serial. Now it's Mantle's knee.

The 20-year-old outfielder still favors the right knee that crumpled under him in the second game of the world series last fall. The Yanks' club physician advised young Mickey to report a week early with the batterymen. He was to move into training work by gradual stages.

When Mantle grabbed a bat and approached the plate yesterday in the first Yankee drill, Coach Jim Turner refused to throw to him.

"Mantle has been ordered to take no hitting practice except bunting for one week," the club announced to reporters.

Except for Hockey, Canada's Winter Olympic Scoring Over

(By JACK SULLIVAN)
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Oslo, Feb. 23—(CP)— Except for the hockey team, Canada isn't figured to collect any more scoring points in the 1952 Olympic Winter Games.

Four events remain to be completed—the 40-kilometre ski relay and women's 10-kilometre cross-country ski race today, and the ski jump and the final hockey round Sunday.

Canada had its closest call in the hockey series last night before defeating Sweden 3-2 on Billy Dawe's goal with 20 seconds of play left. Norway and the United States are Canada's opponents in the last two rounds.

Canada has no entrants in today's ski races, in which Sweden, Finland and Norway appeared to have the best chances. As for the special ski jump, Norwegians have won every gold medal in that event since the Winter Games started in 1924.

Canada's two jumpers, Luc Laferte and Wilfrid Charland of Three Rivers, Que., are hardly expected to reach the top flight of Europe's ski birds.

The figure skating competitions ended yesterday and again Canada had a place among the point-scoring top six.

Skating in the pairs, Robert Norris Bowden and Frances Dafoe of Toronto placed fifth, good for two points in the unofficial team standing.

Suzanne Morrow of Toronto accounted for one point when she finished sixth in the women's singles figure skating a few days ago.

Peter Firstbrook of Toronto placed fifth in the men's singles, and now the pairs skaters from Toronto have added another two points by placing fifth.

Bowden and Miss Dafoe, senior pairs champions in Canada, were given a great round of applause by the crowd of more than 15,000 in Bislett Stadium.

U.S. Places Second

The world champions, Paul and Ria Falk of Germany, won the Olympic title and the Kennedy kids—Peter and Karol—of Seattle, Wash., placed second.

Laszlo and Marianna Nagy of Hungary were third, scoring the first points in these games by any Russian-dominated country of Eastern Europe.

Russia did not enter the games, but athletes came from Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary. The Czechoslovakian hockey team should pick up a few points, entering today's round in third place with five wins and one loss.

John and Jennifer Nicks of Britain placed fourth in the pairs figure skating, adding three points to the first-place 10 scored by Jeannette Altwegg in winning the women's singles figure-skating championship.

Germans won the gold medals in both events decided yesterday. In the morning Andreas Ostler, world bobsled champion, guided his sled to victory in the four-man bobs. A U.S. sled driven by Stan Benham of Lake Placid, N.Y., placed second. Two Switzerland sleds took third and fourth places.

Conceded to Canada

Everyone but the hockey players themselves has conceded the hockey championship to Canada. Entering today's eighth round Canada was the only undefeated team among the nine countries competing. One loss would not be utter disaster because Canada could still win with the best average of goals for and against. But the loss would hurt in prestige if nothing else.

Sweden, undefeated until last night, proved a tough and valiant foe for the Canadian team from Edmonton. The Canadians had a wide margin of play, but in the matter of goals it was a close squeak.

Sweden's goalie, Tord Flodquist, put on about the greatest exhibition of net-minding the Canadians have seen—or hope to see the rest of the way in this series.

Flodquist tossed shots aside with monotonous regularity. Time after time he beat Bob Dickson, Gordie Robertson, Frank Sullivan and Bob Watt on shots that were well labelled.

The game itself was one of the cleanest and well-played of the series. There were only two penalties, one to each team for minor infractions.

The crowd of more than 10,000 was in an uproar throughout the game, particularly while the Swedes took a 2-0 lead in the first period before the Canadians settled down.

The Swedes then played defensive hockey, leaving three and even four men on the defence and waiting for breaks. But the Canadians got their attack rolling following in fast on shots, and Flodquist was under steady fire.

Louis Secco teamed up with George Abel to score Canuada's first goal before the opening period ended and Abel drilled in a long hard shot late in the second period to tie the score.

Although the Canadians kept peppering Flodquist, it looked as though they would have to settle for a draw. Dawe had tough luck before he finally made his pay-off shot. Once in the second period he hit the goal post and in the third missed by inches with only the goalie to beat.

His third big chance came when Billy Gibson went behind the Swedes' net and passed out to Dawe who pulled the goal tender out and slapped the puck in.

The United States team got into another faffoo in last night's game with Poland, the Americans winning 5-3. This time it was Andy Gambucci of Eveleth, Minn., who got into a brawl. The other night it was Joe Czarnota, in the Americans' game with Switzerland.

A near free-for-all broke out in the third period last night in front of the Poles' bench. Gambucci and Anthony Wrobel of Poland were given major penalties for their part in the big mix-up.

Czechoslovakia, whose only loss was to Canada, scored its fifth victory, defeating Switzerland 8-3, and Finland won 5-1 over Germany in a tussle between two of the low-placed teams.

Biltmores Climb To Within Point Of First Place

(By The Canadian Press)

The red-hot Guelph Biltmores climbed to within a single point of first place in the Ontario Hockey Association junior A race last night as they delighted a home crowd with a convincing 15-2 victory over eighth-place Waterloo Hurricanes.

Guelph is runner-up to Toronto Marlboros who play in Oshawa tonight and square off against Bilts tomorrow afternoon in Toronto.

Ken Laufman led Biltmores with four goals and three assists last night to boost his season point total to 134, a record for O.H.A. junior A play. The old mark of 129 was held jointly by Lou Jankowski of the 1951 Oshawa Generals and Dutch Reibel of the Windsor Spitfires.

In other junior clashes, Barrie Flyers downed ninth-place Windsor Spitfires 8-2 and held on to eighth position in the 10-team league while the sixth-place Kitchener Greenshirts upset St. Catharines Teepees 4-2.

Teepees are in a fourth-place deadlock with Toronto St. Michael's.

In senior A O.H.A. play, Hamilton Tigers kept their playoff chances alive with a 3-2 win over the cellar-dwelling Sarnia Sailors. A scant point behind fourth-place Owen Sound Mercurys, Tigers meet Sarnia again tonight in the season's final game. A Tiger win coupled with an Owen Sound loss against Brantford Redmen could shoo Hamilton into the four-team playoffs.

In the only other O.H.A. senior A tussle last night, the league-leading Stratford Indians bounced Brantford Redmen 13-5 at Brantford.

Laufman Gets Four

It was Ken Laufman's four goals that led Guelph to its win. Ron. Murphy added three and Dean Prentice came through with two. Harry Howell, Chick Chalmers, Andy Bathgate, Aldo Guidolin, Chuck Henderson and Lou Fontinato banged in singletons. Neil McIntosh scored both Waterloo markers.

Ron Stewart fired three goals for Barrie and John Martin, Ken Collins, Doug Mohns, Paul Emms and Hilly Menard scored for the others. Bobbie Brown and Elmer Skov scored Windsor's goals.

Orv Tessier potted two for Kitchener, Graham Joyce and Frank Toyota adding the others. Billy Haas and Gord Myles scored St. Catharines' goals.

Ab Conick, Murray Comfort and Frank Liscombe accounted for Tigers' three goals. Monty Zorica scored Owen Sound's lone goal.

George Aitken paced Stratford with three goals and Bruce Burdett, Elwood Ritchie, Dinny Flanagan and Jack White collected two apiece. Bill Walsh and Ken Ducharme netted singletons. Jack Ferguson scored twice for Brantford, Bill Shill, Bob Hewson and Don McCable counting the others.

Tonight's final games in the O.H.A. senior A scheduled find Brantford at Owen Sound and Hamilton at Sarnia. In junior A play, Barrie plays in Waterloo, Toronto St. Michael's goes to Galt and Oshawa entertains Toronto Marlboros.

Sunday's O.H.A. junior A play pits Guelph against Marlies and Oshawa against St. Mike's in Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens, Kitchener goes to Windsor.

Powell Likely To Have Grand Slam in Hockey

(By The Canadian Press)

Ray Powell, lanky centre of Providence Reds, may become the first player in American Hockey League history to win the circuit's scoring derby, goal-getting race and playmaking crown.

The 26-year-old star just about locked up the point derby last night as he collected seven in leading the Providence Reds to a 9-4 triumph over the Buffalo Bisons.

Powell banged home three goals and assisted on four others to boost his point harvest to 86. The three goals increased his output to 34 two more than runner up Steve Wochy of Cleveland has scored. The four assists brought Powell's figures in that department to 52, a commanding total.

Since the league was organized in 1936-37 a number of players have led the circuit in two of the three scoring departments but none has ever had a grand slam. Powell, with 12 games left to play, stands an excellent chance to be the first to accomplish the feat.

Paul Gladu also scored three goals for the Reds who now trail Hershey's pace-setting Eastern division leaders by only four points. Other Providence marksmen were Johnny Michaluk, Zellio Toppazzini and Jack McGill. Buffalo's goal-getters were Ab Demarco, Norm Pargeter, Mazur and Grant Warwick.

Philadelphia Picked as Site

Miami, Fla., Feb. 23 — (AP)—The Philadelphia Municipal Stadium, it appeared today, will be the site of the return match between Jersey Joe Walcott and Ezzard Charles for the heavyweight championship.

Promoter Herman Taylor of Philadelphia said last night tentative arrangements have been worked out for the title fight in the stadium about June 18.

Taylor said he made a "very flattering offer" in a conference with Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing Club, and "we didn't fix up all the details but part of the obstacles were ironed out." Another meeting is scheduled Monday.

Off The Beaten Path

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT,
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

My fishing partner pulled his car off the shoulder of the dirt road and parked. On both sides, second-growth timber blanketed the flats, and the only water in sight ran in the ditch beside the car. Yet, within twenty minutes walk from the car, we had a wonderful afternoon's fishing for both brook and brown trout in a beaver dam that lay well back in the woods.

Before the Civilian Conservation Corps began its road building program, the only way to a large portion of our fishing and shooting spots could be reached was on foot. To be sure, there were some roads — the Department of Forests and Waters kept open old lumber roads to be used as fire trails — but, as a general rule, much of the fishing and shooting that we now reach in an hour or so used to take several hours.

Perhaps it is an unfortunate thing, but today it is a relatively easy thing to fish almost any stream, hunt almost any cover, reach practically any spot in any state by car. Where the dirt road used to be a rutty peril to travel, paved roads now cross mountains and invade flats that were at one time nearly inaccessible. Few, if any, lakes and streams are not touched at one point or another by a passable road.

With these inroads on their home territory, game and fish are taking a heavier beating annually. More licences are sold to the occasional hunter and fisherman than ever before. Vacation time brings out a throng of new fishermen every year to try their luck in the now expanding Canadian provinces. For there, as in the United States, fishing and shooting is being made easier to reach.

However, the outlook isn't as dark as it might seem. One common human failing is saving a lot of fishing and hunting for the sportsman who will work for it. The average fisherman and hunter likes to fish and shoot within easy reach of his car.

Put a road by a good pool or cover and, depend upon it, you will find it occupied almost any day of the season. But, put this same cover over a hill, down in a valley — in fact, anyplace where it is over ten minutes walk from the car, and you will find undisturbed conditions a great amount of the time.

In recent years, many hunters and fishermen are planning their trips with the aid of U.S. Geological Survey Topographic Maps. With these maps, they are able to locate these "last frontiers" and find their way into some better-than-average sport.

Here in Pennsylvania, the most popular upland game quarry is the ringnecked pheasant. Each season an army of hunters comb the fields of this state in search of them. Drive out through the farm country any day during the season and you will see the same thing — every corn field or piece of cover within sight of the highway has been gone over and is still being gone over by countless hunting parties.

But what of the hilltop farms, the ones that sit back on a dirt road away from the highway? The shooting pressure on these fields is perhaps twenty-five per cent that of the highway covers. As a result, the hunter who goes out scouting before the season and locates these covers is the man who brings in his birds.

After the opening gun is fired in deer season, bottom hunting becomes a hit-or-miss affair. The majority of the deer herd heads for the tops, up in the laurel and heavy cover that the ridge flats afford. Quite often, these tops are a heartbreaking climb and, as such, are reserved for the younger and more ambitious hunters. But the game is there, out of reach of roads and hunters.

Many hunters and fishermen are a bit apprehensive of becoming lost if they venture too far into strange territory. This can be avoided by carrying a good pocket compass. Take cross bearings on several prominent landmarks in the vicinity and you will find it an easy matter to locate your car later in the day. Going by the sun is all right as long as it shines, but a cloudy day has lost more than one amateur outdoorsman.

On our major trout rivers there are many well-known pools that are fished heavily during the course of the season. You have them in your country — the old bridge, the mountain hole, etc — all of them are talked about and pounded to death. Yet, maybe a half a mile up river, out of sight of the main road, are several equally good stretches of trout water that are fished only occasionally. To be sure, these waters aren't stocked but, the spring migrations give them a more than adequate trout population.

On the heavily-fished lakes, bass and pickerel are shown a variety of lures that defies description. Every single inch of the outer shore is covered each day. Yet the pockets back in the lily pads that require accurate casting and weedless lures are relatively untouched during the course of a season.

Perhaps the most outstanding example of beaten-path fishing I have ever encountered was in Florida. My son and I were fishing a canal for snook near Marco, Florida. On one side of the road is a wide deep canal, open for some seven miles and instantly accessible. On the other side of the road is a smaller, overgrown canal in which casting is a nightmare and lure loss is heavy.

We fished the latter canal all day, hooking better than a hundred snook and landing a good number of them. Not once during the day were we fishing disturbed water, although this trip fell on a weekend. In the wide-open canal across the road, some seventy-five fishermen, using all types of equipment, caught slightly better than one fish apiece.

As I say, fishing or shooting that is easy to reach by car usually has had too much attention from the rank and file. Only in rare instances are such locations worth while. Try buying some Topographic Maps of your territory and spend some time studying them. Then do some scouting before the season opens. If you want undisturbed conditions for your shooting and fishing, that is the way to find them.

Rangers Will Stick With Francis In Tangle With Boston Bruins, Four Games During Weekend

Four games are scheduled in National Hockey League play this weekend, but a Sunday night engagement which sends Boston Bruins against New York Rangers looms as the most important of the quartet.

The fourth-place Rangers, rallying behind the inspiring play of their pint-sized sub-goalie Emile Francis, have shown plenty of fight in recent games. Just two short weeks ago, the would-be experts counted the Blueshirts out as they floundered about in fifth place, three games back of Boston.

Now the positions are reversed, but the Bruins trail the Rangers by one point.

The long-suffering Rangers have become sentimental favorites in their uphill battle for a playoff berth and a surprising number of neutral observers find themselves pulling for the New Yorkers in Sunday's key game. But no matter what they do, Francis is the guy on the spot.

Brought up from Cincinnati of the American Hockey League Sunday to replace Chuck Rayner, injured last Saturday night in Montreal, he is destined to be known as the individual who did or didn't get the Rangers into the playoffs.

With the N. H. L. trading deadline a few hours away, Ranger manager Frank Boucher today said he'll stick with the five-foot-seven Francis for the rest of the season and through the playoffs if his team is fortunate enoug to gain Stanley Cup play.

"He may be small, but he' good," said Boucher. "I don't in tend to make any change. I'l stick with him to the end.

Rayner Not Through

"However, there's a mistake impression going around tha Rayner is through," Boucher add ed. "That's just not so. Next t Terry Sawchuk of Detroit an Harry Lumley of Chicago I con sider Chuck the best goaltende in the league. At 31, h certainly should have three o four more years ahead of him."

Rayner will be operated on to day. The operation was put o Monday to let the swelling o his injured knee go down.

Boucher conceded Bosto Bruins show no signs of collaps but it will be a battle right dow to the wire. Both teams have 1 games to go in the schedule, eigh of them at home. The Ranger have a much better home recor

In the weekend's other game the league-leading Detroit Re Wings are in Toronto tonight fo a clash with the faltering Mapl Leafs, currently deadlocked i second place with Montreal Can adiens. The Wings move int Chicago Sunday for a matine affair with the tailend Blac Hawks.

Montreal, still without the ser vices of Maurice (The Rocke Richard, entertains Chicago to night.

New York, Feb. 23 — (AP) — The Kentucky Derby picture will begin to come into focus with the running of the $140,000 Santa Anita Derby today, and within an other week horse players shou be able to tell you the "absolutel certain" winner of the thre year-old classic at Louisville Ma 3.

Next Saturday the $50,000 Fla mingo is scheduled at Hialeah, well as the $25,000 Louisiana De by at the New Orleans Fa Grounds. The cream of the cand dates for 1952 honors are entere in one or another of the thre events.

The stickout on the coast toda is the Irish-bred colt Windy Ci II, which was the two-year-o champion of Ireland, England an France last year. He is owned Gus Luellwitz, a Los Angeles lu ber man, who was reported have paid some $150,000 for colt as a present for his wife.

The Irish flier has run th times at Santa Anita. He lost his first outing, when jockey E die Arcaro reported he apparent didn't like the clods flying ba from a dirt track. He had run b fore only on turf. Since Windy City II romped away bo in the San Gabriel and San Feli Stakes.

Among the Derby candidat which took the foreigner's dust the latter two events was Ca met's Hill Gail, trained by t Jones boys, old Ben and youn Jim. Ben was quoted the other d as saying his horse wasn't in t same class with Windy City and for that reason we like H Gail very much today. He ha hot workout Thursday.

T THE McCARTHY — Marriage and murder are the problems confronting Hugo Haas, right, Beverly Michaels and Allan Nixon in Columbia Pictures' "Pickup", at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre. Howland Chamberlain also stars in the unusual drama of a marriage that should never have been. The second feature on the same program presents Richard Grayson and Margaret Fields in "Chain of Circumstance."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Wonders never cease in bridge. est opened the bidding with a ub when north and south held e partnership hands shown re:

NORTH	SOUTH
A K Q J 10	♠ 6
9 8 4 3 2	♥ 9 8 6 4 3
None	♦ A K 5 4 3 2
5	♣ A
K 3

After seeing both these hands may be assumed that west has e ace and king of hearts with e two minor queens. However, is makes no difference in how e north and south hands should bid.

The strongest defensive bid is overcall in opponent suit. Like o clubs by north after the one ab by west. Such a bid is rcing to game in something.

AT THE BELLE — Clifton Webb, popular screen comedian is at his best in "Elopement," 20th. Century-Fox happiness hit, with Ann Francis and William Lundigan, the love partners in the story. "Elopement" is showing at the Belle today for the last times, with a funny Leon Errol comedy.

But it promises no club losers.

The next customary defensive bid that is lower in strength is a jump overcall. Like two spades over the west one club. It promises eight tricks and a rebiddable spade suit.

Partner is not forced to keep open a jump overcall. He bids if he has two or more tricks in his hand. With the freak that north holds, however, it is not likely that two spades will die.

At any rate, the bidding went like this:

West	North	East	South
1 C	2 S	Pass	3 C
Pass	3 S	Pass	4 D
Pass	4 S	Pass	4 NT
Pass	5 S	Pass	6 S
Pass	7 S	All pass

In answer to four no-trump, five spades is my convention bid signal for showing only one ace and two kings. Not knowing that the spade suit was so solid, south bid only six spades.

Rule says that the four no-trumper decides where the contract should end. But if south can go to six without knowing how solid the spade suit, north may well believe seven is worth the try.

If it wins he is a hero. If it loses he is a bum.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Feb. 23 (AP)—Don McGuire, actor turned writer-producer, has this advice for film players. Find yourself another racket, just in case.

McGuire is walking evidence of his own theory. Until a year ago, he was an actor. Then he decided it was more fun to eat regularly, so he turned to writing and producing movies.

He was a newspaperman before the war and came to Hollywood after the army. At first he was a press agent. He went to Warner Brothers to see about an acting job for a girl friend and ended up with a contract for himself. He stayed at the studio three years ago and then free-lanced. After 35 pictures he decided to give it up.

Most Admired

One of the most admired directors in town is George Sherman. The reasons: He always brings his picture in ahead of schedule.

But George not only saves time and money, he provides quality entertainment. Clark Gable even sought him for "Lone Star" but arrangements couldn't be made with Sherman's studio.

An amazing thing about the Sherman method is that he shoots from 8.30 in the morning until around four in the afternoon. Most directors work from 9 to 6. "Everybody gets tired in the afternoon and the actors' faces start to sag," Sherman explained. "I can get just as much done by starting a half-hour earlier and working faster."

His secret for speed: he studies the script the night before and figures out three different ways to shoot each scene. If one fails, he tries the others.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Sunday, February 24

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Essential business and other urgent duties are honored this Sunday, but unnecessary tasks and things not important should not be undertaken. Remember duty to God first.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Religious services, prayer vitally important these days. And this being Sunday do not neglect devotions to God. Ask His blessings and guidance always. Gratitude is fundamental.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Not all friendly a period; eliminate useless work, any unessentials. Attention to duties never goes unrewarded though it may seem to at time of execution. Praise God for His blessings.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Your Moon and other planets now stress need for patience, kindliness and knowledge of what you are doing. A good day for religion, charity, service to country, also due relaxation.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Whole day suggests reasonable action, true charity, kindliness, and understanding of others' problems. Moderation, patience do matter. Prayer, family should be among firsts.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Though day is mild generally, several days following will have highly favorable aspects so it is important you plan well now, think conscientiously for future.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Moderation is in order unless certain duties, as in the armed forces, demand otherwise. Prayer can be offered while doing urgent chores. Seek His help. Relax, rebuild energies.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—Today has restrictions and wisely so; we need time occasionally to review our progress, methods, habits. Time for spiritual reflection and prayer. Make this a healthy, holy Sunday. Rest.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Quietly tucked in between two very favorable aspect days, today suggests some restful activity, as many good deeds as you can do, and of course church services. Must work? Do so cheerfully.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Tend to all useful and spiritual needs quickly as possible. Influences mild on whole. Shun the unsavory, seek the truly helpful. Much up to you and demands of your schedule.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)— Cannot lag behind if you have things to do. Not too much help indicated. However, unless urgencies call, indulge relaxing Sunday interests; pray, enjoy good entertainment, fun.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Some influences are indifferent, some not desirable. It is up to us to examine, to differentiate. Take extra chores patiently. Pray God for guidance, in gratitude for blessings.

..YOU BORN TODAY: Pleasant, agreeable disposition, innately placid. Make faithful lifetime, devoted parent. Pisceans often become great social service workers. You are all-round capable, thus naturally fit in positions of trust, and especially having to do with children and others' properties. Keen intuition and an unusual sense of the artistic make for success in varied fields. 1952 especially opportune for the ambitious and steadfastly purposeful you.

Atlantic Allies Produce Master Plan for Defence

Sir Oliver Franks Likely Choice as NATO Secretary

By STAN SWINTON

Lisbon, Portugal, Feb. 25—AP—The 14 Atlantic Allies today end a historic meeting which produced a master plan for western Europe's defence.

Just two problems remain at the final sessions of the North Atlantic Council:

1. How much the United States will pay of an estimated $450,000,000 "infrastructure" program to string air bases, communication networks and headquarters across Europe. The best guesses were at least 40 per cent.

2. Streamlining of the N.A.T.O. civil and economic organization under a permanent secretary-general. Informed sources had predicted that Canada's L. B. Pearson, present council chairman, would be named, but high N.A.T.O. sources said today that Sir Oliver Franks, British ambassador to Washington, will be chosen for the post today.

The sources said the selection of Franks was worked out in a deal whereby Britain agreed to Paris, instead of London, as permanent N.A.T.O. headquarters in exchange for naming a Briton to the top post.

A big-three meeting on Germany and Austria tomorrow holds U.S. State Secretary Dean Acheson, Foreign Minister Robert Schuman of France and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain here. They will talk chiefly about lifting Allied controls on defeated West Germany's war industries and try to settle the final size and form of its contribution to western defence.

No Charge Laid Against Youth Who Took Child

Montreal, Feb. 25—(CP)—Robert Patenaude, 16-year-old youth, held in connection with the kidnapping of a three-year-old girl, might not appear in court for several days.

A high police official, who asked that his name not be used, said investigation is still incomplete, and no charge has been laid against the accused. When he appears it will be in social welfare court, the name given juvenile court in Quebec.

Patenaude's parents visited him in his cell Sunday, where he spent most of the time reading a torn comic book, and playing cards with policemen.

The youth seemed unconcerned and nonchalant about the fact that police are preparing a kidnapping charge against him.

He shrugged when his mother asked him: "Why did you do it?"

He half-turned his back on his parents while he talked, scratched the back of his neck and smiled into space.

He nodded when his mother asked him if he had said his prayers Saturday night. She gave him a rosary.

Before they left, the middle-aged father advised his son to tell the truth.

Picked Up Saturday

Patenaude was picked up with three-year-old Barbara Nemeroff on busy St. Catharine Street, Saturday morning.

Police say he snatched the child from the Nemeroff home Friday night while the parents were out and Irene Lachance, a 25-year-old maid was looking after her. Before he left the accused allegedly left a $50,000 ransom note. The maid gave police a good description of the man and the clothes he was wearing. He was walking just a pace behind the girl when police picked them up. They acted on a tip fr[illegible] Mrs. Margaret Henry who re[illegible]ized the tot from descriptions [illegible]adcast to all Montrealers.

Child Unharmed

When they arrived at p[illegible] headquarters the child was t[illegible] to the office of Dr. Rosario F[illegible]taine, medico-legal expert [illegible] Quebec, who said she was "[illegible]parently unharmed."

He said:

"I don't know why I took th[illegible] little girl, but I wanted money. I haven't got the faintest idea what I would have done with it. Probably I would have buried it somewhere."

The only change in his answers to police dealt with his relation regarding Morris Nemeroff, the child's father and his employer.

When picked up he said: "I asked for a raise and the boss refused."

Later he reportedly told police: "Nemeroff is a prince. He has been a square shooter with me all along."

The maximum penalty for kidnapping in Canada is 25 years, but a well-known criminal lawyer said last night that a juvenile, tried and found guilty of this charge would probably get from six months to two years in a delinquents' home.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Feb. 25 (CP)—Synopsis: No major storms appear anywhere in Canada this morning. Except for patches of cloud accompanied by light snowflurries there is a band of clear skies extending from the Maritimes to the Rockies. Warmer air moving eastward through the prairies will moderate temperatures in northern regions tonight and Tuesday. Sunny skies will continue everywhere Tuesday with little change in temperature in southern regions.

May be Returned

Ottawa, Feb. 25 (CP)—An official said today the government has not been able to find a use for a mansion at Niagara Falls, given it a few years ago by the widow of Sir Harry Oakes, multi-millionaire mining man.

He said the government has been discussing with Lady Oakes the question of returning the estate to her, but the matter has not been decided finally.

The $20,000 "Oak Hall" and 10 acres of land were donated by Lady Oakes with a view to development as a cultural centre. The official said it had not been possible to work out an appropriate project at a reasonable cost.

[illegible]OLICE REJECT DEMANDS

Tokyo, Feb. 25 — (AP)—About [illegible] Japanese last night smashed windows in an Osaka police station after police rejected their demands for release of two men arrested for passing leaflets advertising a communist meeting. Police reinforcements quelled the demonstrators.

SENATE TO HEAR NEW FINANCE PLAN FOR PROJECT

Top Govt. Spokesmen Will Advance Program

Washington, Feb. 25 — (AP)—The administration today sent four top spokesmen before a Senate committee to plead for legislation to authorize the St. Lawrence seaway and power project

This latest resumption of activity to win approval of the $818,000,000 international project—debated by Congress for decades—brought these administration leaders before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee:

Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman, Under-secretary of State James R. Webb, Lt.-Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers, and Chairman John D. Small of the Munitions Board.

Also tentatively scheduled to be heard were Senators George Aiken (Rep. Vt.) and Herbert Lehman (Dem.-Lib. N.Y.).

Aiken is the author of a bill, to be introduced today, that would provide a new method of jointly building the project.

It calls for the creation of a St. Lawrence seaway corporation, composed of three directors to be appointed by the president. They would be authorized to issue $575,000,000 in revenue bonds to defray the United States share of construction costs.

The bonds would bear interest of three per cent and have maturity dates ranging from 10 to 50 years.

Repayment would come from tolls levied on shipping and from receipts realized from the 2,200,000-horsepower hydro-electric project.

Canada, which has taken the steps necessary to construct the seaway on its own should Congress persist in its refusal to permit the U. S. to join in the project, has created a commission similar to that proposed by Aiken.

Aiken said borrowing the construction money from private sources, rather than government, would tend to have a deflationary effect.

Languished in Committee

The general legislation before the committee was introduced more than a year ago by Senator Theodore F. Green (Dem. R.I.) for himself and 25 other senators.

Mainly because of opposition by Chairman Tom Connally (Dem. Tex.), the bill languished in committee until last week.

At that time, a resolution directing that the bill be given a hearing was approved by the 13-member committee by a 9-to-3 vote One member, Senator Owen Brewster (Rep. Me.), an opponent of the project, did not vote.

The decisive vote to hold hearings can not be considered an accurate indication of the committee's stand on the project. At least two —Senators Henry C Lodge (Rep. Mass.) and William Fulbright (Dem. Ark)—who voted with the majority, are on record as against the seaway.

Shutter-Buts Click Like Mad for Three Minutes to Find What is Behind Sun

Khartoum, Sudan, Feb. 25—AP—The lights went on as the sun went out this morning in the capital of the Sudan. The moon covered old sol completely—for just over three minutes—in a total eclipse shortly after 11 a.m (4 a.m. EST).

Visibility seemed favorable for the 70 scientists from 10 countries who had waited for weeks to record the phenomenon with a great mass of complicated equipment.

From their observations, and after a lot of calculation and study, they hope to find out more about what's around and behind the sun, whether Einstein was right about relativity and how wrong some of the world's maps are.

The sky was clear and the weather was cool.

The scientists—17 of them—had come from Canada, the United States, Britain, The Netherlands, France, Italy, Greece, Egypt, Austria and Switzerland.

Though Russia sent no experts, presumably they were making their own observations at home. The eclipse, or enough of it to make observation worthwhile, was to be seen along a 9,000-mile route about 70 miles wide, curving from somewhere in the Atlantic between Brazil and Africa, across Africa and the Arabian and Persian gulfs to the Irktusk region of Soviet Siberia.

Astronomers calculated that, in the Khartoum area, the moon's shadow started across the sun's face at 9.49 a.m., and slipped off the eastern side at 12:30 a.m.

Sudanese officials have used radio, newspapers and word of mouth intensively to tell the country's primitive tribes of the blackout. They hoped to avoid a panic from the darkness before noon.

The scientists' findings won't be known for months, after elaborate computations and study of the numerous photographs and recordings.

Queen Elizabeth's Coronation Will Take Place Sometime In 1953 Says Authoritative Source

London, Feb. 25. (CP)—The coronation of the Queen will take place sometime in 1953, an authoritative source said tonight.

The Press Association said it has been learned authoritatively the coronation will not take place this year.

Court circles said the exact date now is being considered. Consultations with Commonwealth governments are in progress.

Previously there was considerable speculation in the press that the coronation would be held late this summer. The period of mourning for the King ends May 31.

Cattlemen Throughout World Fear Foot-and-Mouth Disease

Ottawa, Feb. 25 — (CP)—Foot-and-mouth disease is feared by cattlemen throughout the world.

It is as damaging to livestock as smallpox and the Bubonic Plague is to humans. It spreads like wildfire. The only way to halt it is to slaughter infected animals and bury the carcasses.

Transmitted by a tissue-destroying virus, the scourge in recent years has struck at Mexico's thriving cattle industry and almost destroyed it. It has crippled livestock production in continental Europe. It has threatened to injure Britain's economic comeback.

Just where this animal plague originated is unknown. Some scientists believe it has a 2,000-year European history, but actual documentation goes back only about 400 years.

Foot-and-mouth disease in European agriculture has become so widespread that some countries have given up trying to eradicate it. Young animals infected by it sometimes die. Older ones become so lame and useless that they become uneconomic to maintain.

But it doesn't affect the human. Humans have been known to eat infected meat, properly cooked. The cooking apparently kills the bacterial infection.

The virus, transmitted in many ways by animals, by humans on their boots and clothes, and even by flocks of migrating birds and hay and straw, hits exposed animal tissue.

It causes blisters on the mouth, tongue, udder and some parts of the animal hoof. It sometimes even gets into the stomach and ulcerates tissue there. The animal goes off its feed. It becomes lame. It loses weight.

Worst of all, the virus spreads quickly. Herds and counties can be infected within days.
